Freedom of the Press

by Jim Ewing

The pages of history which are being written in these days and times will record that in 1955, the United States of America, once a great and sovereign republic, stood at a crossroads.

There was some dilemma as to which way the nation was to turn.

Its citizens, floundering helplessly, without advice, could turn down the path which led to destruction through mobocracy and hero worship, even as Oswald Spengler predicted; or the American people, denying history the right to repeat itself, could take the other road . . . the harder one . . to RIGHT, HONOR AND INTEGRITY AND CONTINUED BUT RESPECTED LEADERSHIP IN WORLD AFFAIRS.

In short, one road leads to destruction . . . while the other leads to salvation.

Yet, who is to tell the people where to go?

Who is to render the necessary advice?

The three major radio and television networks? Impossible, due to certain controlling factors of the administrative heads of those networks plus the Federal law concerning editorialization by station owners.

The magazines? Out of the question. Their past records speak for themselves.

Thus only the PRESS, the great NEWSPAPER INDUSTRY remains as the clarion of victory as in years gone by. But what about this great Press? IS IT DOING ITS DUTY TO THE CITIZENS? Sad to say, the American newspaper industry of today is but a shadow of its former self. To be certain, it is richer, better off and perhaps easier to read than ever before. Editors all over the nation are doing their best to please the people, to make the task of reading and selling their products easier as the months go by.

Yet, is there the same spirit among editors as once in this nation's history? Does the individual publisher have a soul which says: "PUT HONESTY AND DECENCY ABOVE ALL THINGS. PRINT THE TRUTH - THE WHOLE TRUTH - NO MATTER WHO IT MAY HELP OR HURT". Is there such a press in this country today? Do a majority of the nation's editor's print the truth no matter who in high places it might offend?

There comes to mind two somewhat smaller Southern papers. Holding a complete monopoly in their community, these papers (both owned by the same family corporation) were duty-bound to print the truth.

Indeed, their founder, one of the greatest citizens and newspapermen in the history of that Bayou state wrote the following masthead so that all could see and read without difficulty: "This is an independent newspaper. It prints the news impartially. It supports what it believes to be right - it opposes what it believes to be wrong without regard to party politics."

However, since his day, things have drastically changed on the newspapers he founded. No longer is the editorial page . . . the real heart [illegible]

PATRIOTIC EDITOR "FIRED"
The Jim Ewing Story

By
J. C. Phillips, Editor
Borger (Tex.) News-Herald

Borger, Tex. January 26

In telephone conversation yesterday with Editor Jim Ewing, 1218 Island Drive, Monroe, Louisiana, your Editor learned that his connection with the Monroe Morning World would terminate Friday of this week. This verifies information previously received and reported in this column, from the "patriotic grapevine".

It is not likely that the entire story of his dismissal, resulting from the activities of political pressure groups, who resented his intense editorial fight against Communism and the surrender of our national sovereignty into the framework of a super-world government, will be carried throughout the nation by either the Associated Press or the United Press wire services.

We are reminded that the Communist is no longer a shabbily dressed man with a long and unkept beard on his nose and a bomb in his hand.

Red Wealth

It is not new and it never has been a revolution of the proletariat, meaning, of course, the working class: and the down and outers; but from its very inception it has been encouraged, nurtured, maintained and developed by men of wealth until now billions of dollars are financing this cancerous growth throughout the world and particularly in these United States.

Of course, great wealth promoting Communism and a one world government does not like newspaper editors naming names and exposing faces.

Jim Ewing should simply have been against Communism like most people are against sin, write against it in a general sense, but do absolutely nothing to either expose the evil or to replace the evil with good.

Ewing goes down for the count because he was one of the biggest and greatest of our patriotic editors, enjoying a large circulation on his editorial comments: and he will make some good newspaper a powerful editor for good. PROVIDED they have the intestinal fortitude to let Editor Jim continue effectively as he did in the Monroe World.

Jim has already been "warned" not to tell his story, so your Editor has been told. This happens in our country where we are supposed to have a free press, and even our own President speaks out against "book burners" and in defense of academic freedom; in defense of the same liberal element that has taken in after Jim Ewing.

Sometime ago the word got around, by the "patriotic grapevine", that Jim Ewing was on his way out because he editorialized strongly in defense of Senator Joseph McCarthy and also denounced the Eisenhower Administration and its collusion with the left-wing elements in both the Democratic party and the Republican party.

Pressure from patriots from all over the country kept Editor Ewing on the paper a little while longer. BUT TODAY the word comes by the same "patriotic grapevine" that Jim Ewing is out and looking for a job: and there are very few newspapers in this country who are in the market for an Editor effec-

How to Start a Third Party

Should there be a third party in the United States?

Moves are presently underway in Oklahoma and Texas for a new Constitution Party. In Washington, D.C. disgruntled stalwarts are beating the bushes, and in New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois and even far away California, staunch advocates of a new and independent third party have put in an appearance.

There are also moves against this business. Conservatives within the framework of both Republican and Democratic machines caution against an open rupture.

They want to see conservatism take control of existing party machinery. They are fearful that a split in the ranks at the moment will only result in weakening conservative strength as it now stands.

Repeatedly we are asked what our position is with respect to a third party.

Our answer is simply this. We are for America and a definite limitation of the power of government.

THE MORE THE BETTER

We would favor either party which took the most conservative view. Or to be more exact, we would favor the libertarian point of view regardless. If it turned out to be a third party that would be all right with us. But here's our view of a third party, for what it's worth.

We believe that the formation of a third party now is unbelievable difficult. This does not mean [illegible] terminology. We need a single burning issue.

THE AMERICAN PEOPLE

Parties are formed, not because of the political wishes or adroitness of certain politicos. They are formed when the American people, rising with a sense of righteous indignation, clamor for something to be done on a nation-wide basis.

If such a burning issue presents itself, a third party, or a political re-alignment will occur. It could not be prevented.

When the great, and apparently slumbering mass of American voting power awakes and shouts for something to be done, it will be done. The political party which first senses such an issue and backs it, will sweep the field. If neither Republican nor Democrat senses it, then a third party will form and it will sweep the field.

The issue must be one of burning, emotional intensity. It cannot be a polite distinction between right and left. Or even between right and wrong. It cannot be technical. It must be all embracing and compelling. It cannot be academic.

POSSIBLE ISSUES

There are only four possible issues on the American horizon today. Issues which contain the necessary elements which conceivably could sire a peaceful revolution at the polls.

These issues are: 1. The tax structure of the Federal government based on the 16th Amendment. Its repeal is needed. 2. The labor boss movement, based on both the Wagner and the Taft-Hartley laws. The Federal Government must get out of labor management quarrels and permit local concerns to solve their own problems in this field. 3. The State's Rights issue. Here is a

It prints the news impartially. It supports what it believes to be right - it opposes what it believes to be wrong without regard to party politics."

However, since his day, things have drastically changed on the newspapers he founded. No longer is the editorial page . . . the real heart and soul of any paper . . . considered of the greatest importance. The "independence" of the papers has been replaced by a policy of "kow-towing" to "important" people and influential groups. Partisan politicians have been able to pressure the editors into silence and even have them removed.

Pressure groups have smeared the editors into silence and have succeeded in having them negated, their jobs ruined.

Thus it happened in a small city in North Louisiana.

For too many editors who have endeavored to print the truth have been released from their positions. Too many publishers love the pocketbook more than principle, honor and integrity. In the face of pressure from the outside (and the inside) they fall down before the new messiah which decrees their policies, cash and conformity:

"NO MORE CONTROVERSIAL SUBJECTS",

To give some idea of the force of this pressure group, we only need to be reminded that the newspaper in Monroe is owned by the Ewing family, of which Jim is a respected member.

That another great patriotic American, Paul Harvey, the Radio News Analyst and Commentator is on his way out because of his effective Anti-Communist broadcasts, is also getting out over the "patriotic grapevine". We are reminded it is no longer popular to fight Communism in this country.

We believe that the formation of a third party now is unbelievably difficult. This does not mean that it should not be done. It does mean that the process is very hard at the moment. This is because of a single fact. The politicians are aware that a re-alignment of the conservative forces is greatly to be desired. But the great American public is unaware of it.

Therefore, to move people out of their accustomed ruts is a tedious and a thankless task.

IT'S HITCHED UP BACKWARDS

We believe that the architects of a third party are unnecessarily penalizing themselves because they have put the cart before the horse. They are, nearly without exception, concerned with the mechanics of party organization. And while this is essential, indeed the one single essential of party formation, it can come in a much more simple way than at present is being tried.

We need something in this country much more than we need a third party, or a conservative re-alignment, if you prefer that terminology. We need a single burning issue.

THE AMERICAN PEOPLE

Parties are formed, not because of the political wishes or adroitness of certain politicos. They are formed when the American people, rising with a sense of righteous indignation, clamor for something to be done on a nation-wide basis.

If such a burning issue presents itself, a third party, or a political re-alignment will occur. It could not be prevented.

The Federal Government must get out of labor management quarrels and permit local concerns to solve their own problems in this field. 3. The State's Rights issue. Here is a case of flagrant usurpation of power by the Federal Government in which labor, public education, segregation, tidelands, inter-state commerce, and a number of other sub-issues could be debated and the rights of free men sustained and extolled. 4. The United Nations. Here is a case wherein the sovereignty of the United States is at stake. Thru thinking which emanates from the U.N. a world government is definitely in the works. Thru treaties and executive agreements, America is rapidly being jockeyed into a position of subserviency in its dealings with other nations. We are paying the freight for all. And the welfare of every other nation is placed to greater emphasis than consideration for the American taxpayer.

Any one of these could light the fuse. For our choice, we like them all.

HERE'S OUR CHOICE

But, since a multi issue party formation is ruled out, we will select number four as the single

Road to Slavery

Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, more than any other national official even including Senator Flanders, has advocated policies over the years which would be of comfort and help to the Communists. Douglas now leads the peace-at-any-price bloc, urging that Red China be admitted to the United Nations and that the United States agree to keep the Republic of China from attempting to drive the Communist usurpers from the mainland.

JUSTICE DOUGLAS AND OTHERS WHO ADVOCATE SUCH A POLICY OF APPEASEMENT ARE SETTING THE STAGE FOR AN ASIATIC MUNICH WHICH WOULD LEAVE THIS NATION AT THE FUTURE MERCY OF THE ORIENTAL HORDES.

Behind all the propaganda by the pro-Communist groups in this country and by the Reds themselves, urging the United States to withdraw from Formosa, is of course the hope that, as a compromise, our always inept State Department and the White House will agree to the admission of the Chinese murderers into the United Nations and to the neutralization of Formosa.

Such an evil arrangement would allow the Communists to forever fasten their hold on the Chinese mainland and develop the armies of unlimited manpower which Lenin envisioned when he made his famous statement that the road for Russian conquest of Paris and Western Europe lay through Peiping.

The drive for co-existence and to immobilize Chiang Kai-shek and his forces are all part of one dastardly master plan—TO GIVE THE COMMUNISTS SUFFICIENT TIME TO BUILD UP ENOUGH ATOMIC AND HYDROGEN BOMBS AND ENOUGH TRAINED ASIATIC ARMIES SO THAT THIS NATION CAN BE OVERWHELMED AND REDUCED TO SLAVERY!

This is clear enough for all who read to understand. This is one of the founders of UNESCO an official arm of the United Nations. Since UNESCO has been bold enough to print its philosophy . . . and this is not the only instance of such printing, why the repetitious denials of ultimate intention.

Is it because the U. N. schemers do not feel that Americans are ready for the truth? Perhaps our minds haven't as yet been conditioned to the thought of ultimate betrayal, the debauching of this nation's independence and sovereignty. So while they do not hesitate to make their meaning clear to their own followers and dupes, they must prevent the vast American public from becoming alarmed prematurely.

We must be lulled into a belief that the United Nations is "good" for us. That it actually is promoting world peace.

How to Start a Third Party

Should there be a third party in the United States?

Moves are presently underway in Oklahoma and Texas for a new Constitution Party. In Washington, D.C. disgruntled stalwarts are beating the bushes, and in New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois and even far away California, staunch advocates of a new and independent third party have put in an appearance.

There are also moves against this business. Conservatives within the framework of both Republican and Democratic machines caution against an open rupture.

They want to see conservatism take control of existing party machinery. They are fearful that a split in the ranks at the moment will only result in weakening conservative strength as it now stands.

Repeatedly we are asked what our position is with respect to a third party.

Our answer is simply this. We are for America and a definite limitation of the power of government.

THE MORE THE BETTER

We would favor either party which took the most conservative view. Or to be more exact, we would favor the libertarian point of view regardless. If it turned out to be a third party that would be all right with us. But here's our view of a third party, for what it's worth.

We believe that the formation of a third party now is unbelievably difficult. This does not mean that it should not be done. It does mean that the process is very hard at the moment. This is because of a single fact. The politicians are aware that a re-alignment of the conservative forces is greatly to be desired. But the great American public is unaware of it.

Therefore, to move people out of their accustomed ruts is a tedious and a thankless task.

IT'S HITCHED UP BACKWARDS

We believe that the architects of a third party are unnecessarily penalizing themselves because they have put the cart before the horse. They are, nearly without exception, concerned with the mechanics of party organization. And while this is essential, indeed the one single essential of party formation, it can come in a much more simple way than at present is being tried.

We need something in this country much more than we need a third party, or a conservative re-alignment. If you prefer that terminology. We need a single burning issue.

THE AMERICAN PEOPLE

Parties are formed, not because of the political wishes or adroitness of certain politicos. They are formed when the American people, rising with a sense of righteous indignation, clamor for something to be done on a nation-wide basis.

If such a burning issue presents itself, a third party, or a political re-alignment will occur. It could not be prevented.

When the great, and apparently slumbering mass of American voting power awakes and shouts for something to be done, it will be done. The political party which first senses such an issue and backs it, will sweep the field. If neither Republican nor Democrat senses it, then a third party will form and it will sweep the field.

The issue must be one of burning, emotional intensity. It cannot be a polite distinction between right and left. Or even between right and wrong. It cannot be technical. It must be all embracing and compelling. It cannot be academic.

There are only four possible issues on the American horizon today. Issues which contain the necessary elements which conceivably could give a peaceful revolution at the polls.

These issues are: 1. The tax structure of the Federal government based on the 16th Amendment. Its repeal is needed. 2. The labor boss movement, based on both the Wagner and the Taft-Hartley laws. The Federal Government must get out of labor management quarrels and permit local concerns to solve their own problems in this field. 3. The State's Rights issue. Here is a case of flagrant usurpation of power by the Federal Government in which labor, public education, segregation, tide-lands, inter-state commerce, and a number of other sub-issues could be debated and the rights of free men sustained and extolled. 4. The United Nations. Here is a case wherein the sovereignty of the United States is at stake. Thru thinking which emanates from the U.N. a world government is definitely in the works. Thru treaties and executive agreements, America is rapidly being jockeyed into a position of subservience in its dealings with other nations. We are paying the freight for all. And the welfare of every other nation is placed in greater emphasis than consideration for the American taxpayer.

Any one of these could light the fuse. For our choice, we like them all.

HERE'S OUR CHOICE

But, since a multi-issue party formation is ruled out, we will select number four as the single issue which we conceive as being the hottest, and potentially the most burning issue of our time. It could be phrased: "Should the United States endure as a nation?"

Here then, is a potential, burning issue. Those interested in political re-alignment or the formation of a third party would do well to study the implications contained in the United Nations, its propaganda organ, UNESCO, its labor machinations under the ILO, the genocide convention, the declaration of human rights, its four point program aimed at giving away American wealth, and its world court, its world bank, its world army (still on paper) and the other insidious, un-American ideas and programs it fosters.

WE'RE BURNED UP

Here is an issue to set the American people on fire.

For when the truth of the betrayal is known, there will come a roar from the angry throats of Americans which cannot be defened.

There will be a demand for pure and un-adulterated Americanism which will brook no compromise.

Here is the stuff out of which a new political conception in this country could be born. We watch, with considerable interest, the moves of that burgeoning new organization the Congress of Freedom, which meets in San Francisco this year to evaluate all phases of the U.N. Who can tell what will happen when a coalition of grass roots Americans learns the truth regarding the monstrosity by the East River?

LINCOLN LOOKS BACK AT GETTYSBURG

The cynics cry in headlines
Ominous as a storm-drenched sky
That fat school is rich
And Faith, a lie.
These granite shafts I see--as flowers
Sprung from the dust of patriot flesh--
Are but stones that obscure
The horizons of tomorrow.

Beyond,--the cities sleep
Beneath a neon glow
In apathy;--more hideous than death.

As many moons as count the years
Have passed, since your wild roses
Wept beneath the crush of marching feet,
And drop their petals here to kiss
The outlines still upon the earth
Where freedom passed.

Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, more than any other national official even including Senator Flanders, has advocated policies over the years which would be of comfort and help to the Communists. Douglas now leads the peace-at-any-price bloc, urging that Red China be admitted to the United Nations and that the United States agree to keep the Republic of China from attempting to drive the Communist usurpers from the mainland.

JUSTICE DOUGLAS AND OTHERS WHO ADVOCATE SUCH A POLICY OF APPEASEMENT ARE SETTING THE STAGE FOR AN ASIATIC MUNICH WHICH WOULD LEAVE THIS NATION AT THE FUTURE MERCY OF THE ORIENTAL HORDES.

Behind all the propaganda by the pro-Communist groups in this country and by the Reds themselves, urging the United States to withdraw from Formosa, is of course the hope that, as a compromise, our always inept State Department and the White House will agree to the admission of the Chinese murderers into the United Nations and to the neutralization of Formosa.

Such an evil arrangement would allow the Communists to forever fasten their hold on the Chinese mainland and develop the armies of unlimited manpower which Lenin envisioned when he made his famous statement that the road for Russian conquest of Paris and Western Europe lay through Peiping.

The drive for co-existence and to immobilize Chiang Kai-shek and his forces are all part of one dastardly master plan—TO GIVE THE COMMUNISTS SUFFICIENT TIME TO BUILD UP ENOUGH ATOMIC AND HYDROGEN BOMBS AND ENOUGH TRAINED ASIATIC ARMIES SO THAT THIS NATION CAN BE OVERWHELMED AND REDUCED TO SLAVERY!

"This is Mr. Huxley speaking: "The moral for UNESCO is clear. Its task of promoting peace and security can never be wholly realized thru the means assigned to it — education, science and culture. It must envisage some form of world political unity, whether thru a single world government or otherwise . . . it can stress the ultimate need for world political unity and familiarize all peoples with the implications of the transfer of full sovereignty from separate nations to a world organization."

This is clear enough for all who read to understand. This is one of the founders of UNESCO an official arm of the United Nations. Since UNESCO has been bold enough to print its philosophy . . . and this is not the only instance of such printing, why the repetitious denials of ultimate intention.

We must be lulled into a belief that the United Nations is "good" for us. That it actually is promoting world peace.

The truth of the matter stands here starkly revealed. The United Nations organization and its attendant agencies from UNESCO thru ILO, UNICEF and a score of others, is planning a super state, "a world political unity."

When our brains have been washed clean of the hateful stain of love of country and devotion to independence, then we will be without the will to resist this move.

What is N. E. A. ???

It is important to both the profession and the lay public to know exactly what the National Education Association is and does.

As a professional organization, N. E. A. is larger than all the medical, legal and clerical societies put together. The headquarters and personnel of this massive body are larger than the Republican and Democratic headquarters combined. N. E. A. annual payroll approaches the two million mark.

What the public does not know is that, in addition to its legitimate functions, N. E. A. is the most powerful lobbying group in the country.

WHAT DOES THE N. E. A. PRESSURE FOR

The POLITICAL OBJECTIVES of the N. E. A. are COLLECTIVISM and WORLD GOVERNMENT. The Communist-front affiliations of many of its members present an appalling total picture! Demands are being made that there be a Congressional investigation of this organization. According to the Congressional Record of March 2, 1953, "Platform spokesmen of N. E. A. Politburo are opposed to the Feinberg Law, the McCarran Act, loyalty oaths, and State legislation barring the use of textbooks deemed subversive in the public schools." The American Legion Magazine of June 1952, stated that the "National Education Association is one of the strongest forces today in propagandizing for a socialist America."

A TRIBUTE TO PATRIOTISM

Following is the full text of an address by General of the Army Douglas MacArthur, made Jan. 26, 1955, at the dedication of a monument to him in Los Angeles:

I have listened with deep emotion to these solemn proceedings. My heart is too full for my lips to express adequately my thanks and appreciation for the extraordinary honor you do me. Even so, I understand full well that this memorial is intended to commemorate an epic rather than an individual; an armed force, rather than its commander; a nation, rather than its servant; an ideal, rather than a personality.

But this only increases my pride that my name has been one chosen as the symbol of an epic struggle to victory by millions of unnamed others.

It is their heroism, their sacrifice, their success, that you honor today in an unforgettable a manner. And this statue and this park are but the selected reminders of their grandeur.

Most of them were citizen soldiers, sailors, or airmen, men from the farm, from the city, from the schoolroom, from the college campus; men not dedicated to the profession of arms, men not primarily skilled in the art of war; men most amazingly like the men you see and meet and know each day of your life. But men inspired, animated, and ennobled by a sublime cause to the defense of their country, of their native land, of their very hearthstones.

Divine Impulses Guided Men

The most divine of all human sentiments and impulses guided them, the spirit and the willingness to sacrifice.

He who dares to die, who lays his life on the altar of his nation's need, is beyond doubt the noblest development of mankind. In this he comes closest to the image of his Creator who died on the cross that the human soul might live.

These men were my comrades in arms. With me they knew the call of the bugle at reveille, the distant roll of drums at nightfall, the endless tramp of marching feet, the incessant whine of sniper bullets, the ceaseless rattle of sputtering machine guns, the sinister wail of air sirens, the deafening blast and crash of bombs, the stealthy stroke of hidden torpedoes, the aimless furch of perilous waves, the dark majesty of fighting ships, the mad din of battle lines, and all the stench and ghastly horror and savage destruction of a stricken area of war.

They suffered hunger and thirst, the broiling sun of relentless heat, the torrential rains of tropical storms, the loneliness and utter desolation of jungle trails, the bitterness of separation from those they loved and cherished. They went on and on and when everything within them seemed to stop and die. They grew old in youth, they burned out in searing minutes all that life owed them in tranquil years.

Knows Glory of Their Death

When I think of their patience under adversity, of their courage under fire, and of their modesty in victory, I am filled with an emotion I cannot express.

Many of them trod the tragic path of unknown fame that led to a stark, white cross on a lonely grave. And from their tortured, dying lips, with the dreadful gurgle of the death rattle in their throats, always came the same gasping prayer that we who were left would go on to victory.

I do not know the dignity of their birth, but I do know the glory of their death. And I am sure a merciful God has taken them unto Himself.

In these troublesome times of confused and bewildered international sophistication, let no man misunderstand why they did that which they did. These were patriots, pure and plain; these were men who fought and perchance died for one reason only--for their country, for America. No complex philosophy of world intrigue and conspiracy dominated their thoughts. No exploitation or extravagance of propaganda dimmed their sensibilities. Just the simple fact that their country called them, just the devoted doctrine of Stephen Decatur when he said: "My country, may she always be right. But, right or wrong, my country."

Bulwark of National Strength

Be not deceived by strange voices heard across the land, decrying this old and proven concept of patriotism. From the very beginning it has been the main bulwark of our national strength and integrity.

Seductive murmurs are arising that it is now outmoded by some more comprehensive and all-embracing philosophy, that we are provincial and immature, or reactionary and stupid when we idealize our own country, that there is a higher destiny for us under another more general flag, that no longer when we send our sons and daughters to the battlefield must we see them through all the way to victory, that we can call upon them to fight and even to die in some half-hearted and indecisive effort.

That we can plunge them recklessly into war and then suddenly decide that it is a wrong war, or in the wrong place, or at a wrong time; or even that we call it not a war at all, but by some more euphemistic and generic name, that we can treat them as expendables, although they are our own flesh and blood. And even in times of peace, for some romantic reason, they must share--not as an act of generosity but as a bounden duty, their national blessings and goods built from nothing to a height never before reached by man--with others because, whether for neglect or not, they have not fared so well.

Ignore Prophets of Disaster

That we, the strongest nation in the world, have suddenly become dependent upon others for our security and even our welfare. Listen not to these voices, be they from the one political party or from the other; be they from the high and the mighty, or the lowly and the forgotten. Heed them not. Visit upon them a righteous scorn born of the past sacrifices of your fighting sons and daughters.

The Hole In The Dike

THE REGI

DUTCH VERSION

Once upon a time a small Dutch lad named Johaan was walking home late at night. His way took him alongside a dike which had sprung a leak. Fearful lest the action of the water might destroy one of Holland's ramparts and thereby inundate the countryside, little Johaan plunged his finger into the hole, and called lustily for help. Workmen and citizens ultimately heard his cries and came to his assistance. The hole was plugged. Johaan became a national hero.

AMERICAN VERSION

Once upon a time a junior senator named Joe was walking thru the legislative halls minding his own business. He came across evidence that a deliberate attempt in the dike of American independence and sovereignty. He plunged in both hands and called for the attention of every American. Presently a crowd gathered.

Watchman: "What do you mean yelling like this? Don't you know people are asleep?"

Joe: "Sure I know, but they've got to wake up. If this hole gets any bigger the whole country might be flooded."

Construction engineer: "Outrageous exaggeration! The hole is small. It's my job to take care of it. You are just in the way."

Joe: "But you weren't taking care of it. If I hadn't come along you might not have noticed it before it was too late."

QUIET THE LOUT

Civil servant (hurrying up): "Can't someone quiet this lout? He'll scare everybody half to death. If people lose confidence in this well, what do you think might happen? We could have a riot."

Joe:"But there is a hole in . . ."

Lawyer: "Irrelevant and misleading. There is also a wall. May I point out that the wall is much bigger than the hole? Why don't you shout about how big the wall is?"

Joe: "Because the danger comes from the hole!"

Newsman: "I'd like to get a picture of this character. Look he has a heavy growth of beard and his hair is mussed. This'll make a good shot for the morning edition!"

Joe: "If you'd been standing here with your arms in ice water as long as I have you might not look so good, either!"

Neighbor: "I remember that face. Five years ago this same Joe was trespassing in the orchard of one of my friends. I think he ought to be arrested!"

Joe? "I wasn't trespassing! Besides what has that got to do with. . . ."

WRONG METHODS

Second Watchman: "Get your hands out of those holes, you fool. You're using the wrong methods. Do you think you can plug up the damage with a pair of fists?"

Joe: "I'll take them out just as soon as I see you are ready with the bricks and mortar."

Workman: "Now look at him giving orders! I'd say his attitude was extremely uncalled for."

Joe: "Now look here, you. I'm doing you a service. I'd like to point out that this hole wasn't formed accidentally. I tripped over a pick-ax as I came by, and I notice you've picked it up. There are marks of a pick-ax on the wall. There has been deliberate sabotage here, and I want you to tell me where you were this past hour."

Workman: "Character assassin! I don't have to answer those charges! I'm going to take my pick-ax and go home."

Crowd (murmuring): "You are entirely right! The idea! What nerve!"

Joe (yelling) "Isn't anyone around here interested in preserving this country?"

WHO ISN'T PATRIOTIC

Crowd: "Grab him! Get him away from the wall! Lynch him!"

Scientist: "I should like to point out that whereas Joe has meant well, he has only served to protect our country from water. Now what is water? Water is composed of hydrogen and oxygen, both of which substances we cannot do without. The little trickle of water that should come in thru this hole would not only not endanger the country but would probably stimulate growth. I'm sure Joe is basically in favor of whatever is good for this country, and here he has just been carried away by delusions of his thank him for his efforts, however misguided, and let him go home."

SUCH LANGUAGE

Joe: "You blithering idiot. This is sea water! It's full of salt. It would ruin crops."

Farmer: "Now he's an expert on farming! I certainly would take the word of a scientist against this upstart."

Woman: "And did you hear his language! 'Blithering idiot,' he said. I'm glad my chil not here."

Joe (shouting): "Yes, and I repeat it, Blither

Policeman: "What's all and disturbance. Yours suppose you know I can for disturbing the peace

Joe: "Arrest me then I care. You're all a bun ing maniacs."

Bystander: "Look who, a 'raving maniac temper!'

Crowd: "AYE!"

Chairman: "Nearly u rh" Quite as it should b do your duty. Remove t from the wall."

Policeman steps forward plies Joe struggles and roughed up, but is fin loose.

Joe (as water starts thru hole): "You'll all for this! (to chairman) pecially, you!"

Chairman: "What audac cheek! You are herby c and censured before a You are a disgrace to try."

As Joe is led away, re the last, the chairman workman, the scientist, yer and the civil servan him.

This 112 page book in paper binding is a real thriller in the sense that you will be thrilled to know that you can be right if you think differently from the crowd.

The author makes quite a point of this position throughout the entire book and gives some remarkable examples to prove his thesis.

Of course just by thinking opposite to the majority you will not necessarily arrive at a correct conclusion, but by starting out in this direction and logically investigating the possibility of differing with the "crowd" you can examine

This is a documented study of the role the National Education Association is taking in the indoctrination of the youth of our country with the ideology of Communism-Socialism.

It is published by the Meador Publishing Company of Boston.

Verne Kaub's book is a MUST for all parents and teachers who wish to find out about the leadership of the teaching profession in this country. The author says in a short epilogue that he believes that when the intelligent AMERICAN teachers realize that their leaders are "false", that they will rise up in righteous anger and "Turn the rascals out".

These men were my comrades in arms. With me they knew the call of the bugle at reveille, the distant roll of drums at nightfall, the endless tramp of marching feet, the incessant whine of sniper bullets, the ceaseless rattle of sputtering machine guns, the shatter wail of air strees, the deafening blast and crash of bombs, the stealthy stroke of hidden torpedoes, the aimless lurch of perilous waves, the dark majesty of fighting ships, the mad din of battle lines, and all the stench and ghastly horror and savage destruction of a stricken area of war.

They suffered hunger and thirst, the broiling sun of relentless heat, the torrential rains of tropical storms, the loneliness and utter desolation of jungle trails, the bitterness of separation from those they loved and cherished. They went on and on and when everything within them seemed to stop and die. They grew old in youth; they burned out in searing minutes all that life owed them in tranquil years.

When I think of their patience under adversity, of their courage under fire, and of their modesty in victory, I am filled with an emotion I cannot express.

Many of them trod the tragic path of unknown fame that led to a stark, white cross on a lonely grave. And from their tortured, dying lips, with the dreadful gurgle of the death rattle in their throats, always came the same gasping prayer that we who were left would go on to victory.

I do not know the dignity of their birth, but I do know the glory of their death. And I am sure a merciful God has taken them unto Himself.

In these troublesome times of confused and bewildered international sophistication, let no man misunderstand why they did that which they did. These were patriots, pure and plain; these were men who fought and perchance died for one reason only—for their country, for America. No complex philosophy of world intrigue and conspiracy dominated their thoughts. No exploitation or extravagance of propaganda dimmed their sensibilities. Just the simple fact that their country called them, just the devoted doctrine of Stephen Decatur when he said: "My country, may she always be right. But, right or wrong, my country."

Be not deceived by strange voices heard across the land, decrying this old and proven concept of patriotism. From the very beginning it has been the main bulwark of our national strength and integrity.

Seductive murmurs are arising that it is now outmoded by some more comprehensive and all-embracing philosophy, that we are provincial and immature, or reactionary and stupid when we idealize our own country, that there is a higher destiny for us under another more general flag, that no longer when we send our sons and daughters to the battlefield must we see them through all the way to victory, that we can call upon them to fight and even to die in some half-hearted and indecisive effort.

That we can plunge them recklessly into war and then suddenly decide that it is a wrong war, or in the wrong place, or at a wrong time; or even that we call it not a war at all, but by some more euphemistic and generic name, that we can treat them as expendables, although they are our own flesh and blood. And even in times of peace, for some romantic reason, they must share—not as an act of generosity but as a bounden duty, their national blessings and goods built from nothing to a height never before reached by man with others because, whether for neglect or not, they have not fared so well.

That we, the strongest nation in the world, have suddenly become dependent upon others for our security and even our welfare. Listen not to these voices, be they from the one political party or from the other; be they from the high and the mighty, or the lowly and the forgotten. Heed them not. Visit upon them a righteous scorn born of the past sacrifices of your fighting sons and daughters.

Repudiate them in the market place, on the platform, in the pulpit. Those who are our friends will understand. Those who are not we can pass by. Be proud to be called patriots or nationalists or what you will, if it means that you love your country above all else, and will place your life if need be at the service of our flag.

I wish again to express to the citizens of this community my gratitude for their generosity in creating this memorial, and my thanks and appreciation to all those present here today.

You have etched for me in indelible memory a patriotic friendship and sympathetic understanding. You have made me feel far greater than my just deserts and yet more humble than I care to admit. (Thanks to US News & World Report.)

PATRIOTS' EFFORTS PUT MAC ARTHUR ON RADIO

The first week of January, the word went out along the "patriotic grapevine" that Gen. Douglas MacArthur was going to speak to Los Angeles on January 26 BUT THAT NONE OF THE NET WORKS WAS GOING TO CARRY THE BROADCAST. This "silencing" of America't greatest general inspired Marcia Matthews, President of the Legion for the Survival of Freedom, Inc., to alert her patriotic friends in cities all over this country to start a campaign of "LETTERS TO THE EDITORS" to their individual hometown papers.

As a result of these efforts, plus door-to-door canvassing in some cities, THE PATRIOTS WON, and Gen. MacArthur's speeches in Los Angeles were heard throughout the nation.

This 112 page book in paper binding is a real thriller in the sense that you will be thrilled to know that you can be right if you think differently from the crowd.

The author makes quite a point of this position throughout the entire book and gives some remarkable examples to prove his thesis.

Of course just by thinking opposite to the majority you will not necessarily arrive at a correct conclusion, but by starting out in this direction and logically investigating the possibility of differing with the "crowd" you can examine ideas and programs without being influenced by sentiment or mob psychology.

The author Humphrey B. Neill, has been issuing his NEILL LETTERS OF CONTRARY OPINION for many years and there is many an affluent New York stock broker and investor that owes his financial success to being "contrary" to the apparent direction of the market.

The Hole In The Dike

THE REGISTER
SANTA ANA, CAL.

DUTCH VERSION

Once upon a time a small Dutch lad named Johaan was walking home late at night. His way took him alongside a dike which had sprung a leak. Fearful lest the action of the water might destroy one of Holland's ramparts and thereby inundate the countryside, little Johaan plunged his finger into the hole, and called lustily for help. Workmen and citizens ultimately heard his cries and came to his assistance. The hole was plugged. Johaan became a national hero.

AMERICAN VERSION

Once upon a time a junior senator named Joe was walking thru the legislative halls minding his own business. He came across evidence that a deliberate attempt in the dike of American independence and sovereignty. He plunged to both hands and called for the attention of every American. Presently a crowd gathered.

Watchman: "What do you mean yelling like this? Don't you know people are asleep?"

Joe: "Sure I know, but they've got to wake up. If this hole gets any bigger the whole country might be flooded."

Construction engineer: "Outrageous exaggeration! The hole is small. It's my job to take care of it. You are just in the way."

Joe: "But you weren't taking care of it. If I hadn't come along you might not have noticed it before it was too late."

QUIET THE LOUT

Civil servant (hurrying up): "Can't someone quiet this lout? He'll scare everybody half to death. If people lose confidence in this wall, what do you think might happen? We could have a riot."

Joe:"But there is a hole in ..."

Lawyer: "Irrelevant and misleading. There is also a wall. May I point out that the wall is much bigger than the hole? Why don't you shout about how big the wall is?"

Joe: "Because the danger comes from the hole!"

Newsman: "I'd like to get a picture of this character. Look he has a heavy growth of beard and his hair is mussed. This'll make a good shot for the morning edition!"

Joe: "If you'd been standing here with your arms in ice water as long as I have you might not look so good, either!"

Neighbor: "I remember that face. Five years ago this same Joe was trespassing in the orchard of one of my friends. I think he ought to be arrested!"

Joe? "I wasn't trespassing! Besides what has that got in do with..."

WRONG METHODS

Second Watchman: "Get your hands out of those holes, you fool. You're using the wrong methods. Do you think you can plug up the damage with a pair of flats?"

Joe: "I'll take them out just as soon as I see you are ready with the bricks and mortar."

Workman: "Now look at him giving orders! I'd say his attitude was extremely uncalled for."

Joe: "Now look here, you. I'm doing you a service. I'd like to point out that this hole wasn't formed accidentally. I tripped over a pick-ax as I came by, and I notice you've picked it up. There are marks of a pick-ax on the wall. There has been deliberate sabotage here, and I want you to tell me where you were this past hour."

Workman: "Character assassin! I don't have to answer those charges! I'm going to take my pick-ax and go home."

Crowd (murmuring): "You are entirely right! The idea! What nerve!"

Joe (yelling): "Isn't anyone around here interested in preserving this country?"

WHO ISN'T PATRIOTIC

Crowd: "Grab him! Get him away from the wall! Lynch him!"

Scientist: "I should like to point out that whereas Joe has meant well, he has only served to protect our country from water. Now what is water? SUCH LANGUAGE

Joe: "You blithering idiot. This is sea water! It's full of salt. It would ruin crops."

Farmer: "Now he's an expert on farming! I certainly would take the word of a scientist against this upstart."

Woman: "And did you hear his language? 'Blithering idiot,' he said. I'm glad my children were not here."

Joe (shouting): "Yes, I said it and I repeat it, Blithering idiot."

Policeman: "What's all this noise and disturbance. Young man I suppose you know I can arrest you for disturbing the peace?"

Joe: "Arrest me then and see if I care. You're all a bunch of raving maniacs."

Bystander: "Look who's calling who, a 'raving maniac.' Such temper!"

Chairman of the district. "I would never have believed it possible! This entire affair has been most unseemly. The meeting will come to order. All those who believe that this ... this person Joe has disturbed the peace, used language unbecoming a dignified person, and tended to breed distrust and a lack of faith in our public officials and in our legal procedures please say 'aye.'"

Crowd: "AYE!"

Chairman: "Nearly unanimous, eh? Quite as it should be. Officer, do your duty. Remove this person from the hall."

Policeman steps forward and complies. Joe struggles and is badly roughed up, but is finally pried loose.

Joe (as water starts to gurgle thru hole): "You'll all be sorry for this! (to chairman) And especially, you!"

Chairman: "What audacity! What cheek! You are herby condemned and censured before all people. You are a disgrace to this country."

As Joe is led away, resisting to the last, the chairman calls the workman, the scientist, the lawyer and the civil servant around him.

Chairman: "Actually, boys this Joe did us a great service. But we mustn't let him know that we know it. Next thing you know, he'd be after my job. We can't let anybody get too popular, outside of us office holders, I mean. Next week sometime we'll have a staff meeting on this problem, but I want everything kept quiet and orderly. Everything must be handled thru channels."

Workman, scientist, lawyer and civil servant: "Quite right, boss. Whatever you say, chief!"

And the chairman became a national hero.

But on the other side of the wall, it was as if a great voice whispered to the rising waters: "Now is the time." And the tide began to rise.

And over the land there rose a feeling of apprehension.

Who now would dare to plug the hole in the dike?

THE POWER TO TAX IS THE POWER TO DESTROY

By
Col. Bluford H. J. Balter

The power to levy income taxes upon individuals should be and can be drastically restricted. It is up to the people of the United States to write their Congressman to insist that the Sixteenth Amendment be repealed.

The legislatures of 29 states have already petitioned the Congress to submit an amendment to the Constitution to put a limit of 25% on income taxes so that we can pay off our staggering national debt, reduce foreign wasteful spending, and through a reduced national budget eliminate wasteful Socialistic and Communistic activities now supported by our tax dollars.

Here is the list of states which have not acted to limit taxes: ARIZONA, CALIFORNIA, COLORADO, CONNECTICUT, IDAHO, MARYLAND, MINNESOTA, MISSOURI, NEW YORK, NORTH CAROLINA, NORTH DAKOTA, OHIO, OKLAHOMA, OREGON, SOUTH CAROLINA, TENNESSEE, VERMONT, WASHINGTON, WEST VIRGINIA.

If you live in one of the 19 states that has not yet acted on the income tax limitation petition, just drop a note to me in care of FREE MEN SPEAK I will be glad to put you in touch with organizations which can help you to perform you patriotic duty of reducing taxes in order that our freedoms will be preserved.

WHAT REPEAL MEANS TO YOU!

1. REPEAL MEANS that every day you will take home more of the money that you earn;

2. REPEAL MEANS that, in fact, your immediate earning power will be increased by the amount that is now withheld from your wages;

3. REPEAL MEANS that your future earning power will not be limited by fear of higher bracket and higher deductions that are, in direct effect, taxes placed upon you to curb your initiative and your desire for self-advancement;

4. REPEAL MEANS your employer will be enabled to re-establish a sound program for systematic reinvestment of earned income back into his business a guaranteed progressive expansion and proper maintenance of the machinery and equipment upon which your job and your future economic welfare depends;

5. REPEAL MEANS the end of excessive Federal taxation; which means killing of inflation undermining government education or industry;

6. REPEAL MEANS more efficient government by more competent employees at higher take home pay at less cost to the taxpayer;

7. REPEAL MEANS more tax money for Government because if Government continues present system, Government soon will not get any tax money at all.

8. REPEAL MEANS returning the duty of self-government to the Senate;

9. REPEAL MEANS restoring individual dignity and personal liberty to every American citizen of today and unborn citizen;

10. REPEAL MEANS ending the squandering of your tax money and mine as give-aways to foreign nations.

Here then is a chance to work for something that will benefit YOU directly and at the same time will be a fine patriotic activity. YOU are important in this fight. YOU can help by working within your own state and with your state legislators to get your state to petition the Congress for repeal of the 16th Amendment. YOU can also help by writing your own representatives in the National Congress at Washington. YOU can get the members of your clubs and organizations to write individually and take official action as a club.

THE SIXTEENTH AMENDMENT MUST BE REPEALED AND LIMITED.

If the United States is destroyed, the blame will fall heavily on the heads of the publishers who have lined their pocketbooks instead of listening to their hearts and souls.

The re-emergence of the free American Press is a vital necessity of this nation is to be saved.

EVERY AMERICAN MUST MAKE IT HIS TASK TO SEE THAT EDITORS ARE ALLOWED TO PRINT THE TRUTH NO MATTER WHO IT HURTS. AN INFORMED POPULACE CAN YET SAVE THE SITUATION.

God help the American people because the voicebox, the real larynx has cancer.

UNLESS THE MALIGNANCIES ARE CUT OUT . . . AMERICA WILL BE DESTROYED.

James L. Ewing, III

The legislatures of 29 states have already petitioned the Congress to submit an amendment to the Constitution to put a limit of 25% on income taxes so that we can pay off our staggering national debt, reduce foreign wasteful spending, and though a reduced national budget eliminate wasteful Socialistic and Communistic activities now supported by our tax dollars.

Here is the list of states which have not acted to limit taxes: ARIZONA, CALIFORNIA, COLORADO, CONNECTICUT, IDAHO, MARYLAND, MINNESOTA, MISSOURI, NEW YORK, NORTH CAROLINA, NORTH DAKOTA, OHIO, OKLAHOMA, OREGON, SOUTH CAROLINA, TENNESSEE, VERMONT, WASHINGTON, WEST VIRGINIA.

If you live in one of the 19 states that has not yet acted on the income tax limitation petition, just drop a note to me in care of FREE MEN SPEAK I will be glad to put you in touch with organizations which can help you to perform your patriotic duty of reducing taxes in order that our freedoms will be preserved.

WHAT REPEAL MEANS TO YOU!

1. REPEAL MEANS that every day you will take home more of the money that you earn;

2. REPEAL MEANS that, in fact, your immediate earning power will be increased by the amount that is now withheld from your wages;

3. REPEAL MEANS that your future earning power will not be limited by fear of higher bracket and higher deductions that are, in direct effect, taxes placed upon you to curb your initiative and your desire for self-advancement;

4. REPEAL MEANS your employer will be enabled to re-establish a sound program for systematic reinvestment of earned income back into his business a guaranteed progressive expansion and proper maintenance of the machinery and equipment upon which your job and your future economic welfare depends;

5. REPEAL MEANS the end of excessive Federal taxation; which means killing of inflation undermining government education or industry;

6. REPEAL MEANS more efficient government by more competent employees at higher take home pay at less cost to the taxpayer;

7. REPEAL MEANS more tax money for Government because if Government continues present system, Government soon will not get any tax money at all.

8. REPEAL MEANS returning the duty of self-government to the Senate;

9. REPEAL MEANS restoring individual dignity and personal liberty to every American citizen of today and unborn citizen;

10. REPEAL MEANS ending the squandering of your tax money and mine as give-aways to foreign nations.

Here then is a chance to work for something that will benefit YOU directly and at the same time will be a fine patriotic activity. YOU are important in this fight. YOU can help by working within your own state and with your state legislators to get your state to petition the Congress for repeal of the 16th Amendment. YOU can also help by writing your own representatives in the National Congress at Washington. YOU can get the members of your clubs and organizations to write individually and take official action as a club.

THE SIXTEENTH AMENDMENT MUST BE REPEALED AND LIMITED.

Editor's note:

Mr. Baiter recently wrote to one of the Louisiana Representatives on the subject of taxes. His letter was printed in full in the Congressional Record. As a result over a million persons have received and read his letter on the need for reducing taxes in order to preserve the Republic.

It was about six months ago that George Todt was given the air: he was fired.

Once Upon A Time

There was a time when it was popular to be an American, popular to defend America against all of its enemies, both internal and external: and it was also popular to expose these enemies both by the spoken word and in print: but that was in the good old days before Franklin D. Roosevelt recognized Russia on November 16, 1933, and saturated our government with the left-wing element now determined to surrender our national sovereignty into the framework of a world dictatorship, through the gluttonous mouth of the United Nations.

There was a time when American people respected one another regardless of race, creed or color and/or political persuasions, working together in perfect harmony for the good of our country, BUT NOW we find ourselves more and more divided, confused and in a chaotic state of mind because of the political brainwashing financed by our own government during the last quarter of a century and the wealthy tax-exempt foundations dedicated to the "scientific control of our social, economic, political and religious life:" and of course the Communist conspiracy has done its part to subvert our thinking.

Nevertheless, there is good reason to be optimistic because at heart the majority of all groups of people, regardless of race, creed or color believe in God and want to live at peace and in harmony with their fellow men: and "All things work for the good of those who love the Lord."

TREATY LAW DANGERS EXPOSED

U. S. Soldiers Overseas Denied Protection Of Constitution By Status of Forces Treaty

Paul Harvey in a broadcast which was re-printed in the Congressional Record of Friday, August 6, 1954 points out the terrible consequences resulting from treaties that deny our troops overseas the protection of the Constitution while at the same time traitors at home can hide under the Fifth Amendment.

Here is a part of the broadcast:

"In Bermuda, Capt. William Powell, of the United States Air Force, has been sentenced to jail for two months for "driving (a car) without third-party insurance . . "

Bermuda gets her authority over United States servicemen by virtue of an agreement made by President Franklin D. Roosevelt without the consent of Congress.

It is this whole treaty-making authority which should be stepped on and stopped by a Constitutional amendment.

So this Captain Powell violated a law WHICH HE DOES NOT KNOW EXISTS. He gets two months in prison, but automatically this means he is courtmartialed. He loses all rights as a United States serviceman. He is five years away from retirement, but faces instead dismissal from the service with no retirement benefits whatsoever. And this is the fate of an American who was once a member of the Connecticut Legislature, who was shot down in Germany in the last war, and was imprisoned in the Nazis' notorious dungeons at Buchenwald. And now after this magnificent record of service to his country, we have let the caprice of a foreign court, send him home, broke, busted, and disgraced."

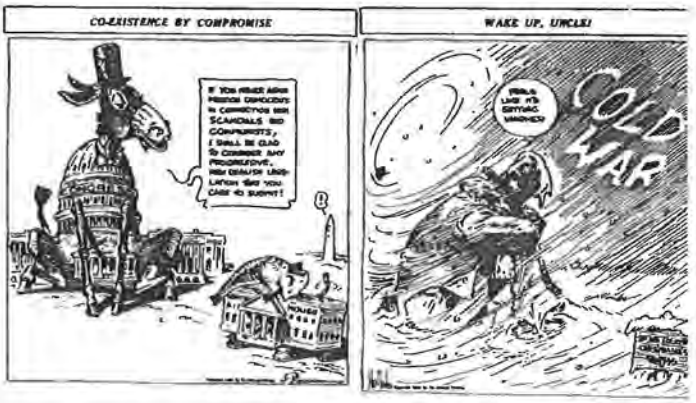
There are more than 400 such cases of our troops being sentenced by foreign courts, without benefit of trial by jury. Some of these sentences are of the "cruel and unusual punishment" type against which our Constitution protects us.

Another case that Paul Harvey brought to the attention of the radio audience concerned two boys in France. They are serving five years in a dirty French prison. And for what? They went on a little drinking spree and "borrowed" a taxicab. Sure, this was a crime, but there was no trial by jury - only a hostile French Court. (At the same time a Frenchman got five years for murdering an American Soldier!))

Many of our men are stationed where Islamic law applies. Under Moslem law the touching of stolen food means the loss of the hand that steals. I hope none of them try to snitch an apple off the stand or get tempted into stealing a chicken.

By the way . . . just to get you angry enough to do something about the need for the BRICKER AMENDMENT, which would cure these injustices and prevent them in the future . . . let me tell you about Dick Keefe's wife.

Dick Keefe is one of the boys serving five years at Melun Prison in France for stealing that taxicab one lonely night. Gladys Keefe now no longer receives the basic allowance for quarters for herself and her two children. She has moved in with her mother who takes care of the children while Gladys works. And the French write to her . . . in French . . . telling her "NO" she may not communicate with her husband in any way neither to send letters or to receive them.



And who is responsible for this law? A letter from your President Eisenhower (to the Congress) specifically urged approval of this "Status of Forces Treaty" on July 14, 1953.

Do you wonder that Senator Bricker jumped to his feet waving this frightful document in his hand pleading for help? Only a handful of Senators fought this infamous treaty.

Here are the names of the Senators who deserve your warm praise and support for trying to prevent the passage of this treaty which denies the time honored Constitutional rights to our troops

SENATORS BRICKER, DIRKSEN, DWORSHAK, FREAR, JENNER, JOHNSON, LONG, MALONE, MCCARRAN, MCCARTHY, RUSSELL, SCHOEPPEL, SMATHERS, WELKER, WILLIAMS. This handful fought the treaty. The rest let it go through without protest.

This brings us back to the BRICKER amendment. Work for it. Get more facts like the above. Write to any of the Senators listed above and their office will be glad to supply you material to help you become informed and to take action in your own community to help pass the BRICKER AMENDMENT to prevent the further denial of our rights through the insidious action of treaty law.

PARENTS WARNED OF POLIO SHOTS RUSSIAN DOCTORS ARE INVOLVED

New Orleans, La., January 23. On the FREE MEN SPEAK telecast over WJMR-TV tonight, George Indest, Jr., nationally known authority on fluoridation of water supplies, warns that the March of Dimes-Salk polio vaccine will be administered to nine million school children by the same Association of State and Territorial Health Officers that is knowingly conspiring with the U. S. Public Health Service in the fluoridation-cancer plot.

He pointed out that there are so many Russian-born doctors and dentists in our Public Health Service and in state health offices that it has been commented on in the Congressional Record; and that the U. S. P. H. S. and Surgeon General belong to the World Health Organization, "a sort of medical United Nations to which Russia also belongs." He stated that, "in some countries, the public might become a little alarmed to find Russian doctors pouring cat poison in the public water supplies."

Many medical authorities were cited to prove that fluoridation causes several deadly diseases, principally cancer. Using the fluoridation promoters' own testimony in a Congressional hearing, Indest proved that they themselves know it is harmful, and that the U. S. Public Health Service is falsifying the nation's vital statistics records, of which it is in charge, to hide cancer death in fluoridation cities.

He also called attention to the testimony of Dr. Fred B. Exner of Seattle, an opponent of fluoridation, who showed that the U. S. P. H. S. had deliberately falsified its data, statistics, and experiments, and who proved that the fluoridation witnesses had perjured themselves. Dr. Exner has asked for a thorough investigation of polio, cancer, and fluoridation activities. The charge the fluoridation is a Communist operation has been made by several others, including Dr. Joe Nichols, a prominent Texas M. D., and Major George Racey Jordan who shipped sodium fluoride to Russia on lean-lease.

Parents were warned to keep their children away from the Salk polio shots as they are being given by the same Association of State and Territorial Health Officers that is so eager to put cancer-producing chemicals in the public water supplies. The A. S. T. H. S. funds and vigorously promotes the fluoridation scheme at the local level. "Most parents don't realize that the school children of today represent our Army and Navy ten years from now. If millions of them can be inoculated, let's say with radioactive substances that will cause cancer in a few years, why ten years from now the Communists could walk in and take over our nation of old men."

Editor's Note: If sufficient requests are received, FREE MEN SPEAK will publish a transcript of the telecast to be distributed at 25¢ each to cover costs.

Murrow In Too Familiar Role

Edward Murrow recently gave another one of his strange broadcasts, this time devoted to defending Oppenheimer, the man who lied to a U. S. Security officer about an attempt by a Communist agent to obtain atomic secrets for Russia.

Oppenheimer, of notorious pro-Communist connections, is barred from access to secret material by the Atomic Energy Committee, and properly so.

The interesting thing now is that the Murrow broadcast is to be expanded and sent to American colleges. Furthermore, this is to be financed by the Fund For the Republic, a Ford Foundation subsidiary.

How that old American patriot, Henry Ford, must be rolling in his grave at this type of activity by the foundation disgracefully bearing his name.

Hitler had his autobahn, the commissars at Moscow have a special highway that rushes them to their villas outside of the Red capital, but no one in the United States ever thought that a President of the United States would have a superhighway just so the president could rush from the White House to Camp David and to his farm.

How far has this country gone on the road towards dictatorship?

Murrow In Too Familiar Role

Edward Murrow recently gave another one of his strange broadcasts this time devoted to defending Oppenheimer, the man who lied to a U. S. Senate by offering aid to an attempt by a Communist agent to obtain atomic secrets for Russia.

Oppenheimer, of notorious pro-Communist connections, is barred from access to secret material by the Atomic Energy Committee, and properly so.

The interesting thing now is that the Murrow broadcast is to be expanded and sent to American colleges. Furthermore, this is to be financed by the Fund For the Republic, a Ford Foundation subsidiary.

How that old American patriot, Henry Ford, must be rolling in his grave at this type of activity by the foundation disgracefully bearing his name.

Like Hitler, Like Stalin

U. S. NEWS & WORLD REPORT says that the "superhighway that will make easier a trip from the White House to Camp David and to the Eisenhower Pennsylvania farm is convincing some Maryland and Pennsylvania politicians that Mr. Eisenhower will try for another term in 1956. The White House is reported to be showing special interest in completion of this highway, which cannot be ready very long before a second term would start."

Hitler had his autobahn, the commissars at Moscow have a special highway that rushes them to their villas outside of the Red capital, but no one in the United States ever thought that a President of the United States would have a superhighway just so the [illegible] to Camp David and to his farm.

IT'S YOUR COUNTRY..... by John Beck

False Claims for U. N. . . .

[illegible] WISE [illegible] is [illegible] [illegible] and other [illegible] of the Communist party [illegible] on the American scene. With the prestige of the United Nations at its all-time low, James [illegible] Wadsworth, Deputy U.S. Representative to the UN, describes anti-UN sentiment as a wave of [illegible], unbounded charges against the United Nations being waged by a small group of small organizations with [illegible] of extreme nationalistic and [illegible] outpourings."

Since the [illegible] "baseless, unbounded charges of extreme nationalism, hate-mongering - favored the Daily Worker and all the various Communist front publications. Mad character assassination," witch hunting, and "book burning" been added, the future would have been almost complete.

Revelers [illegible] charges by a small group of small organizations would hardly seem to call for retaliation by a [illegible] [illegible] all so-called "distinguished" Americans, but such concerted [illegible] has been made via the left-wing press.

SIMPLICITY: Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., says the charge that the UN is a nest of Communist agents is false [illegible] the simple reason that there is nothing to spy on at the United Nations. How beautifully simple! Presumably, the delegates, representatives, and employees at the headquarters are confined there without means of egress or of contact with anyone on the outside! Compounding the insult to American intelligence, Mr. Lodge says: "No American citizen employed by the United Nations has ever been prosecuted for espionage." That quite a number of them escaped such prosecution only by invoking the Fifth Amendment when asked whether they were Communists, is a fact conveniently ignored by Mr. Lodge.

Carl G. Hoffman, especially "distinguished" for his connection with the questionable Committee for an Effective Congress, heads as fantastic the charge that UNESCO is conniving with the [illegible] of American children. He says he does, however, that the series of UNESCO booklets, Towards World Understanding, are a prescribed course of training for both children and teachers and are widely used in the public school system.

These UNESCO booklets stress internationalism and "world-mindedness" as paramount objectives, while they refer to nationalism as a "disease" with which the children are "infected" by their families. UNESCO urges that children be removed from the poisoned air of nationalism and that textbooks and courses be revised to conform with the ideal of internationalism.

Rev. Henry K. Sherrill, member of the National Advisory Board of the United World Federalists, disputes the charge that UN is Godless. But silent prayer, he says, is as far as we can get at this time." Through consideration for the atheistic and pagan members, no sign, or spoken word, of faith is permitted at the UN. Obviously, God is too controversial for admittance.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt answers with charges in turn. Eleanor hopes the charge that the UN is promoting world government. Upon ratification of the Charter, says this master of left-wing wisdom, it is quite clear that each member nation wishes to keep its sovereignty.

ALSO CLEAR: It is also quite clear, if one will read the entire Charter, that no matter what each individual nation may wish to do, it cannot keep its sovereignty and at the same time conform to the provisions of the UN Charter. This has already been demonstrated to American sorrow, especially by U. S. participation in the Korean war and by the lack of U. S. effort to obtain the release of Americans illegally imprisoned in Communist countries.

But Mrs. Roosevelt does not stop merely with an interpretation of the UN charter. She adds a palliative by reminding us that an American treaty requires a two-thirds vote of the Senate, as it does; but the all important word that Mrs. Roosevelt neglected to add is "present" - two thirds of the senators present and voting. There could come a day when a world-minded president would send a treaty to the Senate for ratification when such senators as Lehman, Fulbright, Kefauver, and their ilk were [illegible] [illegible] present and comprised the required two thirds!

NONSENSE: The most sweeping, and surely the most [illegible] comical, defense of the UN was offered by Nobel prize winner, Dr. Ralph Bunche, who made the astounding statement: "Without it (the UN), relations among nations would be reduced only to the law of the jungle. This would mean an end to human progress - indeed to civilization itself, and all life would be reduced to a barbaric struggle for sheer survival. All the results of thousands of years of civilization, all the accomplishments, wisdom, love, and virtues of mankind, dependent upon the [illegible]-world UN [illegible] [illegible] for their [illegible].

PICK UP THE TORCH OF LIBERTY

You can do something to help . . .

The issue at hand is not political, it is moral. Have you embarrassed by those who could not bear a greater burden than ever before in our history, but what can you do about it? The answer is PLENTY. No matter how much or how little time you can devote to this crusade . . . no matter how much or how little money you can contribute . . . there is SOMETHING that YOU CAN DO . . . and next week or next month . . . just WORK.

In this newspaper you will read about many people who are doing about it. Remember, our aim is to EXPOSE THE AMERICAN PEOPLE THE FACTS, the TRUE FACTS. All of the people named in the PATRIOTS AT WORK column of this newspaper have got from literature to distribute. WRITE TO THEM TODAY and ask for literature. Some of the literature is free, for some pieces there may be a small charge to cover mailing expenses.

Here are some of the things you can do:

( ) 1. Distribute literature
- ( ) A. At social gatherings
- ( ) B. Club meetings
- ( ) C. Hotel lobbies, railroad stations, etc.
- ( ) D. Door-to-door in your neighborhood

( ) 2. Convene a study group
- for example, how about organizing a group to study the school books that your children are studying. You will probably be horrified at how deeply the Communists have infiltrated your child's mind!

( ) 3. Write speeches before civic clubs.
- If the services of your club then write off for this patriotic literature. Use it as a base for your speeches.

Here are just a few suggestions as to how YOU CAN SERVE YOUR COUNTRY. You can probably think of many other ways.

FROM DESTROYING OUR AMERICAN CONSTITUTION BY TREATY. We have become the greatest nation on earth because our Constitution has protected our God-given rights as individuals and our free enterprise system. The danger comes from the "treaty supremacy" clause in the Constitution which provides that "all treaties shall be the supreme law of the land, anything in the Constitution or laws of any state to the contrary notwithstanding".

Now that we are stripped of that Communist-coined "great instrument of peace", the United Nations, we can be "sold down the river" when the United Nations Charter comes up for revision this year. We have been told that the American people must "trust" Eisenhower not to make the bad treaties. Why should we trust ANYONE with our freedoms? Certainly Eisenhower hasn't shown that he is any more ardent of the Communist conspiracy than Roosevelt or Truman were. Millions of helpless people were sold into slavery by treaties made by Fair Deal Presidents and their left-wing advisors. Eisenhower HAS YET TO REPUDIATE ANY OF THESE TREATIES AND AGREEMENTS, EVEN THOUGH THAT WAS ONE OF THE PROMISES MADE DURING THE "GREAT CRUSADE".

We are asked to trust our freedoms to a President who spends most of his time on the golf course while his advisors plot their evil schemes. These men are no more interested in preserving our American way of life under Eisenhower's leadership, than they were as advisors to Truman.

We are asked to place our trust in a President who signed the most infamous of all treaties — THE STATUS OF FORCES TREATY which turns our fighting men over to the mercies of foreign courts while traitors here at home have the full protection of our American Constitution. Our President himself pleads with us to have patience with Communist murderers who hold American boys captive.

Thomas Jefferson was right when he said, "In questions of power, let no more be said of confidence in man, but bind him down from mischief by the chains of the Constitution". The issue is whether we shall have a government of law or a government of men.

Those of us who support the Bricker Amendment believe in GOVERNMENT OF LAW. Those who oppose it believe in UNLIMITED EXECUTIVE POWER.

Buttering Up Reds Is Suicide!

Red Communist housewives in Russia and Red China will soon be able to feed their people butter at a cheaper price than is available to U. S. housewives, thanks to the taxes that U. S. housewives and husbands have paid on that butter. Secretary Benson thinks he has found a wonderful way to solve the butter surplus in this country. He proposes to barter and sell it to the Russians. Anything more stupid and immoral would be hard to imagine.

Benson talks pious nonsense of trading for something we want. What have the Russians got that we want, that we can't obtain from friendly nations? The answer is nothing.

Furthermore, the sale of butter or any other farm commodities, or any other goods which the Russians need, makes it possible for the Russians to put their manpower to the manufacture of weapons of destruction. THAT IS WHY THEY ARE BUYING PEACE-TIME GOODS FROM OTHER COUNTRIES.

If we do not sell butter and other commodities to the Russians, the rulers of the Kremlin must take either of two courses. If they continue to devote all their energy to armament-making, the lot of the people will become so miserable that they may some day revolt against the tyrants. On the other hand, if the Red rulers improve the lot of the people then they must cease devoting so much of their manpower to armaments, thus giving the Free World an advantage.

Supplying butter or anything else to the Soviet is not only immoral, it is absolutely traitorous and completely stupid. SECRETARY BENSON SHOULD HAVE HIS HEAD EXAMINED.

Jenner Questions Flanders

In a speech delivered on the floor of the United States Senate on December 2 of this year Senator Jenner (R-Ind.) asked Senator Flanders the following questions:

"1—Are you willing to tell the Senate of the United States what have been your relations with Owen Lattimore during the past 10 years?

"2—Are you willing to place in the hands of the Senate your entire correspondence with Owen Lattimore?

"3—Did you ever discuss the question of censure or disciplinary action against Senator McCarthy with Owen Lattimore?

"4—Are you willing to tell the Senate of the United States whether you were associated with Owen Lattimore in support of the campaign for a coalition government including the Communists in China?

"5—William L. Holland, secretary-general of the Institute of Pacific Relations, said on Oct. 10, 1951 that you were an active member of the Institute of Pacific Relations, attended its meeting and contributed to its budget. Is this correct? Frederick Vanderbilt Field, a leading writer for the Communist press, was active as a member of the American Institute of Pacific Relations and as a member of its executive committee during this period, and Owen Lattimore was its editor of PACIFIC AFFAIRS.

"6—The 1952 report of the Senate Internal Security subcommittee found that 'the IPR has been considered by the American Communist party and by Soviet officials as an instrument of Communist policy, propaganda and military intelligence.' Did you make any efforts to repudiate the Institute of Pacific Relations or to disassociate yourself therefrom after this finding?

"Will you state to the United States Senate whether or not you had associations with Harry Dexter White, Harold Glasser and V. Frank Coe in connection with the Morgenthau Plan for Germany?"

These are serious questions which Senator Flanders should answer.

Ike Breaks Pledge

To The Editors: The organized kin of Red-held American GI's today accused the President of breaking his 1952 promise to them: "We are not going to withdraw from Korea and leave our boys in Communist prison camps," made on October 24 - that seat while he was campaigning for election.

Fighting Homefolks of Fighting Men, an organization of a thousand kith and kin of men who fought in Korea and are now missing or in the hands of the Red Chinese, d. mented the charge with a United Press dispatch. The dispatch was published December 12, 1953—two years ago—and reported that on October 25, 1952, the Presidential candidate, General Eisenhower, said he favored a speed-up of training of ROK troops, but inside the peninsula in these words: "We are not going to withdraw from Korea and leave our boys in Communist prison camps."

It is charged that the President broke that promise last fall, when he withdrew from Korea the U. S. Sector there capable of enforcing any demands for the return of our POW's or of rescuing them, leaving in Korea only a weakened, token U. S. force incapable of anything but retreat.

"The President has known about these men for 15 months, but has done nothing, except by his weakness to provoke the Reds into sentencing 11 of them, as a gesture of contempt. We consider that he has not only broken his pledge, but, by his failure to make any but perfunctory mention of our enslaved men in his State of the Union message, has decided upon the 'shrug' of it-can-if-it-does attitude toward our POW's. Unless drastic steps should be needed to liberate them. The presence appearing pallbearer by a U.S. employe with the Reds presumably in an attempt to arrange a stockmail deal to release a few of them, does not change the fact that the President's entire attitude constitutes a betrayal," the kinfolk's spokesman said.

BREEDING PLACE FOR COMMUNISM

Texas state public school system leaves itself open [illegible] to Communist influence, says Dr. Christian Gerhard, superintendent of Austin, school system.

Travis Hudson reported:

"The Communistic condition [illegible] a very sad part of psychological warfare, as we now call it. They understand that if they can poison the wells of public opinion by secrecy and they seek to infiltrate every channel of public opinion making, they can gain great headway making people in the country vote to determine there as the Kremlin wants them to think. Now, HOOVER ARE A VERY IMPORTANT WEAPON IN THIS CAMPAIGN. . . . .

It is obvious that here is nothing, for all the material evidence that the public schools are an excellent breeding ground for getting across the Communist line in the minds of our youth.

Since the public school system is, of itself, a statist machine based on the same beliefs as Marx and Lenin and Stalin, it is not strange that the public schools are so useful in providing a spring board for statist and Communist propaganda.

A free enterprise system of education would be free not only to reject such propaganda but also to take part in active opposition

To The Editors: The organized kin of Red-held American GI's today accused the President of breaking his 1952 promise to them: "We are not going to withdraw from Korea and leave our boys in Communist prison camps," made on October 21 of that year, while he was campaigning for the vote.

Fighting Homefolks of Fighting Men, an organization of a thousand kith and kin of men who fought in Korea and are now missing or in the hands of the Red Chinese, demanded the charge with a United Press dispatch. The dispatch was published December 12, 1953—two years ago—and reported that on October 24, 1952, the Presidential candidate, General Eisenhower, said he favored a speedup of training of ROK troops but made the promise in these words, "We are not going to withdraw from Korea and leave our boys in Communist prison camps."

It was charged that the President knew that [illegible] was not going to keep the U. S. forces there [illegible] on his commands for the return of our men or of rescuing them, leaving in Korea only a weakened, token U. S. force, incapable of anything but retreat.

"The President has known about these men for 15 months, but has done nothing, except by his weakness to provoke the Reds into sentencing it of them, as a gesture of contempt. We consider that he has not only broken his pledge, but, by his failure to make any but perfunctory mention of our enslaved men in his State of the Union message, has decided upon the abandonment of them if drastic steps should be required to liberate them. The present appalling failure by a UN member with the Reds presumable to be willing to arrange a deal when it deal in relation to four of them, does not change the fact of the President's crass political [illegible]," the Schmidt's spokesman said.

Buttering Up Reds Is Suicide!

Red Communist housewives in Russia and Red China will soon be able to feed their families butter at a cheaper price than is available to U. S. housewives, thanks to the taxes that U. S. housewives and husbands have paid on that butter. Secretary Benson thinks he has found a wonderful way to solve the surplus problem in this country. He proposes to barter and sell it to the Russians. Anything more stupid and immoral would be hard to imagine.

Benson talks glibly of trading for something we want. What have the Russians got that we want, that we can't obtain from friendly nations? The answer is nothing.

Furthermore, the sale of butter or any other farm commodities, or any other goods which the Russians need, makes it possible for the Russians to put their manpower to the manufacture of weapons of destruction. THAT IS WHY THEY ARE BUYING PEACE-TIME GOODS FROM OTHER COUNTRIES.

If we do not sell butter and other commodities to the Russians, the rulers of the Kremlin must take either of two courses. If they continue to devote all their energy to armament-making, the lot of the people will become so miserable that they may some day revolt against the tyrants. On the other hand, if the Red rulers improve the lot of the people then they must cease devoting so much of their manpower to armaments, thus giving the Free World an advantage.

Supplying butter or anything else to the Soviet is not only immoral, it is absolutely traitorous and completely stupid. SECRETARY BENSON SHOULD HAVE HIS HEAD EXAMINED.

Mr. [redacted] White Plains, NY, contacted the White Plains RA on 4/15/55 with a mimeographed transcript of a television program. The program was "FREE MEN SPEAK", which was broadcast over Station WJMR-TV, New Orleans, La., on Sunday, January 23, 1955 at 8:30 PM.

The transcript is purportedly that of an interview between KENT COURTNEY, Program Director for the station and GEORGE WIDEST, Dr. of New Orleans.

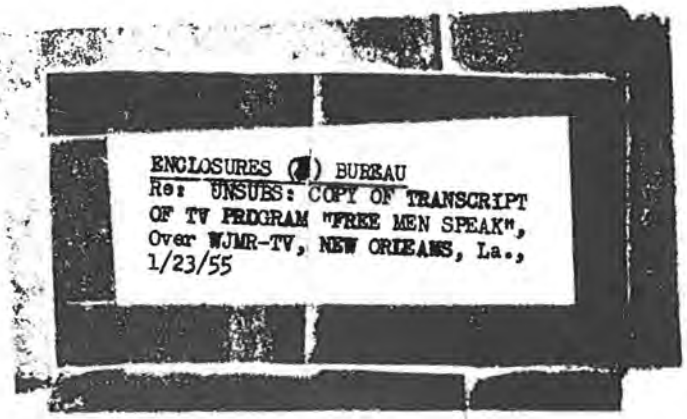
Mr. [redacted] was concerned with the fact that the transcript which he had was obtained from a neighbor. The neighbor had been unable to state where the transcript had been obtained. It had either been mailed to him or left in his mailbox by an unknown person.

The material in the transcript related to current efforts being made to have fluorides added to drinking water throughout the US. In the course of remarks attributed to WIDEST, he is quoted as making derogatory remarks concerning the US Public Health Service.

Complainant felt that the remarks in the transcript which reflected so unfavorably upon the Public Health Service might be conducive to disturbing public confidence in the agencies of the US Government. This, to [redacted] was a serious matter. He was also disturbed by what he considered the surreptitious manner of distribution of the transcripts. The fact that the transcript which he had obtained was mimeographed indicated to him that the transcript had received wide circulation.

No action is being taken in this office concerning the origin or distribution of these transcripts.

Three photostats of the transcript are being sent to the Bureau. It is felt that if this material has not been previously brought to the attention of the [redacted] Bureau may desire to bring the matter to the attention of the US Public Health Service.



The original of the transcript was returned to the complainant at his request.

Transcript of Telecast

over WDSU-TV, New Orleans, La.

Sunday, January 23, 1955, 8:30 P.M.

(Program Director, Kent Courtney, explains that local organizations and professional societies endorsing water fluoridation, tonight's subject, were asked to send representatives to explain their position, but would not do so. He then introduces George Indest, Jr., of New Orleans, who has recently become recognized nationally as an authority on fluoridation, and asks him to present an outline of the controversy and the position of those who oppose it.)

MR. INDEST: The U.S. Public Health Service and its local agents, the members of the Association of State and Territorial Health Officers, have conducted vigorous and unrelenting campaigns throughout the country to force our cities to begin adding small quantities of sodium fluoride and sodium silico fluoride to the public water supplies, on the assumption that it will reduce - not prevent, but reduce - tooth decay in our children. Millions of dollars of your tax money have been spent in these efforts, and many of our citizens have become suspicious because the enormous expense, the obvious deception and deceit, and the personal pressures used to obtain the endorsements of various organizations and to discredit those who resist, are completely out of proportion to any benefits that might be obtained. No amount of tooth decay could possibly justify the viciousness and eagerness of the promoters of this scheme.

Mountains of statistics have been presented to show the effect of fluoridated water on children's teeth. Most of these figures, which cost millions to assemble, come from communities whose water supplies naturally contain small quantities of fluorine, and it has been contended that the effect of those natural waters can be duplicated by water to which fluorine has been added in the form of sodium fluoride.

I am not going to waste time discussing the effect of fluoridated water on the teeth. It would be a little silly when we have evidence that this water is actually killing people in the cities it was forced into several years ago. Personally, I can't see much consolation in being able to say that your child died with perfect teeth. Besides, Dr. Frederick Exner of the University of Washington testified before a Congressional Committee last May and showed how those dental statistics are being falsified by the U.S. Public Health Service. He caught them making a number of very useful mathematical errors. He also showed that they are continually referring to experiments that do not prove what they say they prove, and he flatly accused the fluoridation witnesses of perjury, and then proved it. It's amazing that Dr. Exner's exposure of fluoridation never reached the local newspapers, when it should have been on their front pages. I think we can safely forget about the effect on the teeth and consider the more important question of what it does to the rest of the body.

Sodium fluoride and sodium silico fluoride are violent poisons. They are actually used for rat poisons and no one denies that. Even your neighborhood druggist knows it - ask him. Sodium fluoride is so poisonous that one-fourth of a teaspoonful will kill you, and one sixteenth of a teaspoonful, just a pinch, will cause terrible pain, collapse, paralysis, and all the other symptoms of violent poisoning. Its effects are very similiar to arsenic. Fluorine and these fluorides have a strong affinity for calcium. They combine with the calcium in your blood stream and in your cells, and remove it from its normal functions, and this removal of calcium causes a crippling calcium deficiency. In fact, calcium is the antidote for fluorine and the fluorides, and you can easily verify that for yourself.

The fluoridation promoters have also used their falsified statistics on naturally fluoridated areas to pretend that no harm is done by fluorine because no obvious damage has been found in the people who drink those naturally fluoridated waters. However, they have failed to say that those waters also contain large amounts of calcium, while artificial sodium fluoride waters do not, so those people are taking the poison, fluorine, with the antidote, calcium; but the fluoridation promoters want to give you the poison without the antidote. Any school boy can see the difference between taking a poison with the antidote to neutralize it, and taking it without the antidote. And the Public Health Service doctors know there is calcium in those natural waters, because one of them, Dr. Dean, published an analyses of their contents in 1941, and the fluoridation promoters frequently quote from other parts of those very reports of Dr. Dean, showing that they are familiar with them.

Now, these are strange actions on the part of the doctors in this government agency, but it's a very peculiar agency. It is a member of the World Health Organization, a sort of medical United Nations, to which Russia also belongs. And the most remarkable feature is the large number of Russian-born doctors in our U.S. Public Health Service. Now in some countries, the public might become a little alarmed to find Russian doctors pouring rat poison in the public water supplies - - but we're not worried - we know these Russian doctors are part of our government, and they wouldn't hurt us, would they? Nevertheless, I think the public is entitled to an explanation by the local organizations that have endorsed fluoridation because it is recommended by the U.S. Public Health Service. They must know a great deal about the Public Health Service in order to be able to rely on it's recommendations.

KENT COURTNEY: Well, just what does fluorine do to the human body?

MR. LUDES?: The actual facts have been established by animal experimentation, by research workers, and by a number of experienced doctors who have treated human patients for the various diseases caused by fluorine. I refer to such eminent physicians as Dr. Exner, who calls fluoridation "medical insanity," Dr. Leo Spira of Vienna, London, and New York, Dr. Charles A. Brusch of Massachusetts, who calls it "mass murder," Dr. Joe Nichols of Texas, Dr. C. H. Carpenter of California, Dr. George Waldbott of Michigan, and a number of others. All of these are M.D.'s, not statisticians or public health professors, and they have proved that fluorine and the fluorides, even in the minute quantities recommended for water fluoridation by the U.S. Public Health Service, cause a number of slow but deadly chronic diseases, chiefly of the elimination organs and the nervous system, and also hardening of the arteries. But the most vicious result of fluorine is cancer.

Dr. Alfred Taylor of the University of Texas proved that sodium fluoride water hastens the onset of cancer in predisposed mice. At Columbia University, it was proved to have the same accelerating effect on cancer in rats. The boichemist, Charles Eliot Perkins, obtained the same results in his laboratories in Washington and New York. And Dr. Howard Richardson, formerly Cancer Research Administrator at Oregon University, proved that in order to cause cancer in laboratory animals, it is necessary to have fluorine in their diet, in addition to using the cancer-producing agents, such as the carcinogenic chemicals or X-Rays. Don't forget, in spite of all the recent propaganda to make you think otherwise, X-Rays and radio-active substances still cause cancer, and the occupational diseases of X-Ray operators are still cancer and leukemia, which is considered to be cancer of the blood.

The combination of fluoridated water and X-Rays is deadly. Fluorine acts as a catalyst in the cancer process, making the cells susceptible to the action of cancer-producing or carcinogenic agents. It produces a chronic calcium deficiency, and calcium deficiency is always associated with cancer patients. It interferes with the enzymes and reduces the respiration of the cells, and this is also a characteristic of cancer. But the most conclusive proof is simply the tremendous increase in cancer deaths, even among children, in fluoridated cities. Grand Rapids, Michigan, was the first city fluoridated - in 1945. In the first four years, deaths from cancer increased 40%, while the population increased less than 8%. At the same time, deaths from kidney diseases increased 50%, intra-cranial lesions, 50%, and heart disease 100%. However, these increases were also caused by cancer, as the Bureau of Vital Statistics happens to be a part of the U.S. Public Health Service, which is also in charge of the nation's vital statistics, and it has been concealing cancer deaths in Grand Rapids by placing them in these other classifications. Right here in these Committee hearings, the U.S. Public Health Service doctors, Dr. Nicholas Leone, Dr. Isadore Zipkin, and Dr. Knutson, admitted that a number of cancer deaths have been classified as intracranial lesions instead of being shown as cancer. It seems that they have now switched to an anotomical classification in which cancer of the stomach, for instance, is grouped with other stomach diseases and not shown as cancer at all. Exactly what they are placing in the cancer classification, no one knows. As long as the U.S. Public Health Service, with it's Russian born doctors, is in control of our nation's vital statistics and is falsifying them, we will never be able to find out the exact number of persons being killed by fluoridation.

MR. COURTNEY: I'm sure this must be astounding information to most of the citizens of New Orleans who know nothing about water fluoridation. But isn't it possible that the promoters might not realize that it's harmful?

MR. INDEST: I wish I could answer yes, but I can't. They are familiar with all the data I have given you. They know all about the cancer experiments. And they certainly know what's going on in Grand Rapids, as they are the ones hiding the cancer deaths. There's only one conclusion, and it's obvious. Furthermore, in all their testimony in these Committee hearings, the fluoridators continually avoid the use of the word "calcium." They write long, supposedly scientific papers pretending to explain the action of fluorine on the human body, without once using the word calcium, which is just plain silly. You can't discuss fluorine without discussing calcium, as almost all of fluorine's effects on the body are produced by it's combinati with calcium. Every medical student knows that. It appears in almost every textbook and reference book on toxicology and metabolism. But you see, the conspirators must hide this relationship between fluorine and calcium as it immediately gives away the difference between the naturally fluoridated waters which contain calcium, and the artificial sodium fluoride waters that do not, and the fluoridators have based all their arguments on the assumption that there is no difference. In other words, they are deliberately hiding the one word that proves that the artificial sodium fluoride waters are harmful and that their million dollar statistics on naturally fluoridated areas are meaningless. Of course, they know. It's like catching someone destroying evidence. Of course, at the local level, there are a lot of decent people and professional men who have been fooled by the false statistics and are merely dupes; but the man at the top, the U.S. Public Health Service doctors, the Association of State and Territorial Health Officers, and the local men who have had these things pointed out to them but still insist on fluoridation, must know exactly what they are doing.

MR. COURTNEY: But what is behind all this? Why are they trying to force fluoridation on us when they know that it's harmful?

MR. INDEST: There is only one possible explanation. There are entirely too many involved to have commercial motives. There aren't that many persons in the world who would harm others just to make money, or to promote socialized medicine, or to extend the empire of a government bureau such as the U.S. Public Health Service. We might as well face the facts. This is obviously a part of the Communist conspiracy to destroy our military manpower so that we will not be able to raise an adequate army and navy when the need arises. Now, I am not the first to say this. Dr. Joe Nichols, an M.D. from Texas who is thoroughly familiar with fluoridation and was then president of his medical association, said the same thing on a nation-wide TV program two years ago. He said it again, later, in Shreveport, and he was quoted by the Shreveport Journal. Major George Wacey Jordan of the Air Force branded fluoridation a Communist plot last year in a speech at Washington, and he should know as he was a lend-lease officer in the last war, and it was his job to ship tons of sodium fluoride to Russia to be used in the drinking water in their prison camps where they said they were experimenting with it. The experiments must have been successful, as it was placed in Grand Rapids' water later.

A San Francisco woman was actually told by Communist party members about the fluoridation plot. And Princess Ileana of Rumania stated in her book that the Communist official Ann Pauker told her that part of the Communist plan to take over this country is by poisoning the water supplies. The Communists have always been expert in medical warfare and they are using it right here in this country, now. Fluoridation is undoubtedly the boldest, most successful, and best concealed Communist operation in this country. It's almost incredible, but then the biggest lies are always the most successful.

MR. COURTNEY: But wouldn't the fluoridated water cause harm to the conspirators and their families, too?

MR. INDEST: No. They buy bottled water - there are thousands of gallons sold in fluoridated cities. The water can also be treated and the fluorine neutralized with calcium, magnesium, or other substances. And, in a pinch, they can drink the water, provided they also dose themselves with calcium.

MR. COURTNEY: Mr. Indest, you used the words "a part of the Communist conspiracy." Is there evidence that other methods of medical warfare are also being attempted in this country?

MR. INDEST: Yes, there is. And once you know about fluoridation, the others aren't hard to spot. Dr. Frederick Exner has recommended a thorough investigation of the many strange things now going on in several so-called "public health" fields, including polio, cancer, and tuberculosis. For instance, the Association of State and Territorial Health Officers, to which certain employees of the boards of health in various states belong, and who also receive money from the U.S. Public Health Service, is pushing fluoridation vigorously, although it knows that it's harmful. I have a copy of the minutes of one of their minutes in which it was admitted that they have no answer to the argument that sodium fluoride is poisonous. And it so happens that this same organization, the Association of State and Territorial Health Officers, is not only the group in charge of giving the polio injections to our school children next month, but they are also making the administrative decisions. In other words, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis is just the money-raising end of the operation, and the people who are really running it are the same ones who are in the fluoridation conspiracy. That's enough to arouse suspicion right there, but look at what they are doing.

Four hundred thousand children were inoculated last year on the excuse that it was necessary to find out if the Salk vaccine is safe and effective. Four hundred thousand parents signed agreements that the doctors would not be responsible if their children died. But now, before getting the results of those last year's tests, they have already bought nine million dollars of the vaccine to inoculate nine million children this year. Why, they could never justify throwing away nine million dollars if the test results should show it is unsafe or ineffective. Do they know in advance what those test results are going to be? And, yet, they have no possible way of knowing it unless they are going to be falsified.

Most parents don't realize that the school children of today represent our army and navy ten years from now. If millions of them could be inoculated, let's say with radioactive substances that will cause cancer to develop in a few years, why ten years from now the Communists could just walk in and take over our nation of old men. Of course, if such an attempt were made on our children, nothing could be proved until after it had been done, and it would then be too late, so it is only common sense to keep your children away from the polio shots, especially when you know that they are being administered by the same men who are so eager to put cancer-producing chemicals in your water. Deal with your own personal physician only, and stay away from all the injections and X-Rays of the Public Health Service and the private foundations and associations. These big, money-raising, health associations have no official standing whatsoever. They are private organizations and are not connected with the medical societies or the government. No one knows the men behind them - all we ever hear are the names of a few movie stars raising money for them. It's almost incredible that decent, civic-minded people will beg money for organizations they know nothing about.

MR. COURTNEY: But haven't the professors at Universities taken an active part in some of these activities, and endorsed them?

MR. INDEST: Yes, and that has impressed a great many persons who do not know two things: first, several years ago the Un-American Activities Committee found that 3,000 faculty members at 600 universities had a combined membership of 26,000 in Communist front organizations; and second, the U.S. Public Health Service makes huge grants to the universities to control research. One local university receives as much as $400,000.00 in one year. You could hardly expect anyone connected with it to oppose anything endorsed by the Public Health Service.

MR. COURTNEY: Most of these activities seem to center around cancer. Just what is going on in that field?

MR. INDEST: Well, another of the private health associations is the American Cancer Society, which is endorsing fluoridation in spite of the evidence, and has given to a Congressional Committee, as proof that sodium fluoride does not accellerate cancer, a reference to an experiment that was not even done with sodium fluoride, when you actually look it up. It is now busy injecting people with arsenic and radio-active substances to "diagnose" cancer, and urging everyone to have frequent X-Rays, although it's president admitted to a Congressional Committee two years ago that these things are known to cause cancer. In some parts of the country, medical men are already joining together in organizations such as the American Association for Medico-Physical Research, to fight against the control of cancer research that is preventing investigation of so many promising possibilities. Men like Dr. S. Edgar Bond and Dr. Charles T. Betts are doing excellent work in this rebellion against some of the ridiculous things that are going on in the field of cancer, but it isn't easy to fight against the millions of dollars of public contributions to the American Cancer Society. You know, there is practically no cancer in Russia. They must know how to prevent it there - and how to cause it here.

MR. COURTNEY: Thank you, Mr. Indest. I'm certain that the people of New Orleans appreciate the important and interesting information you have given them.

PARENTS [illegible] F POLIO SHOTS - RUSSIA[illegible] S ARE INVOLVED

New Orleans, La., January 23. On the FREE MEN SPEAK telecast over WJMR-TV tonight, George Indest, Jr., nationally known authority on flouridation of water supplies, warned that the March of Dimes-Salk polio vaccine will be administered to nine million school children by the same Association of State and Territorial Health Officers that is knowingly conspiring with the U.S. Public Health Service in the flouridation-cancer plot.

He pointed out that there are so many Russian-born doctors and dentists in our Public Health Service and in state health offices that it has been commented on in the Congressional Record; and that the U.S.P.H.S. and Surgeon General belong to the World Health Organization, " a sort of medical United Nations to which Russia also belongs". He stated that "in some countries, the public might become a little alarmed to find Russian doctors pouring rat poison in the public water supplies."

Many medical authorities were cited to prove that flouridation causes several deadly diseases, principally cancer. Using flouridation promoters' own testimony in the Congressional hearing, Indest proved that they themselves know it is harmful,and that the U.S. Public Health Service is falsifying the nation's vital statistics records of which it is in charge, to hide cancer death in flouridation cities.

He also called attention to the testimony of Dr. Fred B. Exner of Seattle, an opponent of flouridation, who showed that the U.S.P.H.S. had deliberately falsified its data statistics, and experiments, and who proved that the flouridation witnesses had perjured themselves. Dr. Exner has asked for a thorough investigation of polio, cancer, and flouridation activities. The charge that the flouridation is a Communist operation has been made by several others, including Dr. Joe Nichols, a prominent Texas M.D., and Major George Racey Jordan who shipped sodium flouride to Russia on lend-lease.

Parents were warned to keep their children away from the Salk polio shots as they are being given by the same Association of State and Territorial Health Officers that is so eager to put cancer producing chemicals in the public water supplies. The A.S.T.H.S. funds and vigorously promotes the flouridation scheme at the local level. "Most parents don't realize that the school children of today represent our Army and Navy ten years from now. If millions of them can be innoculated, let's say with radioactive substances that will cause cancer in a few years, why ten years from now the Communists could walk in and take over our nation of old men."

Ike Plans Purge Of GOP Conservatives

Doubtless you noted during the Presidential Campaign the pointed omission of the word "Republican Party." It was "Eisenhower - this" and "Eisenhower - that," but the PARTY which Mr. Eisenhower purports to represent was mentioned only as an after-thought. For example, in the State of Louisiana, there were highway billboard signs which read: "VOTE FOR THE MAN...EISENHOWER." Nowhere on the sign did the name Republican Party appear.

WHY THE EISENHOWER LANDSLIDE?

As the majority of columnists and commentators have agreed, the Eisenhower landslide was due more to the panic Americans felt at turning the country over to an inept, blundering candidate like Stevenson (particularly after his "ban-the-H-Bomb" speeches during the Middle East CRISIS) than to the power of the Eisenhower Party.

The presidential election of 1956 was not the citizenry choosing between two different political philosophies but instead it degenerated into a "popularity contest" between two men, and their publicity men.

THE DEATH OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY

Some time ago Dean Clarence Manion said that the election of 1956 would decide which party would die. It is now clear that the death sentence has been passed on the Republican Party.

Possibly one of the most revealing articles that was ever written about Eisenhower was the one in COLLIER's of October 26, 1956. In that article by Paul Hoffman, devoted friend of Mr. Eisenhower, we find this amazing statement by Mr. Eisenhower: "If I ever do run again (he was referring to the 1956 election) it'll be as an independent."

Do members of the Republican Party need any further proof of Mr. Eisenhower's intentions (as proven in the campaign) of casting himself free of the Republican Party?

Do not the members of the Republican Party realize by now that they were called upon to work for and support a MAN - NOT THE CANDIDATE OF THEIR PARTY?

The article in COLLIER's is of such importance because it is a blueprint for the complete destruction of the Republican Party.

THE "MANDATE" TO "PURGE"

And so, knowing Eisenhower's predilection to DESTROY THE REPUBLICAN PARTY, it is not too difficult to see where the "ax will fall."

THE CIVIL RIGHTS BILL ... A MARXIST TOOL

By Jonnie Ward

The issue of Civil Rights makes an appeal to every American who has a true sense of fair play, as the term seems to indicate a noble intention. Political candidates who have detected the phony issues and speak out against such issues, can be defeated by a landslide of propaganda, as voters, impressed by the title, firmly believe it has a humanitarian purpose.

Even though millions of good people are impressed by the high-sounding phrase "civil rights" and work for good race relations, the fact remains that Civil Rights issues, race prejudice and discrimination are weapons of the Marxists. It is through this medium that race agitation, and class hatred are inspired to the point of open violence. When such a degree of animosity has been created, then pressure is brought to bear for stringent laws to curb the freedom of all the people.

To gain a greater knowledge of the proposed Civil Rights legislation that may become the law of the land when Congress convenes in January, it might be well to know what various Congressmen said regarding it. We quote the words of Rep. Rains, pg. 12335, Congressional Record.

Speaking on the floor of the House of Representatives, Congressman Rains said, "If the American people, individually, knew what this bill proposes, that it threatens and endangers the rights of all people, this legislation would not be here in the chamber for debate. It is sold under the guise that it is to protect a downtrodden race. Nothing could be farther from the truth. If it is enacted it will solve no problem, and will divide, confuse, disgust and frustrate the people of this country in all sections of the land."

Lauded as a measure to protect against civil rights violations, H. R. 627 proposes to set up a Gestapo-like agency that can reach from Washington into your voting precinct with powers to meddle, snoop, prowl and summon by hearsay or rumor. The proponents of this pending legislation declare that the civil rights violations are unending in the U.S.A. Lest one accept this phony declaration without question, let us look at the figures in the Congressional Record.

In 1940, there were 6,000 complaints of civil rights violations and after investigators "goose-chased" all over the nation, only 12 cases had sufficient facts to attempt prosecutions; 1942 saw 8,612 claims with recommendations for 75 prosecutions and NO RECORD of convictions; 1944 had 20,000 claims with facts sufficient for attempted prosecutions of 64; 1947 had 13,000 civil rights complaints with sufficient facts to prosecute 12 and only 4 convictions. One may therefore assume that most of these claims were phony. Picture then, the number of phony claims that could result from the Federal Government PAYING ALL EXPENSES OF THE PLAINTIFFS, as outlined in the Civil Rights bill!

Would it not be possible under such a set-up for an organized group to gain control of every influential position in a city,

Mr. Hoffman says: "There are, to be sure areas where the old guard still retain control - states like Indiana where the valiant Governor Craig has been unable to shake the grip of Senator William Jenner on the state machine, states like Wisconsin where Joe McCarthy, backed by the old guard, is still powerful. But by and large, the nature of the party in 1956 is almost totally different from what it was in 1952 - either in personalities, or in the philosophy of Republican stalwarts who have come to accept Eisenhower's leadership wholeheartedly."

This means in plain and simple language that the BIG GUNS (meaning big money) will be brought to bear on Senators McCarthy and Jenner when they both come up for re-election in 1958.

Remembering that that valiant American, Gov. J. Bracken Lee was defeated when ASSAILED BY UNLIMITED FUNDS FROM THE EAST, it is easy to see that the SAME TECHNIQUE WILL BE USED AGAINST McCARTHY AND JENNER, and any other Conservative who dares to speak out for America and against

"FREE MEN SPEAK" and the NEW PARTY

On September 30, 1956 the first meeting of Americans in favor of the establishment of a NEW PARTY took place in Indianapolis Ind. At that time the NATIONAL COMMITTEE FOR A NEW PARTY was established and George B. Fowler, of Mass., was named Chairman of the Committee.

Because FREE MEN SPEAK has been advocating for years the formation of a NEW PARTY based on Constitutional States Rights principles, and because Kent Courtney, Editor of FREE MEN SPEAK, was named Executive Secretary of the NATIONAL COMMITTEE FOR A NEW PARTY, people would be well to clarify the position of FREE MEN SPEAK in relation to the NATIONAL COMMITTEE FOR A NEW PARTY.

FREE MEN SPEAK has been, and will continue to be entirely free from any direct association with any group. We operate completely in the necessity for the establishment of a NEW PARTY, but this does not mean that FREE MEN SPEAK, as the official publication of the NEW PARTY, or of any other group.

This newspaper, in order to serve the patriots of America, must maintain complete independence in its editorial policy.

The editorial policy of FREE MEN SPEAK is not that of THE NEW PARTY MOVEMENT and all other sincere patriotic and political action activities that will help to alert America to the dangers of total Socialism.

And in maintaining this editorial policy we believe it is our prerogative to offer from time to time our views and recommendations as to how best a NEW PARTY can be established in the United States. We invite our readers to do likewise.

Therefore, we offer the following recommendations: George B. Fowler, Chairman of the NATIONAL COMMITTEE FOR A NEW PARTY and to the Committee as a whole

GOP Woman Leader Resigns To Work For New Party

Newcastle, Maine, November 7 (Special) - Mrs. Margot K. Lee today resigned as President of the Lincoln County (Maine) Women's Republican Club because she said she could no longer "continue as an active worker for a party which, to my belief, has ceased to be Republican in ideology." Mrs. Lee will devote her full efforts now to the formation of the NEW PARTY.

Below is the full text of Mrs. Lee's resignation which was addressed to Mrs. Bartlett Zahn, Recording Secretary, Lincoln County Women's Republican Club, Newcastle, Maine.

"Herewith written confirmation of my oral notification to you of my resignation as president of the Lincoln County Women's Republican Club.

"I have devoted much time and effort to create an active club as evidenced by its well attended monthly meetings during the past year.

"I can not with a clear conscience however continue as an active worker for a party which, to my belief, has ceased to be Republican in ideology.

"The new Eisenhower party offers scant inspiration to an orthodox Republican of conservative ideals.

"My future political efforts will therefore be devoted to the formation of a third party, which seeks to align the non-captive voters in their patriotic battle to restore Constitutional and representative government by and for a free electorate."

Sincerely,

Mrs. Margot K. Lee

The proposed organization was dreamed up by one Hans W. Singer, a special UN economic adviser, a British subject, and a great admirer of Soviet Russia.

If it comes into being as outlined by Singer, SUNFED will set up a 10-year, $50,000,000,000 program for helping underdeveloped nations and areas improve themselves economically. Of this enormous sum, the United States will have to contribute 70%—$35,000,000,000. That will come to $3,500,000,000 a year out of the blood, sweat and toil of the U. S. taxpayer. It would be in proportion to our contributions to the other UN activities we bankroll directly and indirectly.

"It will be a heavy burden on U. S. taxpayers," Singer has cheerily admitted in a speech to a UN study group of American women, "but you'll just have to manage that. You'll get accustomed to paying the taxes. After all, American taxpayers paid $65 billion for the war, and can be led to spend the same for SUNFED."

The other and worse half of this story is that SUNFED would deal out these huge sums as it's controlling bureaucrats pleased, and the United States would have no say about which nations got the money.

Among the UN bureaucrats who would take part in dishing out the money would be Singer himself, the Polish Communist W. R. Malinowski, and the British Socialist David A. D. K. Owen. Singer, incidentally, is a great friend of Gunnar Myrdal, another UN economist chiefly notorious for his hatred of the U. S. economic system.

Big Money For Reds

With characters like these in charge, you can have one guess as to where billions of your tax money would go. They would go to help shore up Communist, Socialist and semi-Socialist countries around the world—while Communists everywhere exulted in the spectacle of Capitalist Uncle Sam bleeding himself to keep Marxism alive, fat and sassy.

This plan to milk the United States for another $35,000,000,000 deserves the condemnation, we think, of all real Americans.

IKE'S BROWNELL DECLARES STATES' LAWS "DEAD LETTER"

BROWNELL EDICT MENACES ALL AMERICANS

On November 19 an edict was issued by Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell summoning Federal prosecutors in 16 Southern States to a Washington conference on how to carry out the Supreme Court decree against racial segregation on buses. (Note. The question is NOT segregation as the Eisenhower Party would have you believe. Segregation is the "crutch" only. Don't be misled. See other articles in this issue regarding "CIVIL RIGHTS".)

STATE LAWS ARE NOW TO BE REGARDED AS A "DEAD LETTER"

Atty. Gen. Brownell told the district attorneys to bring with them copies of state or local laws relating to racial segregation. He said the Nov. 13 court decision makes it clear "that any such law, statute, ordinance or regulation must be regarded as a dead letter."

State laws "must be regarded as a dead letter?" If Mr. Brownell's statement means what it says then THE "POLICE STATE ARM" OF THE SUPREME COURT (i.e. Herbert Brownell) CAN NOW BY ONE PRONOUNCEMENT COMPLETELY NULLIFY ANY AND ALL STATE LAWS! If this assumption is carried to its logical conclusion then state Legislatures are a complete waste of time and the "taxpayers" money. If their laws are to be considered a "dead letter," as Mr. Brownell says, then FEDERAL DICTATORSHIP IS ALREADY HERE!

And Brownell continues. "Anyone who commands, induces procures, counsels, aids or abets the carrier in the commission of such crime is equally guilty of a crime against the United States."

(Be it remembered that this particular decision of the Supreme Court relates not to the school integration problem but to the question of segregation on city buses.)

"A CRIME AGAINST THE UNITED STATES"

Brownell's use of the phrase "a crime against the United States" is indeed terrifying. Was that its purpose? To most Americans the phrase "crime against the United States" means treason. The U. S. Constitution says (Article 3, Section 3, C., 1 "Treason against the United States shall consist only in levying war against them, or in adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort."

Treason is indeed a crime, but how can a bus company, privately owned, be accused of a "crime against the United States" simply because that company fails to comply with a decision of the Supreme Court which based its decision on the writings of a Swedish Socialist who believes that the Constitution is outmoded?

Since when can NINE MEN AND THE ATTORNEY GENERAL ACCUSE ANY CITIZEN OF THE UNITED STATES OF "A CRIME AGAINST THE UNITED STATES" when that citizen merely abides by Amendment X of the U. S. Constitution?

It is indeed diabolically clever of the Eisenhower Party to An Editorial ...

"FREE MEN SPEAK" and the NEW PARTY

On September 20, 1956 the first meeting of Americans in favor of the establishment of a NEW PARTY took place in Indianapolis, Ind. At that time the NATIONAL COMMITTEE FOR A NEW PARTY was established and George B. Fowler, of Holyoke Mass., was named Chairman of the Committee.

Because FREE MEN SPEAK has been advocating since July 1955 the formation of a NEW PARTY based on Constitutional States Rights principles, and because Kent Courtney, publisher of FREE MEN SPEAK was named Executive Secretary of the NATIONAL COMMITTEE FOR A NEW PARTY, perhaps it would be well to clarify the position of FREE MEN SPEAK in relation to the NATIONAL COMMITTEE FOR A NEW PARTY.

FREE MEN SPEAK has been, and will continue to remain free from any direct association with any group. We believe completely in the necessity for the establishment of a NEW PARTY, but this does not mean that FREE MEN SPEAK is the official publication of the NEW PARTY, or of any other group.

This newspaper, in order to serve the patriots of America must maintain complete independence in its editorial policy.

The editorial policy of FREE MEN SPEAK is to SUPPORT THE NEW PARTY MOVEMENT and all other sincere patriotic and political action activities that will help to alert Americans to the dangers of total Socialism.

And in maintaining this editorial policy we believe it is within our prerogative to offer from time to time our views and recommendations as to how best a NEW PARTY can be permanently established in the United States. We invite our readers to do likewise.

Therefore, we offer the following recommendations to Mr. George B. Fowler, Chairman of the NATIONAL COMMITTEE FOR A NEW PARTY and to the Committee as a whole:

(1) A FIRM FOUNDATION IS NECESSARY.

STATES' LAWS "DEAD LETTER"
BROWNELL EDICT MENACES ALL AMERICANS

On November 19 an edict was issued by Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell instructing Federal prosecutors in 14 Southern States to a Washington conference on how to carry out the Supreme Court decree against racial segregation on buses. (Note: The question is NOT segregation as the Eisenhower Party would have you believe. Segregation is the "crutch" only. Don't be misled. See other articles in this issue regarding "Civil Rights".)

STATE LAWS ARE NOW TO BE REGARDED AS A "DEAD LETTER"

Atty. Gen. Brownell told the district attorneys to bring with them copies of state or local laws relating to racial segregation. He said the Nov. 13 court decision makes it clear "that any such law, statute, ordinance or regulation must be regarded as a dead letter."

State laws must be regarded as a dead letter?" If Mr. Brownell's statement means what it says then THE "POLICE STATE ARM" OF THE SUPREME COURT (i.e. Herbert Brownell) CAN NOW DECLARE PRONOUNCEMENT COMPLETELY NULLIFY ANY AND ALL STATE LAWS. If this assumption is carried to its logical conclusion then State Legislatures are a complete [illegible] and the taxpayers money. If their laws are to be considered a "dead letter," as Mr. Brownell says, then FEDERAL DICTATORSHIP IS ALREADY HERE!

And Brownell continues: "Anyone who commands, induces procures, counsels, aids or abets the carrier in the commission of such crime is equally guilty of a crime against the United States."

(Be it remembered that this particular decision of the Supreme Court relates not to the school integration problem but to the question of segregation on city buses.)

"A CRIME AGAINST THE UNITED STATES"

Brownell's use of the phrase "a crime against the United States" is indeed terrifying. Was that its purpose? To most Americans the phrase "crime against the United States" means treason. The U. S. Constitution says (Article 3, Section 3, C. 1 "Treason against the United States shall consist only in levying war against them or in adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort."

Treason is indeed a crime, but how can a bus company, privately owned, be accused of a "crime against the United States" simply because that company fails to comply with a decision of the Supreme Court which based its decision on the writings of a Swedish Socialist who believes that the Constitution is outmoded?

Since when can NINE MEN AND THE ATTORNEY GENERAL ACCUSE ANY CITIZEN OF THE UNITED STATES OF "A CRIME AGAINST THE UNITED STATES" when that citizen merely abides by Amendment X of the U. S. Constitution?

It is indeed diabolically clever of the Eisenhower Party to wait until the let-down that occurs after an election to surreptitiously issue an infamous edict.

If this EDICT of "Police Altitude" Brownell is allowed to stand, it means that AMERICA IS NOW RULED BY THE SUPREME COURT AND MR. HERBERT BROWNELL!

TRIAL RUN TO DESTROY THE CONSTITUTION

Although we dealt first with the last phrase of Mr. Brownell's statement regarding "crime against the United States," let us

Farmers Organize To Fight Soviet-Style Regimentation

By J. Evetts Haley, Jr.

(An excerpt from THE DAN SMOOT REPORT)

"Being a loyal American citizen and believing it is my solemn duty to protect our Constitution and Bill of Rights from all its enemies both within and outside of my country, and understanding that many of the regulations of the A.A.A. (Agriculture Adjustment Act) and the subsequent A.S.C. (Agricultural Stabilization Committee) farm programs were originally conceived by men now known to have been Communists, and believing that all government subsidies and controls on agriculture or any other business are unconstitutional and socialistic, hence un-American.

"I do hereby promise not to apply for nor accept any kind of subsidies or direction from the government in my farm program, and will...make every effort to prevent A.S.C. representatives from entering my property for any purpose."

The above is a pledge required of every farmer who becomes a member of the National Federation of Independent Farm Organizations.

The NFIFO was organized in the mid-west this month. It is a federation of several independent farmers' organizations made up of farmers who simply want the federal government to leave them alone. They don't want any handouts from the federal treasury, and they don't want federal agents telling them how to run their farms.

They are aware that the federal government's agricultural programs (ever since the original A.A.A. scheme was enacted into law in the 1930's) have been sold to the public with false arguments about helping the farmers - particularly the little farmers.

Actually, however, the programs have been a vast swindle against the whole American people. They have poured millions of American tax dollars into the coffers of big farming syndicates and agricultural-industrial combines; and they have just about destroyed farming as a proud, honest, independent occupation for free American citizens.

The independent farmers are learning that it is a crime for a farmer not to take handouts from the federal government.

Last year, for example, 14,000 farmers were fined eight million, five hundred thousand dollars for refusing to let the federal government dictate and subsidize their farming operations. There are more than 1400 such cases pending against farmers, and more accumulating every day. More will continue to accumulate until an aroused public opinion comes to the aid of the independent American farmers who are fighting a lonely, one-sided struggle for freedom. They are not fighting for "farm benefits." They are fighting for a restoration of American constitutional government so that all Americans will once again be free to use their God-given brains, and brawn, and energies to manage their own lives and work out their own destiny under God.

Anyone interested in further particulars on the National Federation of Independent Farm Organizations write directly to the president, Mr. John G. Woods Rural Route No. 1, Lucas, Ohio. Mr. James Mannix, Rural Route No.5, Greenville, Ohio is vice president of NFIFO.

OUR POLICY

This newspaper is dedicated to the defeat of Socialist and Communist influences that now pervade the thinking and the policies of our Federal government and the two major political parties. We believe that there is no difference between a New Deal Democrat and a Socialist-Internationalist Republican.

This newspaper will continue to promote all individuals and organizations who believe that a new political party based on Constitutional States Rights is the answer to the Socialism that has captured both (formerly great) parties.

We will never align ourselves with any person or group which preaches hatred. Instead we will conserve our energy for the fight against atheistic Communism, and we pledge ourselves to LOVE OF GOD AND AN INDEPENDENT U.S.A.

OUR THANKS

Because patriotism is not a business all those who contribute material or articles to this paper do so on a voluntary basis. Because we are political and "controversial" we have no advertising income. We therefore thank all of our readers who send donations every week so that more and more sample copies can be sent to patriots throughout the country. Without this regular support, this experiment in patriotic and political journalism would not be possible.

F. M. S. and The New Party

its grip ever more strongly each day on the United States will agree that this force is a mighty one indeed. Therefore, a mighty force must be organized to combat it. We feel that such a force can be most effective through a NEW POLITICAL PARTY. However, let us not make the mistake of rushing into battle undermanned and unprepared. In 1856 the Republican Party ran a candidate for the Presidency, John C. Fremont, with the object of establishing itself as a political party. Even though Fremont was defeated in 1856 as was T. Coleman Andrews in 1956, nevertheless from this small beginning in 1856, the infant Republican Party was able through 4 years of hard organizational work, to weld together the various like minded factions in order to make a powerful frontal attack in 1860 and capture the presidency with the election of Abraham Lincoln.

Let us be sure that as we build we build firmly and on proven organizational principles.

At Indianapolis on September 30, 1956 a resolution was passed by the NATIONAL COMMITTEE FOR A NEW PARTY stating that the meeting would reconvene not later than January 15, 1957 for the purpose of holding a Founding Convention and to select the permanent name for the new party.

FREE MEN SPEAK feels in retrospect, that perhaps this was a hasty resolution due in part to the frustration felt by all present at the meeting, which frustration was generated by the fact that the American people were faced in a Election year with a choice between two Socialist candidates, one running on the Democrat ticket and the other on the Republican ticket. And the urge to do SOMETHING was very strong.

Now that the election is over, and those who worked so valiantly on behalf of the Andrews-Wendel ticket in many States, have had time to think, we believe that all will agree that THE BUILDING OF A NEW POLITICAL PARTY WILL TAKE MUCH TIME AND PLANNING ....and further, and most vitally important, WE MUST START NOW - TODAY!

THEREFORE WE RECOMMEND that the Founding Convention of the NEW PARTY be postponed for several months, until vital ground work can be done at the "grass roots."

(2) GROUNDWORK IS NECESSARY

Lest anyone think that FREE MEN SPEAK cautions delay, let him think of the disaster that can be caused by being unprepared.

FREE MEN SPEAK is convinced of the NEED for a new party. We are also convinced of the SUPPORT for a new party, as witness the upwards of one-third million people who went to the polls, and although faced with the terrifying prospect of "Ban the H-bomb" Stevenson nevertheless had the courage to vote their convictions and voted for the new party, either Andrews-Wendel or Harry Byrd (depending on the way the State party was set up).

This does not count the hundreds of thousands of "write-in" ballots that were thrown out or not counted by unscrupulous election officials!

And so, we have the NEED and we have the VOTER SUPPORT. Now we need the groundwork.

(3) CITY AND STATE GROUPS MUST ORGANIZE

If the NEW PARTY had been organized on a precinct level with poll watchers, for instance, all "write-in" votes in States where such were legal, would have been counted and would have been in the official tally. This did not occur. Why? BECAUSE THE NEW PARTY IS NOT YET ORGANIZED AT THE PRECINCT LEVEL.

And how can city and state groups be organized? FREE MEN SPEAK suggests that this could be done by state or regional meetings of interested persons. And, we might add, this is not too difficult, insofar as each day F.M.S. receives letters from people in various states expressing their interest in the New Party.

This vital groundwork must be done by States and regions, important in reaching the potential leaders of a political movement. BUT TO REALLY EDUCATE THE VOTERS WE CONSERVATIVES MUST RUN HUNDREDS AND THOUSANDS OF CANDIDATES FOR LOCAL, STATE, AND NATIONAL POLITICAL OFFICE.

Candidates offering opposing views give the voter an opportunity to think about issues and to make a choice. This we believe, is the way to educate the American voter. And the ballot box is the report card as to how successful we can be in re-educating the voter.

FREE MEN SPEAK would suggest that the new party adopt a program which would prepare for the defeat of certain of the members of Congress who have been using the Socialism during the past twenty years. Congressmen who have been voting so that they have earned the questionable approval of the [illegible] Democratic Action should fall on the the backbone of the old Republican Party? Will they blindly follow Eisenhower for the sake of party unity, as Eisenhower leads the party further and further to the left? If not, then where will they go?

THERE IS ONLY ONE ANSWER

That answer is the NEW POLITICAL PARTY which is dedicated to Constitutional States Rights. A party that will stand on ISSUES, and LET THE AMERICAN PEOPLE BE THE JUDGE... LET THE AMERICAN PEOPLE CHOOSE BETWEEN TWO DIFFERENT CLEAR-CUT POLITICAL PHILOSOPHIES.

The NEW PARTY is now being formed. The first meeting was held in Indianapolis on September 29-30. The second meeting was held in Washington, D. C. on November 24-25.

The time to join the New Party is NOW!

NATIONAL COMMITTEE FOR A NEW PARTY MEETS

Washington, D.C. (Special) - On November 24-25 a meeting was held of the National Committee for a New Party at the Carlton Hotel, according to an announcement by George B. Fowler, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the N.C.N.P.

Nineteen states were present or were represented by proxy. Representatives from groups in three states made an appearance before the Executive Committee to report on their activities and to hear the progress reports of the N.C.N.P.

Oliver Peiselbeck of the New Jersey Conservative Party was named chairman of a three man special committee to prepare a Progress Report which will be used to inform other groups the official position of the new party movement. Robert B. Taft of Illinois and Kent Courtney of Louisiana are the other members of this committee.

Fowler reported that a Statement of Policy regarding affiliation requirements for state parties was adopted. Rules of procedure with regard to committee work took up parts of the two-day meeting.

"We have assigned areas of responsibility to various members of the committee so that our organization will function in a business-like manner," Fowler stated.

The Executive Committee also adopted a resolution to set up various advisory committees such as Immigration, Foreign Trade and Tariffs, Health and Medicine, Agribusiness, National and Civil Defense, Education, Taxation, and others may be authorized as needed, according to the Executive Secretary of the N.C.N.P., Kent Courtney.

Organization of additional state parties will proceed as quickly as possible and another meeting is planned by the National Committee for some time in February, according to Fowler.

McCARTHY SCORES IKE'S AID TO REDS

Washington, D. C. (Special)

Recent events in Eastern Europe show that we must begin American aid to anti-Communist elements in the satellite countries, and halt all aid to Communist regimes such as the Tito government in Yugoslavia.

The uprisings in Poland and Hungary are eloquent proof that the spirit of freedom still lives in the Communist world and that the captive peoples are determined to throw off their chains. We must give all possible assistance to the gallant efforts of the Polish and Hungarian people to rid their countries of their Communist oppressors.

At the same time we must halt aid to Tito. It certainly makes no sense to send arms and economic aid to Tito while we fail to send arms to anti-Communists in Hungary and Poland. It is true that we did cut off the shipment of a proposed 360 jet planes to Yugoslavia, but we are still sending the smaller weapons to them. Last June I introduced legislation to stop all aid to Tito on the two-fold grounds that it is immoral to subsidize the Communist enslavement of Yugoslavia and that Tito is a self-proclaimed partner of the Soviet Union in the Communist conspiracy to conquer the world. The Senate defeated that legislation by a 48 to 36 vote - a very grave mistake. Just the other day, Tito gave his approval to the Kadar government in Hungary, which is currently presiding over the Soviet massacre and deportation of Hungarian patriots. Here is additional proof that Tito is playing the bloody Soviet game, and an additional reason why Tito should not be subsidized by the American taxpayer.

The Congress at the last session gave President Eisenhower the power to stop this aid to Yugoslavia. Why has he not done so?

"... He held his place -
Held the long purpose like a growing tree
Held on through blame and faint applause;
And when he fell in whirlwind, he went down
As when a lordly cedar goes with boughs
Goes down with a great shout upon the hills
And leaves a lonesome place against the sky."

FACTS FORUM is no more. One moment the editorial staff was working full speed ahead on the January issue with that growing keenness of activity which usually signified that a good issue was in the making. And the next moment - at 5:00 p.m., Friday, November 2, to be exact - we were called together in the editor's office, and told that operations were to cease on November 15.

There was weeping up and down the halls as employees were given their final checks and the weeping was not for jobs lost, but for the death of an association which we had all come to love.

As the printing-room operator put it, "It's just like someone you love had died."

The most pertinent question is probably "Why did FACTS FORUM close?" Mr. H. L. Hunt, Dallas oil man, was the founder of FACTS FORUM and its principal contributor, having spent over $3.5 million on its total operations, which included radio and television programs and the publication of FACTS FORUM NEWS. Expenses had been cut to the point that the magazine was operating at 25 percent of its one-time budget, while still - we felt - constantly improving.

Clearance had recently been given by the Post Office Department to include advertising in the magazine, and our first ads - totalling three pages made up of nine ads - were to appear in January.

Nevertheless, the Board of Directors determined that FACTS FORUM should close, and on November 29 Mr. Robert Pedrani, president of FACTS FORUM issued a press release stating that although the publication of FACTS FORUM NEWS and production of radio and television programs will not be resumed, that the FACTS FORUM foundation itself will go on, perhaps without the support of Mr. H. L. Hunt.

Had Mr. Hunt come to feel that the bipartisan basis on which FACTS FORUM was set up was ineffective? I do not believe so, for we were told at the finish that Mr. Hunt had felt that the magazine was better and better.

I do believe that, if the facts were known, the reasons for closing FACTS FORUM were carefully weighed and were decided inescapable.

Mr. Hunt, I was told, hopes that subscriptions would pass the 100,000 mark. If they did, FACTS FORUM NEWS might become a weekly. This vital groundwork must be done by States and regions, so that in the next four or five months when the Founding Convention of the New Party is held, all 48 states will be represented by delegations. And these delegations should be "working" delegations. They should represent ORGANIZED GROUPS IN THEIR LOCAL COMMUNITY, who being informed of the principles adopted by the National Committee for a New Party, subscribe to said principles.

THEREFORE, WE RECOMMEND to the National Committee for a New Party that only those delegates who represent organized groups in their own community be invited to participate in the policy-making decisions at the Founding Convention of the new party.

(4) COORDINATING PATRIOTIC GROUPS

All will agree that because of the control by the left-wing element of press, radio and TV, only a small portion of the American public knows the Socialist danger confronting this country.

There are thousands of dedicated patriots throughout America who have devoted untold hours and spent money that literally "took food out of their mouths" in order to purchase and pay postage on patriotic literature for distribution in order to awaken America. God bless them! It is they who have lit the spark.

FREE MEN SPEAK recommends to the officials of the new party movement that coordination of the efforts of many patriotic groups who wish to see their projects sponsored by the new party can bring untold strength to the movement. Therefore, it would seem that a primary step would be for the new party group to inform all patriotic organizations where the party stands with respect to the burning issues of our time. Once those thousands of patriotic groups are convinced that the new party is their only hope for accomplishing their mutual goals, then many leaders will step forward from these organizations to become personally active in the hard work of organizing the new party in their own County, Congressional district and State.

Candidates offering opposing views give the voter an opportunity to think about issues and to make a choice. That we believe, is the way to educate the American voter. And the ballot box is the report card as to how successful we are in re-educating the voter.

FREE MEN SPEAK would suggest that the new party adopt a program which would prepare for the defeat of certain of the members of Congress who have been voting as true Socialists during the past "twenty years." Congressmen who have been voting so that they have earned the questionable approval of the ADA (Americans for Democratic Action) should be on the top of the new party's list for removal. To get a list of those Senators and Representatives who have voted pro-ADA and anti-Conservative send $1.00 to Human Events, 1626 K Street NW Washington 6, D.C., and ask for the article by James L. Wilmuth, "Ninety-Six Senators Rated". Your dollar will get you ten copies which we recommend for distribution to all Congressional district leaders of the new party.

FREE MEN SPEAK, therefore recommends to the new party leaders that affiliation with the new party movement be based on the willingness of the state organization to run candidates against the Senators and Congressmen who now vote according to the pro-left wing wishes of the ADA and CIO-PAC.

THE NEW PARTY IS BEING OBSERVED

FREE MEN SPEAK has been reliably informed that persons of influence who can be called upon for serious financial support are watching these early struggles of the new party, and are hopefully expectant that the leadership will prove itself worthy of trust and confidence. In addition they are waiting for an outline of specific projects which will be carefully planned and previously carried out.

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

We have a tremendous job to do. The C. S. Mantle's always have enough volunteers to do the jobs they are called upon to perform. Some from volunteers are needed now for the new party movements. The national organization has been set up. The new party is growing. What can you do in your town, in your ward, in your county, in your precinct?

One more war crisis and this great country of ours may be forced into a one-party coalition government out of which we might never escape. To keep our two-party system of checks and balances we need a new political party now. Will you be a volunteer?

together in the editor's office, and told that operations were to cease on November 15.

There was weeping up and down the halls as employees were given their final checks and the weeping was not for jobs lost, but for the death of an association which we had all come to love.

As the printing-room operator put it, "It's just like someone you love had died."

The most pertinent question is probably "Why did FACTS FORUM close?" Mr. H. L. Hunt, Dallas oil man, was the founder of FACTS FORUM and its principal contributor, having spent over $3.5 million on its total operations, which included radio and television programs and the publication of FACTS FORUM NEWS. Expenses had been cut to the point that the magazine was operating at 25 percent of its one-time budget, while still - we felt - constantly improving.

Clearance had recently been given by the Post Office Department to include advertising in the magazine, and our first advertising three pages made up of [illegible] were to appear in January.

Nevertheless, the Board of Directors determined that FACTS FORUM should close, and in September 29 Mr. Robert Dedman, president of FACTS FORUM issued a press release stating that although the publication of FACTS FORUM NEWS and production of radio and television programs will not be continued, the FACTS FORUM foundation itself will go on operating without the support of Mr. H. L. Hunt.

Had Mr. Hunt come to feel that the organization based on which FACTS FORUM was set up was ineffective? I do not believe so, for we were told at the finish that Mr. Hunt had felt that the organization had never been better.

I do believe that if the facts were known, the reasons for closing FACTS FORUM were entirely welcome and were definitely acceptable.

Mr. Hunt, I was told, hoped that subscriptions would pay the [illegible] mark. If they did, FACTS FORUM NEWS might editor [illegible]. Those who write letters to the editors of newspapers throughout the country are, I believe, the thinking people of America who are willing and anxious to do their part in informing others. In bringing these columns to their focal papers to the closer attention of our readers, FACTS FORUM performed an important service. Each of the contents was conceived and inaugurated by Mr. Hunt himself, and I marveled at his insight in ascribing the importance allowed to this particular activity.

Although many have protested the "one sides" presentations of FACTS FORUM NEWS, no other publication on the American scene provided in this manner a "built-in" education on the subjects covered. While it is assuredly simpler to adopt the ollowmade opinions presented by other publications as one's own, readers of FACTS FORUM were afforded the opportunity to cut from the whole piece of material a mental garment to their own tastes. When their sentiments had been made they know what certain scraps were in the discard pile. Informed by the "pro and con" treatment, they could study the arguments of their foe before they rallied forth to do battle. I can attest to the completeness of FACTS FORUM NEWS' attempt to present full points in each issue.

FACTS FORUM is gone, all the money could pay for the higher education it has afforded all its readers and employees during the five years of its existence.

What has FACTS FORUM accomplished? The term is relative. Thinking the best terms place it leaves many spaces that will be filled. The Phoenix from the ashes of an informed electorate who will demand freedom from the left-minded political parties dealing in appeasement and convenience.

One thing I am certain those who have used FACTS FORUM will stand fast and with those who love America

FACTS FORUM Suspends Activities

..."And leaves a lonesome place against the sky"

By Mary Helen Brengel
Former Associate Editor of FACTS FORUM NEWS

(Note: The title by which this article is keyed is taken from Edwin Markham's poem "Lincoln the Man of the People."

"... He held his place -
Held the long purpose like a growing tree -
Held on through blame and faltered not at praise.
And when he fell in whirlwind, he went down
As when a lordly cedar green with boughs,
Goes down with a great shout upon the hills,
And leaves a lonesome place against the sky.")

FACTS FORUM is no more. One moment the editorial staff was working full speed ahead on the January issue with that growing keenness of activity which usually signified that a good issue was in the making. And the next moment - at 3:00 p.m. Friday, November 9, to be exact - we were called together in the editor's office, and told that operations were to cease on November 15.

There was weeping up and down the halls as employees were given their final checks and the weeping was not for jobs lost, but for the death of an association which we had all come to love.

As the printing-room operator put it, "It's just like someone you love had died."

The most pertinent question is probably "Why did FACTS FORUM close?" Mr. H. L. Hunt, Dallas oil man, was the founder of FACTS FORUM and its principal contributor, having spent over $3,5 million on its total operations, which included radio and television programs and the publication of FACTS FORUM NEWS. Expenses had been cut to the point that the magazine was operating at 25 percent of its over-time budget, while still - we felt - constantly improving.

Clearance had currently been given by the Post Office Department to include advertising in the magazine, and our first advertising - three pages made up of nine ads - were to appear in January.

Nevertheless, the Board of Directors determined that FACTS FORUM should close, and on November 20 Mr. Rorer Dedman, president of FACTS FORUM issued a press release stating that although the publication of FACTS FORUM NEWS and production of radio and television programs will not be resumed, that the FACTS FORUM Foundation itself will go ahead [illegible] the auspices of Mr. H. L. Hunt.

Had Mr. Hunt come to feel that the nonpartisan basis on which FACTS FORUM was set up was ineffectual? I do not believe so for we were told at the finish that Mr. Hunt had felt that the magazine was better than ever.

I do believe that, if the facts were known the reasons for closing FACTS FORUM were carefully weighed and were deemed irreconcilable.

Mr. Hunt I was told, hoped that subscriptions would pass the 100,000 mark. If they did, FACTS FORUM NEWS might become a weekly publication. He had hoped that more and more people would contribute, and that FACTS FORUM could gradually become a true public venture. I believe this goal was defeated by the left-wing press, which continually maligned Mr. Hunt, attributing his support of FACTS FORUM to ulterior motives. Many would-be contributors, having heard that Mr. Hunt was reputed to be the wealthiest man in the world, didn't feel that it was important to add their small mite. Others, however, did send in small contributions regularly, and it was inspiring to all of us to receive, as regularly as clockwork it seemed then, those few letters which said in effect, "I wish I could send more, but I enclose a contribution of $1.00...."

In October 1954, I was made Associate Editor in charge of contents. The "Letters to the Editor" contest, was my pet. Those who write letters to the editors of newspapers throughout the country are, I believe, the thinking people of America who are willing and anxious to do their part in informing others. In bringing these columns in their local papers to the closer attention of our readers, FACTS FORUM performed an important service. Each of the contests was conceived and inaugurated by Mr. Hunt himself, and I marveled at his insight in ascribing the importance allowed to this particular activity.

Although many have protested the "both sides" presentations of FACTS FORUM NEWS, no other publication on the American scene provided in this manner a "built-in" education on the subjects covered. While it is assuredly simpler to adopt the tailormade opinions presented by other publications as one's own, readers of FACTS FORUM were afforded the opportunity to cut from the whole piece of material a mental garment to their own tastes. When their decisions had been made, they knew why certain scraps were in the discard pile. Informed by the "pro and con" method, they could study the armaments of their foe before they sallied forth to do battle. I can attest to the complete honesty of FACTS FORUM NEWS' attempt to present a full picture in each case.

FACTS FORUM is gone, but no money could pay for the higher education it has afforded its readers and employees during the five years of its existence.

What has FACTS FORUM accomplished? The test is yet to come. Through the lonesome place it leaves against the sky may yet be seen the rise, like Phoenix from the ashes, of an informed electorate who will demand freedom from the two like-minded political parties dealing in appeasement and coexistence.

A safe thing I am certain those who have loved FACTS FORUM will stand four-square with those who love America.

THE BETRAYED ONES

By Walt Ward

The Controversialist

Undoubtedly the proper thing to do as a prelude to launching the sort of remonstrance this proposes to be, would be to check with the "Handbook of Modern Republicanism" to determine whether or not it is permissible for the average American to be just a little ashamed of Sam Rayburn's "speak-later" attitude toward the Hungarian revolt that was sponsored - at least on alternate weeks - by the current proprietors of "the land of the free and the home of the brave" via radio-free Europe and Voice of America.

In case you didn't know, the "Handbook" is under [illegible] revision (cf. Kassouf Speech, Fritcher Amendment, Hammer-in-government, etc.) and, during that all too-brief period when fresh air and sunshine permeated the Hungarian atmosphere, our cultural prospects were in almost constant convulsion, affecting a detective here, applying an alteration there and generally behaving in the erratic, aberrant manner we have come to accept as our daily, if sometimes inane, bread. We can only imagine that Arthur Larson, Chief of the U. S. Information Agency, to whom doctrinarism devolves, must have rewritten the Handbook chapter on "Liberation" a dozen times before finally coming up with that "policy" formally enunciated by Crusader Eisenhower at his press conference.

It seems, the President explained, that there has been a slight mistake. And of course, the mistake was on the part of the Hungarian people who, it would appear, misinterpreted the American position on liberation, revolution and freedom. "We didn't mean," it was clarified, "that sort of revolt."

Sidestepping, for the moment, the apparently erroneous interpretation of our policy by the Hungarians (who conceivably may have indulged in wishful thinking) let us consider - as the lawyers would say - how the hypothetically "prudent" American would have understood this policy.

The prudent American, being generally well-informed, would have been aware of a United States policy, vis-a-vis the Soviet world, known as "containment." He would have understood that the purpose of this policy was to prevent further Soviet expansion, all the while acquiescing to the status quo of the subjugated peoples behind the Iron Curtain. Through the myriad advertising gimmicks of Madison Avenue, which insinuated itself into politics four years ago on behalf of Candidate Eisenhower, the Prudent man would have learned that one of the contending major parties proposed replacing "containment" (which that party termed "immoral!") with "liberation."

Later, when the American electorate granted the proponents of "liberation" a mandate to proceed, the Prudent man would have assumed that (a) the electorate favored liberation over containment and (b) the former policy would immediately replace the latter.

The Prudent man, possessed of a short-wave radio, frequently intercepted broadcasts of quasi-governmental Radio-Free Europe and governmental Voice of America ostensibly speaking to the captive masses of Eastern Europe. The gist of the messages he heard on these programs,..."revolt. We will help you", cemented his impression that, to be sure America was fertilizing the seeds of Liberty.

On the other hand, the Prudent man was in as good a vantage seat as the American press affords when the flames of uprising flared in East Germany two years ago. He must have taken note that our Secretary of Schizophrenia, one J. F. Dulles, shattered all contemporary records in disavowing the anti-communist demonstrations. Further, the Prudent man should have observed that Dulles' massive retaliation in Indo-China liberated no one, rather, shelled the banks of those to be liberated by the millions who were swept (or passed) behind the Bamboo Curtain. Finally - and this should have been the denouement - he observed the Personification of Liberation trundle off to Geneva for an unholy liaison with the Apostle of Hell, which tryst was culminated by a special cloaking with the Chief Solicitor himself, Marshal George K. Zhukov.

By then, the Prudent man must have sensed that the richly-publicized switch to Liberation was a change in name only, that the policy of containment - not unlike all other heritages from the twenty years of treason - was still steering the United States. By then he must have realized that the policy of drum-beating and flag-waving was designed to liberate Polish, Hungarian, Lithuanian and Ukrainian VOTES in this country, rather than Polish, Hungarian, Lithuanian and Ukrainian people behind the Bloody Curtain. America's faint, official whispers of carefully qualified encouragement, during Hungary's brief moment of truth were in every detail what the Prudent American might have expected.

One is forced to conclude that the Hungarian people might have expected something more. Rebel radios constantly ignored when American help was calling. Western newsmen, escorted by Freedom Fighters in Bedaubed Skirted Trucks, invariably were asked the same question. Refugees pouring into Austria, posed the same query only, by then the tense had changed. Why, they asked, didn't America help us?

It seems inescapable that something must have led these people to believe America would help them throw off slavery's yoke. One cannot entertain the suggestion that their credulity spurred this hope. Thus by elimination, that leaves only our own roving, opportunistic, expedient political policy of "liberation" as the culprit.

Now, I never went so far as to have "Death Before Dishonor" tattooed on my forearm; nor does my courage extend to [illegible] of disclosing military information or to

By then, the Prudent man might have sensed that the lightning switch to liberation was a change in name only, that the policy of containment – for those at least far-back from the seventy years of treachery was still steering the United States. By then, he must have realized that the policy of drum-beating and flag-waving was designed to liberate Polish, Hungarian, Lithuanian and Ukrainian votes in this country, rather than Polish, Hungarian, Lithuanian and Ukrainian people behind the Iron Curtain. It seems inescapable that something must have led these people to believe America would help them throw off slavery's yoke. One cannot entertain the suggestion that their enslavers sparked that hope. Thus, by elimination, that leaves only our own totally deceitful, opportunistic, expedient political policy of "massive liberation" as the culprit.

Now, I never went so far as to have "Death Before Dishonor" tattooed on my forearm; nor does my courage extend to swallowing cyanide in lieu of divulging military information to an enemy interrogator. Nevertheless, I find it impossible to avoid feeling that an appreciable segment of our dwindled National Honor has been stripped off in a sealed boxcar with those brave Hungarians who listened well, but not wisely, to Administration propaganda.

This aching shame is mitigated somewhat by the knowledge that, henceforth, it would require a dull slave indeed to frivolously rebel in anticipation of America's help. All future liberation propaganda, peddled by the Voice of America or Radio Free Europe, will be taken with the proverbial grain of salt. That this incredulity will, perforce, also apply to America's truth is, lamentably, a penalty we must pay.

But, the gift of incredulity stems one enslaved at a most propitious moment, scarcely before the ink has dried on Arthur Larson's appointment as Chief of the United States Information Agency, of which the Voice of America is a division. There is hope, at least, that the new thoroughly jaundiced Iron Curtain listener will have more resistance to Larson's philosophy than was displayed by 35% of our eligible voters who, on November 6th, panicked to the polls to endorse Ike's Peace at Any Price.

I have just beheld a spectacle that jolted me to such a pitch of amazement that I felt impelled to warn all liberty-loving Americans. It was an ordinary audience, held so tightly in the grip of a skilled propagandist that it was incapable of normal reaction. Audiences such as this can only be gathered and held because of gross ignorance of propaganda techniques.

The propagandist was Dr. Brock Chisholm, former Director-General of WHO (World Health Organization), a Specialized Agency of the United Nations. WHO is an Agency similar to UNESCO (United Nations Educational Scientific Cultural Organization), having autonomous status in regard to its activities, its governing bodies, its constitution, etc., but operating within the framework of the UN.

The program was presented under the auspices of the Los Angeles Committee of the American Humanist Assn., the Federation of American Scientists (FAS) and a comparatively new organization called the Society for Social Responsibility in Science (SSRS).

WHAT IS THE AMERICAN HUMANIST ASSN.?

Representing the American Humanist Assn. was a Mr. Alvin Wilder, who is described in the Eleventh Report (1953) of the Senate Investigating Committee on Education (California) on page 96 as one of the two main Communist radio commentators in Los Angeles. This same Eleventh Report contains a detailed account of the Red Front affiliations of a number of the ruling clique of the Los Angeles Humanist organization along with excerpts of its literature describing its activities. The Committee describes Humanism as a "movement on both a national and international level, which substitutes faith in man for faith in God" and that it tends "to encourage a spirit of revolt against existing opinions." I might add that the world's leading proponent of Humanism, Dr. Julius Huxley, first Director-General of UNESCO, proposed and attempted to install "Scientific World Humanism" as the religion (?) for UNESCO, with eventual substitution of this atheistic belief for all the world's religions.

Skilled propagandists like Dr. Brock Chisholm are constantly addressing various groups under the auspices of organizations like those who sponsored this particular meeting. Dr. Chisholm himself is now making an extensive speaking tour over the country, and the reason for this lengthy report is to alert the people to his peculiar propaganda techniques. (Dr. Chisholm may be planning to speak in your city.)

SPEAKER ADVOCATES SLAVERY FOR MANKIND

I purposely attended this meeting because I was curious to see in person the many who expound such radical theories as (1) TOTAL WORLD GOVERNMENT, which he unabashedly calls "world government" instead of attempting to disguise this advocacy with labels of "world law" or "world order," (2) COMPULSORY BIRTH CONTROL to cure the "frightening" world over-population problem, and (3) COMPLETE INTERBREEDING OF THE RACES OF THE WORLD. A person holding such ideas as this strikes me as one who wants to "play God" — hold in his clutching hands the control of the bodies and souls of all the people of the world, not only in the present but in the future, for AS THESE GOALS, IF ACCOMPLISHED, WOULD AFFECT THE ENTIRE FUTURE OF MANKIND. I wanted to see the "creature" whose super-egotism leads him to believe that this brand of sinister slavery is desirable and will be meekly accepted by a good "selling job." After watching him in action, and listening in amazed disbelief at the enthusiastic response of that audience, I realize now more than ever how effectively "brain-washed" so many Americans are. They no longer have the moral integrity nor the mental capacity to understand and cope with the awful significance of this type of propaganda.

In George Orwell's "1984," which has been filmed and is currently being shown in theaters across the country, much emphasis is placed upon "definitions." For example, there is "War is Peace." "Freedom is Slavery." "Ignorance is Strength," etc. To these Dr. Chisholm's definition of Health should be added. "Health is not just absence of disease," he said, "it really means complete physical, mental and social well-being." He went on at great length to emphasize that this interpretation is now very "official" because the 58 member states (countries) who have affiliated with the World Health Organization made it "official" when they accepted the WHO Constitution.

(I might add that re-defining is not confined to the World Health Organization, extensively practiced by UNESCO. In fact UNESCO almost literally, with some slight modification, appropriates the "War is Peace" slogan from "1984." They explain it this way: "More recently the idea has become established that the preservation of international peace and order may require that FORCE be used to COMPEL a nation to regulate its affairs within the framework of an established world system.") (From NEA Education for International Understanding — page 21.) (emphasis mine)

To return to Dr. Chisholm — he stated that the world today can be compared to the era of the dinosaur. At that time, drastic changes were taking place, and the dinosaurs were not able to adapt to those changes and so were unable to survive. The point he made here was that unless our children were allowed to "adapt" and adjust completely to the TOTALLY CHANGED ENVIRONMENT OF THE FUTURE, they would not survive either! Propaganda-wise, this is the common "fear technique."

PARENTS "TOO SET IN THEIR WAYS" TO GUIDE CHILDREN

Dr. Chisholm then launched into the main part of his discourse with the recommendation that all old "traditions and prejudices" be abandoned and replaced by "imaginative thinking." He continued his condemnation of "traditions and prejudices" explaining that we have them purely by accident of birth in a particular locality and not necessarily because they are "good for all of mankind." They prevent "thinking." He suggested that the young people be allowed to "do their own thinking" without interference from their elders, who are "too set in their ways." "The elders of all nations," he said "crippled imagination in childhood, by all kinds of taboos against thinking." "The imagination of children should not be restrained by any kind of taboos, but should be allowed to function to find an outlet for behavior NOT ACCEPTABLE to any local customs!"

Dr. Chisholm, warming to his subject, breezed on. "The most important problem today worth experimenting with is to find a way to get away from the traditions and customs set up in our own localities."

DISCOUNTS VALUE OF CONSCIENCE AND MORAL VALUES

"You've always believed that conscience is that still small inner voice that tells you right from wrong. One thing you know for sure, conscience ALWAYS TELLS THE TRUTH! Well, nothing could be FURTHER FROM THE TRUTH! What is right for one person is wrong for another, therefore how can you claim that "conscience" knows right from wrong? Conscience is merely something that a person has learned before he was six years old — in other words INDOCTRINATION! You should NOT indoctrinate your children with old traditions and old prejudices. Let them think for themselves. I wonder how many of you will go home tonight and release your children from these bonds — very few of you I presume. No — (sneeringly) — you'll keep them tied to your "local loyalties" regardless of whether it is good for all mankind or not."

I glanced around again. There wasn't a flicker of protest. There before them stood a man challenging everything they have lives stand for, and poor brainwashed dupes that they were they just sat there and absorbed the scourging he showered upon them. I could hardly believe my eyes.

SAYS WORLD GOVERNMENT IS INEVITABLE

After fully challenging his listeners to instill a complete moral breakdown in their children, he passed on to another of his favorite themes. "WORLD GOVERNMENT IS INEVITABLE WITHIN THE NEXT 50 YEARS" he said, "or else there will be no world." Here again he employed the "fear technique." Then, warming up to this subject, he continued: "Let's suppose we are stranded by someone from another planet. The first thing they would want would be a map so they could determine the location of the land and the habitation of the people. They would notice that the map showed lines dividing the land, and they would ask what the lines meant. We would explain that the lines were boundaries between countries. The would ask what the boundaries were for, and if they happene to be speaking to someone in one of the higher-developed countries we would explain that we had more of the better things in life and we used the boundaries to keep other people from comin in and taking them away from us. They would say if it served a good purpose, and we would have to admit that it didn't but that was "traditional" and we were stuck with it. They would ask the boundaries were placed in convenient places for all of th earth's people, and we would have to admit that they were not. They would ask why a boundary was in a certain place and we would explain that a long time ago a war was fough and the battle stopped at the place where the boundary lin is now established and that millions of our people are willing to sacrifice their lives to defend that boundary."

Dr. Chisholm's ability as a skilled propagandist must no be underestimated. This facetious manner of handling the subject of national boundaries made the whole idea sound pre posterous and stupid. UNLESS ONE ANALYZED THE TOPI AND REALIZED ITS OMINOUS PORTENT. He ridiculed th "expense" of maintaining separate nations and reiterated th "survival" angle and the NECESSITY FOR ESTABLISHIN A WORLD GOVERNMENT. HE RECOMMENDED THAT TH LISTENERS BEGIN IMMEDIATELY TO PREPARE THEIR CHILD REN TO ACCEPT THE WORLD GOVERNMENT CONCEPT.

Dr. Chisholm is a Canadian by birth and amply emphasize his disdain of Canadian traditions. And now we have the spectacle of an alien in our land, standing before an American audience, brazenly and boldly ridiculing our precious American traditions, our love of country and specifically recommending the pathway to complete moral and spiritual breakdown o American principles.

As I sat there flabbergasted at the deadly apathy that permitted this man to disseminate his America-destroying propaganda, I realized that immediate action must be taken to awaken Americans to the perils that threaten us. And the beautiful inspirational poem of Edward Everett Hale, grand-nephew of the immortal Nathan Hale, flashed through my mind. It's entitled, "BY THE GRACE OF GOD":

I am only one, but I am one.
I can't do everything, but I can do something.
And what I can do, that I ought to do.
And what I ought to do
By the Grace of God, I will do.

I could not go to sleep until I, by the Grace of God, had done what I felt I ought to do — that is to alert you to what I had just heard and seen. Now, by the Grace of God, WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO DO?

THE CURIOUS SIMILARITY BETWEEN GENOCIDE TREATY AND CIVIL RIGHTS BILL

Unfortunately, too few Americans have ever heard of the GENOCIDE CONVENTION (or Treaty) which was unanimously adopted by the General Assembly of the United Nations in 1948. And yet the terrifying implications of this Treaty will soon be felt by all citizens of the Southern States, and later — if the "purge" against the South is successful — by the rest of the United States. It should be remembered that the South is the "test case" or "pilot operation" for the complete takeover of the United States by the Socialist-Internationalist dictatorship.

Both the Democrat and the Eisenhower Parties have pledged support of the UNITED NATIONS.

To many people, the United Nations is a "debating society," a "world forum." Any success the United Nations can ever point to HAS BEEN CAREFULLY PLANNED AND AGREED-UPON BEFOREHAND BY ALL CONCERNED because all members are agreed that the United Nations must continue. It must continue. Why? BECAUSE IT IS THE PLANNING BODY FOR WORLD GOVERNMENT. We can expect to be terrified by threats of the H-bomb and "germ warfare" and other dire warnings so that if their plans work out according to schedule, America WILL BE "ON ITS BACK" AND READY TO [illegible]

Few Americans realize that the Genocide Treaty provides that any single American who utters a word of criticism against any race or group can be transported to any foreign country and tried by an INTERNATIONAL COURT that are your local city courts, your State Courts and even the protection of the U. S. Government. You would be just a helpless slave pertaining a WORLD COURT for mercy BECAUSE YOU EXPRESSED AN OPINION!

"Preposterous" you say. Not at all. Please see accompanying article regarding Atty. Gen. Brownell's "edict." The CIVIL RIGHTS BILL, which will come before Congress in January, 1957, is patterned on the GENOCIDE TREATY. This infamous CIVIL RIGHTS BILL provides for "offenders" to be transported to Washington, D.C. without even a hearing in their local courts. Brownell has spelled out in no uncertain terms that a protest, whether it be in writing or in a speech, is a "Crime against the United States."

It is extremely interesting to note Mr. Brownell's use of the word "crime" in the accompanying article. The U. S. Constitution does not mention the phrase "crime against the United States." However, the United Nations booklet describes genocide as an international "crime." Is it too different to trace where [illegible]

Mr. Brownell stated that not only is the person guilty of "crime against the United States" but also ANYONE who COM MANDS, INDUCES, PROCURES, COUNSELS, AIDS OR ABET is also GUILTY OF A CRIME AGAINST THE UNITED STATES

Mr. Brownell's choice of verbs is indeed interesting, and we might add all-inclusive.

You recall that our Founding Fathers, well remembering the tyranny which they had just overthrown, added to the Constitution the immortal Bill of Rights, consisting of 10 Amendments. Because of their direct experience with tyranny, the knew that it could not flourish if the people had FREEDOM OF PRESS, FREEDOM OF ASSEMBLY, FREEDOM TO PETITIO AND FREEDOM OF SPEECH.

If Mr. Brownell's edict is allowed to stand IT WILL MEA THAT THE FIRST AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION HA BEEN DESTROYED!

For example: Webster's dictionary says that to "induce means to "move by persuasion." If FREE MEN SPEAK this editorial "persuades" you or anyone, then are we, according to Mr. Brownell "guilty of a crime against the United States?" If so, then FREEDOM OF THE PRESS IS DEAD.

We can expect to be terrified by threats of the H-bomb and "germ warfare" and other dire warnings so that if their plans work out according to schedule, America WILL BE "ON ITS BACK" AND READY TO SURRENDER TO ANYTHING, and that "anything," fellow Americans, is WORLD GOVERNMENT! And world government means the utter destruction of America's sovereignty as a nation!

WHAT IS GENOCIDE?

According to an official handbook of the United Nations, "Genocide is the committing of certain acts with intent to destroy - wholly or in part - a national ethnical, racial or religious group as such."

However, the extremely interesting point to note here is that although Communist Russia is a member of the United Nations, Russia has not been charged with "genocide" when it attempts to wipe out, by bloody massacre, whole segments of the population of Hungary! That should certainly be considered a "national" group as the United Nations booklet defines it!

But the "genocide" treaty of the United Nations has been so cleverly worded that butchers of Communist Russia can never be held to account for their massacres.

Therefore, you may ask: If the Genocide Treaty of the United Nations cannot protect the innocent Hungarian people against extermination, WHAT is its purpose?

That's a good question, but first let's consult another source for a definition of "genocide."

According to Webster's dictionary, ...and we quote: "The use or a user of deliberate, systematic measures toward the extermination of a racial, political, or cultural group."

The real purpose of the GENOCIDE Treaty is THE DESTRUCTION OF EVERYONE AND EVERY GROUP WHICH STANDS IN THE WAY OF THE PROPOSED WORLD GOVERNMENT! But, in the manner of the "take-over" forces, the words used are very polite. They tell you that Genocide means "protecting the downtrodden" and America's "protective" instinct is aroused and our "do-gooders" (both professional and otherwise) rush to offer their services.

Few Americans realize that the Genocide Treaty provides that any single American who utters a word of criticism against any race or group can be transported to any foreign country and tried by an INTERNATIONAL COURT. Not as are your local city courts, your State Courts and even the protection of the U. S. Government. You would be put in defenseless slave relationship a WORLD COURT for mercy BECAUSE YOU EXPRESSED AN OPINION!

"Preposterous!" you say. Not at all. Please see accompanying article regarding Atty. Gen. Brownell's "edict." It is extremely interesting to note Mr. Brownell's use of the word "crime" in the accompanying article. The U. S. Constitution does not mention the phrase "crime against the United States." However, the United Nations booklet describes genocide as an international "crime." Is it too difficult to trace where Mr. Brownell obtained his phrase "crime against the United States," which he uses in his "edict" of November 19?

If we read further in the United Nations official handbook, we find that it states: "But it is possible to destroy a group of human beings without direct physical massacre." And so the Convention includes the "crime" of "MENTAL HARM!"

"MENTAL HARM"

The official United Nations booklet describes "mental harm" as an "offense" that can be PROSECUTED.

Just what IS "mental harm!"

We are informed that one of the contributing factors in the Supreme Court decision on segregation was that a minority group has an "inferiority complex!"

ARE WE NOW GOING TO TURN OUR GOVERNMENT OVER TO PSYCHOLOGISTS, SOCIOLOGISTS AND PSYCHIATRISTS?

Is the entire United States going to be governed now by laws catering to first one group that has been "mentally harmed" and then another group that has an "inferiority complex"?

If so, then these great United States of America have become a psychiatric ward!

Is it possible to find a broader term than "MENTAL HARM" under which those who control our Government can, under Brownell's recent edict of November 19, and the Genocide Treaty, COMPLETELY WIPE OUT ALL OPPOSITION? A simple word of criticism or an editorial based on fact, could be construed as "Mental Harm!"

Brownell and the Eisenhower Party think that they have now found the WEAPON WITH WHICH TO DESTROY ALL OPPOSITION. The similarity between Brownell's edict and the Genocide Treaty of the United Nations is frightening in the extreme.

Is AMERICA ALREADY A SATELLITE NATION AND TAKING ORDERS FROM THE UNITED NATIONS?

Mr. Brownell stated that not only is the correct quality "crime against the United States" but also ANYONE who COMMANDS, INDUCES, PROCURES, COUNSELS, AIDS OR ABETS is also GUILTY OF A CRIME AGAINST THE UNITED STATES!

Mr. Brownell's choice of verbs is indeed interesting, as we might add, all-inclusive.

If a local Citizens Council, composed of the leaders of the community including lawyers and doctors, "AIDS" the Ku Klux Klan, according to Mr. Brownell that is a "crime against the United States!" If this is so, then FREEDOM OF PEACEABLE ASSEMBLY HAS ALSO BEEN DESTROYED!

If a citizen in a Southern town gives a speech to a Klan function against the unconstitutional ruling of the Supreme Court, then, according to Mr. Brownell it could be interpreted as "abetting." Then he, too, would be "guilty of a crime against the United States." And FREEDOM OF SPEECH IS DEAD!

Mr. Brownell's edict is an all-encompassing that even your attorney for the bus company cannot under Mr. Brownell's scourge...he could be accused of "counselling!"

THE "CRACKDOWN" OF THE SOCIALIST STATE

Operating under the pious guise of "civil rights," the Socialists who control America now believe they are where they want to be.

This is the "crack-down" - this is the FINAL DESTRUCTION OF STATES RIGHTS. You will recall that Dean Clarence Manion said: "States Rights is the only bulwark against Communism." Once the rights of the individual states been abrogated, then THERE IS NOTHING IN THE PATH OF THE COMPLETE TAKE-OVER BY THE SOCIALIST DICTATORSHIP!

The wording of the "Brownell Edict" of November 19 no doubt that the purpose is to SILENCE THE OPPOSITION forever.

"The history of Liberty is the history of limitations of government power, not the increase of it."
Woodrow Wilson

Mr. Brownell stated that not only is the carrier guilty of a "crime against the United States" but also ANYONE who COMMANDS, INDUCES, PROCURES, COUNSELS, AIDS OR ABETS is also GUILTY OF A CRIME AGAINST THE UNITED STATES!

Mr. Brownell's choice of verbs is indeed interesting, and, we might add, all-inclusive.

You recall that our Founding Fathers, well remembering the tyranny which they had just overthrown added to the Constitution the immortal Bill of Rights, consisting of 10 Amendments. Because of their bitter experience with tyranny they knew that it could not flourish if the people had FREEDOM OF PRESS, FREEDOM OF ASSEMBLY, FREEDOM TO PETITION AND FREEDOM OF SPEECH.

county, or state by filing repeated phony claims against their opposition."

Let us now look at some of the specific wording of the proposed Civil Rights legislation. Under the title "Duties of the Commission" (the Civil Rights Commission) - we quote sec. 102 (a):

"The commission shall (1) investigate the allegations that certain citizens of the United States are being deprived of their right to vote or are being subjected to UNWARRANTED ECONOMIC PRESSURE by reasons of their color, race, religion or national origin; (emphasis mine).

"(2) Study and collect information concerning ECONOMIC, SOCIAL and legal developments constituting a denial of equal protection of the laws under the Constitution; and (3) appraise the laws and policies of the Federal Government, with respect to equal protection of the laws under the Constitution." (Emphasis mine).

Part I continues to deal with the powers of the Commission which entitles the Commission to SUBPOENA ANY INDIVIDUAL, WITH OR WITHOUT THEIR PERMISSION, FROM ANY PORTION OF THE U.S. OR ITS TERRITORIES and we quote: "and upon application by the U.S. Atty. General, SHALL HAVE JURISDICTION TO ISSUE TO SUCH PERSON TO APPEAR BEFORE THE COMMISSION (in Washington, D.C.) thereof, thereto produce evidence if so ordered, or there to give testimony touching on matters under investigation; and any failure to obey such order of the court, may be punished by said court as a contempt thereof."

Part II is devoted to the development of the Civil Rights Commission which will be comprised of six appointed members and an additional Attorney General of the U. S. RESPONSIBLE ONLY TO THE PRESIDENT, who appoints him. This group would be entrusted with unheard of power to reach from the Department of Justice across and CONTRARY TO STATE LAWS AND THE COURTS OF STATE, COUNTY AND CITY, into the home across the street.

And now to quote again from Congressman Rains' statement:

"As I studied the bill, the hearings and the Committee reports, I was fearfully fascinated by the terms "economic pressure." What does it mean? What could it mean in terms of a definition promulgated by the long haired fuzzy thinking of a Presidential appointed committee?"

And here we quote from Congressman Vinson as to his opinion of what "economic pressure" could mean to our citizens under the Civil Rights bill. "This Commission would be created FOR THE SOLE PURPOSE OF FEDERALIZING EVERY CONCEIVABLE ECONOMIC, SOCIAL AND LEGAL INSTITUTION IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA... To my mind as a lawyer, and as a legislator, the implications in this (3d) section are terrifying and I cannot believe that, no matter how great the political urge may be on members of this Congress, that they will agree to place into the hands of an Attorney General, a weapon so dangerous and so designed, with which to blot out the freedoms which are guaranteed to our people under the Constitution... Enact this bill into law, and no man anywhere in America can sleep easy, free and secure from the danger of Federal compulsion by an army of informers flooding, threatening, fantastic rumors. Do-gooders and anxious informers, will delve into every community and hamlet in our country - seeking, hunting, stirring up trouble... This bill, the brain child of a politically-minded U. S. Attorney General, is in reality a sinister invasion of the rights guaranteed to the people of this nation under the Constitution. Though piously dedicated to the protection of minorities, it will be, if enacted into law, a shackle on the rights of the individual. This bill smacks of a Federal Gestapo." So speaks Congressman Vinson.

Karl Marx stated that all existing laws must be destroyed. There are many who believe that the assault on the U. S. Constitution by the Civil Rights Bill shows signs of doing just that!

"BISMARK (AP) - A campaign speech by Rep. Usher L. Burdick (R-ND) in Williston Tuesday night brought an indignant response today from the board of managers of the North Dakota Congress of Parents and Teachers in session here.

Burdick, addressing a Republican rally at Williston, had lashed out at 'communistic influence in our federal government,' and had referred to the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization and 'even the national Parent-Teachers Association' as agencies to which this influence was being felt..."

Williston, North Dakota (Special) - The above quote, published by the Associated Press October 19, 1950, is exactly what I said, and I repeat it. The Parent-Teachers manual 1950-1953 has this to say: "As we practice democracy we must think in terms of the World Community, the truly democratic intelligent world citizen becomes thereby a more effective better American citizen."

This voices just what UNESCO is attempting to do - to build a world government - take away our sovereignty and leave the United States a mere segment of this world government.

One of the lecturers before the UNESCO and NEA was Professor William Heard Kilpatrick, affiliated with nine communistic organizations. (See House Committee Findings on Un-Am-

The first thing they would want would be a map so they could determine the location of the land and the habitation of the people. They would notice that the map showed lines dividing the land and they would ask what the lines meant. We would explain that the lines were boundaries between countries. They would ask what the boundaries were for, and if they happened to be speaking to someone in one of the higher-developed countries we would explain that we had more of the better things of life, and we used the boundaries to keep other people from cutting in and taking them away from us. They would ask if it served a good purpose, and we would have to admit that it didn't but that it was "traditional" and we were stuck with it. They would ask if the boundaries were placed in convenient places for all of the earth's people, and we would have to admit that they were not. They would ask why a boundary was in a certain place, and we would explain that a long time ago a war was fought and the battle stopped at the place where the boundary line is now established and that millions of our people are willing to sacrifice their lives to defend that boundary."

Dr. Chisholm's ability as a skilled propagandist must not be under-estimated. This facetious manner of handling the subject of national boundaries made the whole idea sound preposterous and stupid. UNLESS ONE ANALYZED THE TOPIC AND REALIZED ITS OMINOUS PORTENT. He ridiculed the "expense" of maintaining separate nations, and reiterated the "survival" angle and the NECESSITY FOR ESTABLISHING A WORLD GOVERNMENT. HE RECOMMENDED THAT HIS LISTENERS BEGIN IMMEDIATELY TO PREPARE THEIR CHILDREN TO ACCEPT THE WORLD GOVERNMENT CONCEPT.

Dr. Chisholm is a Canadian by birth and amply emphasized his disdain of Canadian traditions. And now we have the spectacle of an alien in our land, standing before an American audience, brazenly and boldly ridiculing our precious American traditions, our love of country and specifically recommending one pathway to complete moral and spiritual breakdown of American principles.

As I sat there flabbergasted at the deadly apathy that permitted this man to disseminate his America-destroying propaganda, I realized that immediate action must be taken to awaken Americans to the perils that threaten us, and the beautiful inspirational poem of Edward Everett Hale, grand-nephew of the immortal Nathan Hale (talked through my mind. It is entitled: "TO THE GRACE OF GOD"

Because of their bitter experience with tyranny they knew that it could not flourish if the people had FREEDOM OF PRESS, FREEDOM OF ASSEMBLY, FREEDOM TO PETITION AND FREEDOM OF SPEECH.

If Mr. Brownell's edict is allowed to stand IT WILL MEAN THAT THE FIRST AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION HAS BEEN DESTROYED!

For example. Webster's dictionary says that to "persuade" means to "move by persuasion." If FREE MEN SPEAK in this editorial "persuades" you or anyone, then are we according to Mr. Brownell "guilty of a crime against the United States?" If so, then FREEDOM OF THE PRESS IS DEAD!

The Eisenhower Party stated in the Los Angeles EXAMINER of October 20 that it objected to "outsiders, the leaders of the Citizens Council of the South." If a local Citizens Council composed of the leaders of the community such as doctors, lawyers and bankers "AIDS" the bus company, according to Mr. Brownell this is a "Crime against the United States!" If this is so, then FREEDOM OF PEACEABLE ASSEMBLY HAS ALSO BEEN DESTROYED!

If a citizen in a Southern town gives a speech to a civic club lunch on against the unconstitutional ruling of the Supreme Court, then, according to Mr. Brownell it could be interpreted as "abetting," even he "do would be "guilty of a crime against the United States!" and FREEDOM OF SPEECH IS DEAD!

Mr. Brownell's edict is so all-encompassing that even the poor attorney for the bus company comes under Mr. Brownell's scourge, he could be accused of "counselling!"

THE "CRACKDOWN" OF THE SOCIALIST STATE

Operating under the pious guise of "civil rights," the ruthless Socialists who control America now believe they have us where they want us.

This is the "crack down"! This is the FINAL DESTRUCTION OF STATES RIGHTS. You will recall that Dean Clarence Manion said that "States Rights is the only bulwark against Communism." Once the rights of the individual states have been abrogated then THERE IS NOTHING IN THE PATHWAY OF THE COMPLETE TAKE-OVER BY THE SOCIALIST DICTATORS!!!

The wording of the "Brownell Edict" of November 19 leaves no doubt that the purpose is to SILENCE THE OPPOSITION, forever.

"The history of Liberty is the history of limitations of government power, not the increase of it."

One of the lecturers before the UNESCO and NEA was Professor William Heard Kilpatrick, affiliated with nine communistic organizations. (See House Committee Findings on Un-American Activities.) William E. Gaulin, in presenting Mr. Kilpatrick, said: "His work will influence our world more in the long run than the statesmen and soldiers of our times."

What about another great in the lecture field of UNESCO and NEA? His name is Theodore Brameld of New York, connected with ten subversive organizations. (See House Report - Un-American Activities.)

The PTA of North Dakota was not charged by me in that speech with knowing that the national organization was infiltrated with communist sympathizers, but it does seem strange that the state officers have not yet found out that their national organization's ideals communists to do their lecturing.

UNESCO and NEA are the leaders in this educational movement, and the National Parent-Teachers Association furnishes 6 million members as a background for the purposes of UNESCO. The American Legion has been very tolerant with many organizations, but it could see the purposes of UNESCO, and that those purposes were completely un-American. Most members of the Parent-Teachers Association do not know what is going on, and have no way of finding out. No speakers are heard except those cleared by the board of managers. One side only is presented, so how could the general membership know?

Patriot Alert!

LEGION COMMITTEE CAUSES BAN OF "STORM CENTER"... BETTE DAVIS' LATEST

The New Orleans Americanism Committee of the American Legion started action which stopped the showing of the anti-anti-Communist film "Storm Center" at the R.K.O. Orpheum Theatre in New Orleans. All it took was for the Chairman of the Committee to visit with the manager of the RKO outlet and show him the article reprinted below.

As we go to press we see that a federal grand jury in Washington D. C. has indicted for contempt of Congress, one Mrs. Mary Knowles, a librarian of Plymouth Meeting Pennsylvania, who is alleged to be the person who inspired the producer and co-author to write and produce this film. In as much as the infamous Ford Fund For the Republic made a cash award to Plymouth Meeting for hiring this "fifth amendment" librarian, we wonder if the Ford Fund helped in the production of this film?

By J. B. Matthews

Some things can be predicted with unerring accuracy, like the hour and minute of the rising and setting of the sun on a given day. In this category of certainties the DAILY WORKER in the forthcoming motion picture "Storm Center" can now be placed. In the next few days, when Columbia Pictures releases the film for public showing, the journalistic mouthpiece of the Communist Party will roar its approval. All along the left-wing and anti-Communist front the plaudits will resound.

"Storm Center" is an undisguised propaganda blast against the witch-hunting, book-burning, hysteria-shrieking bogeys conjured up by pro-Communist propaganda anywhere in the media of mass communications. All anti-Communists are hereby advised and given advance warning to run for the nearest storm cellar.

The story of "Storm Center" revolves around a middle-aged, small-town, widowed librarian (Bette Davis) who winds up the plot as a lioness of liberty. Before she arrives as heroine however, she is the victim of the wild hysteria of the local community, including that of a ten-year-old boy who sets fire in the library. Prefacing his act of arson, the little boy publicly denounces the librarian in a fit of grown-up hysteria which has been induced by his bigoted father who led him to believe that the library was filled with Communist books. In the end, however, the citizens are revolted by their own unreasoning fear and hatred of Communism. The librarian is persuaded to resume her duties; the library is rebuilt, and civil liberties (in the thinly disguised form of pro-Communism) triumph.

The film represents a return to pictures with a social message. The story is implausible. The script puts words into the mouths of little children which would be unknown in real life. As entertainment "Storm Center" is a flop; but as anti-anti-Communist propaganda it is the Fund for the Republic and the American Library Association, it is highly satisfactory.

A preview showing of "Storm Center" was the feature of the first general session of recent annual conference of the American Library Association in Miami Beach. The ALA BULLETIN, in its July-August issue, observes:

"ALA is aiding in appropriate ways by helping those librarians who wish to do so to spread the good word about 'Storm Center' when the picture is shown in their communities.

"Local representatives of Columbia Pictures, exhibitors, will be in touch with librarians wherever possible to invite them to special previews at the time the picture is released in various areas of the country.

"Librarians may wish to make known their own reactions regarding 'Storm Center' in communications to local film reviewers, newspaper editors and columnists and radio and TV commentators. They may also want to bring the picture to the attention of civic organizations with which they work and to have exhibits of library materials on intellectual freedom, including the ALA Library Bill of Rights, the Freedom to Read, President Eisenhower's letter to ALA on intellectual freedom, and their own book selection policies."

The ALA BULLETIN has been quoted at length in order to underline the fact that it is the obvious intention of the leadership of the librarians to launch, with the assistance of Columbia Pictures and on a grand scale, an intensive propaganda campaign for anti-anti-Communism. The utilization of the public's libraries for such a purpose is certain to raise a storm of protest in source-communities.

The National Legion of Decency has the following to say concerning "Storm Center": "The highly propagandistic nature of this controversial film (book-burning, anti-Communism, civil liberties) offers a warped, over-simplified and strongly emotional solution to a complex problem of American life. Its specious arguments tend seriously to be misleading and misrepresentative by reason of an inept and distorted representation."

Julian Blaustein is the producer and Elick Moll is the co-author of the script of "Storm Center." Both Blaustein and Moll were signers of the brief amici curiae presented to the U. S. Supreme Court on behalf of the "Hollywood Ten" who were exposed as members of the Communist Party by the Congressional Committee on Un-American Activities in 1947. The "Hollywood Ten" were convicted and served prison terms for contempt of Congress. The brief amici curiae, signed by Blaustein and Moll, was a savage attack on the Congressional Committee on Un-American Activities for its investigation of the Communist infiltration of the motion picture industry.

Publisher's Note:

All American Legion Americanism chairmen and all patriotic organizations should expose the anti-anti-Communist aspects of this picture and of its producer and co-author.

This picture should also be the signal to expose the Communist front authors that are on the shelves of your own local public and school libraries. Communist poison written by pro-Communist authors who are trying to destroy our Constitutional form of government should be properly labelled just as we label poison that comes in bottles from a drug store.

Prelim Report on Protest Vote

In spite of the fact that war conditions existed in Suez and in Hungary, the conservative voters made a real effort to register their protest against the Socialism being promised by both major party candidates.

And when we consider that T. Coleman Andrews only started his campaign on October 14th when he should have started in May or June, we can see from the unofficial figures below that people do want to vote for something different than a choice between personalities. The American people today are just as mature and just as interested in issues and principles as they were during the days of the Lincoln-Douglas debates.

We are getting reports from all over the United States that even where all regulations and laws has been complied with, that the "write-in" votes were not being counted! In various counties the ballot boxes are being impounded for a recount as aroused citizens fight back against an entrenched political machine.

The following figures are un-official and come from various reliable sources:

THE PROTEST VOTE FOR EITHER ANDREWS OR BYRD

Alabama	17,059	Maryland	511
Arkansas	20,000	Mississippi	40,328
Florida	1,649	New Hamp	111
Iowa	1,118	New Jersey	10,000
Louisiana	54,250	N. [illegible]	[illegible]
[illegible] Car	81,787	Tennessee	25,761
Texas	12,000	Virginia	11,436
Wisconsin	[illegible]	Georgia	1,763

The above unofficial figures total 340,659. This means that upwards of this number of patriotic Americans had the courage of their convictions and VOTED THEIR CONSCIENCE.

Andrews Blasts Incor And Federal Ai

[Note: The following are excerpts from the of T. Coleman Andrews in Richmond Va. 1956, when he accepted the nomination as th candidate representing all the Independent groups - States Rights Parties, Conservative others.

Income Tax

I sincerely believe that the income tax is the ever happened to our Country, first: becau privacy and property rights of the people in ticle IV of the Bill of Rights, just as Senat pushed father said it would do WHEN, AS S ginia House of Delegates, he led the fight from ratifying the 16th Amendment in which can be proud to say he was successful, for ratify it; second, because it pre-empted sou that rightfully belonged to the states and which left to the states, would have enabled the state reasonable need of their people and keep the I men from sweeping one after another of the r to the states by the Constitution.

Yes, my friends, the income tax has been has financed every boondoggling usurpation of states and every something-for-nothing fraud s this; the PERVERTED MINDS OF THE NEW I DEALERS and RAW DEALERS have conceived us since WE WERE STARTED DOWN THE RIV PATH RUIN IN 1909.

The income tax and the personal estate tax taxes are right out of the COMMUNIST MAN are the rankest kind of poison for a free co In the COMMUNIST MANIFESTO, which was years ago, Karl Marx listed ten essentials to a triumph of communism. For our purposes we to essentials 2 and 3.

No. 2: "A heavy, progressive or graduate The income tax today starts at a basic rate of 2 rated on up to 91%. And I might say that th the 16th Amendment to keep Congress from tak today's income if they wanted to. They don't ev any deductions. So the stage is all set for so and if anyone complained, Congress could repl that it was all done strictly in accordance with t

Now, don't say this can't happen, because t of the original income tax was 2% and the pr tax stood aghast at the suggestion that it Congr it 25% they could make it as high as 100%. Look top rate is 91%!

No. 3: "Abolition of all right of inheritan estate tax laws; the government can now cla as 75% of the value of an estate.

The more I see of the history and the Federa use of the income, estate and gift taxes, the find it to believe that these taxes are not a p plot to destroy our freedom and turn our Country dictatorship.

Federal Aid

The people finally have begun to see so-called the colossal fraud that it has been and the having been coined into believing that they h something they wouldn't have to pay for, when, in money was being used to forever deprive them self government. Now that they also are findi often get back no more than 25 cents worth f dollar they put up, they are overnight mad underhanded lustiness.

witch-hunting, book-burning, hysteria-shrieking bigots who frown upon pro-Communist propaganda anywhere in the media of mass communications. All anti-Communists are hereby advised and given advance warning to run for the nearest storm cellar.

The story of "Storm Center" revolves around a middle-aged, small-town, widowed librarian (Bette Davis) who winds up the plot as a lioness of liberty, before she arrives as heroine however, she is the victim of the wild hysteria of the local citizenry, including that of a ten-year-old boy who sets fire to the library. Prefacing his act of arson, the little boy publicly denounces the librarian in a fit of grown-up hysteria which has been induced by his bigoted father who led him to believe that the library was filled with Communist books. In the end, however, the citizens are revolted by their own unreasoning fear and hatred of Communism. The librarian is persuaded to resume her duties; the library is rebuilt; and civil liberties (in the thinly disguised form of pro-Communism) triumph.

The film represents a reason to picture with a social message. The story is implausible. The stupid pro-Soviet lines into the mouths of little children which would be unknown in real life. As entertainment "Storm Center" is a flop; but as anti-anti-Communist propaganda a la the Fund for the Republic and the American Library Association, it is highly satisfactory.

A preview showing of "Storm Center" was the feature of the first general session of recent annual conference of the American Library Association in Miami Beach. The ALA BULLETIN, in its July-August issue, observes:

"ALA is aiding in appropriate ways by helping those librarians who wish to do so to spread the good word about 'Storm Center' when the picture is shown in their communities.

"Local representatives of Columbia Pictures, or exhibitors, will be in touch with librarians wherever possible to invite them to special previews at the time the picture is released in various areas of the country.

"Librarians may wish to make known their own reactions regarding 'Storm Center' in communications to local film reviewers, newspaper editors and scholastic publications."

Columbia Pictures and on a grand scale, an intensive propaganda campaign for anti-anti-Communism. The utilization of the public's libraries for such a purpose is certain to raise a storm of protest in some communities.

The National Legion of Decency has the following to say concerning "Storm Center": "The highly propagandistic nature of this controversial film (book-burning, anti-Communism, civil liberties) offers a warped, over-simplified and strongly emotional solution to a complex problem of American life. Its specious arguments lend seriously to be misleading and misrepresentative by reason of an inept and distorted representation."

Julian Blaustein is the producer and Elick Moll is the co-author of the script of "Storm Center." Both Blaustein and Moll were signers of the brief amici curiae presented to the U. S. Supreme Court on behalf of the "Hollywood Ten" who were exposed as members of the Communist Party by the Congressional Committee on Un-American Activities (HUAC). The "Hollywood Ten" were convicted and served prison terms for contempt of Congress. The brief amici curiae, signed by Blaustein and Moll, was a savage attack on the Congressional Committee on Un-American Activities for its investigation of the Communist infiltration of the motion picture industry.

Publisher's Note:

All American Legion Americanism chairmen and all patriotic organizations should expose the anti-anti-Communist aspects of this picture and of its producer and co-author.

This picture should also be the signal to expose the Communist front authors that are on the shelves of your own local public and school libraries. Communist poison written by pro-Communist authors who are trying to destroy our Constitutional form of government should be properly labelled just as we label poison that comes in bottles from a drug store.

Prelim Report on Protest Vote

In spite of the fact that war conditions existed in Suez and in Hungary the conservative voters made a real effort to register their protest against the Socialistic home promised in both major party candidates.

And when we consider that T. Coleman Andrews only started his campaign on October 14th when he should have started in May or June we can see from the unofficial figures below that people do want to vote for something different than a choice between persuasions. The American people today are not as mature and just as interested in issues and principles as they were during the days of the Lincoln Douglas debates.

We are getting reports from all over the United States that even where all regulations and laws has been complied with, that the "extra" votes were not being counted. In various counties the ballot boxes are being impounded for a recount as aroused citizens fight back against an entrenched political machine.

The following figures are un-official and come from various reliable sources:

...Says Red Butcher Krushchev

Although the bloody massacre of patriots in Hungary by the Communist butchers has awakened some Americans to the ruthless brutality of the Soviet beasts, and those who remember newspaper stories in the daily press will also recall the numerous olive branches that President Eisenhower has extended, and we can expect will continue to extend to Communist Russia;

All this friendliness exuded by Mr. Eisenhower toward Russia should be carefully weighed against a statement made not long ago by Krushchev while making some off-the-record remarks to some comrades in Warsaw. This is what Marguerite Higgins reported in the NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE as one of Krushchev's statements:

"We are discussing coexistence. But of course we must realize that we cannot coexist eternally. One of us must go to his grave. We do not want to go to the grave. They (the Western Powers) don't want to go to their graves either. So what must be done? WE MUST PUSH THEM TO THEIR GRAVES."

Andrews Blasts Income Tax And Federal Aid

(Note: The following are excerpts from the stirring speech of T. Coleman Andrews in Richmond, Va. on October 14, 1956, when he accepted the nomination as the presidential candidate representing all the Independent Elector Plan groups, States Rights Parties, Conservative Parties, and others.

Income Tax

I sincerely believe that the income tax is the worst thing that ever happened to our Country, first because it invaded the privacy and property rights of the people in violation of Article IV of the Bill of Rights, just as Senator Byrd's distinguished father said it would do WHEN, AS Speaker of the Virginia House of Delegates, he led the fight to keep Virginia from ratifying the 16th Amendment, in which fight Virginians can be proud to say he was successful, for Virginia did not ratify it. Second, because it pre-empted sources of income that rightfully belonged to the states and which, if they had been left to the states, would have enabled the states to meet every reasonable need of their people and keep the Federal Government from usurping one after another of the rights guaranteed to the states by the Constitution.

Yes, my friends, the income tax has been the bonanza that has financed every boondoggling usurpation of the rights of the states and every scheming for nothing fraud against the people that the PERVERTED MINDS OF THE NEW DEALERS, FAIR DEALERS and RAW DEALERS have conceived and foisted upon us since WE WERE STARTED DOWN THE ROAD TO SOCIALISTIC RUIN IN 1932.

The income tax and its running mates, the estate and gift taxes are right out of the COMMUNIST MANIFESTO. They are the rankest kind of poison for a free country like ours. In the COMMUNIST MANIFESTO, which was published 108 years ago Karl Marx listed ten essentials to assurance of the triumph of communism. For our purposes we need refer only to essentials 2 and 3.

No. 2: "A heavy, progressive or graduated income tax." The income tax today starts at a basic rate of 20% and is graduated on up to 91%. And I might say that there is nothing in the 16th Amendment to keep Congress from taxing all of everybody's income if they wanted to. They don't even have to allow any deductions. So the stage is all set for total confiscation, and if anyone complained Congress could reply quite honestly that it was all done strictly in accordance with the Constitution.

Now, don't say this can't happen, because it can. The rate of the original income tax was 2% and the proponents of this tax stood ashast at the suggestion that if Congress could make it 2% they could make it as high as 10%. Look at it now. The top rate is 91%!

No. 3: "Abolition of all right of inheritance." Under the estate tax laws the government can now confiscate as much as 77% of the value of an estate.

The more I see of the history and the Federal Government's use of the income, estate and gift taxes, the more difficult I find it to believe that these taxes are not a part of a shrewd plot to destroy our freedom and turn our Country into a socialist dictatorship.

Federal Aid

The people finally have begun to see so-called Federal aid for the colossal fraud that it has been, and does resent bitterly having been conned into believing that they have been getting something they wouldn't have to pay for, when, in fact, their own money was being used to forever deprive them of their right of self government. Now that they also are finding out that they often get back no more than 75 cents worth of value for each dollar they put up, they are downright mad about the whole underhanded business.

Federal aid to the states isn't Federal aid at all; it's the exact opposite. It's state aid to the Federal Government! How can there be any aid from the Federal Government to the states when every dollar the Federal Government spends has to come from the people of the states? In simplest terms Federal aid is an underhanded device by which the Federal Government insinuates itself into affairs of the states that are no part of the Federal Government's responsibility and none of its business.

The only aid involved in Federal aid is the aid that Washington cuts out of the people's contributions for the aid and support of an over-stuffed bureaucracy that arrogantly believes it knows better than we ourselves what is good for us and better how to spend our money. So, it's a case of the states aiding the Federal Government not one of the Federal Government aiding the states.

LA. STATES RIGHTS PARTY TO RUN CONGRESSMEN

Shreveport, La. - Nov. 18

State's Rights Party leader Robert Chandler of Shreveport announced here yesterday the party will continue to register and will enter candidates in state and local offices.

Chandler said the decision to continue operations was made at a meeting of party leaders on Monday at noon yesterday.

"In cases where circumstances do not conveniently with certain technical provisions and to the detriment of the state of Louisiana, we shall enter candidates against them.

"After our organization is set up, we will be in a position to run candidates for any and all state offices, including the governor, each succeeding members of the legislature and all parish officers."

Chandler said the party leaders meeting yesterday were members of the executive committee, candidates for elector, and committeemen.

The group adopted a resolution setting up an organizational committee, composed of executive committee members, candidates for elector and two members at large.

The committee directs the committee to proceed to set up parish committees throughout the state without unnecessary delay.

"We are a legal political party," said Chandler, "but to function we have to have voters affiliated as registrar's offices as state officers.

"There are a great many people who are going to shift their present party affiliation over to the States' Rights."

Chandler said at the next presidential election, the party will not have to "resort to nominating

EE MEN SPEAK has written to each of the Secretaries tate of all 50 States and we have requested the official ss when they are published we will report them in full M.S. Meanwhile we suggest that all of our readers add e total of those who went to the polls. Then add the total ose who voted for Ike and Stevenson. You can find that a ll people went to vote but did not vote for either of the general candidates. HOW DID THEY VOTE?

though the bloody massacre already in Hungary by the munist butchers has awakened Americans to the ess brutality of the Soviet s, still those who remember newspaper stories in the press will also recall the ious olive branches that sident Eisenhower has exd, and we can expect, will nue to extend to Communussia.

this friendliness exuded r, Eisenhower toward Rushhould be carefully weighed st a statement made not ago by Krushchev while making some off-the-record remarks to some comrades in Warsaw. This is what Marguerite Higgins reported in the NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE as one of Krushchev's statements:

"We are discussing coexistence. But of course we must realize that we cannot coexist eternally. One of us must go to his grave. We do not want to go to the grave. They (the Western Powers) don't want to go to their graves either. So what must be done? WE MUST PUSH THEM TO THEIR GRAVES."

taxes are those out of the COMMUNIST MANIFESTO. They are the ravings of a free country like ours. In the COMMUNIST MANIFESTO, which was published 108 years ago Karl Marx listed ten essentials to assurance of the triumph of communism. For our purposes we need refer only to essentials 2 and 9.

No. 2: "A heavy progressive or graduated income tax." The income tax today stands at a basic rate of 20% and is graduated on up to 91%. And I might say that there is nothing in the 16th Amendment to keep Congress from taxing all of everybody's income if they wanted to. They don't even have to allow any deductions. So the state is all set for total confiscation, and if anyone complained, Congress could reply quite honestly that it was all done strictly in accordance with the Constitution.

Now, don't say this can't happen because it can. The rate of the original income tax was 2% and the proponents of this tax stood asham at the suggestion that if Congress could make it 2% they could make it as high as 10%. Look at it now. The top rate is 91%!

No. 3: "Abolition of all right of inheritance." Under the estate tax laws the government can now confiscate as much as 75% of the value of an estate.

The more I see of the history and the Federal Government's use of the income, estate and gift taxes, the more difficult I find it to believe that these laws are not a part of a shrewd plot to destroy our freedom and turn our Country into a socialist dictatorship.

Federal Aid

The people finally have begun to see so-called Federal aid for the colossal fraud that it has been, and they resent bitterly having been conned into believing that they have been getting something they wouldn't have to pay for, when in fact, their own money was being used to forever deprive them of their right of self government. Now that they also are finding out that they often get back no more than 50 cents worth of value for each dollar they put up, they are downright mad about the whole underhanded business.

Federal aid to the states isn't Federal aid at all! It's the exact opposite. It's state aid to the Federal Government! How can there be any aid from the Federal Government to the states when every dollar the Federal Government spends has to come from the people of the states? In simplest terms Federal aid is an underhanded device by which the Federal Government insinuates itself into affairs of the states that are no part of the Federal Government's responsibility and none of its business.

The only aid involved in Federal aid is the sad one that Washington cuts out of the people's contributions for the aid and support of an over stuffed bureaucracy that arrogantly believes it knows better than we ourselves what is good for us and better how to spend our money. So, it's a case of the states aiding the Federal Government and one of the Federal Government aiding the states.

Freedom School to Teach 'Libertarian Philosophy'

What may be the most unusual school in the nation — Freedom School, Inc. — has been formed here with the purpose of teaching the "libertarian philosophy."

This is the philosophy [illegible] by such men as Thomas Jefferson, Adam Smith [illegible] Saint Herbert Spencer, Albert Jay Nock, [illegible] which contains the fundamental principles of human liberty written into the Constitution of the United States and establishing this nation as "the land of the free."

The new educational institution is unique in that it will combine its comprehensive, 72-hour session of study, discussion, testing and reading with a two-week vacation at a guest ranch. It is believed to be the only school of its type in the country. The course covers a two-week period, the amount of time usually allocated for a vacation.

The school is for young men and women 16 years of age or older — adults are also accepted as students — and the course of study will be calculated to lay emphasis on the merits of the free enterprise system.

LeFevre said the organization is now registering students who want to attend, but the school will not actually be open for classes until the spring of 1957. There is a building program to be accomplished first, he explained.

WILL THEY FIRE "HAPPY"?

Seems that there is a real soldier and a good American down in Kentucky who is a volunteer member of the Kentucky National Guard.

He was called to active duty last summer when the school integration trouble started at Sturgis, Kentucky.

After he was released from this temporary duty, he became interested in the theory and practice of States Rights and attended some public meetings on the subject.

He stood up in one of these meetings and publicly stated that he would donate the amount of $34 to the STATES RIGHTS PARTY in Kentucky that had recently been formed.

He stated that the $34 was the amount he was paid by the National Guard during the time he was bearing arms against his friends and neighbors in Sturgis.

Shortly thereafter he was surprised and shocked to get discharged from the Kentucky National Guard.

He asked the Adjutant of his outfit and also the Adjutant General the reason for the discharge. He received no satisfactory reply.

Inasmuch as the Discharge was an honorable one he volunteered and joined another Kentucky National Guard unit. He was accepted by the local unit, but very shortly he again received an honorable discharge from the Adjutant General of Kentucky and after repeated inquiry he was unable to get any explanation.

He and his friends are of the opinion that his donation to the STATES RIGHTS PARTY of Kentucky was the real reason for the discharge.

The question now arises, Governor "Happy" Chandler is the Commander in Chief of the Kentucky National Guard. "Happy" donated $1,000 to the Democratic Party. Will the National Guard of Kentucky fire its own Commander for making political donations?

Will F.B.I. Be Used To Enforce "Civil Rights" Police State?

In newspapers all over the country, the press indicates that the purpose of the CIVIL RIGHTS BILLS is to protect Negro voting rights. In fact the advocates of this bill have so elaborately promoted this race that a great majority of the people in the North and West, including constitutional conservatives, think of Civil Rights as a regional matter and give it scant attention.

A thoughtful study of the Civil Rights Bills discloses the fallacy of this belief. Negro voting rights is but a minor provision.

What, then, is the real meaning of the proposed Civil Rights legislation?

THE F.B.I. WOULD BE USED TO POLICE AMERICANS.

Senate Bill S.Mid introduced January 9, 1957 by Sen Hubert Humphrey clearly states that the FBI will be used for investigation purposes and to gather material for the Civil Rights Commission to use. Could this not be construed as the first step for the establishment of a POLICE STATE in America?

Sen. Dirksen also has introduced a Civil Rights Bill, S. 83. This appears to be even more dangerous than Sen. Humphrey's S. 510. Because it is so subtly written, many of its provisions appear harmless and the real meaning is obscured. Regarding the use of the FBI to enforce the Civil Rights Bill, Sen Dirksen's bill has the same intent as S. 510, but S. 83 states it thusly: "All Federal Agencies shall cooperate fully with the Commission." etc, Sec. 105 (d).

CIVIL RIGHTS BILL - S. 83

Violators of civil rights may be claimed by anyone, anywhere. Negroes or the question of segregation need not be involved. According to provisions of this Civil Rights Bill, ANYONE may claim that a given person has caused him to be exposed to "public contempt, scorn or hatred." Sec. 102 (g). What a field day the agitators and fanatics would have with that provision! One of the proposed Civil Rights Bills even goes so far as to state that the Attorney General could bring civil suit on behalf of a person who complained that his rights MIGHT be violated! This, then would be complete "thought control," as the accused would be placed in the position of testifying as to what he "thought" he was going to do, say or write!

Other provisions of the Civil Rights bill provide that the accused must present himself before the Commission to be investigated. (Sec. 105 (f)). He must provide his own legal counsel and pay his own expenses. He may have only 24 hours to prepare his defense. Sec. 102 (i) and (k). His private papers and records will be subpoenaed by the Commission. Sec. 105 (e).

On the other hand, all the expenses of the accuser will be paid by the Commission. With this in mind, is it difficult to imagine the hundreds and thousands of irresponsible accusations that would be made by agitators against law-abiding citizens? The voicing of a personal opinion on political matters, could conceivably be grounds for being summoned before the Civil Rights Commission. A series of "accusations" against one person could occupy all of his time defending himself to the detriment of his business and his private life.

According to the RICHMOND NEWS-LEADER, the Civil Rights Bill would "create a new swarm of Federal agents and bureaucrats, each determined to justify his job by officious acts of busyness, at untold cost to taxpayers everywhere. The proponents would create vague new crimes, to be prosecuted by political whim and enforced by judicial caprice."

There is no assurance that the accused, if found guilty by the Commission would be accorded his constitutional right of trial by jury. This is in complete violation of Amendment VI of the Bill of Rights.

The avowed purpose of the Civil Rights Bills is to by-pass State laws and State courts. Is this not the path that leads directly to a Federal dictatorship?

THE USE OF THE F.B.I.

The proposed use of the FBI to investigate alleged Civil Rights violations is possibly one of the most ominous features of the Bill. J. Edgar Hoover has the love and respect of his fellow Americans for the magnificent work done by the FBI in protecting America from her enemies. Is it not fantastic that under the proposed Civil Rights Bill, FBI agents would be sidetracked from investigating Communists, and instead be assigned to investigate American citizens and the political opinions of these citizens? The FBI has long been the bitter foe of Communism. Could it be that one purpose for the President Eisenhower proposes that the federal government take from the states more money in the form of taxes and then give some of it back to the state to build schools which he claims the states can't build.

SENATOR JENNER

Since originally the states HAD the money which already is being taken away from them by the federal government, they certainly could build schools with it if the federal grab and meddling did not exist.

In New Hampshire Governor Dwinell announces that he would be perfectly happy to take the money for school construction. Apparently he is oblivious to the fact that once you allow the federal government to take part in the building, you will have it controlling what is taught in American schools. Then goodbye to American freedom as we have known it.

Senator Jenner, in a release from his office dated January 28, sums up the situation most accurately and shows what the State of Indiana has done.

Senator Jenner's statement follows:

"President Eisenhower's proposals for federal spending for education rests on his statement that 'there are . . . certain underlying problems where states and communities—acting independently—cannot solve the full problem or solve it rapidly enough, and where federal assistance is needed.'

"This is the point at which I think believers in the rights and duties of independent states must challenge the federal spending power.

"There are no problems in school construction, teacher training, teacher salaries or educational planning which the states cannot meet by their own resources, if they wish to preserve a federal republic.

"There are no problems in education for which we can ask or take any funds from a government with a debt of approximately $270 billion, an annual interest cost of eight billions, and no plans for debt retirement in sight.

"The state of Indiana has taken care of its Fellow Americans, be not deceived by the pious bleats of the proponents of the Civil Rights Bills that they only wish to protect the voting rights of the Negroes. That is not the real purpose of the Civil Rights Bills. . . it is merely the "front" behind which those who wish to turn America into a POLICE STATE choose to operate.

Write your Congressmen and Senators how you feel about this Civil Rights legislation. They are being bombarded with letters and telegrams by the left-wing. . . let them know how the right-wing feels.

Americans who believe in Constitutional Government and the rights of the individual States, as spelled out in the Tenth Amendment of the Constitution, should be vitally interested in a Bill that was recently proposed in the Senate and which has received little or no national publicity from the left-wing dominated press. Because this bill has been ignored, the wordsmiths of the press have not deigned to give it a name that would be easily recognized by the general public. We shall, therefore, until a better name comes along, refer to S. 337 as the STATES RIGHTS BILL.

On January 7, 1957, there was introduced in the U. S. Senate a Bill (S. 337) which was sponsored by Senators McClellan, Byrd, Thurmond, Stennis, Robertson, Russell, Ervin, Hill, Johnston (S.C.), Eastland, Curtis, Schoeppel, Hruska, Jenner and Sparkman.

It is noteworthy that although the subject matter is States Rights, which in the minds of many is erroneously confined solely to the South, nevertheless, the Senators named above represent the following States outside of the South: Nebraska (2), Kansas and Indiana.

The STATES RIGHTS BILL proposes that "no Act of Congress shall be construed as indicating an intent on the part of Congress to occupy the field in which such Act operates, TO THE EXCLUSION OF ANY STATE LAWS ON THE SAME SUBJECT MATTER, unless such Act contains an express provision to that effect." The purpose of this bill is to reverse the rule applied by the Supreme Court in a number of cases, to the effect that where the Federal government occupies a field of legislation, it does so on an EXCLUSIVE basis. For example, in the Steve Nelson case, the Supreme Court ruled that the State of Pennsylvania lacked the power to punish one Steve Nelson for the crime of sedition due to the fact that the Federal sedition law, the Smith Act, "pre-empted" jurisdiction over State laws.

The use of the word "construed" in the phrase "No Act of Congress shall be construed". . . is interesting. The sponsors of this Bill seek to prevent the Supreme Court from "construing" in the future, as it has in the past, what Congress meant or did not mean when it passed such-and-such Bill. It would appear that the Supreme Court, in addition to "legislating,"

SAYS IKE INTERPRETS MANDATE BACKWARDS

"If a stock broker or promoter in the sale of stock in a new corporation nailed the investing public in the same callous manner that some of our politicians make promises and then break them, the stock promoter would land in jail. There ought to be similar punishment for the crime of broken political promises."

Thus J. Bracken Lee, one of the most forthright men in this country opened a personal interview in his home town of Salt Lake City last week with the publisher of FREE MEN SPEAK.

I interviewed former Governor Lee of Utah just after his return from making two speeches in the Midwest.

In one of those speeches he stated, "When the time gets ripe, if you want me to lead a tax rebellion, I'll be there!" At this point the 2,500 old-fashioned Republicans in the audience jumped to their feet and roared their approval with thunderous applause.

Bracken Lee in reflecting on his recent defeat in Utah stated with a smile that he had often said, "I would rather be right than be Governor, . . and too many of my friends believed me."

When asked about "modern republicanism" Lee flashed back with, "There is nothing modern about high taxes, Socialistic 'do-gooder' schemes, excessive spending and foolish foreign aid. All of these have been tried and have been found to be means by which formerly great governments like Rome and Great Britain have destroyed their freedom, their independence, and in the final result, the nation itself."

Regarding Eisenhower, Bracken Lee had this to say, "Mr. Eisenhower was elected in 1952 on a platform that was the essence of old-fashioned Republicanism, which, incidently, is the type I prefer. The G.O.P. victory was based on promises to balance the budget, reduce the national debt, cut down on the size of the Federal Bureaucracy and to get rid of Communist influences in government. As long as the late and revered Senator Robert A. Taft was alive, the Administration seemed willing to carry out those promises. Now, entering the second Eisenhower administration, we see the largest peacetime budget ever and I believe that the nation is aroused. What this country needs is a FIRST CLASS TAX REVOLT."

Bracken Lee continued, "Speaking of promises, and the breaking of them, we cannot forget that Mr. Eisenhower promised to keep the U. S. out of the Middle East while he was campaigning for re-election last autumn. But as soon as he is elected we find him rushing to the Congress and demanding quick action asking for unlimited power to interfere in the Middle East."

"If these campaign promises and the resulting votes are a 'mandate,' then why is the mandate READ IN REVERSE once the election results are in?" Lee asked.

"The solution to the problem of high taxes," according to Lee, "is going to come from the middle-income people of this country. We will not be able to depend on those who have been fortunate enough to save up money. Taxes can and will be lowered when the great mass of wage earners and small business men get together in a great national movement. Such a tax revolt is absolutely necessary if we are to save this great Republic and its tradition of private enterprise and individual reward for individual effort under freedom."

U. BRACKEN LEE OF UTAH
TO LEAD NATIONAL TAX REVOLT

DOES AMERICA FACE A "HAIR CURLING" DEPRESSION?

FREE MEN SPEAK herewith presents a collection of quotes and comments from all over the country concerning the state of the nation's financial position. Labor, management, leading figures in the economic field as well as John Q. Citizen are beginning to realize that welfare socialism is bad for the country, even though the Eisenhower Administration calls it "Modern Republicanism."

"A DEPRESSION THAT WILL CURL YOUR HAIR"

. Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey testified before the Senate-House Economic Committee that government spending must be reduced sufficiently to permit tax reduction in all brackets if our economic growth is not to be crippled. Mr. Humphrey also remarked that unless the present trend is reversed "we will have a depression that will curl your hair."

An editorial in the CHICAGO TRIBUNE stated that former President Herbert Hoover recently "made some pointed remarks about free wheeling government spending and high taxes and said that if inflation was not curbed, "old man economic law will return with a full complement of hair curlers"... Mr. Hoover said that he had had his hair curled once and knew something about the signs of approaching disaster. He said it was up to the public to force lower federal expenditures and reduced taxes warning that "with combined federal, state, and local taxes, we are a long way on the road to socializing the income of the people." Mr. Herbert Hoover's criticism of the Eisenhower Budget and policies takes on added significance when it is remembered that he supported Mr. Eisenhower in two elections.

PRESENT WASTE EQUALS BUDGET OF TWENTY YEARS AGO

Government experts now admit that waste is "ONLY" 10% of the national budget. That amounts to about 7 billion dollars worth of "WASTE!" Some suggestions have been made that the States should get the first 10% of all income tax money going to the government. Thus if such a plan should be agreed upon, much of so-called Federal Aid would be eliminated BECAUSE IT WOULD BE UNNECESSARY.

Twenty years ago the entire national budget was only some 48 billion. Now we WASTE that much in a Government spending spree.

"INDIVIDUAL ALMOST WHOLLY DEPENDENT UPON THE STATE"

Publisher John S. Knight writing in his MIAMI HERALD says "Government has grown so huge that it is no longer the servant of the people. Instead it regulates their lives, confiscates a large share of their earnings and makes the individual almost wholly dependent upon the state. . . So we see in government, labor, and business the concentration of too much economic power in too few hands. When all three embark on an inflationary binge at the same time, the country is in trouble."

LABOR UNION SPEAKS OUT

Last Summer the New York Typographical Union No. 6 passed a resolution which asked for the abolishment of the Income Tax. One of the paragraphs of the resolution follows: "Whereas every working citizen is compelled to devote one day's labor per week to foster the extravagant waste, 'Boondoggling' and downright wantonness involved in the distribution of this 'easy money' by thousands of One World do-gooders, and. . ."

"IKE MAKES ROOSEVELT AND TRUMAN LOOK LIKE PIKERS"

Lyle Wilson, a United Press news analyst, pointed out in an article appearing in the Alexandria (La.) DAILY TOWN TALK that business men went into a panic when F. D. Roosevelt spent 7 or 8 billions in a peace-time year. "And now President Eisenhower is spending at a rate which makes FDR and HST look like pikers."

GUEST EDITORIAL BY JOHN S. KNIGHT, PUBLISHER, IN THE DETROIT FREE PRESS

Non-military spending for such things as farm subsidies, flood control, public housing, school lunches, education, museums, medical research and social welfare has jumped from $8 billion in Eisenhower's first year to $14 billion this fiscal year.

Yet many of the Hoover Commission reports, designed to cut $5 billion out of the ordinary running expenses of government, are gathering dust in Washington file cabinets.

The President has stressed the argument that government's fight against inflation can only be effective if matched by the attitudes and actions of individual citizens.

My question is: When may we expect government to set the example for the rest of us?

A Tito Triple Cross

Ever wonder what happens to that "economic aid" the Eisenhower administration insists on giving to Communist dictator Tito? Of course, only a "gullible" would be so naive as to think that the Yugoslav people benefit from this largesse.

The "proof of the pudding," so to speak, comes in the recent announcement that Communist Marshal Tito has granted a credit of 2 million dollars to the Communist government Hungary!

THUS, YOUR TAX MONEY IS BEING USED TO PROP UP THE ECONOMY OF THE VERY GOVERNMENT THAT WAS RESPONSIBLE FOR THE SAVAGE SLAUGHTER OF HUNGARIAN PATRIOTS!

OUR POLICY

This newspaper is dedicated to the defeat of Socialist and Communist influences that now pervade the thinking and the policies of our Federal government and the two major political parties. We believe that there is no difference between a New Deal Democrat and a Socialist-Internationalist Republican.

This newspaper will continue to promote all individuals and organizations who believe that a new political party based on Constitutional States Rights is the answer to the Socialism that has captured both (formerly great) parties.

We will never align ourselves with any person or group which preaches hatred. Instead we will conserve our energy for the fight against atheistic Communism, and we pledge ourselves to LOVE OF GOD AND AN INDEPENDENT U.S.A.

OUR THANKS

Because patriotism is not a business, all those who contribute material or articles to this paper do so on a voluntary basis. Because we are political and 'controversial' we have no advertising income. We therefore thank all of our readers who send donations every week so that more and more sample copies can be sent to patriots throughout the country. Without this regular support, this experiment in patriotic and political journalism would not be possible.

U.S. Going Broke
Wasting Billions Abroad
Says Spruille Braden

(Below are excerpts from a recent broadcast on the Mutual Forum of Opinion - Mutual Broadcasting System. The speaker, Hon. Spruille Braden, is a former Asst. Secretary of State, and has been a U. S. Ambassador to Colombia, Cuba and Argentina.)

The advocates of foreign aid insist that it be increased and continued more or less indefinitely. They allege our great wealth and productive capacity place a moral obligation on us to support others. This nation never has and praise God, never will fail to aid the needy. But, in keeping with our religion, we believe charity is a function of the individual and not of government. We gladly will give to the unfortunate, wherever they may be, but we want to choose the amount and method of giving and not have the sum and means FORCED UPON US BY GOVERNMENT.

It is claimed that foreign aid "give-aways" will improve living conditions in the less developed countries and create new markets for American products. It is claimed that Washington's hand-outs will win and hold friends and allies for our country and defeat the Soviets and Communism.

Foreign aid cannot buy, at any price, trustworthy friends and allies. To try to buy friends is a futile attempt at bribery and ignores the fact that those who get something for nothing usually value it at precisely nothing. The folly of Washington's spendthrift policy has led many foreigners to proclaim that the best way to get a handout from Uncle Sam is to kick him in the teeth.

The Soviets and Communism never will be defeated by United States "give-away" programs. On the contrary, our "give-away" programs are founded on the Communist doctrine that the productive workers shall support the incompetent and the loafers. Both Lenin and Stalin violently opposed all development by private enterprise and investment. They said that the backward nationalities could be communized only through prolonged aid from the advanced countries, aid such as Washington is now disbursing. Due to ignorance of Communist policy and the basic Soviet plan, our government has been and still is subsidizing the USSR's long range campaign against the United States.

Who are the advocates of foreign aid? They are: (1) misguided idealists or sentimentalists, who seem to believe friendship can be bought through government-to-government grants and loans. (2) some business and labor leaders, whose industries, thanks to this program, may sell their wares to or through the International Corporation Administration in Washington; and (3) above all, the thousands of bureaucrats whose soft jobs and lush expense accounts depend on the continuance of foreign aid.

The plain truth is that the United States is going broke committing suicide, by uselessly giving away billions of dollars to the rest of the world.

The direct debt of the United States is about 280 billion dollars. This vast sum is almost twice the combined debts of all other principal nations. Of this huge amount, between 100 and 120 billion dollars have been given away or loaned to foreign governments.

About three billion of our gifts have been used by foreign governments to reduce their national debts. This three billion has been added to our own national debt.

Often we hand over millions of our taxpayers' dollars to countries having such vast wealth and revenues that they could easily finance their own requirements for both material and

They may have a few copies left.

WILL DESTROY FREE AMERICA

Federal aid to education will ultimately destroy a free America. . . . Roger Freeman stated on October 31, 1956: "Our schools are the last great bulwark of state and local autonomy. . . . If the schools fall to federal influence they will not only further deteriorate; they will set the pattern for more and more powers to go to Washington until our states are left empty shells, and reminders of what once was a great federal union of sovereign states". . . Who is Roger Freeman? . . . He directed the research on The Education Committee of the President's Commission on Intergovernmental Relations and was one of a Committee of four who wrote the factual report on school finances at the request of The Committee For the White House Conference on Education. . . He is an exceptionally well qualified authority.

STEP TOWARD CENTRALIZED GOVERNMENT

Federal aid to education is likely to become law in the 85th Congress unless enlightened citizens vociferously oppose it. . . Eisenhower-Republicans are for it and so are Stevenson-Democrats, as expressed by both party leaders during the recent campaigns. . . The professional educationists, headed by the National Education Association, with millions of dollars available for lobbying purposes, are for it and confidently predict that "1958 will be our year" (for the enactment of federal aid to education legislation). . . Most of the labor union leaders support federal aid to education because it is an important step towards centralized government which they, misguidedly, believe will be more easily susceptible to their convivings for labor domination of the nation.

Ironically, the Parent Teachers Association, at least their national and most of their state leaders, favor federal aid. . . They naively believe, according to their pronouncements, that it can be accomplished without federal control of the public schools. . .

There are many sound, logical and moral reasons against federal aid to education to counteract the insidious arguments advanced for it by the socialistic proponents. . One of the most convincing is the report of The Education Committee of the President's Commission on Intergovernmental Relations which stated: "We have not been able to find a state which cannot afford to make more money available to its schools or which is economically unable to support an adequate school system. . . federal aid is not necessary either for current operating expenses for public schools or for capital expenditures for new school facilities."

N. E. A. FOOLING PARENTS

Federal aid for schools - for any purpose - is morally wrong because it will lead to federal control. . . A 1942 decision of the Supreme Court reads as follows: "It is hardly lack of due process for the government to regulate that which it subsidizes" - (317 U.S. - page 131 - Last sentence of first paragraph decision by Justice Jackson in case of Wickard vs Filburn, 1942). . . Despite this now well-known Supreme Court decision, the Parent Teachers Association blindly and thoughtlessly continues to seek federal aid for school legislation with the meaningless words: "We recommend the inclusion of provisions that will insure maximum local control". . . In the face of this decision, the National Education Association persists in its disgraceful effort to fool American fathers and mothers that federal aid can be had without federal control.

U.S. CONTROLS VOCATIONAL EDUCATION

Among the many instances in other fields of federal interference, we have a specific example of federal control following federal aid to education. . . In 1916 Congress passed the Smith-Hughes Act providing financial aid for local vocational educational systems. . . Prior to passage, its proponents shouted to the housetops that the measure would not bring about federal controls. . . Exactly the reverse has happened. . . Federal regulations have been expanded over the years and are now printed in an 108-page book - "Administration of Vocational Education" (published by the government printing office). . . As

U.S. WILL CONTROL BOOKS-TEACHING

Russell Turner points out (Human Events, November 24, 1956), only one sentence on page 4 is necessary to prove that the federal government controls vocational education. . . It reads: "Each state is required to submit a plan which must meet with the approval of the Federal Office of Education". . . If one has further doubts, here is what Representative Johansen (R, Mich.) has to say: "No statutory provision in the world can provide adequate safeguard against federal control of education once federal financial support of education is an accepted principle."

SOCIALIST BRAINWASHING PLANNED

If our schools are to be saved from federal domination probably the most important fact to get over to parents and teachers is this indisputable evidence that federal control follows federal aid. . . Teachers have much to lose through the capture of the schools by the federal government. . . It is reasonable to believe that if teachers were told the truth, and had not been misled by the false propaganda of the socialists and professional educationists, they would bombard their Congressmen with objections to federal aid to schools. . . For federal regimentation of books and curriculums to brainwash students preparatory to their indoctrination for conformity with mediocrity and one-worldism, will impose an equal amount of regimentation on teachers. . .

Often we hand over millions of our taxpayers' dollars to countries having such vast wealth and revenues that they could easily finance their own requirements for both material and technical aid.

By June 30, 1957, the total of United States grants and credits of dubious value given in foreign aid since 1940 will be 97 billion dollars.

I grasp what 60 billion dollars really means when I add the assessed valuation of all real and other property in the 17 biggest cities of this country, to arrive at a grand total of just of 60 billion: New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Los Angeles, Detroit, Baltimore, Cleveland, St. Louis, Washington, San Francisco, Boston, Houston, Pittsburgh, Milwaukee, New Orleans, Buffalo and Dallas.

We would be appalled by the mere suggestion that these 17 biggest cities, if it were possible, be shipped overseas as gifts to foreign nations. Yet, in effect, that is what we have done.

A leader of the Bolivian Marxist police state government, which has confiscated the property of its own citizens and foreigners - including Americans - boasted his government was more radical even than that of Communist China. Yet, Washington agencies are reported, during the last three or four years, to have given this little country well over 100 million dollars in grants and dubious loans or concealed donations. Much of this money has been wasted, stolen and gone into black markets.

This is comparable, on a small scale, to the one billion of handouts to Tito, who forced fleeing refugees to return to Hungary, who publicly praised the Kremlin for its inhuman methods in suppressing the anti-Communists in Hungary, and who again is hand-in-glove with Moscow.

We, as Americans, must immediately demand that Washington quit confiscating and wasting our hard-earned money on "give-away" foreign aid programs. We must stop our government from leading the United States to destruction by suicide.

Federal aid for schools - for any purpose - is morally wrong because it will lead to federal control. . . A 1942 decision of the Supreme Court reads as follows: "It is hardly lack of due process for the government to regulate that which it subsidizes" - (317 U.S. - page 131 - Last sentence of first paragraph decision by Justice Jackson in case of Wickard vs Filburn, 1942). . . Despite this now well-known Supreme Court decision, the Parent Teachers Association blindly and thoughtlessly continues to seek federal aid for school legislation with the meaningless words: "We recommend the inclusion of provisions that will insure maximum local control". . . In the face of that decision the National Education Association persists in its disgraceful effort to fool American fathers and mothers that federal aid can be had without federal control.

U.S. CONTROLS VOCATIONAL EDUCATION

Among the many instances in other fields of federal interference, we have a specific example of federal control following federal aid to education. . . In 1946 Congress passed the Smith-Hughes Act providing financial aid for local vocational educational systems. . . Prior to passage, its proponents shouted to the housetops that the measure would not bring about federal controls. . . Exactly the reverse has happened. . . Federal regulations have been expanded over the years and are now printed in an 108-page book - "Administration of Vocational Education" (published by the government printing office). . . As

U.S. WILL CONTROL BOOKS-TEACHING

Russell Turner points out (Human Events, November 24, 1956), only one sentence on page 4 is necessary to prove that the federal government controls vocational education. . . It reads: "Each state is required to submit a plan which must meet with the approval of the Federal Office of Education". . . If one has further doubts, here is what Representative Johansen (R. Mich.) has to say: "No statutory provision in the world can provide adequate safeguard against federal control of education once federal financial support of education is an accepted principle."

SOCIALIST BRAINWASHING PLANNED

If our schools are to be saved from federal domination, probably the most important fact to get over to parents and teachers is this indisputable evidence that federal control follows federal aid. . . Teachers have much to lose through the capture of the schools by the federal government. . . It is reasonable to believe that if teachers were told the truth, and had not been misled by the false propaganda of the socialists and professional educationists, they would bombard their Congressmen with objections to federal aid to schools. . . For federal regimentation of books and curriculums to brainwash students preparatory to their indoctrination for conformity with mediocrity and one-worldism, will impose an equal amount of regimentation on teachers. . .

TEACHERS LOSE ACADEMIC FREEDOM

They will be told how to teach and what to teach. . . We do not believe that any thinking teacher desires to give up all or much of his academic Freedom. . . Likewise, thinking parents will rebel against federal aid when they are convinced that its imposition will utterly destroy their responsibility and right to determine how and what their youngsters are being taught.

FEDERAL AID NEVER TEMPORARY

There is another myth that must be exploded directly in the faces of parents and teachers: That federal aid will be a "one shot" program, or only temporary. . . Make no mistake about it, "one shot" federal aid is as fantastically unrealistic as only "one shot" for the dope addict. . . And there is a mountain of evidence to prove it. . . One example: The Hill-Burton Hospital Construction Act - a measure foisted on the American people as "temporary," has been continued and expanded by almost every Congress during the past ten years. . . Despite President Eisenhower's disarming statement, "Once this shortage (of classrooms) is overcome, the federal grant program can and must terminate," the federal aid advocates are not planning it that way. . . When Adlai Stevenson, head of the Stevenson-Democrats, addressed the annual convention of the National Education Association on July 6th of last year and outlined his plan for federal aid for schools, he used the words and expressions "start," "over the longer run," and he topped off his address with "yet there should be no evading the fact that the composite program I am suggesting here will be expensive, and it is just a 'beginning.'"

FEDERAL AID A PERMANENT PLAN

It is easily apparent that the National Education Association is not working for a federal aid program on a terminal emergency basis. . . The goal of the NEA is a permanent all-out type of federal aid to education. . . The NEA's goal of permanent federal interference in the nation's schools is substantiated by a statement in the February, 1956 NEA Journal by Dr. [illegible]

The NEWS-LEADER editorially then concludes: "The one inflationary force that carries the greatest impact is the inflationary force of the Federal budget. . . OLD AGE SECURITY THREATENED

LIFE magazine editorialized on inflation and the Eisenhower budget and ended up with this statement: "There is a growing public awareness that inflation threatens to pauperize every citizen's old age, as it is now pauperizing those already retired on shriveled savings or inadequate pensions."

EISENHOWER'S ADVISORS

Some writers are quick to note that the President as a military man knows very little of economics, and as he has always done in the management of military operations, he continues to depend on his advisors. One of these is the President's brother, Milton Eisenhower, who has been an avowed Socialist and Internationalist all his life.

Another of these presidential advisers is one Arthur Larson who is now chief of the U. S. Information Agency. In a speech last fall Mr. Larson lifted the curtain on future plans of the Eisenhower Administration by advocating a "complete, adequate and coordinated system of income insurance" for all persons, to be administered by the Federal Government. It is doubted that Franklin D. Roosevelt in the hey-day of the New Deal would have been so bold as to spell out in such terms the Socialist WELFARE STATE.

With advisors like this how can we expect anything but a fantastically unsound budget?

WHAT CAN THE AMERICAN PEOPLE DO ABOUT IT?

The Campaign for the 48 States is doing something about this fight against inflation. isms of the Indians along the highway, my curiosity, rather, is directed toward that reasoning which moves this Nation to lavish aid and conveniences on avowed enemies, while leaving the Indians to shiver in their earthen huts.

Lest someone suspect that I am a passionless Philistine, I hasten to stress that I can be impressed by a majestic mountain as easily as the next fellow. I can be incited to awe and astonishment as a the prodigious fulfillments of our Founding Father's dreams, as they unfold before me from coast to coast. Why then, being amenable to awe in the presence of dreams fait accompli am I inclined to survey these wonders of America with a jaundiced if not downright calloused, eye"

The answer, for what it is worth, is that my dear old friend, Uncle Sam, is having the skins put under him; they're slipping hemlock in his tea; a motley menagerie of mandated misanthropes are sticking pins in his effigy. It is my private opinion, entirely unverifiable by seismograph or geiger counter, that the Founding Fathers must be churning in their half-lowed graves.

Imagine, if you will, the frustration being experienced by those spinning ghosts of our patriotic antecedents that the very blueprints they drew up for the American dream are used to subvert it. There is only one difference. Today's leaders--in Hamilton's words, "men who possess not qualification to extend their influence beyond the narrow circles of personal intrigue"--are holding the blueprints up to a bulb and THEY'RE READING THEM BACKWARDS. Thus, as a from for their mischief, they can wave the blueprints in the face of the people and say: "See how constitutional we are; we're sticking to the law of the land."

Unfortunately, the law of the land has become the personal perversion of individuals who are more conversant with the theories of alien socialists than with America's sacred body of law. The blindfolded lady with the scales has become persona non grata. It cannot be expected that those who have evicted her will stop drinking cocktails at the Russian Embassy long enough to instruct our leaders in proper blueprint reading. It can only be lamented that these alien men didn't become a baseball team instead of a Supreme Court!

If you hold the phrase, "government of, by and for the people" against a bulb and read it, it will come out, roughly, "people for, by and of the government." As briefly as possible that explains the fundamental change that has occurred within the memory of most adults. THE GOVERNMENT CEASED TO BE AN INSTRUMENT OF OURS; WE BECAME TOOLS OF THE GOVERNMENT.

And so, as I wind my way toward the setting sun, I will pass dictatorially-unionized factories, billowing forth smoke to be dissipated in the air, even as the factories' profits are dissipated in double-taxed dividends. I will note the multi-horsepowered chanel monogages lined up in the factory parking lots and will be mindful of their multi-shackled mortgagee owners, inside, productively engaged in making "defensive arms" for some far-flung "peace army."

I'll pass farms whose masters are enjoined from full practice of livelihoods learned from freer progenitors. "Soil bank depleted" acreage, lying fallow to curb surpluses, will slip past and will raise the question, what even greater surpluses will this rested land bear when returned to production? Deteriorating farm structures will life by each a mute testimony of the inferiority of politically demagogic parity to the competitive parity of the market place.

I'll drive over State highways being repaired or replaced by our big-hearted government. Where, O, where did the government obtain the money for this compassion? I'll wonder if these States--which gave Washington at least two dollars for every one received back--wouldn't be better off without Federal aid, particularly when Federal specifications so often double the cost of the job.

I'll pass schools, whose umbilical to local influence is scheduled to be severed by Congress, as a preliminary to pumping UNESCO's world-mindedness into innocent brains. I'll wonder if those furtive figures, loitering near the school-yard, perhaps are FBI agents keeping some non-conformist student under twenty-four hour surveillance.

There will be thousands of people along the way, each of whom has a $1,500.00 share of sundry government debt. I'll wonder how they feel about working the first two days of the week in order to provide arms for enemy Tito, or to fatten Communist Poland's treasury, merely because Roosevelt has been replaced by carbon-copy Gomulka. I'll wonder if these people enjoy being kept poor (and destined to become wards of Big Brother) in order that Big Brother can set up state industries in foreign lands to compete with "the hand that fed them" in world markets.

And so, westward ho, with the 200-odd horses under the hood whinnying eagerly. It won't be exactly the same as much earlier trips in covered wagons. And, the difference isn't in the horsepower. The difference is in blueprint reading, then and now. The difference is in individual liberty then and social security numbers now. Manifest destiny, then; "Modern Republicanism," now!

We hold that federal aid to schools should be defeated - in fact, it should never be considered - because it is unconstitutional. . . Public education is a matter that should be controlled by the States and localities and not by the central government. . . Whereas most tourists probably set their sights on purple mountains majesty and amber waves of grain, I am afflicted with a peculiar optical difficulty which permits me to see only Federal-subsidized power projects and orderly rows of galvanized Commodity Credit Corporation silos, full of surplus grain, avaricious rats and taxpayer's dollars. Whereas most travelers indulge in a moderate curiosity over the quaint customs of the Indians along the highway, my curiosity, rather, is directed toward that reasoning which moves this Nation to lavish aid and conveniences on avowed enemies, while leaving the Indians to shiver in their earthen huts.

Lest someone suspect that I am a passionless Philistine, I hasten to stress that I can be impressed by a majestic mountain as easily as the next fellow. I can be moved to awe and astonishment as a the prodigious fulfillments of our Founding Father's dreams, as they unfold before me from coast to coast. Why then, being amenable to awe in the presence of dreams fait accompli am I inclined to survey these wonders of America with a jaundiced, if not downright calloused, eye?

The answer, for what it is worth, is that my dear old friend, Uncle Sam, is having the skids put under him; they're slipping hemlock in his tea; a motley menagerie of mendated misanthropes are sticking pins in his effigy. It is my private opinion, scarcely uncorroborated by seismograph or geiger counter, that the Founding Fathers must be churning in their hallowed graves.

Imagine, if you will, the frustration being experienced by those spinning ghosts of our patriotic antecedents that the very blueprints they drew up for the American dream are used to subvert it. There is only one difference. Today's leaders--in Hamilton's words, "men who possess not qualification to extend their influence beyond the narrow circles of personal intrigue"--are holding the blueprints up to a bulb and THEY'RE READING THEM BACKWARDS. Thus, as a front for their mischief, they can wave the blueprints in the face of the people and say: "See how constitutional we are: we're sticking to the law of the land."

Unfortunately, the law of the land has become the personal perversion of individuals who are more conversant with the theories of alien socialists than with America's sacred body of law. The blindfolded lady with the scales has become persona non grata. It cannot be expected that those who have evicted her will stop drinking cocktails at the Russian Embassy long enough to instruct our leaders in proper blueprint reading. It can only be lamented that these nine men didn't become a baseball team instead of a Supreme Court!

If you hold the phrase, "government of, by and for the people" against a bulb and read it, it will come out, roughly, "people for, by and of the government." As briefly as possible, that explains the fundamental change that has occurred within the memory of most adults: THE GOVERNMENT CEASED TO BE AN INSTRUMENT OF OURS; WE BECAME TOOLS OF THE GOVERNMENT.

And so, as I wind my way toward the setting sun, I will pass dictatorially-unionized factories, billowing forth smoke to be dissipated in the air, even as the factories' profits are dissipated in double-taxed dividends. I will note the multi-horsepowered chanel mortgages lined up in the factory parking lots and will be mindful of their multi-shackled mortgagee owners, inside, productively engaged in making "defensive arms" for some far-flung "peace army."

I'll pass farms whose masters are enjoined from full practice of livlihoods learned from freer progenitors. "Soil bank deposited" acreage, lying fallow to curb surpluses, will slip past and will raise the question: what even greater surpluses will this rested land bear when returned to production? Deteriorating farm structures will file by, each a mute testimony of the inferiority of politically demagogic parity to the competitive parity of the market place.

I'll drive over State highways being repaired or replaced by our big-hearted government. Where, O, where did the government obtain the money for this construction? I'll wonder if these States--which gave Washington at least two dollars for every one received back--wouldn't be better off without Federal aid, particularly when Federal specifications so often double the cost of the job.

I'll pass schools, whose umbilical to local influence is sched-

Why Did Army Brass Repudiate MacArthur Report

GENERAL WILLOUGHBY CHARGES SUPPRESSION

In a recent speech in Washington, D.C. before the American Coalition of Patriotic Societies, Major General Charles A. Willoughby, chief of intelligence under Gen Douglas MacArthur, charged that the Pentagon had suppressed more than a million words of Communist spy evidence gathered by Gen. MacArthur's headquarters in Tokyo. Gen. Willoughby further charged that this documented and damaging evidence of the involvement of American citizens in the Communist conspiracy, was withheld from Judge Medina in the long trial of the American Communists. He also stated that after a very small portion of the intelligence report was "leaked" to the press, the Pentagon immediately repudiated the MacArthur report.

Although the Gen. Willoughby's report covered a number of years as he traced the framework of the Communist conspiracy, he brought the story right up to date by stating that the recent arrest by the FBI of alleged Communist spies indicates that the spy apparatus described here is still in operation.

Below we print the notes which Gen. Willoughby used in making his recent speech before the American Coalition of Patriotic Societies:

This report is limited to strictly personal experiences, based on eyewitness observations, as MacArthur's chief of intelligence, in the period of 1939-1951. A complete documentation, aggregating over a million words, was filed with Washington Security Agencies and certain Congressional Committees, under the title: "A Partial Documentation of the Sorge Espionage Case," printed in Tokyo.

In time of war, military intelligence is concerned with observations of the enemy and estimates as to his potential; in time of peace, it is concerned with security, sabotage and subversion through a "counter-intelligence section" - a sort of military F.B.I. Based on Tokyo, the field of investigation covered Communism in Asia and espionage in Japan, under Soviet direction.

We made a number of important discoveries through years of painstaking research. We found international Communists, including Americans, operating from Shanghai to San Francisco. The creeping menace could not be isolated. It reached everywhere. It was global and it followed a recognizable pattern.

DR. SORGE - MASTER SPY

Under the Potsdam Declaration (as much an instrument of folly and evil as the Yalta Conferences which shocked the world) we were compelled to open up the Japanese jails, ostensibly to liberate political prisoners. We also liberated a fine crop of asserted criminals including a Russian espionage ring under a fabulous master spy, by the name of Richard Sorge.

The Sorge case is a classic of its kind. It revealed in detail how Russian espionage and subversion operate, in a remarkable example of infinite patience and global, long-range planning. It took the Russian over twenty years to establish his "cover," his identity, as a roving journalist. In the end, they succeeded in planting him in the German Embassy in Tokyo, as Press Attache. Prior to that time, he worked in China, with headquarters in Shanghai, with important links with American collaborators, supplied by the American Communist Party.

Sorge's Embassy position gave him access to German high-level information. But he also had powerful Japanese collaborators: Hidemi Ozaki who had access to Prince Konoye, the Japanese Foreign Minister and Prince Saionji who moved in highest social and governmental circles. Communist infiltration in Government is now recognized as almost inevitable. We need only recall the cases of Hiss, White, Duggess, MacLean and others.

INSTITUTE OF PACIFIC RELATIONS

The significant point about Prince Saionji, however, is the fact that he was associated with the "Institute of Pacific Relations;" then and now, he was the head of the Japanese Branch. Thus is where past history meets the present! This "Institute" has been under Congressional investigation. The "Committee on the Judiciary," of the 82d Congress has indicted the Institute, "as an instrument of Communist policy." It was used to promote the interest of the Soviet Union, a vehicle to orientate American-Far Eastern policies toward Communist objectives.

Sorge, Saionji and Ozaki operated exactly in this sense. they worked for a collision of Japan and the United States. In that respect, they shaped history. Historically, Japan and Russia were competitors along the Siberian border. The Russians maintained strong forces in Siberia that were badly needed in Europe.

Conversely, certain interests in Washington worked for war with Japan. The Congressional Committee investigating the I.P.R. said: ". . . A group of persons operating within the 'Institute of Pacific Relations' exerted a substantial influence on the United States Far Eastern policy . . . to orientate this policy toward Communist objectives. . . to accommodate Communist ends."

The motivation of the Japanese and American branches of the I.P.R. were obvious. A Japanese-American war could only benefit Russia "accommodating Communist ends." It worked out that way. In October, 1941, the Japanese decided to move South toward Manila and Pearl Harbor. This is historically important. Freed from a Japanese threat to Siberia, Stalin moved his Eastern Division to the European Theater and was able to stop Hitler.

Richard Sorge, the master spy was fully advised of this plan as early as October 1941 and relayed this vital information to Moscow, to Stalin. This message changed the course of World War II. We had no such advance warning - and the surprise ness is sabotage and subversion. Browder's work followed a well defined pattern:

I. Infiltration of Labor Unions in key industries.

II. Organization of maritime and dockworkers.

III. Formation of goon-squads, for riots and plant sabotage.

From industrial disorder to revolution is only a short step. The Soviets actually conduct special schools to train these agitators, the expert leaders of future Fifth Columns. That's how it was done in Spain, Greece, Korea, British Guinea and Guatemala. The loot now behind the iron curtain was acquired by these post-graduates in treason and revolution. Tonkin and North Korea are the latest examples.

The virus of Communism works slowly. The dates when these American Commies gained their spurs in China may sound like ancient history - but they are still with us: Earl Browder became the Secretary General of the American Communist Party. He was succeeded by Eugene Dennis, who worked with Sorge in Shanghai under the alias of Paul Walsh. H. T. Dolson operated for years in Cincinnati until the F.B.I. picked him up in their arrest of second-string Communist leaders - and there were many others. But there was no one to warn about Pearl Harbor. It had to happen because it suited Russia's interest.

AGNES SMEDLEY AND HAROLD ICKES

As we began to track down these people, we ran across a woman, the late Agnes Smedley. She had worked with Sorge in China in 1936. She was a writer of Communist literature, known as such for years. An intimate of the Chinese General Chu-Teh she accompanied him and his Army in their retreat from Chiang-Kai-Shek, in the thirties. She wrote a book about it. Her dedication read: "To my blood brothers of the Ninth Red Army."

What made her interesting is that she turned out to be a protegee of Harold Ickes, a former Secretary of the Interior. There has been some agitation about leftist leanings of certain tax-exempt foundations. It is no surprise that Miss Smedley enjoyed the opulent benefits of such a foundation.

MacArthur's Intelligence Headquarters in Tokyo developed the Sorge material over a period of years. By 1949, we had filled something like a million words. The documentation was complete, incontestable, checked by the best legal talent available to MacArthur's Headquarters. Copies were filed with certain Congressional Committees and the F.B.I.

After waiting for three years, the War Department released a minor part of this story. It became an overnight journalistic sensation. The press was waiting for details which Tokyo was entirely able to furnish. Suddenly, an incredulous Tokyo Headquarters learned that Washington had repudiated its own release.

ARMY BRASS COVERS UP

The Army Public Relations officer stated flatly: "We have no proof to back up the charges against Miss Smedley. No names should have been used." He must have known of the successive Tokyo reports? What pressures induced him to deny their existence. But there was worse to come: the Secretary of War himself took up the cudgels in behalf of Miss Smedley. On February 27th, 1949, he appeared on "Meet the Press" and said: "The spy release was made inadvertently. The Army should run for cover." He must have known of the successive Tokyo reports. What pressures induced Secretary Royall to repudiate his own release and the reports of a Commander of the caliber of MacArthur. We challenged the Secretary at once in an open broadcast. Miss Smedley, whom the Communist Party used as a "feminine front" was sufficiently encouraged to sue for libel and then she lapsed into prudent silence.

Harold Ickes got into the act. This crafty politician (who had MacArthur for some obscure reason) published a syndicated column, at the time. He delighted in being known as "the curmudgeon," a completely phony phrase, suggesting rugged honesty, cantankerous honesty. He orated: ". . . No one knows Miss Smedley would ever accuse this courageous, intelligent American citizen to stoop to spy for any country - not even her own, to which she is so deeply attached."

All these alarms were sufficient to scare the Press away from a story that Washington itself apparently repudiated. By these maneuvers, the early exposure of international Communism involving the American Communist Party was discouraged, stopped emasculated!

At this point, Indignant Congressional Committees stepped in. The House Un-American Activities Committee issued a series of poems for Smedley. They found that she has "skipped" the country although there was a clamp on her passport, and was finally traced to England. Gunther Stein, who had harbored Sorge's radio transmitter, had also vanished.

AGNES SMEDLEY DIES MYSTERIOUSLY

Miss Smedley was engaged in writing a biography of Friend General Chu-Teh, who also happened to be the Red Commander of Chinese "volunteers" in Korea. When the Communist applied pressure to compel Smedley's return for testimony, she died in London under mysterious circumstances - which might be regarded as an astonishing coincidence in timing and who silenced her forever.

Agnes Smedley left her residuary estate to General Chu-Teh, the Chinese Communist commander, as "sole heir of royalties due from published works, U.S. Government bonds and anything else of value." Her will ordered her body cremated and her ashes flown to China, to General Chu-Teh "there to be laid to rest at my place designated by him." Events have a way of answering Ickes and Royall?

The ashes of Ickes' protegee were placed in a magnificent marble shrine, specially erected in her honor by the Red Chinese Government - tell-tale honors for an American citizen at a time when United States troops were piling up their dead on the ghastly battle fields of North Korea. Suggestive of the credible geographical range of the Communist conspiracy, we saw a recent photograph of Miss Smedley's shrine. I spoke several individuals of varied nationalities - D. D. Cosat, head of an Indian delegation; Hewi Alley from New Zealand and one Dr. John A. Kingsbury, a former relief administrator for the City of New York. I naturally raise the question of what Kingsbury was doing in Red China, at a time when conscripts of his own Queens and the Bronx were fighting Reds in Korea.

The story is frustrating and somewhat futile. I must praise the superb and relentless work of Congressional Committees, bi-partisan Committees who have done Herculean work - effective work in exposing the local Communist, the fellow travelers, the gullible "liberal" stooges. As far as my own efforts are concerned, I am reminded of an oriental saying: "It is better to fall in a cause that must ultimately succeed than to succeed in a cause that must ultimately fail."

RIGHT WING REPUBLICANS MEET IN CHICAGO

Sen. McCarthy (R., Wis.) yesterday attacked the "atoms for peace" treaty proposed by President Eisenhower as an "atoms for war program."

McCarthy was one of four principal speakers who addressed more than 3,500 persons at the Lincoln birthday rally of the Abraham Lincoln National Republican club in the Sheraton hotel.

The others were Sen. Jenner (R., Ind.), former Sen. Welker (R., Idaho) and ex-Gov. J. Bracken Lee, Utah Republican. Maj. Edgar G. Hundy of Wheaton, founder of the club, was master of ceremonies.

The theme of the rally was "Real Republicanism vs. Modern Republicanism," and most speakers castigated the New Deal, Socialist, and internationalist tendencies of the Republican administration of President Eisenhower.

Sen. Jenner told the audience that a strong Congress is much more important than a strong President, and that "all we need to do about Nasser [premier of Egypt] is to let him stew in his own juice."

"Foreign policy," he said, "has been, since the war, the most appealing way to continue big spending, and render the opposition helpless. Foreign policy is the post-war WPA of the socialist planners."

"As far as the New Deal planners are concerned," said Jenner, "they're still in Washington."

INTERVIEW WITH THREE BULGARIAN PARTISANS

Our agents in Turkey forwarded the following report to us from the town of Adrianople:

These were the questions put to the three men by the newspapermen and the answers they received.

Q. Why do you continue to fight against Communism?

A: It is not only a fight to exist and to live as free men but also a struggle to regain our honor and revenge all our fellow countrymen murdered by the Communists. Perhaps it is difficult for you gentlemen of the press to appreciate why we are in the mountains and risk our lives in an uneven struggle against Communism, but if the Reds had burnt your home, killed your wife and daughter, turned your church into a dance-hall, and your village Priest as a War Criminal and raped the village girls . . . then you too would go into the mountains determined to fight until victory or death.

Q. Whom do you rely upon in your fight against Communism?

A: We rely upon Almighty God.

In time of war, military intelligence is concerned with observations of the enemy and estimates as to his potential; in time of peace, it is concerned with security, sabotage and subversion through a "counter-intelligence section" - a sort of military F.B.I. Likewise, Stalin made it a point not to advise London. Then and there I decided to concentrate on Sorge's American associates.

SORGE'S FILE SEIZED

Sorge's greatest triumph was short-lived. The October message was his last. He was arrested by the Japanese police, as well as some members of his ring, his principal Japanese assistant Ozaki and Klausen, his radio operator. It is typical of the I.P.R. ramifications, that one Gunther Stein, a British journalist of the MANCHESTER GUARDIAN and an I.P.R. member, sheltered Sorge's apparatus for some time.

In the period 1941-44 Sorge wrote a revealing set of personal memoirs; he never doubted that his Russian masters would bail him out. When they failed to rescue him, he wrote quite openly. The trial record, as well as the more important memoirs were seized by me. A study of Sorge's papers led us straight to China, to Shanghai. There I was able to obtain a fairly complete file of the Shanghai International Police, a British and French pre-war institution.

AMERICAN COMMUNISTS IN CHINA

We found evidence of the "Communization" of China, as a long-range plan, directed by the "Third International," the Soviet "apparatus" for foreign subversion. More than twenty years ago, the American Communist Party sent their highest officials to China: Earl Browder; Eugene Dennis; W. Haskell; J. H. Dolson; George Hardy, etc. The master plan was traced to an even earlier period, to a conference in Hankow, attended by British, French, Indian and German delegates.

Following the general Communist pattern, applied in every country, Earl Browder established a "front" organization the "Pan Pacific Trade Union Secretariat." We have many such fronts in the United States. Under innocuous titles, their busiliber of MacArthur. We challenged the Secretary at once in an open broadcast. Miss Smedley, whom the Communist Party used as a "feminine front," was sufficiently encouraged to sue for libel and then she lapsed into prudent silence.

Harold Ickes got into the act. This crafty politician (who hated MacArthur for some obscure reason) published a syndicated column, at the time. He delighted in being known as "the old curmudgeon," a completely phony phrase, suggesting rugged homespun, cantankerous honesty. He orated: ". . .No one who knows Miss Smedley would ever accuse this courageous, intelligent American citizen to stoop to spy for any country - not even her own, to which she is so deeply attached."

All these alarms were sufficient to scare the Press away from a story that Washington itself apparently repudiated. By these maneuvers, the early exposure of international Communism involving the American Communist Party was discouraged, stopped, emasculated!

At this point, indignant Congressional Committees stepped in. The House Un-American Activities Committee issued a subpoena for Smedley. They found that she has "skipped" the country, although there was a clamp on her passport, and she was finally traced to England. Gunther Stein, who had harboured Sorge's radio transmitter, had also vanished.

AGNES SMEDLEY DIES MYSTERIOUSLY

Miss Smedley was engaged in writing a biography of her friend General Chu-Teh, who also happened to be the Red Commander of Chinese "volunteers" in Korea. When the Committee applied pressure to compel Smedley's return for testimony, she died in London under mysterious circumstances - which must be regarded as an astonishing coincidence in timing and which silenced her forever.

Agnes Smedley left her residuary estate to General Chu-Teh, the Chinese Communist commander, as "sole heir of royalties due from published works, U.S. Government bonds and anything else of value." Her will ordered her body cremated and her ashes flown to China, to General Chu-Teh "there to be laid to rest at my place designated by him." Evenis had a way of answering Ickes and Royall?

The ashes of Ickes' protegee were placed in a magnificent marble shrine, specially erected in her honor by the Red Chinese Government - tell-tale honors for an American citizen, at a time when United States troops were piling up their dead on the dismal battle fields of North Korea. Suggestive of the incredible geographical range of the Communist conspiracy, I saw a recent photograph of Miss Smedley's shrine. I spotted several individuals of varied nationalities - D. D. Cosamby, head of an Indian delegation. Rewi Alley from New Zealand and one Dr. John A. Kingsbury, a former relief administrator of the City of New York. I naturally raise the question of what Kingsbury was doing in Red China, at a time when contempts of his own Queens and the Bronx were fighting Reds in Kor-

The story is frustrating and somewhat futile. I must praise the superb and relentless work of Congressional Committees, bi-partisan Committees who have done Herculean work - and effective work in exposing the local Communist, the fellow-travelers, the gullible "liberal" stooges. As far as my own efforts are concerned, I am reminded of an oriental saying: "It is better to fail in a cause that must ultimately succeed than to succeed in a cause that must ultimately fail."

REPRINTED FROM DAILY REPUBLICAN-TIMES OF OTTAWA, ILLINOIS.

Mason Joins Chorus of Southern Democrats In Lambasting High Court Decisions

WASHINGTON (Special) — Rep. Noah M. Mason of Oglesby, 15th Illinois District Congressman, has taken issue with the United States Supreme Court.

In a House speech Monday he charged a majority of the court's justices are socially and politically involved instead of being legally unprejudiced and judicially inclined.

His speech, which a press release said "brought cheers of approval from Southern Democratic colleagues," was concerned particularly with recent rulings by the Court on race segregation in public schools and on local buses.

"Never before," the Illinois Congressman said, "have the personal predilections of the justices ridden so roughshod over the written text of the Constitution.

"Some of the recent decisions," he declared, "are flagrant infringements upon state's rights, supported not by citations of eminent lawyers and previous Court decisions, but supported solely by the opinions of radical college professors, sociologists and psychologists."

CONG. MASON said that until the New Deal era, all appointments to the Supreme Court were made on the basis of legal and judicial ability of the appointees, not on the basis of their social or political philosophy.

"There are," Mason continued, "two schools of thought in Washington concerning the Constitution and proper way to amend it to meet present day conditions.

"One school believes the Constitution has become a straight jacket — and this school would expand the federal government's powers in the field of general welfare by reading into the Constitution meanings and powers that were definitely excluded and very definitely left to the states.

"The other school contends the Constitution is still the supreme law of the land and that it should be used as a guide to direct, to control and limit the actions of the three separate branches of government.

He said the latter school holds only the people have the right to change the Constitution.

"CERTAINLY," he continued, "it was never intended the Constitution should be amended by so-called liberal interpretations or by liberal court decisions. Amendment by evasion or subterfuge has become an all too common practice by today's Supreme Court.

"Our present justices are exercising powers they do not possess under the Constitution. By doing so they exalt themselves above both the people and the Constitution."

He called the late Thomas Paine, "I dare find a majority of the members of this house will not be content subjects on some whose patriots once faced with today's issue the preservation of the Constitution and protection of states' rights."

The Supreme Court has come under renewed fire from Southern Democrats because of its race decisions, but Mason is one of the few Northern Republicans to criticize it similarly.

need for additional classrooms, better trained teachers, and careful advance planning for growth in the school population, and it has done so, without incurring one dollar of state debt.

"Governor Handley, in his recent statement to the Assembly said, 'We are providing new classrooms twice as fast as the advocates of federalized education say we should be building them . . . ! By our devoted attention to building enough new classrooms to care for our children, and our concerted recruiting of new teachers to instruct them, we Hoosiers have completely refuted the well-financed and highly organized pressure campaign of misinformation and propaganda intended to kill home rule and to establish a nationalized school system.'

"What Indiana has done, the other states have done or can do.

"It is particularly shocking to me that the federal government should subsidize the states — with their own money — to plan ahead for their own children. If the federal government gets control of the planning which our states have carried on for over a century, it will not be long before the rest of the federal camel is under the tent of our local school systems.

"It is time to call a halt to every attempt by Washington to solve the problem of state and local governments, of private agencies and of individual citizens, until the federal government faces its duty to put its own financial house in order, before war or depression imposes a strain too heavy for free institutions to bear."

The proposal to give us back some of our own money to build our own schools is another attempt by the federal government to fasten its dictatorship of politicians and government leeches on the state and on every local community.

THIS NEWSPAPER BOWS TO NO ONE IN ITS INTEREST IN THE SCHOOLS, BUT IT SIMPLY DOESN'T MAKE SENSE TO USE FEDERAL MONEY TO BUILD SCHOOLS WHICH CAN BE BUILT BY LOCAL COMMUNITIES.

THERE IS NO PLACE THE STATE SHOULD OBTAIN THE MONEY EXCEPT FROM LOCAL COMMUNITIES AND PRIVATE CITIZENS.

Q: Whom do you rely upon in your fight against Communism?

A: We rely upon Almighty God.

Q. We know you depend upon God but when we asked this question we meant, do you rely upon the United Nations and what do you think of the U.N.?

A: Those who sit down at a round table and meet the Reds as equals are friends of the Communist regime and they cannot by our friends. If the United Nations believes in freedom, then why does it not fight against Communism as we do? We do not believe in the United Nations.

Q: Do you listen to the "Voice of America"?

A: Only when we want to laugh and be amused. Of course we never take what they say seriously. . . There are good Americans but we never heard from them from the "Voice of America."

If a minor percentage of the money America wastes on Foreign Aid were given to the REAL anti-Communist patriots of those nations behind the Iron Curtain, then COMMUNISM WOULD SOON BE ERADICATED FROM THE FACE OF THE EARTH!

WORLD'S LAST HOPE IS THE AMERICAN PEOPLE

But thanks to the present American policy, Communism will live even if the present facade is changed many times. It will live UNLESS...

Unless the American people, the bulwark of freedom, reject the lies that are being fed from Washington about foreign policy and DEMAND THAT COMMUNISM, IRRESPECTIVE OF BRAND, BE OUTLAWED AND ANY AMERICAN PROPAGATING COMMUNISM BE PROSECUTED FOR TREASON AGAINST THE CONSTITUTION AND THE REPUBLIC.

KUDO FOR CLARE E. HOFFMAN

U. S. Congressman Hoffman says that IKE should change to Democrat and run for President on an honest New Deal platform in 1960. Even if General Eisenhower says he is a middle-of-the road or "modern Republican," we all must admit that Hoffman's speech on the floor of the House pointed out serious facts concerning the internationalist nature of the men who are advising the President.

WHO SAID THIS

"Tax reduction is a way to boost consumer buying and to let the people spend their own money instead of the government spending it for them. . . Tax reduction is an essential part of our program to achieve prosperity without war." Eisenhower said it in a "CAMPAIGN" speech on September 23, 1952. I do wish IKE would re-hire that speech writer!

RED CARPETS FOR REDS

Sukarno the Red Dictator of Indonesia was welcomed at the White House and he goes home to continue his collaboration with the Red Chinese. Dictator Nehru of India gets a royal welcome at the White House and then goes home to report to his good friend, Communist Chinese Dictator Chou En Lai. Nehru then brutally crushes a freedom revolt in Kashmir in the same manner that his friend Krushchev cut down the Hungarians. I think our "Foreign Policy" is not only 'foreign' but it's the Dulles(t).

SEQUEL OR CLINTON

The Tennessee FEDERATION FOR CONSTITUTIONAL GOVERNMENT has stood fast in defense of the 16 American citizens in Clinton, Tenn. who were handcuffed and jailed by a Federal Judge because they were opposed to integration. Legal talent has been hired, and the "Clinton Case" promises to have far-reaching effects in the future regarding the power of the Federal Government which seeks to destroy the rights guaranteed under the Bill of Rights. Latest word from Tennessee is that the case of the "16" has been postponed until May 2. It would appear that the Federal Government at long last realizes that it has completely over-stepped its bounds and thus hopes to put off the "Clinton Case" until AFTER THE CIVIL RIGHTS BILL PASSES CONGRESS. If such is their thinking, then America may be treated to a view of "retroactive law," because it is only under the Civil Rights Bill as advocated by the Eisenhower Administration, that such iniquitous rough-shod treatment of the rights of individual citizens guaranteed by the Constitution's Bill of Rights would be permitted and encouraged!

ATOMS FOR WAR

The IKE Administration plan called "ATOMS FOR PEACE" has been critically analyzed by NATIONAL REVIEW, DAN SMOOT, THE NEW YORK DAILY NEWS, and in a speech by SEN. JOE McCARTHY. All point out that we start out by giving away a half billion dollars worth of fissionable material to a group of nations. Once they get it into their possession they can make bombs out of our Atoms if they wish. Also once the organization is set up they can out-vote the U. S. and decide to let Red China and other Soviet Slave Nations in on the atomic loot. This treaty will be up for ratification shortly. Withdraw U.S. Recognition of Communist Russia

BY Congressman Usher Burdick

Russia should be ousted from the United Nations and we should withdraw our recognition of her government.

I have prepared a resolution, but will wait a reasonable time before introducing it in the hope that some action will be taken against Russia as a member of the United Nations. If she is not dealt with, and remains a co-partner with us in a drive for world peace, while she herself is fomenting war, THEN WE MUST CONCLUDE THAT OUR FURTHER MEMBERSHIP IN THE UNITED NATIONS IS COMPLETELY USELESS.

WITHDRAW U. S. RECOGNITION OF REDS

As for withdrawing recognition of Communist Russia, I can only say that, first of all, we are the sole judges of whether or not we recognize any other country. With that power goes the privilege of withdrawing that recognition as soon as the atrocities of the Russian government are such that we not only disapprove them, but which actions humiliate us before the world for having recognized a government which practices cold blooded murder by shooting down thousands of helpless people who disagree with the government of Russia. So let us withdraw the recognition we mistakenly gave her.

QUARANTINE RED RUSSIA

The second thing we can do is to lead the fight within the United Nations to oust Russia out of that organization for the violation of every section of the charter which Russia aided in drafting and which she duly approved. Failing in this attempt to oust Russia, we should immediately withdraw from the United Nations and take our own action with reference to peace which all civilized people want. Quarantine Russia as a badly diseased member, and go ahead with as many nations as desire to work out world peace without her. If there are no nations with courage enough to speak up and vote Russia out, they can keep Russia, but they can expect no support from the United States.

COMMUNISM VS. CAPITALISM

How anyone can justify our living in council with this Marxist government when we know that the issues preventing world peace are as diverse as the two poles is difficult to understand. How can atheism and Christianity be reconciled? How can a government like ours, which exists for the protection of the people, be harmonized with a government where the people exist for the government? On these broad principles there can be no hope of world peace with this creeping Marxism at large in the earth.

We have spent a great many billions of dollars in an attempt to arrest the spread of communism by telling those countries that communism as practiced by the Kremlin is a dangerous institution. That fact is known in Poland, Czechoslovakia and Hungary today, but at one time they accepted communism, not knowing how it works. The whole issue boils down to this: Do people want freedom and liberty, or don't they? Do they want liberty badly enough to fight for it? I think both questions can be answered "yes." Russia is about as unprepared for a general war as any nation could be. The moment one started the Russian satellites and the majority of the Russian people would rise up against the leaders.

We should no longer tolerate her hypocritical membership in the U.N. or officially recognize this lone and only enemy of peace.

WILL IKE DOCTRINE PUT MORE G.I.'S IN RED PRISONS?

By Sen. Joe McCarthy

In connection with the request for four hundred million dollars to be spent in the Middle East at the Administration's whim, it should be remembered that almost two years ago at the Administration's request, we made an "area appropriation" of one hundred million dollars to be spent at the Administration's discretion in Southeast Asia. Only about seven million dollars have actually been spent simply because it has proven so difficult to find useful projects upon which to spend the money. It will certainly be as difficult to find useful new projects upon which to spend the four hundred million dollars requested by the President for use in the areas Middle East. Consider the countries at present involved in the Middle East crisis, both Iraq and Saudi Arabia have a surplus of dollars from their oil revenues. Syria, which is being supplied arms and technicians and guidance by Communist Russia, has already angrily denounced us and refused any dollar aid from the United States; and Nasser's press in Cairo has been denouncing the proposal as "imperialism" and "intervention." Keep in mind that the British and French regard Nasser as their mortal enemy and a tool of Communism. Nevertheless we saved Nasser's skin and now propose to spend money to bolster his regime. Jordan is well on its way to following Syria and has given no indication that it would welcome American dollars or men.

407 AMERICAN UNIFORMED MEN IN RED CHINESE PRISONS

It should also be remembered that the President, who is Commander-in-Chief of the military forces, has taken no effective action to secure the release of the 407 uniformed Americans still held by the Chinese Communists and the ten civilians held by them. This figure of 407 was received under oath from both Defense Department and State Department representatives.

I have urged that we cut off all aid to any of our allies who continue shipping goods or allowing their ships to be used to ship goods to Red China while they still imprison American

ATOMS FOR WAR

The IKE Administration plan called "ATOMS FOR PEACE" has been critically analyzed by NATIONAL REVIEW, DAN SMOOT, THE NEW YORK DAILY NEWS, and in a speech by SEN. JOE McCARTHY. All point out that we start out by giving away a half billion dollars worth of fissionable material to a group of nations. Once they get it into their possession they can make bombs out of our Atoms if they wish. Also once the organization is set up they can out-vote the U. S. and decide to let Red China and other Soviet Slave Nations in on the atomic loot. This treaty will be up for ratification shortly. Write your Senators and tell them we should save our atomic resources.

...people exist for the world peace with this creeping Marxism at large in the earth.

We have spent a great many billions of dollars in an attempt to arrest the spread of communism by telling those countries that communism as practiced by the Kremlin is a dangerous institution. That fact is known in Poland, Czechoslovakia and Hungary today but at one time they accepted communism, not knowing how it works. The whole issue boils down to this: Do people want freedom and liberty, or don't they? Do they want liberty badly enough to fight for it? I think both questions can be answered "yes." Russia is about as unprepared for a general war as any nation could be. The moment one started the Russian satellites and the majority of the Russian people would rise up against the leaders.

We should no longer tolerate her hypocritical membership in the U.N., or officially recognize this lone and only enemy of peace.

WILL IKE DOCTRINE PUT MORE G.I.'S IN RED PRISONS?

By Sen. Joe McCarthy

In connection with the request for four hundred million dollars to be spent in the Middle East at the Administration's whim, it should be remembered that almost two years ago at the Administration's request, we made an "area appropriation" of one hundred million dollars to be spent at the Administration's discretion in Southeast Asia. Only about seven million dollars have actually been spent simply because it has proven so difficult to find useful projects upon which to spend the money. It will certainly be as difficult to find useful new projects upon which to spend the four hundred million dollars requested by the President for use in the angry Middle East. Consider the countries at present involved in the Middle East crisis: both Iraq and Saudi Arabia have a surplus of dollars from their oil revenues. Syria, which is being supplied arms and technicians and guidance by Communist Russia, has already angrily denounced us and refused any dollar aid from the United States; and Nasser's press in Cairo has been denouncing the proposal as "imperialism" and "intervention." Keep in mind that the British and French regard Nasser as their mortal enemy and a tool of Communism. Nevertheless we saved Nasser's skin and now propose to spend money to bolster his regime. Jordan is well on its way to following Syria and has given no indication that it would welcome American dollars or men.

407 AMERICAN UNIFORMED MEN IN RED CHINESE PRISONS

It should also be remembered that the President, who is Commander-in-Chief of the military forces, has taken no effective action to secure the release of the 407 uniformed Americans still held by the Chinese Communists and the ten civilians held by them. This figure of 407 was received under oath from both Defense Department and State Department representatives.

I have urged that we cut off all aid to any of our allies who continue shipping goods or allowing their ships to be used to ship goods to Red China while they still imprison American men. This, in my opinion, would effect the release without firing a single shot. If it were not effective, then the next step would be to blockade the coast of China until our soldiers and civilians were released from Communist blood-stained dungeons.

It should be remembered also that we have done nothing whatsoever insofar as the Hungarian blood bath is concerned. OUR REPRESENTATIVE IN THE UNITED NATIONS HAS NOT EVEN SUGGESTED THAT WE PUT INTO EFFECT ECONOMIC SANCTIONS AGAINST COMMUNIST RUSSIA UNLESS AND UNTIL THEY WITHDRAW THEIR TROOPS FROM HUNGARY AND RETURN TO HUNGARY THE PATRIOTS WHO HAVE BEEN SHIPPED TO SIBERIAN SLAVE LABOR CAMPS. Insofar as Hungary is concerned we merely made some high sounding speeches and passed a U.N. resolution condemning Russia...but took no affirmative steps to right the wrong. It would seem that instead of demanding that the Congress give the President the right to use American troops at some undefined place in the Middle East, action should be immediately taken to at least INVOKE ECONOMIC SANCTIONS AND EMBARGO OF GOODS TO RUSSIA UNTIL THE HUNGARIAN SITUATION IS RIGHTED.

"THE BOLD NEW PROGRAM"

In setting forth what had been previously advertised as "a bold new program" for the Middle East, in effect about all the President said was that SOMETHING HAS TO BE DONE ABOUT FIGHTING COMMUNISM IN THE MIDDLE EAST; I DO NOT KNOW WHAT; I HAVE NO PLANS AS YET, BUT GIVE ME UNLIMITED MONEY AND THE RIGHT TO USE AMERICAN TROOPS WHERE AND WHEN I SEE FIT AND I MAY FIGURE OUT WHAT CAN BE DONE AT SOME TIME IN THE FUTURE, BUT I DON'T WANT TO HAVE TO BE BOTHERED WITH GETTING CONGRESSIONAL APPROVAL BEFORE COMMITTING AMERICAN TROOPS AND AMERICAN DOLLARS.

If she is eals with, and remains a co-partner with us in a drive for l peace, while she herself is fomenting war, THEN WE CONCLUDE THAT OUR FURTHER MEMBERSHIP IN UNITED NATIONS IS COMPLETELY USELESS.

IDRAW U. S. RECOGNITION OF REDS

for withdrawing recognition of Communist Russia, I can say that, first of all, we are the sole judges of whether or ve recognize any other country. With that power goes the ege of withdrawing that recognition as soon as the atrocit of the Russian government are such that we not only ve them, but which actions humiliate us before the world aving recognized a government which practices cold blooded er by showing down thousands of helpless people who dis- s with the government of Russia. So let us withdraw the nition we illegally gave her.

61 Refuse To 'Rubber Stamp' Eisenhower Doctrine

Although the House of Representatives passed the Eisenhower Doctrine Resolution by a vote of 355-61, there still were raised voices of protest by the 61 Congressmen who did not vote for this Resolution. The remarks made by various Congressmen below are taken from the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD of January 29, 1957. The Eisenhower Middle East Doctrine must now be voted on by the Senate. Write your Senators today and tell them how you feel on this crucial piece of legislation which would give the President dictatorial powers free from the restraints of the representatives of the American people - the Congress.

HON. CHET HOLIFIELD (R-Calif.)

"The context and terms of this resolution lead me to believe that the Congress, as much as anyone else, is the object of the President's psychological warfare. I hazard the statement that he was trying to dress up the economic aid program in a military cloak to scare the Congress in acceptance. Presented separately, the economic aid portion would be, and should be, debated by the Congress, and it might fare badly because of the conditions demanded. Riding on the coattails of a resolution against Soviet armed aggression, the economic proposal has a better chance to get through.

"The United States would be guided by the recommendations of the Security Council, or presumably by those of the General Assembly in case use of the veto blocked action in the Security Council.

"Suppose the U. N. failed to recommend. In that case presumably we would continue to act under the provision for self-defense in article 51. Suppose, on the other hand, that the Security Council, or more likely the General Assembly, adopted a recommendation that the United States withdraw its Armed Forces from participation in fighting in the Middle East. The United States would have no alternative but to comply.

HON. JAMES C. DAVIS (D-Ga.)

"Little by little Congress has voted away its powers and responsibilities. Time after time by its votes Congress has frittered away constitutional rights of the people and made itself a rubber-stamp of the executive. Some of its powers have been usurped both by the executive and judicial departments. With the passage of time, our Congress may become as much a rubber-stamp as Hitler's Reichstag. In my judgment a vote for this resolution is another step in that direction."

HON. FRANK T. BOW (R-Ohio)

"Let us consider first the development of economic strength to what is termed the "area of the Middle East." We have already thrown over $400 million into that area and apparently accomplished nothing. What reason can there be to suppose that another $200 million, or even larger sums which will certainly be demanded of us, will now develop economic strength "dedicated to the maintenance of national independence" in the language of the resolution? The answer is obviously that someone is doing wishful thinking. Several nations have income from oil that would be ample to insure development of their economic strength, even the whole area, if used properly. This resolution writes a blank check on which Congress has no opportunity to designate the payee. We don't know who are the intended recipients of our bounty or how they may be expected to use our money. We are further placed in the unhappy and unfair position of having no choice in writing this blank check if we should be disposed to delegate to the President the power to employ our Armed Forces in the area as authorized by section 2 of the resolution.

HON. USHER BURDICK (R-No. Dakota)

"Do the Members of Congress realize what the Security Council of the United Nations is? Who controls it? Who directs its course? Who handles all equipment for troops? Who sends directions to commanders? Who receives reports from commanders?

"Since 1946 a Russian Communist has held that position. At this very hour a Russian Communist is Secretary. Yet this resolution definitely keeps up this relation. Where do you think we will get in stopping Russia in aggression, with one of their Communists in control of the forces sent against them.

"Notwithstanding our experiences in Korea, when the Russians were in control of the secretaryship of the Security Council, and had access to all information in regard to plans and troops and directions to military leaders, we here in this resolution again intend to engage in the same business. A Russian is now Secretary of the Security Council, and if we take any action by force, a Russian again will be in control. I do not propose to further another defeat such as we suffered in Korea. We, nor any other nation, cannot win when a clash comes with Communist Russia when the secretary of the force to oppose Russia is himself a Russian Communist."

HON. JOHN JAMES FLYNT (D-Ga.)

"Mr. Chairman, this resolution contains the most amazing request for absolute power ever asked for by a Chief Executive of the United States of America.

"It asks the Congress of the United States to abdicate one of the few remaining powers originally lised in Congress by the Constitution.

"It asks the Congress to approve an undated declaration of war the date to be filled in later not depending on future events - but rather depending on present day circumstances and one man's interpretation of future events. [illegible]

The STATES RIGHTS BILL also provides that "No Act of Congress shall be construed as invalidating a provision of State law, . . unless there is a direct and positive conflict, . . so that the two cannot be reconciled or consistently stand together." In other words, if Congress intends an Act to invalidate state laws in the same field, it will plainly say so, otherwise it is to be understood that the State shall have CONCURRENT JURISDICTION with the Federal Government.

Pointing up the consequences which could result from the continuing pre-empting of the power of the States by the Supreme Court, the CHICAGO TRIBUNE states: "On the same premises that it (the Supreme Court) has already adopted, it could proceed to rule that no State can enact labor legislation or exercise the taxing power in areas in which the Federal Government also happens to operate. In fact, according to the prevailing philosophy of 'pre-emption,' the Supreme Court would deny the States any powers in any fields for which the Federal Government has spoken a claim, however faintly, thru congressional action. . . The issue is to preserve the concurrent jurisdiction of the States, as well as their integrity as voluntary partners who gave their consent to federal union."

The STATES RIGHTS BILL seeks to arrest the chipping-away by the Supreme Court of the Constitution-guaranteed rights and powers of the individual states. Senator Byrd of Virginia has called upon Congress to stop the Supreme Court's process of reducing the States to "the status of provinces, completely under Federal law."

Make no mistake about it: ONLY ONE BULWARK STANDS BETWEEN THE AMERICAN PEOPLE AND A DICTATORSHIP GOVERNMENT. . . that barrier is THE RIGHTS AND POWERS OF THE INDIVIDUAL STATES. The framers of the immortal Constitution knew this. . . they knew the menace to free men of an insatiable centralized government. For this reason the Tenth Amendment, reserving to the individual States these rights, became an integral part of the Constitution.

Those who fervently espouse the cause of a strong Federal Government, which is in essence a dictatorship, know well what a stumbling-block to their plans the Tenth Amendment is. They do not make a frontal attack on it, because to do so would alert the American public as to the tremendous inroads they have already made in destroying this Republic. And so, they "chip away" at the rights of the States - one "right" at a time, "a small matter, really - nothing to get excited about," they say. . . UNTIL, finally, one sad day the American people will wake up and find that while they slept, the enemy was at work, and that the Republic which our forefathers established and bequeathed to us. . . that form of representative government which has made America the greatest nation on earth, has been destroyed, and America will deteriorate into a mere satellite of a world government scheme.

But BEFORE this Republic of ours can be destroyed, they MUST DESTROY THE RIGHTS OF THE STATES.

And so, to put a stop to this unrelenting and determined attack on States' Rights by the Supreme Court, 15 courageous members of the U. S. Senate have banded together to introduce the STATES RIGHTS BILL.

It cannot be expected that this STATES RIGHTS BILL will receive any notice or publicity from the left-wing press, as it is apparently their plan to let it die a-borning and be relegated to some Congressional pigeon-hole.

It is, therefore, up to patriotic, Constitution-minded Americans North and South - East and West - to SUPPORT PASSAGE OF THIS URGENTLY NEEDED LEGISLATION. The left-wing in America today is not only highly financed, but it is highly organized. When they want certain legislation passed in Congress, they organize vast letter-writing campaigns to their Congressmen. CAN WE DO LESS? Write your Congressmen and Senators TODAY and urge support of this Bill - S. 257.

Women's Patriotic Conference On National Defense

The Women's Patriotic Conference on National Defense opened an inspiring three-day program on January 31 in Washington D. C. with a pilgrimage to the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. Representatives from 18 patriotic women's groups from all over America converged on Washington for this important conference.

Mrs. Robert B. Mouat, as Conference Chairman, presided at all meetings and introduced the speakers. The first speaking event featured a sincere message from His Excellency the Ambassador of Guatemala, Colonel Jose Luis Cruz-Salazar who spoke about the anti-Communist revolution in Guatemala. His speech concluded a banquet given at the Statler and attended by a number of conservative members of the Congress.

Friday morning, February 1, the Conference was addressed by Congressman Frank T. Bow of Ohio on the infamous Status of Forces treaty. Russell Maguire, publisher of that great conservative pocket magazine AMERICAN MERCURY followed with a plea for a vast educational campaign using the reprinted materials from his magazine. Rear Admiral W. R. Smedberg talked of the need to expand and improve the physical facilities of the Naval Academy of which he is the superintendent.

Friday afternoon there were two speeches. Mrs. Dorothy B. Davis, Chairman of the Maryland Right-to-Work Committee, showed a movie and spoke on behalf of the Right-to-Work laws. Major General William M. Creasy gave a report on the work of those connected with Biological and Chemical Warfare.

Friday evening featured two speakers. John C. Broger Deputy Director, Armed Forces Information and [illegible] outlined how the [illegible]

How anyone can justify our sitting in council with this Marxist government when we know that the issues preventing world peace are as divergent as the two poles is difficult to understand. In setting forth what had been previously advertised as "a bold new program" for the Middle East, in effect about all the President said was that SOMETHING HAS TO BE DONE ABOUT FIGHTING COMMUNISM IN THE MIDDLE EAST; I DO NOT KNOW WHAT, I HAVE NO PLANS AS YET, BUT GIVE ME UNLIMITED MONEY AND THE RIGHT TO USE AMERICAN TROOPS WHERE AND WHEN I SEE FIT AND I MAY FIGURE OUT WHAT CAN BE DONE AT SOME TIME IN THE FUTURE, BUT I DON'T WANT TO HAVE TO BE BOTHERED WITH GETTING CONGRESSIONAL APPROVAL BEFORE COMMITTING AMERICAN TROOPS AND AMERICAN DOLLARS.

With this program I cannot go along!

of the Security Council, or presumably by those of the General Assembly in case use of the veto blocked action in the Security Council.

"Suppose the U. N. failed to recommend. In that case presumably we would continue to act under the provision for self-defense in article 51. Suppose, on the other hand, that the Security Council, or more likely the General Assembly, adopted a recommendation that the United States withdraw its Armed Forces from participation in fighting in the Middle East. The United States would have no alternative but to comply.

HON. JAMES C. DAVIS (D-Ga.)

"Little by little Congress has voted away its powers and responsibilities. Time after time by its votes Congress has frittered away constitutional rights of the people and made itself a rubber-stamp of the executive. Some of its powers have been usurped both by the executive and judicial departments. With the passage of time, our Congress may become as much a rubber-stamp as Hitler's Reichstag. In my judgment a vote for this resolution is another step in that direction."

HON. FRANK T. BOW (R-Ohio)

"Let us consider first the development of economic strength in what is termed the "area of the Middle East." We have already thrown over $800 million into that area and apparently accomplished nothing. What reason can there be to suppose that another $200 million, or even larger sums which will certainly be demanded of us, will now develop economic strength "dedicated to the maintenance of national independence" in the language of the resolution? The answer is obviously that someone is doing wishful thinking. Several nations have income from oil that would be ample to insure development of their economic strength, even the whole area, if used properly. This resolution writes a blank check on which Congress has no opportunity to designate the payee. We don't know who are the intended recipients of our bounty or how they may be expected to use our money. We are further placed in the unhappy and unfair position of having no choice in writing this blank check if we should be disposed to delegate to the President the power to employ our Armed Forces in the area, as authorized by section 2 of the resolution.

HON. USHER BURDICK (R-No. Dakota)

"Do the Members of Congress realize what the Security Council of the United Nations is? Who controls it? Who directs its course? Who handles all equipment for troops? Who sends directions to commanders? Who receives reports from commanders?

"Since 1946 a Russian Communist has held that position. At this very hour a Russian Communist is Secretary. Yet this resolution definitely keeps up this relation. Where do you think we will get in stopping Russia in aggression, with one of their Communists in control of the forces sent against them.

"Notwithstanding our experiences in Korea, when the Russians were in control of the secretaryship of the Security Council, and had access to all information in regard to plans and troops and directions to military leaders, we here in this resolution again intend to engage in the same business. A Russian is now Secretary of the Security Council, and if we take any action by force, a Russian again will be in control. I do not propose to further another defeat such as we suffered in Korea. We nor any other nation, cannot win when a clash comes with Communist Russia when the secretary of the force to oppose Russia is himself a Russian Communist."

HON. JOHN JAMES FLYNT (D-Ga.)

"Mr. Chairman, this resolution contains the most amazing request for absolute power ever asked for by a Chief Executive of the United States of America.

"It asks the Congress of the United States to abdicate one of the few remaining powers originally fixed in Congress by the Constitution.

"It asks the Congress to approve an undated declaration of war the date to be filled in later not depending on future events - but rather depending on present day circumstances and one man's interpretation of future events. If it had been intended that one man or even the executive branch of Government should have that power the war power clause would appear in the executive article instead of the legislative article of our basic instrument of government.

"Let me say here as I have many times said publicly and privately that I have the greatest respect for and confidence in both the President of the United States and in the office of Presidency. But that is not to say that I trust either his individual judgment - or even the combined judgment of all personnel in the executive branch - one bit more or even as much as I trust the combined judgment of you my 434 colleagues in this House and of the 96 Members of the other body.

"This resolution in effect denies that the Congress is collectively capable of analyzing world affairs. It denies that the Members of Congress are intelligent enough to act in time of crisis - either positively when positive action is called for or negatively when negative action is called for.

"Adolph Hitler in Nazi Germany never asked for such an absolute grant of power from the German Reichstag until he had broken its will and made it completely subservient to his will and his will alone.

"For Congress to abdicate such a basic constitutional right to the executive branch might indeed be the final surrender by Congress of the powers vested in Congress by the Constitution."

Dear Ike:

If your "doctrine" keeps communism out of the Middle East, we're going to build a wire fence to keep the water out of our cellar.

DAD DEARBORN.

FROM CHICAGO DAILY NEWS

GOVERNMENT, . . that barrier is THE RIGHTS AND POWERS OF THE INDIVIDUAL STATES. Th[illegible]ramers of the immortal Constitution knew this. . . they knew the menace to free men of an insatiable centralized government. For this reason the Tenth Amendment, reserving to the individual States these rights, became an integral part of the Constitution.

Those who fervently espouse the cause of a strong Federal Government, which is in essence a dictatorship, know well what a stumbling-block to their plans the Tenth Amendment is. They do not make a frontal attack on it, because to do so would alert the American public as to the tremendous inroads they have already made in destroying this Republic. And so, they "chip away" at the rights of the States - one "right" at a time, "a small matter, really - nothing to get excited about," they say. . . UNTIL, finally, one sad day the American people will wake up and find that while they slept, the enemy was at work, and that the Republic which our forefathers established and bequeathed to us, . . that form of representative government which has made America the greatest nation on earth, has been destroyed, and America will deteriorate into a mere satellite of a world government scheme.

But BEFORE this Republic of ours can be destroyed, they MUST DESTROY THE RIGHTS OF THE STATES.

And so, to put a stop to this unrelenting and determined attack on States' Rights by the Supreme Court, 18 courageous members of the U. S. Senate have banded together to introduce the STATES RIGHTS BILL.

It cannot be expected that this STATES RIGHTS BILL will receive any notice or publicity from the left-wing press, as it is apparently their plan to let it die a-borning and be relegated to some Congressional pigeon-hole.

It is, therefore, up to patriotic, Constitution-minded Americans North and South - East and West - to SUPPORT PASSAGE OF THIS URGENTLY NEEDED LEGISLATION. The left-wing in America today is not only highly financed, but it is highly organized. When they want certain legislation passed in Congress, they organize vast letter-writing campaigns to their Congressmen. CAN WE DO LESS? Write your Congressmen and Senators TODAY and urge support of this bill - S. 337.

Women's Patriotic Conference On National Defense

The Women's Patriotic Conference on National Defense opened an inspiring three-day program on January 31 in Washington, D. C., with a pilgrimage to the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. Representatives from 18 patriotic women's groups from all over America converged on Washington for this important conference.

Mrs. Robert B. Mosar, as Conference Chairman, presided at all meetings and introduced the speakers. The first speaking event featured a sincere message from His Excellency the Ambassador of Guatemala, Colonel Jose Luis Cruz-Salazar who spoke about the anti-Communist revolution in Guatemala. His speech concluded a banquet given at the Statler and attended by a number of conservative members of the Congress.

Friday morning, February 1, the Conference was addressed by Congressman Frank T. Bow of Ohio on the infamous Status of Forces treaty. Russell Maguire, publisher of that great conservative pocket magazine AMERICAN MERCURY followed with a plea for a vast educational campaign using the reprinted materials from his magazine. Rear Admiral W. R. Smedberg talked of the need to expand and improve the physical facilities of the Naval Academy of which he is the superintendent.

Friday afternoon there were two speeches. Mrs. D rothy B. Davis, Chairman of the Maryland Right-to-Work Committee, showed a movie and spoke on behalf of the Right-to-Work laws. Major General William M. Creasy gave a report on the work of those connected with Biological and Chemical Warfare.

Friday evening featured two speakers. John C. Broger Deputy Director, Armed Forces Information and Education, outlined how the Army was teaching patriotism to the new inductees so they would be better able to resist brainwashing efforts by possible Communist captors.

Russell Jones, U.P. reporter who had spent much time in Europe gave a first-hand report on the Hungarian Revolution.

Saturday morning the speakers covered three different subjects. U. S. Congressman August E. Johansen of Michigan spoke out against Federal Aid to Education. Dr. Charles A. Brusch outlined the dangers of Fluridation to the Public Health. Kent Courtney, Publisher of FREE MEN SPEAK, compared the tyranny of pre-revolutionary days to the acts of tyranny now being carried out in the name of Modern Republicanism.

This was the 31st annual conference and was sponsored by the following organizations: Dames of the Loyal Legion of the U.S.A.; Gold Star Wives of America; Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic; National Service Star Legion; National Society for Constitutional Security; National Society Daughters of the Revolution; National Society, Daughters of the Union, 1861-1865; National Society, Guardians of our American Heritage; National Society of New England Women; National Society, Patriotic Women of America; National Society, Women Descendants of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company; Navy Club of United States of America Auxiliary; New York City Colony, National Society of New England Women; New York State Society, National Society Colonial Dames of the XVII Century; The Wheel; of Progress; United States Army Mothers; Women of the Army and Navy Legion of Valor of the U.S.A.; Women's National Defense Committee of Philadelphia.

Patriotic women who read FREE MEN SPEAK, who wish to join or form local units of these fine national organizations are urged to write the Secretary of the Conference, Mrs. David Daniel Good, 609 Lingle Street, Osceola Mills, Pennsylvania, and she will be glad to put you in touch with the leaders of these organizations.

WIDE-OPEN OPPORTUNITY FOR A THIRD PARTY

(Reprinted from the OKLAHOMA CITY TIMES)

WITHOUT endorsing or condemning the proposed third party, it is appropriate to point out what seems to be some of the essentials for the success of such a party.

Oklahoma is the north-south borderland. Its population is drawn fairly equally from north and south. It is in position to view some of the involved issues in impartial mood.

The most acute impulse toward a third-party movement is a present revolt against racial integration, but if that issue is made basic, the movement will not go far. It will be necessary to go much more deeply into areas of great general principle.

If hot-headed southern political leaders are wise, they will find such areas, which are plentiful and important.

A few examples may illustrate.

In one northern state, Indiana, eloquent and influential voices are being raised against the federalization of welfare and public works functions. It is pointed out that there really is no such thing as federal aid—that the money for alleged federal aid comes from the states. So, as these leaders argue, we should restore local independence and resist federal centralization.

IN another northern state, Oregon, a leading newspaper, the Oregonian, argues in a strong lead editorial that "the northwest must replace federal funds." Reference is made to water projects, in this case. The prez-

FOREIGN AID TO REDS PERILS NATIONAL DEFENSE

By Phoebe Courtney

It's time to "batten down the hatches" and prepare for the Big Blow. But if Americans keep their heads and use their God-given powers of logic and reasoning, with a little old-fashioned common sense thrown in, we can weather the storm.

We refer, of course, to the propaganda barrage which will mount by the day, to the effect that not only must we continue to spend billions in foreign aid to Communist-Socialist countries, but that, possibly, in view of the Sputniks we should INCREASE that foreign aid.

President Eisenhower has intimated in recent radio and TV appearances that he considers foreign aid a "sacred cow," and that he will not countenance any reduction in funds allocated for that purpose. He pleads that we support the "Free World" as a bulwark against Communism; he hints darkly that we are doomed if we stand alone.

Well, let's look at a few facts:

Communist Russia stands alone - alone and powerful. She does not weaken herself by squandering her financial resources in "foreign aid." Her recent successful launching of two Sputniks gave the Communists more prestige, in the eyes of the backward nations of the world, than America has achieved with all the billions we have poured down foreign rat-holes.

Communist Russia devotes her energies, not to propping up "weak sister" nations who in time of crisis let you down, but to STRENGTHENING HERSELF FOR HER FINAL ASSAULT AGAINST AMERICA.

Here is a concrete example:

The promoters of foreign aid say that we must have "friends" to stand by us against the Communist threat. Let us examine the steadfastness of this "friendship" that we have purchased

The deluge of demands, now, for a wild defense spending orgy, is not the answer. The answer is wise PLANNING, then careful spending.

Interservice rivalry and bungling have caused our predicament. Only AIR POWER and the ICBM (should it some day replace air power) can be decisive against the Soviets. We lag in air power and on ICBM. This will require a larger AIR FORCE budget but not an expanded military budget. Rather the defense budget can be reduced.

In this nuclear age of air and missiles, neither the Army nor Navy nor the two combined can be decisive against the Soviets. This is not to say that they are not still essential. A primary Army role is ground Air defense. The Navy must defend our coastal cities against Red submarine launched missiles. Both these defensive roles are vital. However, the traditional Army mission - to destroy the enemy land Army - and to blockade, cannot be decisive against the Soviets. The Red Army in Eurasia is too formidable; the Soviet Union is not vulnerable to blockade.

Our Air Force, if strong enough, can be decisive. Its present budget should be increased by some $2 billion.

In addition, we must take world leadership in missile development and especially the ICBM. THIS WE MUST DO. Let's estimate that this would cost $1 billion annually.

We now come to Foreign Aid. Whatever may or may not have been its merits in the past - the stark reality is, Foreign Aid cannot materially strengthen our Air and ICBM development. Air power is an entity. It cannot be parcelled out among allies without decreasing its potency. No European ally needs, or is it endeavoring to produce the ICBM. Since the peace of the free world and victory if war is forced upon us, rests on American Air and ICBM supremacy, Foreign Aid can now safely be DISCONTINUED. At the moment there is some $10 billion in unexpended Foreign Aid to cushion the shock of the cut.

On the Army-Navy Budget	Save $9 billion
On Foreign Aid	Save $5 billion
On Air Force budget	Add $2 billion
On research and development	Spend $1 billion

Total Saving	$10 billion

We are keeping ground forces totaling 300,000 men- plus their dependents, in Europe. The West European nations have a larger population than the USA and CAN at least supply whatever ground forces are needed for their own defense.

With American Air and ICBM supremacy, there would be true free world defense and NO WORLD WAR III. Such a reoriented program cannot originate in interservice bickering at the Pentagon. It must come from Congress - or better yet - the White House.

FOREIGN AID TO REDS PERILS NATIONAL DEFENSE

It's time to "batten down the hatches" and prepare for the Big Blow. But if Americans keep their heads and use their God-given powers of logic and reasoning, with a little old-fashioned common sense thrown in, we can weather the storm.

We refer, of course, to the propaganda barrage which will mount by the day, to the effect that not only must we continue to spend billions in foreign aid to Communist-Socialist countries, but that, possibly, in view of the Sputniks we should INCREASE that foreign aid.

President Eisenhower has intimated in recent radio and TV appearances that he considers foreign aid a "sacred cow," and that he will not countenance any reduction in funds allocated for that purpose. Well, let's look at a few facts:

Communist Russia stands alone - alone and powerful. She does not weaken herself by squandering her financial resources in "foreign aid." Her recent successful launching of two Sputniks gave the Communists more prestige, in the eyes of the backward nations of the world, than America has achieved with all the billions we have poured down foreign rat-holes.

Communist Russia devotes her energies, not to propping up "weak sister" nations who in time of crisis let you down, but to STRENGTHENING HERSELF FOR HER FINAL ASSAULT AGAINST AMERICA.

Here is a concrete example:

The promoters of foreign aid say that we must have "friends" to stand by us against the Communist threat. Let us examine the steadfastness of this "friendship" that we have purchased with billions of taxpayer's dollars. (The Government has no money of its own, you know. It's YOUR DOLLARS they're using!)

Over a period of years we have given almost a billion dollars in foreign aid to India, Indonesia, Egypt, Finland and Afghanistan. And yet, when a vote was called for in the United Nations to condemn Communist Russia for its brutal, repressive measures against the people of Hungary in the uprising in 1956, how did these "dollar-bought friends" vote? They ABSTAINED from voting! The CHICAGO TRIBUNE asks a question in this regard: "If these countries dare not state their view on such a clear-cut issue as Russian terrorism in Hungary, WOULD THEY BE DEPENDABLE ALLIES IN ANY CONCEIVABLE SITUATION?"

Millions of taxpayer dollars for jet planes to Tito of Yugoslavia who regularly reaffirms his fealty to Moscow. Is that how you want your income tax dollars spent?

THE $64 QUESTION

The promoters of foreign aid say that its purpose is to strengthen our defenses against Communism. If this were true - and it is NOT - they WHY has our Government given $1,794,-160,000.00 - almost 2 billion dollars - to the COMMUNIST countries of Albania, Czechoslovakia, East Germany, Hungary, Poland, Yugoslavia and the Soviet Union??? (Source: Library of Congress Legislative Reference Service Report of May 29, 1957)

WHY CONTINUE FOREIGN AID?

Senator William E. Jenner of Indiana in a speech on the floor of the Senate stated: "Why should we do it? What good does it accomplish? Why do we, the strongest nation in the world, find ourselves with no way to influence the world situation, except by a gigantic program of welfare spending with a little military hardware thrown in?...The American nation had

Secrets Pool Could Become a Deadly Whirlpool

In his first science-and-security speech President Eisenhower renewed his call for a free-world pool of scientific and technological secrets. He may expand on that theme in a later talk.

But there are good reasons to oppose this pooling idea.

Among them are the atrocious security record of Great Britain and the instability of the Red-infested French social order.

The United States security record certainly is nothing to boast about. But Britain's is alarming.

The notorious names of Donald Maclean, Guy Burgess, Dr. Allan Nunn May, Bruno Pontecorvo and Klaus Fuchs come swiftly to mind as examples. Each had been a "trusted" top-level British government scientist. Each turned out to be a Soviet spy who did irreparable damage to the free world.

The stoutly pro-American anti-Communist Macmillan government seems to have tightened Britain's security system somewhat.

But suppose the next British prime minister is Aneurin Bevan, the extreme left-wing Laborite. He came to America to make harsh criticisms of its leaders. He boasted that he and Khrushchev talk as "one Marxist to another."

Would sensible Americans want to trust that bird with its country's military and scientific secrets?

As for France, 30% of its citizens consistently vote Communist. Its short-lived governments are as shaky as a dish of gelatin. It has no security system worthy of the name. Moreover, it seems to have no secrets worth pooling.

On the face of it, America could do 90% of the sharing with its allies — as usual. And they would do most of the taking.

Interchanges of information among scientists the world over are most desirable. That at least is true in happier times.

But release of United States missile-satellite-nuclear secrets to a pool filled with busy hands — some of them stained by Communist sympathies — could prove dangerous.

Furthermore, there is no particular reason to believe that such pooling would more quickly erase the American lag in the missile and space races. The Soviet Union employed ironclad police-state secrecy — along with a genius for espionage — in gaining its lead.

The pool idea naturally is most attractive to members of the one-world set in America. They are putting heat on President Eisenhower to sell it to Congress.

The current cocktail-party chatter among these incurable cloud dwellers is that "really, old man, there are no secrets anyhow." Then, if they have had enough martinis, they make a knowing beep like a sputnik and suggest that their antagonist go drink a vodka-on-your-grapes highball.

Very well. There are no secrets. That means there is none for America to give to the proposed pool.

"INVESTIGATE GUIDED MISSILE PROGRAM" - - McCarthy, 1956

According to Walter Trohan in a recent issue of the Chicago Tribune, "A warning was sounded on Oct. 30, 1955, in Boston by the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy of Wisconsin, the foe of Communism. McCarthy was hated by Communists. They did all they could to destroy him and no doubt hastened his death.

"They had the help of many dupes, who supported the Communist aims for reasons best known to themselves, and they had the support of many good citizens who were stampeded into believing that McCarthy was threatening American liberties, that he was nothing but a hate monger and that he was without any accomplishments in his campaigns.

"In the Boston speech McCarthy said that his attention had been called in the Fall of 1953 to a slowdown in the American hydrogen bomb program. Later, he said, he traced the slowdown to a scientist who had reportedly paid as much as $1,000 a week to Communist causes.

"Subsequently this scientist made a clean breast of his past Communist associations. His was a skillful effort calculated to express sorrow for misled boyish enthusiasms for reform, although he was a grown man and a wise one when McCarthy became convinced that the H-bomb slowdown was being pushed by the scientist deliberately.

"There is no need to mention the man's name now, because we are now concerned not with any question of responsibility, but a warning that went unheeded. McCarthy cited a report from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology which clearly intimated that the Russians were making striking advances in ballistic missiles...

"He also said the United States was lagging in the guided missile race and that, unless the situation was soon corrected, the United States could be at the mercy of the Soviet Union. McCarthy called for an investigation as to why the United States was lagging."

All I'm proposing is that constitutionalists and states righters in the South take steps in advance to control and hold their state Democratic Parties—the only party there is—and to let the parties and the nation know in advance that they consider themselves free. I believe a big majority of Southern Democrats wish to be free like this and that there's no reason for them to have to give up their state Democratic organizations, prestige, tradition and seniorities in so being.

(Was the "hindsight" on McCarthy's part? When Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnston last month called for precisely the same investigation - two years later - he won wide acclaim from Democrats and Republicans alike.)

"In tracing the slowdown of American H-Bomb and missile developments McCarthy became interested in the Army Signal Corps headquarters in Fort Monmouth, N.J. His interest in Fort Monmouth brought him into conflict with the Pentagon. This, in turn, led to the censure resolution, which ended in condemnation of McCarthy's methods.

"After the condemnation enforced a considerable curb on McCarthy and his activities, the Senator did not cease his warnings. On the floor of the Senate on April 25, 1956, almost a year and a half ago when there was still time to have America speed up its missile program, McCarthy called for the creation of a special joint Congressional committee to investigate the missile problem ...Here is how the Congressional Record quotes McCarthy:

"I suggest that we set up a special joint Congressional committee, with full subpena powers, to investigate the guided missile program, and to keep a vigilant eye on its progress. If the committee finds that the program is not on an all-out basis, then it must go into the further question of why it is not on an all-out-basis. If we are falling behind the Soviet Union in the development of a weapon that may permit Communism to conquer us, then we must find out who is responsible and what has motivated those who are responsible."

for France, 30% of its citizens istently vote Communist. Its t-lived governments are as y as a dish of gelatin. It has no security system worthy of the name. Moreover, it seems to have no secrets worth pooling.

On the face of it, America could do 99% of the sharing with its allies—as usual. And they would do most of the taking.

Interchanges of information among scientists the world over are most desirable. That at least is true in happier times.

But release of United States missile-satellite-nuclear secrets to a pool filled with busy hands—some of them stained by Communist sympathies—could prove dangerous.

Furthermore, there is no particular reason to believe that such pooling would more quickly erase the American lag in the missile and space races. The Soviet Union employed ironclad police-state secrecy—along with a genius for espionage—in gaining its lead.

The pool idea naturally is most attractive to members of the one-world set in America. They are putting heat on President Eisenhower to sell it to Congress.

The current cocktail-party chatter among these incurable cloud dwellers is that "really, old man, there are no secrets anyhow." Then, if they have had enough martinis, they make a knowing beep like a sputnik and suggest that their antagonist go drink a vodka-an-sour-grapes highball.

Very well. There are no secrets. That means there is none for America to give to the proposed pool.

From the Editor and Publisher of THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN

Dear Senator Jenner:

It was with sorrow and shock that we learned of your decision not to offer yourself for re-election in 1958.

FREE MEN SPEAK Newspaper, which has changed its name with this issue to THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN, has consistently, as you know, backed your courageous stand in the Senate for a return to Constitutional Government.

Your valiant efforts in behalf of Americanism have given hope and inspiration to patriots throughout the country, because we knew that you were "in there slugging" for our side.

Your magnificent work in exposing Communist infiltration in this country, your efforts to curb the Third House of Congress (the U.S. Supreme Court), your expose of the ultimate World Government purpose of NATO, your fight to reduce the power of the entrenched bureaucracy by cutting the budget and returning powers to the States...will be long remembered.

You were, officially, the junior Senator from Indiana, but Senator Jenner, you were in essence, the Senator of all Constitution-loving Americans in all 48 States.

Your press statements say that you are retiring to a private law practice.

We can't believe that, Senator!

We can't believe that such a valiant fighter for America as you have been, will now QUIT.

We don't know your personal reasons; doubtless you have good ones. We respect that. BUT...Senator Jenner, to the U. S. Senate or out of it, AMERICA NEEDS YOU DESPERATELY IN THIS HOUR OF HER GRAVEST PERIL.

Elsewhere in this issue is an article regarding ex-Gov. Shivers and the third party. While Governor of Texas, Shivers veered away from third party movements, but now that he is out of office he is "speaking his piece," and in a recent speech in Houston asked the question: "Where else is there for conservatives to go?"

We know you're not a quitter, Senator Jenner. We know you won't desert the Conservative cause.

BUT...now that you do not wish to be considered a candidate of the Republican Party will you publicly reach the only logical conclusion - based on your former pro-Constitution positions - and join with ex-Gov. Shivers in speaking out for the need for a new political party to truly represent the Conservative elements of both the Democrat and Republican Parties?

Such is our faith in you, Senator Jenner, that we believe you will.

Most sincerely,

Phoebe Courtney, Editor — Kent Courtney, Publisher

OUR POLICY

This newspaper is dedicated to the defeat of Socialist and Communist influences that now pervade the thinking and the policies of our Federal government and the two major political parties. We believe that there is no difference between a New Deal Democrat and a socialist-internationalist Republican.

This newspaper will continue to promote all individuals and organizations who believe that a new political party based on Constitutional States Rights is the answer to the Socialism that has captured both (formerly great) parties.

We will never align ourselves with any person or group which preaches hatred. Instead we will conserve our energy for the fight against atheistic Communism, and we pledge ourselves to LOVE OF GOD AND AN INDEPENDENT U.S.A.

OUR THANKS

Because we are political and "controversial" we have no advertising income. We therefore thank all of our readers who send donations every week so that more and more sample copies can be sent to patriots throughout the country. Without this regular support, this experiment in patriotic and political journalism would not be possible.

OUR NEW NAME

12/57 → With this issue the name of FREE MEN SPEAK is changed to THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN.

During 1955, 1956 and 1957, FREE MEN SPEAK has been published by a husband and wife team, Kent and Phoebe Courtney, and the policy of the newspaper has never varied from that printed on page 2.

THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN will be published by our corporation, Free Men Speak, Inc., and the publisher and editor will remain as before. The editorial policy and the format of THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN will be identical to that of FREE MEN SPEAK.

The principal reason for the change in name is that we feel that it more adequately describes the political action policy advocated by this newspaper.

SOUTHERN SUPPORT OF NEW PARTY INDICATED

Recently Congressional Quarterly polled the Southern Governors on the question of the feasibility of a NEW PARTY.

Governors Hodges (North Carolina), Folsom (Alabama), Collins (Florida), Chandler (Kentucky), Gary (Oklahoma), Clement (Tennessee) and Daniel (Texas) said they were opposed to a third party which would represent the pro-Constitution, pro-States Rights voters in this country.

Perhaps these 7 Southern Governors failed to read the recent press statement by Paul Butler, National Chairman of the Democrat Party in which he said: "We will assume a very liberal and aggressive policy in 1960, and anybody who doesn't want to go along will by their own action read themselves out of the party."

The majority of the above 7 Southern Governors are of a Liberal "carry-water-on-both-shoulders" stripe and do not represent the general feeling of the South. (Please see elsewhere in this issue an article by the Richmond, Va. NEWS LEADER entitled "On the Back of the Stove," and the column by John Temple Graves, regarding how the VOTERS in the South feel on this subject.)

Four Southern Governors refused to answer the poll. They are Arkansas' Faubus, South Carolina's Timmerman, Mississippi's Coleman and Louisiana's Earl K. Long.

Two Southern Governors, however, expressed sympathetic consideration of the NEW PARTY idea. They are Gov. Marvin Griffin of Georgia and Gov. Thomas B. Stanley of Virginia. And Gov. Griffin added, "There is a great deal of growing sentiment in this part of the nation concerning such a movement."

POLITICAL SUPPORT IS VITAL

For any NEW PARTY movement to be successful it must have the support of regularly-organized political organizations. True, the support of Governors is important, but, after all, Governors are politicians and, if they're smart, bow to the will of the majority of the voters.

The support of Congressmen is also important, and below we quote a few recent statements by Southern Congressmen regarding the possibility of a NEW PARTY.

THE FLORIDA TIMES-UNION of Jacksonville, Fla. in an Associated Press story states: "Sen. George Smathers said today he looked for a third-party movement in the not too distant future but that if it sprang up in the South on the basis of racial issues 'it is dead before it starts.' Issues which likely would give rise to a strong third party movement, he said, were modifying the federal income tax laws, restricting powers of the U.S. Supreme Court and States' Rights."

PROGRESSIVE EDUCATION TO BLAM

By John T. Flynn

(Reprint of a broadcast over the Mutual Broadcasting System, published by America's Future, Inc.)

All of a sudden, our American public-school system has become big news. It took a couple of Russian Sputniks to get the politicians, including the President, to notice something that American parents have been wondering and complaining about for years.

The United States Office of Education has conducted a two-year study of Russian educational methods. It came up with a report this past week which should be a shock to every thinking American. It should be a shock because we once had a public-school system that would compare with any in the world. But during the past twenty-five years our fine school system was practically taken over by what are called "modern educationists." That means "progressive education" under which children must not be disciplined. They mustn't be made to study subjects unless they want to. They must be left free to learn about something called "life adjustment" - instead of reading, writing, arithmetic, history, biology, chemistry, language and all the other things that make for an educated man or woman. Is it any wonder, then, that so many of our poorly educated youngsters never even have a chance to find out if they are interested in science? In Russia, a seventh-grade pupil studies zoology, physiology, mathematics, history, geography, biology, Russian language and literary reading, physics, chemistry, a foreign language and much more besides. And he HAS to learn them. There are no automatic promotions for all, as there are under our so-called "progressive" system.

Now why is it that the Russian schools seem to be doing a much better job than ours? The politicians - and our loud and noisy leftists - as usual, manage to come up with the wrong answer. They want the Federal government to spend money on the schools. That's the politicians' answer. The Washington politicians will get a chance to grab more money from the states and cities and then hand some of it back to the states and cities for their schools. That makes the politician in Washington look very highhearted. The left-wingers are all for this too, because they see in it a chance to get the hand of the Federal government further into the states and their schools. They point out that in Russia the schools are completely controlled by the central government. That's what they would like to see here.

But they miss the point entirely - or perhaps purposely. The Russian schools are getting ahead of ours in the education of Russian youngsters BECAUSE THEY HAVE GONE BACK TO THE TRADITIONAL AMERICAN METHOD OF EDUCATION - the method we abandoned when the "modern educationists" took over. It may surprise you to learn that Communist Russia in its early days adopted progressive education, which we now have. But what happened? Pretty much what has happened here. I am indebted to Colonel A. G. Rudd who, in his excellent book called BENDING THE TWIG, has given an account of the Russian experiment with progressive education. Colonel Rudd says:

"The Communist leaders had heard of the progressive education system in America and in nineteen-eighteen they imported its program almost intact. Lenin saw in it an opportunity to eliminate from Russian life religious faith, private property, family and parental authority. If they could destroy family life, the Bolsheviks would strike a death blo in Russia..." Well, it didn't take the Russian results. In nineteen-twenty, a Russian edu two great misfortunes had come upon Russian s is the establishment of the common activity elimination of all serious work, and the other i of discipline from the school." That is what we education.

Colonel Rudd points out that progressive edu troy in Russian children any faith in the princi Of course, that was all right in Russia - here in America" The result, however, wa Communist leaders. Colonel Rudd says: "C undermining process could not be controlled ar lists saw that the products of their new educat unsuited to any community life. Soon there w of homeless children all over Russia, withou family, country or any standards of ethics or mo

But the thing that really made the Russian l take notice was this. When youngsters whos and secondary education had been under the pro began to appear before the examining board Russia, their appalling ignorance of the fund kind of learning could no longer be hidden.

Fifteen years after putting progressive educ the Russians abandoned it entirely. They h America, from which they had gotten it in th INSTITUTED IN RUSSIA A SYSTEM OF ED TERNED AFTER THE OLD TRADITIONAL A TEM.

And no one plug sive education in America more enthusiastically grown pro-Communists. They had seen wha Russia. WHAT MORE EFFECTIVE WAY CO FOR BRINGING ABOUT THE DOWNFALL O CAN WAY OF LIFE THAN BY CORRUPTING OF AMERICAN CHILDREN WITH THIS BAL

Now we are reaping the results in Johnnys Marys who can't add, Willys who can't spell. Only one-seventh, mind you - have had any kind of adv ics. These are subjects which need trained minds. But training and discipline are two thing progressive educationists will have nothing to do

Is The Senate Afraid Of Reuther?

[From Chicago Tribune]

The United Automobile Workers union has spent $11.3 million on its strike against the Kohler company of Kohler, Wis., says the union's secretary-treasurer. The strike was lost long ago, and the Kohler local of the union wrecked, but the union expenditures continue in an effort to wreck the Kohler company by a boycott. On this the UAW has already spent more than $2 million.

Chesly Manly recently concluded a summary of this bitter, bloody industrial conflict in our news columns. A reign of terror was instituted in Kohler and neighboring cities. Criminals were hired to direct acts of violence against the company and its employes. One of the union's strong-arm men remained in Michigan, protected by Gov. Williams from extradition to Wisconsin to stand trial on a charge of beating a Kohler workman. The victim's death has been attributed in part to the injuries he suffered.

Here certainly is as flagrant abuse of the power and funds of an international union as the nation has witnessed in many years. The strike was lost, yet the vindictive campaign against the company goes on. The purpose, it is plain, is to show the American people that no employer dares say "No" to Walter Reuther, boss of the UAW.

The Kohler case is far more menacing in its implications than any misuse of union funds by Dave Beck and his associates in the Teamsters union. Sen. McClellan and his colleagues, however, seem strangely disinclined to give their attention to Mr. Reuther or any of his works. Mr. Reuther is one of the bosses of the left wing of the Democratic party, who style themselves Americans for Democratic action.

The ALEXANDRIA (La.) DAILY TOWN TALK conducted a poll on NEW PARTY of Louisiana Congressmen and came up with the following statements:

Senator Russell B. Long stated that the Southern states should serve notice on the Democrat National Committee that "we won't go along with their choice" if a presidential candidate not suitable to the South is endorsed in 1960.

Congressman George S. Long stated: "If there ever was a time for a third-party movement this is it." Long said he does not think the third-party movement should stop in the South, but should carry across the nation.

Congressman Thompson stated that conservatives "all over the nation are looking for a party that expresses conservatism."

* * * *

John Sammons Bell, Georgia Democrat Chairman, recently stated: "There is absolutely no difference, in so far as political beliefs and issues are concerned, between the Republican and Democratic parties."

The above quotations are not from wishful-thinking Conservatives. These are the statements of politicians, men whose careers depend on their judgment and political stands. Successful politicians know that if they want to stay in office they MUST LISTEN TO THE VOTERS.

ALEXANDER P. de SEVERSKY

"The appropriation of more money for the Air Force will not alone solve the problem. The whole military philosophy must be changed, or we shall forever trail the rest of the world, not only in conventional aircraft, but in intercontinental ballistic missiles (IBM) and even in man-made earth satellite development.

"We must remove the curse of the outmoded strategy of balanced forces and free the American creative genius from the confines of this fallacious concept. We must recognize the Air Force, and its expert leadership in air war, as the dominant factor in our military establishment."

(Ed. note: The above statement was made by Alexander P. de Seversky, noted air-power expert, in THIS WEEK magazine on September 18, 1955.)

called "progressive system."

Now why is it that the Russian schools seem to be doing a much better job than ours? The politicians - and our loud and noisy leftists - as usual, manage to come up with the wrong answer. They want the Federal government to spend money on the schools. That's the politicians' answer. The Washington politicians will get a chance to grab more money from the states and cities and then hand some of it back to the states and cities for their schools. That makes the politician in Washington look very bighearted. The left-wingers are all for this too, because they see in it a chance to get the hand of the Federal government further into the states and their schools. They point out that in Russia the schools are completely controlled by the central government. That's what they would like to see here.

But they miss the point entirely - or perhaps purposely. The Russian schools are getting ahead of ours in the education of Russian youngsters BECAUSE THEY HAVE GONE BACK TO THE TRADITIONAL AMERICAN METHOD OF EDUCATION - the method we abandoned when the "modern educationists" took over. It may surprise you to learn that Communist Russia in its early days adopted progressive education, which we now have. But what happened? Pretty much what has happened here. Is The Senate Afraid Of Reuther?

(From Chicago Tribune)

The United Automobile Workers union has spent $11.3 million on its strike against the Kohler company of Kohler, Wis., says the union's secretary-treasurer. The strike was lost long ago, and the Kohler local of the union wrecked, but the union expenditures continue in an effort to wreck the Kohler company by a boycott. On this the UAW has already spent more than $2 million.

Clesly Manly recently concluded a summary of this bitter, bloody industrial conflict in our news columns. A reign of terror was instituted in Kohler and neighboring cities. Criminals were hired to direct acts of violence against the company and its employes. One of the union's strong-arm men remained in Michigan, protected by Gov. Williams from extradition to Wisconsin to stand trial on a charge of beating a Kohler workman. The victim's death has been attributed in part to the injuries he suffered.

Here certainly is as flagrant abuse of the power and funds of an international union as the nation has witnessed in many years. The strike was lost, yet the vindictive campaign against the company goes on. The purpose, it is plain, is to show the American people that no employer dares say "No" to Walter Reuther, boss of the UAW.

The Kohler case is far more menacing in its implications than any misuse of union funds by Dave Beck and his associates in the Teamsters union. Sen. McClellan and his colleagues, however, seem strangely disinclined to give their attention to Mr. Reuther or any of his works. Mr. Reuther is one of the bosses of the left wing of the Democratic party, who style themselves Americans for Democratic action.

Sen. Kennedy [D-Mass] is a member of the committee. His brother, Robert, is its counsel and director of its investigations. Sen. Kennedy is an aspirant for the Democratic Presidential nomination. The enmity of Reuther and his radical associates could be fatal to the senator's hopes.

So long as Sen. McClellan fails to investigate Reuther's power and the ways in which it is abused, he sustains the suspicion that the Democratic majority in the Senate is afraid of the union boss.

THIRD PARTY BOWS IN

Shortly before last Tuesday's city election, we remarked in this space that political observers might do well to watch the United Taxpayers ticket, headed by Vito Battista as candidate for Mayor.

Here was an infant independent party, with no city-wide organization and with very little money for advertising, sound trucks, TV spot-shots, or anything else.

Warning to Spenders?

All it had was a frankly and boldly right-wing platform—liquidation of the City Housing Authority and sale of its developments to private buyers, early abolition of the 3% retail sales tax, a two-year residence requirement on eligibility for city relief, and so on.

Yet Battista polled 69,298 votes—29,596 in Brooklyn, 19,240 in Queens, 11,321 in the Bronx, 7,970 in Manhattan, 1,165 on Staten Island.

Considering the United Taxpayers' handicaps, that was quite some performance.

It just could be, if you ask us, a sign of important things to come, in the shape of growing taxpayer resentment toward spend-and-spend politicians and voter anxiety to throw them out of office. Both major parties in New York City, we think, would be smart to take serious note of the United Taxpayers' showing in their first-city-wide campaign.

If they could destroy family life, the bolsheviks would strike a death blow to capitalism in Russia..." Well, it didn't take the Russians long to see the results. In nineteen-twenty, a Russian educator said that two great misfortunes had come upon Russian education - "one is the establishment of the common activity school and the elimination of all serious work, and the other is the elimination of discipline from the school." That is what we call progressive education.

Colonel Rudd points out that progressive education DID destroy in Russian children any faith in the principles of freedom. Of course, that was all right in Russia - but what about here in America. The result, however, was a shock to the Communist leaders. Colonel Rudd says: "Once started, the undermining process could not be controlled and the Communists saw that the products of their new education, ... were now unsuited to any community life. Soon there were roving bands of homeless children all over Russia, without belief in God, family, country or any standards of ethics or morals."

But the thing that really made the Russian leaders sit up and take notice was this. When youngsters whose whole primary and secondary education had been under the progressive system began to appear before the examining boards of colleges in Russia, their appalling ignorance of the fundamentals of any kind of learning could no longer be hidden.

Fifteen years after putting progressive education into effect, the Russians abandoned it entirely. They handed it back to America, from which they had gotten it in the first place, and INSTITUTED IN RUSSIA A SYSTEM OF EDUCATION PATTERNED AFTER THE OLD TRADITIONAL AMERICAN SYSTEM.

RESIGN ! Senator Ellender

By Kent Courtney

There is an old college saying which goes "if he had brains he would be dangerous."

The senior Senator from Louisiana has a habit of touring Russia each year after the close of Congress. He usually makes a world tour out of it and invariably sticks his foot in his mouth. He is Louisiana's answer to Russia's Sputnik. He revolves around the Communist world seeing nothing and his conclusions echo the emptiness of the outer space which occupies that sphere on his shoulders that normal humans use for logical thinking.

Senator Ellender, upon his return from Communist Russia, gave the nation the benefit of his advice. He said he would:

"Lean over backwards" to meet the Soviets more than halfway.

Make a new approach to the Kremlin and try to negotiate what the Soviets call a "peaceful coexistence" trial.

Trust the Soviets and have the President go at once to another summit conference.

This United States Senator from Louisiana has not only earned the skepticism of many in his native State, but he now is getting a going-over by some of the most thoughtful editorial writers in this country. We bring to the readers of THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN a few choice items of response to the astounding statements and proposals being made by this "misguided missile from the swamps."

Following are portions of an editorial printed in the MANCHESTER (New Hamoshire) UNION LEADER.

"Senator Ellender stated that President Eisenhower agreed with the Ellender Plan for an increased exchange of visitors with the Soviet Union and with ordering the Voice of America to stop attacking Communism and extoll, instead, the American way of life.

"This is the kind of dangerous talk Ellender put out: 'I really believe we ought to make a new approach and see if we can't coexist for a while and let the people of East and West decide whether they want Communism or democracy.'

"The Russian people don't want war, but - as anyone even in the darkest cane-brakes of Louisiana knows - the poor Russian people don't have anything to say about what they want. They do only what they are told to do by the Red killers in the Kremlin.

"Here is more of the Ellender stuff and nonsense. It seems he was asked whether the present Soviet leaders were trustworthy and whether a basis for lasting peace could be established by negotiating with them. Ellender said he did not see why the Red leaders could not be trusted.

"You would think that the history of the past dozen years had never occurred, that the Russians had not broken one treaty after another, than they had not violated every law of human decency, culminating with the slaughter of those who wanted freedom in Hungary. APPARENTLY ELLENDER CHOOSES TO DISREGARD ALL THAT."

ELLENDER THE MOVIE MAKER

In a report from the Alexandria (Louisiana) DAILY TOWN TALK we see that in making various speeches before civic club members in the heart of Louisiana he has announced that during his 33-day tour of Russia this summer he took over 4,000 feet of movie film. He told his constituents that these are now being edited to be shown as several 30-minute television films during the next year.

If his film editing is as biased toward Russia as are his recent statements, it is our opinion that any Television Station showing such films could be accused of performing a public "dis-service."

"APPEASEMENT, 1957 STYLE"

The NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE had this to say about Sen. Ellender:

"Louisiana's Sen. Ellender, returning from his third annual trip to Moscow, prompts doubt as to whether travel actually is broadening.

"Sen. Ellender, of course, is proposing appeasement on the grand scale - a 1957 Munich - to 'buy' the Soviet proposal that the United States and Russia divide up the world between them.

"He says he would do these things if we were president. We count it among our blessings that he isn't, nor is he likely to be."

"BLOOD-CHILLING IGNORANCE"

The RICHMOND (Virginia) NEWS-LEADER made comments similar to the other newspapers quoted above and then stated:

"The gentleman who resurrected the grinning ghost of 'peaceful coexistence' is not an ill-informed American tourist, but rather a highly placed public official on whose shoulders rests a fair part of the burden of our national defense.

"Senator Ellender's blood-chilling ignorance of Soviet aims and strategy - not to be confused with tactical expedients - is disheartening. For it reveals a willingness to shun the grave responsibilities of unrelenting cold war, while indulging in free-wheeling fights of wishful thinking.

"As we watch Senator Ellender, and others like him, standing in a high place, leaning over backward to make the wish serve as reality, we pray that his ultimate fall into disillusionment will not bring with it national disaster."

"DAILY WORKER" PRAISES ELLENDER

Now comes the final blow. This one should wake up the aging Senator from Louisiana and should alert every voter in the Pelican State to the confused state of Ellender's thinking.

On November 11, 1957 and again on November 17, the official organ of the Communist Party in the U. S., the "DAILY WORKER" PRAISED SENATOR ELLENDER FOR PUSHING THE PROPOSALS OF THE COMMUNIST PARTY. This praise from the Communists was the direct result of his recent statements to the members of the Khrushchev [illegible] and his speeches in

One press agent assures us that we must speed up spending for conventional airplanes to maintain a strategic balance and another trumpets that the slogan must be dollars for missiles. A labor union finds Sputnik a powerful reason for abandoning congressional plans to "enslave" unions under new legal controls and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt says it throws a new light on segregation. The Federal highway people plan more spending on roads so we can get away faster if Sputnik drops in our vicinity.

Any moment now we expect an announcement from the State Department that a new payroll has been created for a Sputnik division, and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare is undoubtedly working already on a new research agency to seek an anti-Sputnik serum. You can look forward to a new hue and cry against Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson when he vetoes plans - which undoubtedly will be forthcoming - to subsidize farmers who leave their land unplanted to receive Sputnik's fallout.

The startling thing about all this is that our rocket scientists have not yet made the obvious deduction that their fuel problems could be solved by cramming a few billions of taxpayers' dollars into the rocket combustion chambers. This is true not alone because dollars solve all problems, as our morning mail demonstrates most persuasively, but also because nothing - not anything at all - burns faster than a taxpayer's dollar. Unless, that is, it might be the taxpayer himself.

"This is the kind of dangerous talk Ellender put out: 'I really believe we ought to make a new approach and see if we can't coexist for a while and let the people of East and West decide whether they want Communism or democracy.'

"The Russian people don't want war, but - as anyone even in the darkest cane-brakes of Louisiana knows - the poor Russian people don't have anything to say about what they want. They do only what they are told to do by the Red killers in the Kremlin.

"Here is more of the Ellender stuff and nonsense. It seems he was asked whether the present Soviet leaders were trustworthy and whether a basis for lasting peace could be established by negotiating with them. Ellender said he did not see why the Red leaders could not be trusted.

"You would think that the history of the past dozen years had never occurred, that the Russians had not broken one treaty after another, than they had not violated every law of human decency, culminating with the slaughter of those who wanted freedom in Hungary. APPARENTLY ELLENDER CHOOSES TO DISREGARD ALL THAT."

ELLENDER THE MOVIE MAKER

In a report from the Alexandria (Louisiana) DAILY TOWN TALK we see that in making various speeches before civic club members in the heart of Louisiana he has announced that during his 33-day tour of Russia this summer he took over 4,000 feet of movie film. He told his constituents that these are now being edited to be shown as several 30-minute television films during the next year.

If his film editing is as biased toward Russia as are his recent statements, it is our opinion that any Television Station showing such films could be accused of performing a public "dis-service."

"APPEASEMENT, 1957 STYLE"

The NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE had this to say about Sen. Ellender:

"Louisiana's Sen. Ellender, returning from his third annual trip to Moscow, prompts doubt as to whether travel actually is broadening.

"Sen. Ellender, of course, is proposing appeasement on the grand scale - a 1957 Munich - to 'buy' the Soviet proposal that the United States and Russia divide up the world between them.

"He says he would do these things if we were president. We count it among our blessings that he isn't, nor is he likely to be."

"BLOOD-CHILLING IGNORANCE"

The RICHMOND (Virginia) NEWS-LEADER made comments similar to the other newspapers quoted above and then stated:

"The gentleman who resurrected the grinning ghost of 'peaceful coexistence' is not an ill-informed American tourist, but rather a highly placed public official on whose shoulders rests a fair part of the burden of our national defense.

"Senator Ellender's blood-chilling ignorance of Soviet aims and strategy - not to be confused with tactical expedients - is disheartening. For it reveals a willingness to shun the grave responsibilities of unrelenting cold war, while indulging in free-wheeling flights of wishful thinking.

"As we watch Senator Ellender, and others like him, standing in a high place, leaning over backward to make the wish serve as reality, we pray that his ultimate fall into disillusionment will not bring with it national disaster."

"DAILY WORKER" PRAISES ELLENDER

Now comes the final blow. This one should wake up the aging Senator from Louisiana and should alert every voter in the Pelican State to the confused state of Ellender's thinking.

On November 11, 1957 and again on November 17, the official organ of the Communist Party in the U. S., the "DAILY WORKER" PRAISED SENATOR ELLENDER FOR PUSHING THE PROPOSALS OF THE COMMUNIST PARTY. This praise from the Communists was the direct result of his recent statements to the members of the Washington Press and his speeches in his home State.

* * * *

EITHER SENATOR ELLENDER SHOULD REPUDIATE HIS PRO-COMMUNIST STATEMENTS OR HE SHOULD RESIGN AS SENATOR FROM LOUISIANA.

Radio Free Europe Glorifies Red Dictator Tito

— Based on material gathered by FULTON LEWIS, JR. —

(Publisher's Note: In recent weeks the noted crusading radio commentator and newspaper columnist, Fulton Lewis, Jr., has been bringing to light some amazing facts concerning the real truth behind THE CRUSADE FOR FREEDOM which raises money for RADIO FREE EUROPE. Readers are asked to take action suggested at the end of this startling and factual article. After hearing several of these broadcasts by Fulton Lewis, Jr., we telephoned his office in Washington, D. C. and received permission to use the research material contained in these broadcasts which deal with RADIO FREE EUROPE, in order to give one complete picture of this organization that once had a high purpose, but which now appears to have fallen into the hands of persons who are aligned with the enemies of the United States, namely the International Communist Conspiracy.)

WHAT IS RADIO FREE EUROPE"

Radio Free Europe is a private enterprise organization operating in Munich, Germany, and beaming short-wave radio propaganda to Russia and Communist-occupied countries of Eastern Europe. The Free Europe Committee operates the radio station and until recently sent pamphlets in helium-filled balloons over the Iron Curtain. The Crusade For Freedom is a money-raising organization operating in the U.S.A. which helps to support the activities of the Free Europe Committee. It is reliably reported that the Central Intelligence Agency of the U. S. Government supplies an unknown amount of money to the Free Europe Committee. In the New York headquarters of CRUSADE FOR FREEDOM there are about 500 employees and in the Munich headquarters there are approximately 1,000 employees. It is estimated that the Munich operation costs at least 10 million dollars a year.

WHAT IS THE PURPOSE OF RADIO FREE EUROPE"

The information given U. S. citizens is that this organization is helping the countries behind the Iron Curtain to hear the "TRUTH." The radio and balloon projects are supposed to counter the lies fed to the people under the dominating of Communist Russia. All this sounds very good and in the tradition of freedom-loving Americans.

HOW DOES IT ACTUALLY OPERATE

Radio Free Europe is manned by a strange conglomeration of persons, ranging from young kids just out of Ivy League colleges in the East, to internationally known Communists. In the past two years ten of the employees of Radio Free Europe have voluntarily returned to Czechoslovakia and have popped up in important jobs in the Communist-dominated government of that country and in other key positions in industry and commerce.

Americans through the Crusade for Freedom are asked to donate "Truth Dollars," to support the activities of Radio Free Europe. In some cities the home delivery boys of newspapers were "volunteered" into making a door-to-door solicitation for funds for Radio Free Europe. Let us see what kind of instructions were given to the staff of Radio Free Europe. Here, without change, are four typical paragraphs, in which the employees of R.F.E. are told to glorify the TITO type of Communism.

(2) "Editors who are preparing broadcasts dealing with the Communist Party are to slant their broadcasts in the future in such manner that they no longer attack Communist Party members so caustically, but appeal to their conscience and surreptitiously emphasize many of their good deeds." (Note: Does a Communist have a conscience")

(3) "In other broadcasts it is necessary to glorify the figure of Marshall Tito in the eyes of Yugoslavia and the Western World. This is a hero who has saved the nation from exploitation by foreign barbarians and led them from their own possible downfall to a happy future."

(4) "It has been proven that Titoism is a necessary transition to Democracy, on a mild road without war."

Thus it would appear that RADIO FREE EUROPE is not only NOT EXPOSING COMMUNISM but is actually PROMOTING COMMUNISM.

WHAT ABOUT SHORT WAVE RADIO?

The radio broadcasts written with the above staff instructions in mind go out over the short-wave transmitter. Consider the fact that only trusted party members are allowed to own short-wave receivers behind the Iron Curtain. Even if the messages contained hope of eventual liberation from the Communist Slave Masters of either the Moscow or Belgrade style, the common people would not be able to hear the messages on their "People's Sets" which can only receive the regular Soviet propaganda broadcasts. In addition an intelligence officer who has interviewed most of the refugees from behind the Iron Curtain says that not one in a hundred has ever heard of the broadcasts of Radio Free Europe and would not risk being caught listening if they did own a forbidden short-wave radio!

R.F.E. EMPLOYEES RETURN TO THEIR COMMUNIST HOMELAND

Ladislav Zapetal was a script writer and also acted as secretary of the Association of Free Czechoslovakian Refugees. He had custody of the records, files and information of this organization including facts about the real Czech underground. Today he has a job in the Communist government of Czechoslovakia in a military training organization. When he left Radio Free Europe he took the records with him.

Jiri Kalsa was an assistant to the head of the Refugee Department at R.F.E. in Munich. In that job he questioned the newly arrived refugees in the Valka-Nuremberg Camp. He made false statements concerning real anti-Communist employees of R.F.E. causing their arrest. The charges were later proved to be false.

When he disappeared behind the Iron Curtain he stole records from Radio Free Europe and soon thereafter there were mass arrests made by the Communist Police of Czechoslovakian members of the underground who had aided refugees in leaving the country.

These two are typical of ten who at one time or another were in responsible positions in the Radio Broadcasting department of Radio Free Europe.

CHANCELLOR ADENHAUER WANTS R.F.E. OFF GERMAN SOIL

The Western German government has made repeated requests that Radio Free Europe be removed from Germany. This truly anti-Communist government must know that R.F.E. serves no useful purpose.

WHAT HAPPENS TO THE MONEY

There is no public accounting for the funds collected in the U.S.A. although persons are exhorted to send donations in care of their local postmaster.

WHAT CAN YOU DO ABOUT THIS

Bring these facts to the attention of your Congressman and ask him to demand an investigation of a private organization that is playing around with matters affecting our pocketbook, our foreign policy, and which could conceivably start a series of incidents that could lead to all-out war.

If there is a person in your town who has been asked to be a local "sponsor" of THE CRUSADE FOR FREEDOM, show him this article and ask him to investigate the facts as presented here and as provided through the research of Fulton Lewis, Jr.

THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN believes that every citizen should be on guard against his good name being used by an organization which has a high sounding aim and purpose but which in reality may be a "front" for those who would destroy our freedom in the name of fighting for freedom.

CONGRESSMEN STUNNED

Red Named Chief Of "Atoms-For-Peace" Agency

BY WILLARD EDWARDS

Washington — Congressional leaders reacted with dismay Thursday to the disclosure that a prominent Communist has been elected to the top administrative post in the new international atomic energy agency.

Much publicity was given recently to the selection of Sterling Cole, a New York Republican Congressman, as director general of the agency. This was hailed as a triumph of American diplomacy. But Cole, it now develops will take orders from Dr. Pavel Winiewicz, well-known Czechoslovakian Red, elected chairman of the agency's 23-member board of governors.

"Atoms for Peace"

The agency was created as a result of President Eisenhower's "atoms-for-peace" program, and the United States has donated 5000 kilograms of uranium-235 valued at $50,000,000 which will be distributed to 60 member nations under an agreement restricting the deadly material to peaceful purposes.

Russia has promised to contribute 50 kilograms, 1 per cent of the American donation, but has not yet made good on this pledge. The only other donor nation is Great Britain, which has offered a token contribution of 20 kilograms.

Reds Put One over

How the Soviet Union by private negotiations at the first agency meeting in Vienna put over its choice as chairman of the board of governors, remains a mystery but several members of Congress pledged an inquiry, remarking that Russian control of the agency may, in the long run, prove a greater defeat for the United States than Russia's development of space satellites and intercontinental missiles.

The Senate ratified the treaty for American participation in the agency last June despite fears expressed by Senators Knowland (R., Calif.), Bricker (R., Ohio), Jenner (R., Ind.), Owen Brewster (R., Maine) and Russell B. Long, chairman of the Senate finance committee.

The two-thirds majority of the Senate, which approved the treaty, was assured by the State Department that the United States and its friends would have an overwhelming majority of votes in the agency to guard against misuse of nuclear fuel for military purposes.

FREEDOM

When the Government helps one group at the expense of other groups, we say it is unfair. If the Government helps all groups it must control all groups to protect its interests. If the Government controls all groups it leads to Socialism and Communism. Which would be best, less controls and more Freedom or more controls and no Freedom.

CANADIAN TAX CUT REPORTED

OTTAWA, Dec. 1 — Canada's new Conservative government has announced a reduction of $176 million in personal and corporation income taxes and automobile purchase duties.

Finance Minister Donald ... The Conservatives promised tax cuts during the election campaign they won last summer, unseating Liberals who had governed Canada for 22 years.

ent national crisis necessitates restriction of federal projects. So—accepting this proposition—the editorial contends that the logical thing is to put the burden back where it belongs—on the states and local areas.

In other localities there is great uneasiness over the general theory of judicial usurpation of legislative functions, with the Supreme Court taking undue liberties with the constitution.

There are several organizations, centered mainly in northern states, which are vigorously insisting on a return to constitutional principles. Non-partisan groups like the American Bar Association, the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and other elements are sounding alarms against federal encroachment upon legislative functions and upon local prerogatives.

IT must be said, again in impartial vein, that there never was such a wide-open opportunity for starting a third party, one big reason being that the old

bers, however."

Thus, even though individual Birchers would be grudgingly permitted to enter the backdoor of the American Conservative Union, it is rather unlikely that there will be a stampede by Birchers to join this new organization.

Members of the John Birch Society are probably the best informed in the entire Nation regarding the dangers of the Communist menace at home and abroad. Doubtless many Birchers will consider inadquate the policy statement regarding Communism which appears under the official "Principles of the American Conservative Union" as follows:

"Today the American commonwealth (sic) (Note: the U.S. is a Republic!), as well as the civilization that illuminated it, are mortally threatened by the global Communist revolution. We hold that permanent co-existence with Communism is neither honorable nor desirable nor possible. Communism would enslave the world by any means expedient to that end. We deem no sacrifice too great to avoid that fate. We would parry the enemy's thrusts -- but more: by maintaining American military superiority and exerting relentless pressure against the Communist empire, we would advance the frontiers of freedom."

Obviously, Americans aware of action on social and economic problems and matters of legislation, public policy and in behalf of Conservative candidates for public office."

Regarding how the ACU proposes to "mobilize intellectual resources in the Conservative movement" and "provide material for existing Conservative organizations," columnist Walter Trohan, dean of the Washington press corps, in his January 3, 1965, column stated:

"About 27,000,000 voted for Goldwater, a goodly portion of them hard-core Conservatives. It wouldn't seem that they needed any particular direction in capturing the nomination for him, nor would it seem that they need someone to do their thinking for them."

"Teach-In" Backs Red Policy

(Reprinted from CHATTANOOGA NEWS-FREE PRESS)

It is customary to think of schoolteachers as being leaders in upholding the effective operation of educational institutions for service to students. In most cases that is the way it is. But in some it is not. In some places, teachers are the instigators of disorder and agitation.

The Communist newspaper THE WORKER, published in New York, gleefully chronicles a "teach-in" demonstration resulting in all-night rallies instigated by a faculty committee at the University of Michigan, which drew some 2,500 students into its activities.

The "teach-in" disruption was designed to protest American defense of South Viet Nam and to demand that the war against Communist aggressors be stopped. (The Communist newspaper was particularly interested in the Michigan activity because Red policy demands that the United States pull out of Viet Nam and leave that struggling country victim of Communist aggressors.)

The Communist paper reports that faculty members at Columbia University wired their support of the Michigan "teach-in," and representatives of State government and faculty members from other universities joined in the rallies.

Americans should be aware that on the faculties of many influential universities are professors who not only agree with the Red position but who are using their teaching positions to promote it.

warned that a Presidential directive will soon be issued which would require these financial institutions to make certain that a contractor borrowing money from them for a housing development had signed an agreement he would sell or rent a home without any restrictions on race, creed or color.

If the banks or savings and loan institutions are remiss in securing this information before approving and making loans, they were warned the Federal Government could withdraw insurance protection which guarantees deposits up to $10,000 in these institutions.

Hospital authorities were bluntly informed that token integration would no longer be acceptable and that complete integration of hospital staffs and non-discriminatory use of all facilities was an absolute must if these institutions were to avoid having all Federal funds under all government aid programs cut off completely.

To give these warnings an even harsher impact, the 300 persons attending the workshop session were informed the Federal Government had ways of checking on everyone as to whether they are complying with the law and even tougher laws will be quickly forthcoming if anybody finds any ingenious ways to get around the present law.

To make things even tougher, this new law is like the internal revenue laws in that it presumes an accused person is guilty until he can establish his innocence. Any individual, for instance, can file a complaint against an employer, builder, banker or anybody else covered by the stature, and if the complaint has any kind of validity, the Federal Government will intercede at once on behalf of the complainant.

Federal officials frankly admit the new law will have a drastic impact on millions of people all across the Nation. That is why they are warning those covered by the law in advance to get ready for the great changes that are coming as ignorance of the law will be no excuse for violators.

If all this sounds like the makings of a police state, it most certainly is. An evil can hardly be cured by the imposition of another evil upon innocent and guilty alike.

MARTIN LUTHER KING, JR., AT COMMUNIST TRAINING SCHOOL

The above caption and picture are appearing (Spring 1965) on over 200 billboards throughout the South.

The above photograph was taken by Edwin Friend, 4888 Jett Rd., N.W., Atlanta 5, Georgia, then an employee of the State of Georgia, at the Highlander Folk School in Monteagle, Tennessee, during the Labor Day weekend of 1957. The photographer was sent to the Highlander Folk School by the Georgia Commission on Education. According to THE AUGUSTA COURIER of July 8, 1963, the Highlander Folk School was later abolished by an act of the Legislature of the State of Tennessee because it was charged with being a subversive organization.

(1) Foreground, looking down, is Abner W. Berry of the Central Committee of the Communist Party.

(2) First row, second from the right, is Martin Luther King Jr., of the Montgomery boycott, the Birmingham riots, and the so-called voting rights march from Selma to Montgomery, Alabama, in March 1965. Karl Prussion, who served as a counterspy for the FBI for 22 years, charges that King belongs to, or has accepted support from 60 Communist-front organizations.

(3) To King's right is Aubrey Williams, then president and now president emeritus of the Southern Conference Education Fund, Inc., a Communist front organization known as the transmission belt in the South for the Communist Party.

(4) To Williams' right is Myles Horton, director of Highlander Folk School for Communist training, Monteagle, Tennessee.

Since attending this 1957 Communist training school, these four leaders of racial agitation have brought tension, disturbance, strife and violence in their advancement of the Communist doctrine of "racial nationalism."

Over a national television network on April 4, 1965, Martin Luther King, Jr. claimed that he was at the Highlander Folk School for 90 minutes. Edwin Friend, who took this and other photographs, certifies that King arrived in the morning, attended the morning sessions, then spoke in the afternoon.

The above photograph is available as a reprint. It appears on a single sheet, 8-1/2 x 11, the reverse side of which carries three additional photographs, together with documentation, showing Martin Luther King, Jr. associating with known Communists.

Harry Everingham, left, President of We, The People, Chicago, Ill., is shown with Kent Courtney, center, and Willis E. Stone, right, the Chairman of the Liberty Amendment Committee, USA. Harry Everingham gave an address of welcome to the Congress of Conservatives. He then outlined a practical program for recruiting Conservatives into political action. The title of his presentation was "America Must Be Recaptured House by House." Willis E. Stone was the first speaker on the afternoon of Thursday, April 29 and, as usual, he gave a dynamic and forceful presentation. He proved that with the passage of the Liberty Amendment, governmental shackles would be removed from America's private enterprise system, poverty generated by government paternalism would be eliminated, and individual freedom restored. Harry Everingham, left, President of We, The People, Chicago, Ill., is shown with Kent Courtney, center, and Willis E. Stone, right, the Chairman of the Liberty Amendment Committee, USA. Harry Everingham gave an address of welcome to the Congress of Conservatives. He then outlined a practical program for recruiting Conservatives into political action. The title of his presentation was "America Must Be Recaptured House by House." Willis E. Stone was the first speaker on the afternoon of Thursday, April 29 and, as usual, he gave a dynamic and forceful presentation. He proved that with the passage of the Liberty Amendment, governmental shackles would be removed from America's private enterprise system, poverty generated by government paternalism would be eliminated, and individual freedom restored. Readers of THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN are urged to volunteer their services to help repeal the Federal income tax. For details write Liberty Amendment Committee USA, 6413 Franklin Ave., Los Angeles 28, Calif.

NEW PARTY GROUNDWORK LAID

an internationalist and his efforts to downgrade Goldwater in the 1964 presidential campaign contributed largely to his own (Percy's) defeat when running for Governor at the same time.

The Liberals are frantic and fearful that the hard-core strength which turned out 27 million votes for Senator Goldwater will be diverted out of the Republican Party and into a new anti-Communist, Conservative party.

The middle-of-the-road Conservatives in the Republican Party who think they can win with Nixon in 1968 are whistling in the dark. Nixon's record in favor of Civil Rights, his membership in the NAACP, his statements in favor of repeal of the Connally Amendment, his pledge of allegiance to the United Nations and his membership in the Communist-accommodating Council on Foreign Relations all make him unacceptable to the majority of the 27 million who voted for Goldwater.

In addition to former Goldwater supporters, THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN believes that the new party movement will be able to draw considerable strength from disillusioned Democrats, especially from the members of the labor unions whose seniority rights will be infringed upon by the enforcement of the patently unconstitutional Civil Rights Act of 1964.

And where are Southern Democrats going to go in 1966 and 1968? It must be remembered that the five Southern States carried by Goldwater did not represent a Republican Party victory in these Southern States because the votes for Goldwater came from States Rights Democrats. As a matter of fact the individuals and organizations who were mainly responsible for getting out the vote for Goldwater in the South represented the Conservative wing of the Democratic Party. These Southern States Rights Democrats, some of whom have only recently registered in the Republican Party, are loyal to Constitutional principles and certainly have no allegiance to or respect for those so-called Moderate Republicans in the House and the Senate who are now in control of the national Republican Party and who act as the Republican Party's spokesmen.

Principles make parties -- not politicians! And the new party offers a Declaration of Principles to which all those who support a return to Constitutional government and an end to America-destroying appeasement of Communism can in good conscience support.

PATRIOTIC CELEBRATION IN BOSTON

The New England Rally for God, Family and Country announces its third annual event to be held on July 3, 4 and 5 at the Statler Hilton Hotel in Boston, Massachusetts. Laurence E. Bunker, General Chairman, stated that a special feature of this three-day patriotic gathering in Boston would be a Youth Rally, where speakers from all over the country would be presented to the audience composed mainly of young people in order to talk to them about the need for a patriotic renaissance in America.

Mrs. Anna G. McKinney, the Executive Secretary of the rally, announced that all sessions would be held at the Statler-Hilton Hotel in downtown Boston. She said more than 60 patriotic organizations would be represented at the rally either by the speakers, the panel members or the exhibitors. Mrs. McKinney also added that a baby sitting service would be in effect all three days of the rally.

The registration fee for the three-day meeting will be $5.00, or $2.00 each separate day. Colonel Bunker also announced that there will be a dinner honoring Robert Welch and the continuing expansion of the John Birch Society on Sunday evening, July 4, in the Grand Ball Room of the Statler-Hilton Hotel. Tickets to this testimonial banquet will be $15 per person.

Among the speakers already announced are: General Edwin A. Walker; General Richard B. Moran (USA, Ret.); Lester Maddox; Dr. Fernando Penabaz; John Rousselot; Tom Anderson; Edward Griffin; John Stormer; Robert Stein; Dr. George Hess; Dr. Hardgrove Norris; Dr. Medford Evans; Kent Courtney; Robert Goldsborough; Rev. D. Charles Poling and Dean Richards, who will head the youth conference.

THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN urges its readers to make reservations in advance by writing Patriotic Rally, Box 598, Dedham, Mass. Reservations can also be made by phone at DA 6-6776, Dedham, Massachusetts.

We hope to see all of you in Boston.

(6) National Intelligence Estimates, or the basis upon which such analyses are made, are not available to Congress although policy is supposed to be determined by them."

As case in point, Congress has so little power that the Senate Armed Services Committee was not even able to force Defense Secretary McNamara to spend the money appropriated by the Congress on the projects it favors, such as the manned bombers and the development of an anti-missile missile. Thus, the Constitutionally-guaranteed Congressional power over the purse has become meaningless. The word "flexibility" has become the "open sesame" needed to justify giving the Executive branch of Government everything it wants.

A sinister development is the ever-expanding covert operations of the Central Intelligence Agency and the State Department's Intelligence and Research section which are not open to Congressional scrutiny. Why do legislators tolerate this usurpation of their powers? The reasons are twofold: (1) To obtain from the Executive branch financial favors for their Congressional Districts in the form of subsidy programs; and (2) To obtain White House support to facilitate their re-election.

What can be done to return power to the people? First, citizens can exert influence by sending mail to legislators specifically from the Congressional Districts and States that these lawmakers represent. Secondly, they can concentrate on defeating "rubberstamp Congressmen." The Districts and States which lawmakers represent and the number of votes each has received are listed in the Congressional Directory available from the U. S. Government Printing Office. The rest is up to the people.

WHO'S IN CHARGE HERE?

"Treason is the Reason" is the name of a new book by Frank A. Capell. The sub-title of the new book is "847 Reasons for Investigating the State Department."

The late Scott McCloud, who was Chief of the Security Section in the Department of State, prepared a list of 847 security risks which he supplied to the Secretary of State but no action was taken. To avoid further embarrassment, McCloud was promoted and made Ambassador to Ireland. His successor, Otto Otepka, when he endeavored to take action against the same security risks, found himself removed from his job. This is a story of treason, subversion, disloyalty and incompetence. Frank Capell does not list all 847 security risks who are presently in the State Department but from Page 43 to 164, Frank Capell gives an alphabetical list of persons regarded as security risks who are presently working in the U.S. government.

THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN recommends that every person who is interested in knowing who is doing what to the United States Government and a short history of their pro-Communist connections and activities, should order "Treason is the Reason," paperback, 7"x 8-1/2", $3.00. Order from: The Herald of Freedom, Box 3, Zarephath, New Jersey.

BOOK REVIEW

"INVASION ALERT"

By Tom Watson

In a carefully documented, concisely written book, "INVASION ALERT," Mary Barclay Erb points out, chapter by chapter, the danger facing America today through the immigration of millions of aliens to our shores, many of whom have a cultural background completely different from our Western European heritage, and most of whom have no understanding of our political philosophy and organization.

Many immigrants who gain entry into the United States are actually agents of the Communist conspiracy, and Mrs. Erb presents documentation to prove this alarming fact. A special Senate committee began in 1947 an intensive study and investigation of various immigration systems of the world, and one of the earliest impressions conveyed by the study was the intimate relation between immigration and the worldwide Communist conspiracy.

This senate committee reviewed 5,000 of the more militant cases of Communists in the United States and found that 91.5 per cent were foreign-born or of foreign parents, and one-half traced their ancestry to Russia or its satellites.

The U.S. Department of State, with its special programs which allow millions of aliens to enter under the nonquota system, has brought in more subversives to attack our institutions, political structure and general well-being. The official group sent to Europe to investigate the refugee situation following our 1953 Refugee Relief Act found that 40 per cent of the so-called refugees from the Soviet Union and the satellites were in the subversive or criminal category; 30 per cent in Western Germany were either Communist agents, sympathizers or security risks; and an estimated 60,000 Red agent "sleepers" were in the "pipeline" waiting to come to the United States.

How does this wholesale invasion affect our education system, our politics, welfare programs and employment in the United States? Mrs. Erb shows the relationship between foreign teachers, and students, to our decreased effectiveness in public schools. Immigration is partially responsible for the rocketing cost of our welfare programs, and increased immigration would cause unemployment, especially among the Negro population, to increase at a tremendous rate. Mrs. Erb points out that even today the foreign-born and first generation foreign-offspring voters in a mere dozen of the 50 States, voting heavily the same way, could elect a President of the United States, no matter how the rest of the Nation cast its ballot.

And yet, even under these dire circumstances, the present Administration proposes to scrap the national origins quota system and allow immigrants to enter the United States by the millions on a first-come, first-serve basis.

For more detailed information on our immigration problem, and how you may be able to help preserve America as we know it, write for your copy of INVASION ALERT today. Write to The American Committee on Immigration Policies, Suite 225, The Dodge House, 20 E. Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. Price, $1.50 each.

THE PUGWASH MOVEMENT

Duane Thorin, author of "A Ride to Panmunjom" in 1956, has now compiled an analysis of the Pugwash Conferences from official government documents.

The current drive for peace, coalition governments and United Nations control over areas where the Communist conquest has burst into open warfare can be more readily understood by reading the history of the Pugwash movement and its effect on United States arms policy. The recent "Teach-in" at Washington, D.C., by liberal professors is another element in the brainwashing of Americans into accepting surrender. The Pugwash movement also can be seen as the fountainhead and the source of the drive for unilateral disarmament of the United States.

NEGOTIATIONS ? WE'VE HAD 'EM

(Reprinted from CHATTANOOGA NEWS-FREE PRESS)

As some ordinarily respectable people and groups continue to call for "negotiations" to end the war in Viet Nam, it becomes increasingly clear that they, of course, don't like war, but also don't know what they are talking about.

There have been negotiations on Viet Nam. In 1954 they "settled" the situation there, as much as negotiations could. The Communist aggression we are opposing is in violation of the agreements reached by negotiations. And the violators of negotiated agreements don't want to negotiate now. They want to win.

The Reds don't negotiate with the Vietnamese men, women and children they slaughter in most vicious ways in the areas they take over. They don't negotiate about which civilian building they place bombs in to kill and maim whoever happens to be unfortunate enough to be there when the explosion takes place. Our involvement in the war results from the fact that negotiations with the Communists don't work.

Instead of calling for "negotiations" as though they offered some sort of magical "out," some people need to face the facts. The cry for "negotiations" seems to be an excuse to avoid facing the facts. Those who want to surrender to the Communists ought to be honest enough to say so. Those who hate war but would rather fight than give in to Communist aggression should make their stand clear, too.

Johnson's Republicans

"Johnson's Republicans" is the title of Kent and Phoebe Courtney's new preliminary Voting Index and Analysis, which reveals how Republicans in Congress voted on President Johnson's first five key bills in 1965.

The voting record of every Republican Senator and Representative is reported in "Johnson's Republicans." Included in the report is a Summary Analyses, which brings emphasis to some amazing facts. For instance, out of 140 Republicans in the Congress, only 18 voted against all of the present Administration's Socialist, Communist-appeasing legislation. In the Senate, 66% of the Republicans voted "Liberal" more often than "Conservative," and 37% of the newly elected Congressmen voted "Liberal" more often than "Conservative."

Order additional copies of "Johnson's Republicans" for your friends, neighbors, political action groups, doctors, dentists, schools, libraries. Fill out the coupon below, clip it, and return it with your check or Money Order to:

NOTE: Bufiles show that Kent Courtney's publication is allegedly dedicated to the defeat of socialist and communist influences and to promote individuals and organizations which believe that a political party based on constitutional states rights is the answer to socialism. His paper indicates he is a rabble-rouser and a hatemonger and he has urged the impeachment of Chief Justice of the Supreme Court Earl Warren. On the occasions he has been written in the past, they have been in-absence replies.

Mr. J. Edgar Hoover
Director
Federal Bureau of Investigation

Dear Mr. Hoover:

THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN Newspaper is dedicated to alerting patriotic Americans to the Communist threat at home and abroad. Every feature we write or reprint is carefully documented with facts from authoritative sources. Therefore, we are always searching for reports, journals, bulletins or periodicals which may serve as references.

In an Associated Press story which appeared in the WASHINGTON POST of June 2, 1965, mention is made of the FBI Law Enforcement Bulletin circulated to law officials throughout the United States. In the June issue of the Bulletin, according to the AP dispatch, there appeared an article by you calling attention to the Communist-controlled W.E.B. duBois clubs and the major role played by Communist leaders in the student march on the Nation's Capital, April 17, 1965, protesting United States intervention in Viet Nam.

Since we have published several articles on the W.E.B. duBois clubs and have on numerous occasions pointed out the Communist influence in various "marches", "protests", and "demonstrations" across the Nation, your comments on the subject are of great interest to us.

Could we please receive a copy of the June issue of the FBI Law Enforcement Bulletin? Furthermore, we would like to be placed on your mailing list to receive future copies of the Bulletin. Any charge for the periodical, of course, will be paid immediately upon notification of the amount due.

Constitutionally yours,

Kent Courtney

A NATIONAL CITIZEN-ACTION NEWSPAPER

January 25, 1966

Dear Subscriber of THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN:

The war in Viet Nam is rapidly becoming the No. 1 issue in the Nation today. It is an issue which can have a profound effect on the November Congressional elections and the future of this country.

Enclosed are advance copies of our two latest pamphlets, TAX FAX No. 69 -- "Why Not Win In Viet Nam?", and CSA pamphlet No. 9 -- "Appeasement In Asia," by the late Senator Joseph R. McCarthy.

In CSA pamphlet No. 9, Senator McCarthy documents U.S. "No Win" policy in regard to Asia, which has led to the current disaster in Viet Nam. The action he recommended in this speech, given in New York on February 22, 1956 -- ten years ago -- is still the only over-all program that will save Asia for the Free World.

TAX FAX pamphlet No. 69, "Why Not Win In Viet Nam?", is a careful documentation of present U.S. foreign policy in Asia and documents the program being carried on throughout the United States to prepare the American public for another surrender to Communism, such as that agreed upon in Korea.

Action is recommended in this pamphlet, which, if followed by the U.S. Government, would lead to victory over Communism in Asia.

We hope that you will agree with us that these new pamphlets should have the widest possible circulation throughout the United States in order that the citizens of America will learn the true issues at stake in Viet Nam, and how sinister forces in our government are keeping us from winning the war in Asia. Also, the American people should know that it is possible to win the war in Viet Nam, by taking the simple and realistic actions recommended in both CSA pamphlet No. 9 and TAX FAX No. 69.

Therefore, we urge you to buy and distribute as many copies of these two new pamphlets as you possibly can.

In addition to the suggestions for citizen action made in the pamphlet under "What You Can Do," here are a few more which should be effective: Make your recommendations or demands immediately known to your Congressmen so they become aware of how the voters feel on the crucial issue of the Viet Nam war.

(1) Send your Congressman and your two Senators a copy of these pamphlets along with your personal demand for a "win" policy in Viet Nam.
(2) Have your friends send in similar letters and a copy of TAX FAX No. 69.
(3) Have your club pass a resolution in favor of a "win" policy in Viet Nam to be signed by all members of the club. Send a copy of the resolution to your Congressman and two Senators along with a copy of TAX FAX No. 69 and CSA pamphlet No. 9. Also, a copy should be sent to the city desk of your local newspaper.

(Please turn to other side . . . . .)

ENCLOSURE

(4) Or, you may wish to prepare a petition demanding a "win" policy, have your friends sign it, then set up a table in the town square or on Main Street and ask the general public to lend their support by signing your petition. At this table, pass out copies of TAX FAX #69 and CSA pamphlet #9. Also send in a copy of these two pamphlets with the petition to your Congressman and two Senators.

If for any reason you are unable to personally distribute bulk copies or mail them to your friends, you can still participate in this project to alert the American people: Just mark the appropriate square on the enclosed coupon and send in a contribution to our TAX FAX Distribution Fund. Such contributions (you may wish to both order and contribute!) will enable us to send copies of these two new pamphlets to editors of leading newspapers throughout the country as well as radio and TV commentators, all Members of Congress, influential leaders of patriotic, anti-Communist groups, etc.

Order extra copies of TAX FAX #69 and CSA #9 today. Keep a supply in your home -- ready to hand out to your friends and neighbors, or take to a club or group meeting. Use them as "argument winners" or "point provers." The people of America have a right to know the truth.

Just fill out the enclosed coupon, attach your check or money order and R-U-S-H your order to us in the enclosed postage paid envelope.

Constitutionally yours,

Kent Courtney

P.S. Please notice that in the enclosed Price List and Order Form for our TAX FAX and CSA pamphlets, we draw special attention to those pamphlets which cover issues Johnson will be attempting to push through the 1966 session of Congress. Please order and distribute as many copies as you possibly can of "How LBJ Plans To Destroy THE RIGHT TO WORK!" and "DEFEND YOUR RIGHT TO 'KEEP AND BEAR ARMS'." These two Socialist-inspired bills must be defeated!

REC-D WICK

Why does the Administration not take the foregoing actions which would result in victory in Viet Nam?

WHAT YOU CAN DO

The No. 1 job for all liberty-loving Americans is to let the President know, in no uncertain terms, that while the American people wholeheartedly support our fighting men in Viet Nam, they do not support the "no-win" policy of the Administration.

The year 1966 is an election year, that is, all Congressmen come up for re-election. Write your Congressman and your two Senators demanding that they support a "win" policy in Viet Nam; and that the steps outlined in this pamphlet which will lead to victory, be carried out immediately.

Write short letters to the editor of your local newspaper using the documented information in this pamphlet so that members of your community will learn the true facts. Be sure to enclose a copy of this pamphlet so that your local newspaper can also use this material for its own editorials.

ORDER TODAY, for your personal distribution, as many copies of this pamphlet as you possibly can. Send them to your friends and neighbors, particularly those with sons overseas or of draft age.

And finally, if you know an American soldier now serving in Viet Nam, send a package of these pamphlets to him to hand out to his buddies so they will know that the American people are backing them – TO WIN!

To repeat General MacArthur's words:

In war, there is no substitute for victory.

ORDER – TODAY – EXTRA COPIES OF THIS PAMPHLET

"...NO SUBSTITUTE FOR VICTORY" – MacArthur

The brainwashing of the American people regarding the all-important subject of Viet Nam is becoming more subtle each day. Apparently two such operations are now being conducted: (1) slanted public opinion polls, and (2) Administration propaganda.

On December 6, 1965, the public opinion poll known as the Harris Survey appeared in papers throughout the country. In most papers this poll carried a headline such as that which appeared in the LOS ANGELES TIMES: "Public Backs Vietnam War Effort." Careful analysis of the question posed by the Harris pollsters reveals, however, that each of the three choices in the sample question contained the word "negotiate." Nowhere was the person questioned given an opportunity to say that he favored winning in Viet Nam.

The purpose of the excessive newspaper coverage given the activities of Communists, fellow travelers, draft-card burners, and human-torch pacifists protesting U.S. involvement in Viet Nam, is now clearly evident. The reason for this publicity build-up was to convey the impression that anyone disagreeing with official government policy regarding Viet Nam was on the same side as the noisome Communist-influenced peaceniks.

The Administration thus hopes to stifle any criticism by that large body of Americans who, disagreeing with Administration policy regarding Viet Nam, wholeheartedly supports and agrees with the late General Douglas MacArthur, who declared:

> In war, there is no substitute for victory.

THE INEXORABLE AIMS OF THE COMMUNISTS

An article in the December 5, 1965, issue of the CHICAGO TRIBUNE quotes a statement made several weeks previously by Lin Piao, the Communist Chinese Defense Minister, who stated:

> Political power grows out of the barrel of a gun.... The seizure of power by armed force... is the central task.... U.S. imperialism can be split up and defeated... by people's wars... launched in different parts of the world, particularly in Asia, Africa and Latin America.

At a conference of Communist leaders from Asia, Africa and Latin America held in Communist Cuba, Wu Hsueh Tsien, delegate from Red China, said on January 5, 1966, that the United States "will not fall unless it is felled," and then Communist Tsien added:

> It is necessary for us to start still more powerful movements, wage people's wars on a still greater scale; tighten the rope around the neck of U.S. imperialism and bring about its final defeat.

The Communists are testing this doctrine in Viet Nam. If we lose in Viet Nam – as we lost by negotiating in Korea – the Communists will accelerate their program of world conquest, until the day comes when the United States is totally surrounded and receives the final Communist ultimatum: Surrender or die!

KILLING MANY ENEMIES BUT NOT REDUCING THEIR NUMBER

According to a column by Holmes Alexander of December 24, 1965, U.S. forces in Viet Nam increased from 23,000 at the end of 1964 to approximately 180,000 at the end of 1965. In his State of the Union message of January 12, 1966, President Lyndon Johnson admitted that "our fighting force" in the Viet Nam war now totals 190,000 men.

Although U.S. soldiers are killing 10 of the enemy for every American life lost, nevertheless they are unable to reduce the numbers of the enemy who are being continually reinforced from the bottomless well of Communist Asia manpower.

An editorial in the INDIANAPOLIS STAR of December 2, 1965, in discussing the U.S. manpower build-up in Viet Nam, stated:

> Not long ago it was said that American strategists wanted to reach a 5 to 1 manpower superiority, in order to control the situation. That has nearly been done. Now, however, we hear that 8 to 1 ratio is the goal.
> To talk about outnumbering the real enemies of the U.S., the Soviet Union and Red China, in battlefield manpower, by any ratio at all, is sheer nonsense. America doesn't have people in such numbers. They do. The U.S. can never hope to win a contest of numbers against the Communists.
> These aren't just numbers, however. These are American lives. It is completely unconscionable to go on pouring more and more American men into the war without also putting into the war all the power that can be used to practical purpose. The superiority of American strength lies in weapons and technology – not in numbers of men.

APPEASING AND FIGHTING COMMUNISTS AT THE SAME TIME

Never in the history of the United States has the foreign policy of this Nation been so guilty of criminal inconsistency. While U.S. soldiers are being drafted and shipped in huge numbers to Viet Nam to fight the Communists, the following acts of appeasement and accommodation of Communism have taken place in just the past year – all as official government policy:

● ● ● U.S. troops are sent halfway around the world to defend South Viet Nam from the North Viet Nam Communists; yet the U.S. Government refuses to take any meaningful steps to protect the United States from increasingly aggressive Communist Cuba only 90 miles from our shores.

● ● ● The Administration in November and December, 1965, enthusiastically cooperated with Socialist Great Britain in imposing an economic blockade against anti-Communist Rhodesia in Southeast Africa; yet refused to order a blockade against Communist Cuba.

● ● ● After rushing U.S. troops to the Dominican Republic, purportedly to prevent a Communist takeover, the U.S. backed down and, according to a statement by Senator L. Hruska on November 19, 1965: "Known Communists and Communist sympathizers were not only allowed to remain but were appointed as important and high-ranking members of the new regime."

In his newsletter of September 20, 1965, Senator Strom Thurmond, in discussing the Dominican debacle, revealed that "U.S. agents abducted General Elias Wessin y Wessin, an ardent foe of the Communists and proven friend of the U.S. – and at gun point deported him on an American plane to the United States." Thus was guaranteed Communist control of the Dominican Republic.

● ● ● On November 15, 1965, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that members of the Communist Party, USA, need not register with the U.S. Government. This ruling negated 15 years of work by the FBI to control subversion in the United States. As a result, domestic Communists now have constitutional protection even though they are dedicated to overthrowing the Constitution and the government it supports, and even though every man and woman in the Moscow-controlled CPUSA is a potential agent for the Soviet Union.

● ● ● The U.S. continues to send billions of U.S. taxpayer dollars in foreign aid to Socialist, pro-Communist, and Communist countries and to permit U.S. businessmen to trade with Communist countries.

HOW OUR SUPPOSED ALLIES ARE HELPING TO KILL AMERICAN SOLDIERS

On July 22, 1965, Congressman Charles E. Chamberlain of Michigan, a member of the House Armed Services Committee, stated on the floor of the House of Representatives:

> According to unclassified figures, 401 ships flying the flags of the Free World nations called at North Viet Nam ports during 1964. Just think about this – our friends sent more than a ship a day last year to supply our enemy. Through June of this year (1965) it has been reported that 74 Free World ships visited ports of North Viet Nam.

On August 4, Congressman Chamberlain stated that he had just learned that in addition to the foregoing, two other ships, one flying the Japanese flag and the other the Greek flag, had called at North Viet Nam ports.

The breakdown of these 477 Free World ships delivering cargoes to Haiphong and other North Viet Nam ports during the period January 1, 1964, to June 30, 1965, is as follows:

Almost half of the ships were British – 224.

Japan was second with 76; followed by Norway with 53; Greece, 47; Lebanon, 23; Italy, 11; Netherlands, 10; Panama, 9; West Germany, 8; Liberia, 8; Sweden, 3; France, 2; Finland, 1; Denmark, 1; Burma, 1.

Later, on October 1, 1965, Congressman Chamberlain, who has visited the war zone, updated his figures and said that "So far to date there are 88 ships this year that have gone to North Viet Nam with cargoes to keep this war going." He added that the figures he was quoting were from published commercial sources and then intimated that classified secret information revealed a higher figure. Congressman Chamberlain then pointed out:

> Of all the ships going to North Viet Nam, more Free World ships are going there than all of the Communist-bloc ships combined.

The U.S. State Department has attempted to play down the menace posed by our allies trading with our enemy, by saying that such trade is of no military value. Congressman Chamberlain on September 8, 1965, declared:

> I do not believe that the cargoes being unloaded in Hanoi by our friends are not of a military value. I say that any supplies received by the Hanoi government are needed by them and consequently are used to defeat our efforts to contain the Communist spread in Southeast Asia.

Ray Cromley, in his column of December 30, 1965, describes the type of products that are being shipped by our allies to North Viet Nam. For example: Italy has been shipping mechanical and electrical spare parts to Hanoi. West Germany has been selling Ho Chi Minh metal-working machinery and electrical apparatus. Britain has been supplying electrical equipment and chemicals. Japan has been selling tinned plates and sheets.

Perfidious as is the conduct of our allies in aiding our enemy, even more shocking is this fact pointed out by Congressman Chamberlain on July 22:

> We have given almost $41 billion in aid to the countries that have been carrying on this trade with North Viet Nam.

And then Congressman Chamberlain asked:

> How can we face the American taxpayers and ask them to foot the tax bill to pay for the war in Viet Nam, and at the same time ask them to contribute their tax money to aid (through foreign aid) the countries that are supplying our enemy? Our men are dying in Viet Nam, and our friends, by supplying the enemy, are helping to kill them.

Even more shameful than the fact that our supposed friends are betraying us, Great Britain, the largest shipper to North Viet Nam, is even helping to kill soldiers of British Commonwealth nations, inasmuch as a small force of Australians and New Zealanders are fighting alongside American G.I.'s in South Viet Nam.

DANGEROUS SUPPLY SHORTAGES IN VIET NAM

That Robert Strange McNamara, Secretary of Defense, has no intention of winning the war in Viet Nam is clearly evident from the following specific situations which are due either to criminal ineptness or deliberate planning.

On November 15, 1965, columnist Bill Schulz, substituting for Fulton Lewis, Jr., revealed:

> The Senate Preparedness Subcommittee has uncovered an incredible situation in which Defense Secretary Robert McNamara ordered substantial cutbacks in military hardware at the very time Vietnamese hostilities were escalating.
> There is a shortage of communications systems, mortars, anti-aircraft warning systems, trucks and troop carriers, helicopters, .30-cal. and .50-cal. machine-gun rounds, 20 MM. anti-tank guns and ammunition for the M-14 rifle.

A column by Allen & Scott which appeared in the November 27, 1965, issue of HUMAN EVENTS, stated:

> Defective ammunition and shortage of essential supplies are plaguing U.S. fighting forces in Viet Nam.... Most of the "defective" ammunition has been traced to shipments of ten-year-old shells and bombs that were not "re-worked" before being sent overseas.
> To supply U.S. forces in Viet Nam, the Army is being compelled to dip into stockpiles in Europe and take equipment from divisions in the strategic reserve in the United States.

The January 1, 1966, issue of HUMAN EVENTS revealed that the Army faces a serious shortage of helicopters and pilots in 1966. Military experts say the blame lies with Defense Secretary McNamara who drastically slashed helicopter production at the very time Viet Nam became a "chopper" war.

An article from BARRON'S, National Business and Financial Weekly, which was reprinted in the MANCHESTER UNION LEADER of January 1, 1966, revealed:

> Dozens of M-113 military personnel carriers have been out of commission for periods ranging from 10 to 90 days for lack of parts. To keep some vehicles running, the Automotive Tank Command has begun to cannibalize others.

On September 14, 1965, the Associated Press reported that boots provided our soldiers in the 101 Airborne Division, fighting in Viet Nam, were falling apart faster than they could be replaced, and that some of our men were going into combat wearing tennis shoes (in areas where Communists have sowed the ground with sharp spikes that can cripple men without adequate boots.)

The Associated Press on October 3, 1965, quoted from a copyrighted article appearing in the ST. PETERSBURG (Fla.) TIMES concerning a letter written by a U.S. Army doctor to relatives in this country. Condemning the "deplorable" lack of drugs and medical equipment, the doctor went on to say:

> We have no masks, caps, gowns, or drapes for surgery; we have no working anesthesia machine and we have no suture material: I am having to use adhesive tape to hold wounds closed that are getting infected because they aren't sutured ....In a battle earlier this week I helped sort 38 dead men and assisted with two leg amputations under local anesthesia.

In December, when the AFL-CIO Machinists Union called a strike against the Olin Mathieson Chemical Company in East Alton, Ill., an amazing piece of information came to light. It now appears that this company is practically this country's only producer of gunpowder used in the Army's M-16 rifle, in M-60 machine-guns, and in 20 MM. rounds – all of which are used by the United States in Viet Nam. There is another plant, located in Wisconsin, which manufactures this type ammunition but it would take six months to put it in operation.

Thus it is seen that McNamara, the supposed efficiency expert, through stupidity or design, provided only one source for manufacturing ammunition for our soldiers in Viet Nam – a source, as events proved, which was highly vulnerable to being put out of commission by a labor strike.

McNAMARA SHOULD BE FIRED

An editorial in the MANCHESTER (N.H.) UNION LEADER of December 31, 1965, in discussing the foregoing, states:

> For a Secretary of Defense to be so careless as to allow a situation such as this to develop is utterly unbelievable.
> If McNamara has made such a blunder in such a fundamental, common sense, everyday matter of defense, what other blunders has he committed in the field of complicated missiles about which we know nothing?
> The No. 1 program to improve the safety of the U.S., and the safety of every citizen in it, is to get rid of McNamara immediately.

The article from BARRON'S, National Business and Financial Weekly, previously quoted from, closed:

> The best thing he (McNamara) can do for his country is resign.

On November 30, 1965, U.S. Senator Norris Cotton, terming Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara "a menace to this country today" warned:

> If the President doesn't get wise to him and give him the boot, in five years we won't be able to defend this country.

NEGOTIATION MEANS SURRENDER

Despite continuing provocation from the Soviet Union, and despite the fact that Cuba, only 90 miles from U.S. shores, is now an aggressive Communist satellite, there are those within the State Department and among the Presidential advisors who believe that the Soviet Union is "mellowing." They see the negotiation of peace in Viet Nam as a first step toward ultimate world peace; thus blindly discounting the endlessly repeated statements by Soviet leaders who vow that their sole aim is the destruction of the United States of America.

It can be expected that the "peace offensive" launched by the Johnson Administration during the Christmas season of 1965 will continue off and on for sometime to come.

In seeking to negotiate with North Viet Nam, the Administration obviously has refused to learn a lesson from the disaster in Korea.

An editorial in the November 21, 1965, issue of the CHICAGO TRIBUNE, in commenting on the Korea debacle, referred to how President Harry Truman in July of 1951 fell into the "negotiations" trap set by the Red Chinese and North Korean Communists. Stated the CHICAGO TRIBUNE:

> At that time a surging American offensive might have carried all the way to Manchuria, but Truman broke it off and condemned the American forces to two more years of an indecisive standstill, during which no less than three-fifths of the 142,277 American casualties – of them 54,000 dead – were sustained. All this time "peace" talks supposedly were in progress, but the Communists utilized them as a device to bring the American offensive to a halt and to continue a war of attrition which finally ended in a compromise armistice not to America's advantage.

While there is a chilling parallel between the Korean war and the Viet Nam war as regards the request by the U.S. for "negottations," the parallel ends when it comes to the question of the type of war now being fought in Viet Nam.

For example, Korea was divided into two sections, Communist North Korea and anti-Communist South Korea. In Viet Nam, however, there is no clear-cut line of demarcation – the Communists are everywhere!

Operating in South Viet Nam is the Communist-led Viet Cong. The political arm of the Viet Cong is the National Liberation Front. The anti-Communist South Vietnamese and the U.S. now control the big towns, province capitals and most district towns. However, the Communist Viet Cong controls most of the countryside. In other words, the anti-Communist forces hold only islands in a Red-controlled sea. National Liberation Front cells operate everywhere in South Viet Nam, including the capital.

Because the Communist-led National Liberation Front, the political arm of the Viet Cong, is the only organized political force in South Viet Nam, any negotiated agreement would put them in complete control of South Viet Nam – and everything that U.S. soldiers have been fighting and dying for would be lost.

The Communists never negotiate when they are winning. They look on negotiations as a means of winning at the conference table what they cannot achieve by force of arms.

As the FORT LAUDERDALE (Fla.) NEWS of January 4, 1966, declared editorially:

> The farther we go in making concessions to bring the enemy to the conference table, the more risk we take that this same enemy will interpret these concessions as a sign our resolve is weakening and that even greater concessions can be wrung out of us if they keep on applying more pressure against us.

WHY NOT VICTORY?

Discussing the crucial question of the war in Viet Nam, President Lyndon Johnson, in his State of the Union message of January 12, 1966, stated:

> We may have to face a long, hard combat or a long, hard conference, or even both at once.... The days may become months and the months may become years, but we will stay as long as aggression commands us to battle.... We will stay until aggression has stopped.

In no place in his State of the Union message did Mr. Johnson promise or even mention ultimate victory over the Communist enemy in Viet Nam. Particular note should be made of Mr. Johnson's strange phrase "We will stay until aggression has stopped." He does not say "has been stopped," but rather prefers to wistfully hope that Communist aggression will voluntarily stop.

The question then arises: If President Johnson does not intend to win in Viet Nam, why are our boys dying there?

HOW VICTORY CAN BE ACHIEVED IN VIET NAM

The war in Viet Nam could be won in a relatively short time if the following steps were immediately taken:

● Blockade All Red-Held Viet Nam Ports

The October 6, 1965, column of Allen & Scott revealed that General William C. Westmoreland, commander of all U.S. forces in Viet Nam, had recommended in a recent "situation" report that a naval blockade be authorized to cut off the flow of Russian-made weapons to North Viet Nam by sea.

● Bomb Hanoi-Haiphong Industrial Complex

Because North Viet Nam has a very small capacity for the production of war material, it is dependent upon the port of Haiphong to funnel in war supplies from the Soviet Union, Red China, Communist satellite nations, and, tragically, war supplies from nations supposed to be our friends. If the port of Haiphong were put out of operation by U.S. bombing raids (and by the scuttling of one or more ships in the port, or the use of mines) lack of supplies would soon slow down military action by Communist North Viet Nam.

● Saturation Bombing of Key Targets In North Viet Nam

In the latter part of October, 1965, retired Air Force General Curtis E. LeMay recommended that the U.S. start hitting selected targets in North Viet Nam such as "industries, ports, power plants, transportation, and other vital resources."

● Break Diplomatic Relations With The Soviet Union

The furnishing of military weapons by the Soviet Union to North Viet Nam, which weapons are used to kill U.S. soldiers, is an act of hostility toward the U.S. All diplomatic recognition and trade with the Soviet Union should cease immediately.

● Break Relations With And Stop All Foreign Aid to Our Enemy-Aiding Allies

Why should the U.S. have any diplomatic dealings with, or send foreign aid to, any nation who helps our enemy?

● Turn Chiang Kai-shek Loose

For years the U.S. has prevented anti-Communist Chiang Kai-shek and his powerful armed forces from attempting to regain the mainland of China. Knowing that Red China is the fountainhead of all aggression in the Far East, Chiang Kai-shek on October 10, 1965, stated:

> In carrying out our program of national recovery by a counter-offensive against the public enemy of the world – the Chinese Communists – we will positively not call upon any country to join us. Our revolutionary forces alone are sufficient to overthrow the Peiping regime...and re-establish the peace of Asia and the world on a sound foundation.... The anti-Communist movement of our people in various parts of the (Chinese) mainland...is nearing the point of explosion.

Why does the U.S. Government continue, in effect, to protect Red China by preventing Chiang Kai-shek from overthrowing the Red Chinese?

Ask yourself this question: Why should we send thousands upon thousands of American youths to fight and die in the jungles of Viet Nam when it is now obvious that winning a victory on the battlefield is not the goal of those who send them off to fight?

CSA No. 9

Senator McCarthy Speaks

Following are excerpts from a speech by the late Senator Joseph R. McCarthy to an overflow audience at Carnegie Hall in New York City on February 22, 1956.

If America had heeded the words of Senator McCarthy back in 1956, it is doubtful if the Viet Nam disaster, costing the lives of so many U.S. soldiers, would ever have occurred.

Let us review America's course on anti-Communism, lesson by lesson, as it was taught to Asia; we thus may get a "feel" of the impact of our conduct upon our Asian pupils.

REDS GAIN FOOTHOLD IN NORTH CHINA

LESSON ONE: July, 1945. Japan has been driven to her knees, and asks to discuss terms of surrender. But, since Roosevelt has agreed that Communist Russia should enter the Far Eastern war, America turns a deaf ear to Japanese offers until the Red Armies have had a chance to grab a share of the plunder. Thus, as the Asian people see it, our first display of anti-Communism has us sacrificing some 250,000 lives -- most of them Asiatics during the unnecessary atom-bombing of Japan -- in order to permit the world's chief Communist power to gain a military foothold in north China.

CHINESE TERRITORY GIVEN REDS

LESSON TWO: September, 1945. The war is over, and the Chinese people learn that six months earlier, at Yalta, America GAVE valuable portions of their country, if you please, to the Soviet Union. China, of course, had not been told that her territory was up for auction; she had fought, as America's staunchest friend, for eight agonizing years against the Japanese and the Communists, and probably expected a different kind of reward.

U.S. GIVES HALF OF KOREA TO REDS

LESSON THREE: October, 1945. The American government agrees to let the Russians occupy all of Korea north of the 38th parallel. The Korean people thus wage a 35-year fight for independence, only to find that America has assigned half of their country to the Communist empire.

CHINESE TOLD TO APPEASE REDS

LESSON FOUR: December, 1945. The American government instructs the Chinese people that the only way to keep America's friendship is to take Communists into their government, and George Marshall is sent to China to convey what amounts to an American ultimatum to appease the Communists, or else.

U.S. CUTS MILITARY AID TO CHIANG

LESSON FIVE: January, 1947. We make good on our ultimatum. The Chinese government refuses to embrace Communists, so the Truman Administration deliberately cuts off military aid to Chiang Kai-shek. Free China is then routed on the battlefield, a victim of her own overly stubborn anti-Communism.

U.S. FLEET ORDERED TO PROTECT RED CHINA FROM CHIANG

LESSON SIX: November, 1950. American armies, fighting in Korea, are attacked by Communist China. The American government orders its military commanders not to bomb Chinese bases and supply lines -- even though American armies are in danger of destruction. The reason given: this might bring Red China into the war. Also, we turn down Chiang Kai-shek's offer of 33,000 troops to help fight our common enemy. Also, the American fleet is ordered to protect Red China against Nationalist raids on the mainland. So, as Asians see it, what started to defend and liberate Korea, ends up an American effort, at the expense of American and South Korean lives, to guarantee the territorial integrity of Communist China.

GEN. MAC ARTHUR FIRED BECAUSE OF HIS "WIN" POLICY

LESSON SEVEN: April, 1951. General MacArthur is fired. The foremost symbol, in the eyes of Asiatics, of American strength and honor is summarily dismissed from his command because he advocates winning an anti-Communist war. No American in history had ever enjoyed such universal Oriental respect. MacArthur stood for what Asiatics believed was good in America. When he went home, America's prestige went with him.

VICTORY NOT PERMITTED IN KOREA

LESSON EIGHT: June, 1953. The Korean fiasco ends with a humiliating armistice. The country is physically destroyed; but there is no victory. Other Asian countries are henceforth on notice of the consequences of resisting Communist aggression.

G.I.'s STILL HELD CAPTIVE BY REDS

LESSON NINE: September, 1953. The American people learn that hundreds of American servicemen who should have been released under the Korean armistice agreement are still languishing in Communist concentration camps. Asia watches to see what steps the most powerful nation on earth will take to rescue the young men who wear its uniform. And Asia sees the American government commission a United Nations diplomat to beg the Communists over a spot of jasmine tea to honor their obligations. Later, when 15 Americans are freed, Asians see the American government conveniently forget that hundreds of prisoners are still unaccounted for.

HALF OF VIET NAM GIVEN TO REDS

LESSON TEN: April, 1954. Indo-China is Communism's next target. President Eisenhower warns that if Indo-China falls, all southeast Asia will collapse "like falling dominoes"; the Secretary of State promises "united action." But Asia is learning fast that American anti-Communism is long on words, but short on deeds. And, sure enough, the American government accedes to a deal by which half of Viet Nam and twelve million human beings are clamped behind the Iron Curtain.

U.S. THWARTS ANTI-RED EFFORTS TO LIBERATE THEIR HOMELANDS

LESSON ELEVEN: July, 1955. The American government announces that any attempt by South Koreans to liberate the northern half of their country, or by South Vietnamese to liberate the northern half of their country, or by Free Chinese to liberate their country, will be regarded as an "aggressive war." Asians thus learn that the United States will affirmatively oppose efforts to release enslaved countries from Communist tyranny.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER PROCLAIMS COMMUNIST LEADERS SEEK PEACE

LESSON TWELVE: July, 1955. The President of the United States, at Geneva, proclaims to the world his belief that Communist leaders sincerely desire peace. Asians are thus authoritatively instructed to forget their fears about Communist aggression.

RED SATELLITES ADMITTED INTO U.N.

LESSON THIRTEEN: December, 1955. The American government promotes the infamous "package deal" for the admission of Communist satellites to the United Nations. President Eisenhower sends three personal messages to Chiang Kai-shek, demanding that Free China not veto the admission of a Soviet creature called Outer-Mongolia.

U.S. PERMITS ALLIES TO SHIP WAR TOOLS TO COMMUNISTS

LESSON FOURTEEN: February, 1956. Asia learns that the American government allows allies on its payroll to ship strategic war tools to Communist nations, including high-powered motors used in the development of hydrogen bombs.

RECOMMENDED ACTION

Let me sketch briefly ways in which we might rehabilitate the anti-Communist cause -- especially with regard to Asia.

Demand Release of Red-Held U.S. Soldiers

As late as May, 1955, the Senate Subcommittee on Investigations reported on the basis of questioning top State and Defense Department officials that 481 American prisoners-of-war were still unaccounted for and were believed to be in Chinese prisons... Last year, with great fanfare, and by making who knows what concessions to the Reds, we obtained the release of the 15, which leaves 466 American fighting men whom the mightiest nation on earth is evidently not lifting a finger to protect... I say the world will never respect us -- will never acknowledge us as a worthy leader in the anti-Communist cause -- until it learns that when an American soldier goes overseas, he packs on his shoulders the entire strength of the United States of America. The Nation owes the same duty to the soldier as the soldier owes to the Nation.

Halt Trade With The Enemy

Therefore, I repeat what I have urged a hundred times before: that we put Red China in an economic straight-jacket; that so long as American boys remain in Communist prisons, we refuse to give a single cent of American money to nations that trade with Red China -- in strategic supplies or otherwise. One of the results of the Geneva "friendship meeting" is that we are now permitting our alleged allies to ship highly strategic war supplies to the Soviet Union. This policy, of course, affects the Far East, as well as other parts of the world, since Communist China gets what she needs from Communist Russia...

Expose Red Spies

We should immediately renew efforts to expose Communist subversion. To give you an idea of the urgency of the problem, let me read a shocking passage from General MacArthur's reply, in LIFE magazine, to Harry Truman: "What may well have triggered my removal was my recommendation... that a treason trial be initiated to break up a spy ring responsible for the purloining of my top secret reports to Washington..." and his further statement that "I myself have long been convinced that Red China's decision to commit its forces to the Korean peninsula was predicated upon assurances previously given through Moscow that such intervention would not precipitate retaliation against its attack bases."

Now if it is true -- and we have it on the considered judgment of the most respected man in America today that it IS true -- that Communist spies in the State and Defense Department knew of the political restrictions on General MacArthur, and conveyed this information to Moscow and Peiping before MacArthur received his orders, it follows that OUR GOVERNMENT IS AT THE MERCY OF TRAITORS TO AN EXTENT NEVER BEFORE IMAGINED. These traitors who, in General MacArthur's judgment, caused the death of countless American boys, and caused us to lose the Korean war, have not been exposed.... Is it too much to suggest that these still-hidden traitors are partially responsible for our disastrous foreign policy? This situation requires an immediate and thorough Congressional investigation of every government official who had, or might have had, knowledge of General MacArthur's orders. (Emphasis added)

Reshape Our Foreign Policy

Finally, and most important, we must reshape the basic strategic concepts of our foreign policy. We must abandon the defensive, and go on to the offensive. Co-existence with Communism is neither possible nor honorable nor desirable. OUR LONG-TERM OBJECTIVE MUST BE THE ERADICATION OF COMMUNISM FROM THE FACE OF THE EARTH. Our short-term objective must be to encourage free peoples -- especially those in Asia with armed forces at their disposal -- to attempt to liberate their Communist-held homelands. The Free Chinese are willing and able to start liberating their homeland by guerilla action and raids against the Chinese mainland. The South Koreans are willing and eager to attempt to liberate North Korea.

It absolutely beggers belief that the United States of America -- the leading anti-Communist power in the world -- should forbid assaults against the Communist empire.

The Free Asiatic peoples want to fight. In justice to them, and in justice to the millions of American boys who will otherwise be called upon to sacrifice their lives in a total war against Communism, we must permit our fighting allies, with our material and technical assistance, to carry the fight to the enemy.

WHAT YOU CAN DO

Many young Americans have been misled by Communist propaganda, the virulent blasts in Washington....

Then you will want to make your voice heard on this crucial matter.

Here are a few suggestions:

(1) Write your Congressman and two Senators and tell them your views. Urge that they vote against any legislation that would appropriate taxpayers' funds to the Health, Education and Welfare Department which could be used by the Federal bureaucrats to destroy the neighborhood school system, and put the Federal Government in complete control of all education under the hypocritical guise of "equal opportunity."

(2) Specifically urge your Congressman and Senators to vote against any bill which embodies the proposals of the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights to Federally coerce "racial balance" in the public schools.

(3) Request your Congressman and Senators to join with other Members of Congress in demanding that Harold Howe II, U.S. Commissioner of Education, be called before a special Congressional committee because of his so-called "guidelines," which are clearly a violation of the intent of Congress.

(4) Use the documented material in this pamphlet to write letters to the editor of your local newspaper in order to alert others.

(5) BUY and DISTRIBUTE extra copies of this pamphlet. Send them to all members of your local school board, your mayor, city council, members of your State Legislature, leading citizens in your community, etc.

Send copies of this pamphlet to your friends, neighbors, your Congressman and Senators, civic and political leaders, club members, patriotic and study groups, doctors, dentists, employees, etc.

ARE NEIGHBORHOOD SCHOOLS DOOMED?

An expose of how the Federal Government plans to use your tax dollars to force total integration in the Nation's schools... and gain complete Federal control of education.

Tax Fax No. 80

BLUEPRINT FOR FEDERAL CONTROL OF SCHOOLS

"Anyone who says he favors Federal funds without Federal control is either ignorant of how the Federal Government operates in these matters or else is not intellectually honest about what is involved."

– Senator A. Willis Robertson

* * * *

Despite the 1954 desegregation decision by the U.S. Supreme Court, and numerous other decisions involving integration, attempts to totally integrate Southern schools by legal decrees have so far failed of their goal because of the preferences of the majority of both races to attend their own neighborhood schools.

In this pamphlet you will see proof by quotations from Government documents that although integration attempts were first directed at the South, now the main target of the integrationists is what is known as de facto segregation – that is, neighborhood segregation in big cities in the North and West.

The U.S. Commissioner of Education, Harold Howe II, has devised a means to use the power of the billions of taxpayer dollars at his disposal in order to achieve his purpose of coercing the melding of white suburban children with city Negro children in the same schools – a giant educational complex. Such a program can only result in damaging the educational opportunities of both races and the denial of "freedom of choice" to both.

Aware of the unlikelihood that toral integration could ever be brought about solely by court rulings, the integration promoters changed their tactics and are now concentrating their efforts on pressuring Congress into passing laws which would bring about complete integration in the North as well as in the South.

WHY FEDERAL AID MEANS FEDERAL CONTROL

Nowhere in the U.S. Constitution is the Federal Government given the right to control the schools in this country. Control of public education has always belonged to the individual States or local communities.

However, in the case of Wickard v. Filburn, 1942, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that the Federal Government has the right to "regulate," that is, control, "that which it subsidizes."

MIX RACES OR NO FEDERAL FUNDS!

In March of 1966 the Health, Education and Welfare Department (HEW), which allocates Federal funds to school districts issued so-called guidelines regarding mandatory desegregation of schools receiving Federal funds. The purpose of the guidelines was to define eligibility of school districts for Federal school aid.

Although the Commissioner of Education terms his regulations as merely guidelines or suggestions to schools, nevertheless if a school refuses to agree to the Commissioner's "suggestions" or fails to follow them, no Federal aid funds are forthcoming.

FEDERAL GUIDELINES DEFY WILL OF CONGRESS

In a speech on the floor of the U.S. Senate on February 20, 1967, Sen. John Stennis revealed that the guidelines issued by the Health, Education and Welfare Department establish an elaborate system of quotas of integration. These quotas, according to Sen. Stennis, "are nothing more or less than a bold attempt to impose an arbitrary racial balance on the schools." Then Sen. Stennis continued:

> When the Commissioner of Education tells a public school that it must discard its freedom-of-choice system and devise a means of increasing integration by 16 or 18 percent in order to receive Federal assistance, he is requiring "the assignment of students to public schools in order to overcome racial imbalance."

However, as Sen. Stennis pointed out, this is in direct violation of Title IV of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 which specifically stated that "desegregation shall not mean the assignment of students to public schools in order to overcome racial imbalance."

Harold Howe's guidelines require school administrators to desegregate administrative staffs and faculties. This is outright defiance of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 which says in Section 604:

> "...nothing contained in this Title shall be construed to authorize action...by any department or agency with respect to any employment practice of any employer."

When Harold Howe dictates the assignments and transfers of teachers in order to accelerate racial balance, he is flagrantly interfering with the "employment practices" of local school boards.

THE RADICAL VIEWS OF HAROLD HOWE

Operating with a budget of $4 billion in 1967, the top dispenser of Federal funds to schools is Harold Howe, a man obsessed with the idea of bringing about racial balance by any means – even if it should result in the destruction of the educational system of the United States.

Below are a few revealing public statements made by Harold Howe, U.S. Commissioner of Education:

- Educators must use every possible device to include within each school a cross section of the social and economic backgrounds of the metropolis.*
- ...We cannot wait for mayors and city councils to do the work they hired us to do. And sometimes we must do the work they don't want us to do.*
- Traditional school district boundaries often serve education badly and may have to be changed. New York and New Jersey surrendered State prerogatives to form the Port of New York Authority in the interest of improved transportation. If we can make such concessions for transportation, I suggest that we can make them for education.
- We could, for example, alter political boundaries to bring social and economic and intellectual strength of the suburbs to bear on the problems of the city schools.
- Building programs for the future could be planned so that new schools would break up, rather than continue, segregation of both the racial and economic sort.

H.E.W.'S BLUEPRINT FOR FORCED INTEGRATION OF SCHOOLS

On September 14, 1966, Congressman Paul A. Fino held a press conference in which he exhibited a secret memorandum detailing the Johnson Administration's proposed $6 billion "Equal Educational Opportunity Act of 1967." The memorandum was the product of a high level task force and was sent to HEW Secretary John W. Gardner.

The whole thrust of this incredible memorandum is to use Federal taxpayers' funds to force racial balance in the Nation's schools.

According to Congressman Fino, funds for this proposed legislation would be spent for programs such as:

(1) Construction of schools to serve racially mixed communities;

(2) Redrawing school district lines;

(3) School bussing programs;

(4) Pupil exchanges between white suburbs and Negro slums;

(5) Revision of textbooks to stress the contribution of minority groups.

The so-called Equal Educational Opportunity Act of 1967 proposes that:

> Reduction of de facto segregation would be encouraged by combining grants under this title with extra cost grants for construction projects designed to achieve integrated education under Title III of this legislative package.

Congressman Fino then stated:

> What this means is simple. Only communities using Title III money for pairing, bussing of pupils, pupil exchanges or textbook revision would be able to get school construction grants.

According to the bill itself the purpose of Title III is:

> To assist communities throughout the Nation to cope with the problems of segregation and racial imbalance in order to facilitate racial, ethnic and socio-economic integration.

Among the techniques recommended by Title III of the Equal Educational Opportunity Act of 1967 are the following:

(a) Careful site selection to locate new schools so as to maximize integration of residentially segregated student populations.

(b) Increased bussing.

(c) Creation of metropolitan school districts to include urban and suburban areas.

(d) In-class pupil grouping to avoid racial separation.

(e) Teacher assignment to assure faculty integration at all schools.

(f) Educational parks and complexes located on the borders of ghettos under plans insuring interracial attendance of students.

When Congressman Fino on September 14,

 THE HUMAN FRONTIER, pamphlet published in 1966 containing four speeches by Harold Howe II.

1966, exposed the plans promulgated by the "Equal Educational Opportunity Act of 1967," HEW Secretary John W. Gardner attempted to minimize its importance by terming it merely an "unofficial discussion paper."

OFFICIAL PROGRAM FOR FORCED INTEGRATION

However, on February 20, 1967, the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights issued an official report entitled "Racial Isolation in the Public Schools." Below are excerpted a series of direct quotations from this report:

•• There is evidence to suggest that once a school becomes almost half- or majority-Negro, it tends rapidly to become nearly all-Negro. Between 1940 and 1960 the increase of Negroes in metropolitan areas occurred mainly in the central cities while the white increase occurred mainly in the suburbs.

•• The large proportion of Negro children in many central city school systems makes effective desegregation possible only with the cooperation of suburban schools system. Programs involving urban-suburban cooperation in the desegregation of schools, while only beginning and presently very limited, show promise as techniques for desegregating the schools in the Nation's larger metropolitan areas.

•• Education park proposals thus far generally contemplate a grouping of several racially desegregated schools serving a student population which may range from 5,000 to 30,000.

•• Another means of desegregating schools by enlarging attendance areas is the closing of a particular school and the dispersal of its students among the remaining schools.

TOTAL MIX – 50-50

The report of the U.S. Civil Rights Commission demands the elimination throughout the Nation of "racially imbalanced schools." These are defined as schools "in which Negro pupils constitute more than 50 percent of the total enrollment."

Almost every American city with a large Negro population would find its school system unacceptable by this proposed Federal standard if a line were drawn at 50 percent.

The Commission report states repeatedly that the only way "racial imbalance" could be corrected would be by (a) sending Negro children out to neighboring suburban communities or (b) bringing white children in from suburbs to the city schools.

The U.S. Civil Rights Commission report calls upon Congress "to establish a uniform, national standard" (which presumably would be built on the 50-50 racial balance proposal.) The report concluded by stating:

> The Commission recommends that the President and the Congress give immediate and urgent consideration to new legislation for the purpose of removing present racial imbalances from our public schools..."

COMMISSION REPORT IS UNCONSTITUTIONAL

On February 20, 1967, Sen. Strom Thurmond termed the report issued by the U.S. Civil Rights Commission as "unconstitutional." According to Sen. Thurmond, the 1954 U.S. Supreme Court decision (Brown v. Board of Education) called for desegregation but not for integration.

Sen. Thurmond then charged:

> If the proposals of the Commission are acted upon, the law will have to take note of each pupil's color and act accordingly. This is a clear violation of the equal protection guarantees of the 14th Amendment.

When the U.S. Civil Rights Commission's report proposes to force racial balance in the schools, they are in effect proposing Federal discrimination against white school children.

Concerning the relationship between HEW's guidelines and the Commission, Sen. Thurmond declared:

> The recommendations of the U.S. Civil Rights Commission would attempt to legalize the guidelines which the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has tried to accomplish through coercion and intimidation.

WHAT YOU CAN DO

In his syndicated column of February 24, 1967, David Lawrence said:

> Maybe the Johnson Administration doesn't realize it, but the bombshell thrown into the public forum by the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights (on February 20) could bring about a defeat for the Democratic Party across the Nation in November 1968.

If you believe in "freedom of choice" for all parents and children, regardless of race....

If you oppose having your child spend needless time each day being "bussed" to an outlying school in order to meet the insatiable demands of the "educational czars" and control of local policies. Refuse to accept any Federal aid with its visible or invisible strings of control.

If you wish to help protect local government in your city, and the sovereignty of your State as guaranteed by the U.S. Constitution, then here is what you can do:

(1) BUY and DISTRIBUTE as many copies of this pamphlet as you possibly can. Send them to all your elected city and State officials, as well as to members of your State legislature.

(2) Write letters to the editor of your local newspaper and enclose a copy of this pamphlet. If your letter is published, you will be helping to alert others in your community to the dangers posed by the Federal Metro plan.

(3) WRITE YOUR CONGRESSMAN! The Demonstration Cities bill passed the House on October 14, 1966, by a margin of only 37 votes.

Because the number of Conservatives in Congress was increased by the November 1966 election, bills providing future appropriations for demonstration city programs may have difficulty gaining passage – if members of Congress are aware of how the voters back home feel on the subject of Federal Metro.

Therefore, write your two Congressmen and Senators enclosing copies of this pamphlet and let them know your views. Urge that they vote against all Federal aid to cities which, if continued can only mean ultimate Federal takeover of our cities.

What "Federal Metro" REALLY Means

Unknown to the vast majority of the American public, on November 3, 1966, President Lyndon B. Johnson signed into law a bill which, if its aims are carried out, will destroy the authority and power of local and State governments and consolidate all power in the Federal Government.

The bill was passed by Congress under the seemingly innocuous title of Demonstration Cities and Metropolitan Development Act of 1966.

The magnitude of this demonstration cities–metropolitan planning program is difficult to imagine. The President himself has said that it would eventually require upward of $100 billion!

THE ATTEMPT TO KILL LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Of more lasting importance, however, than the astronomical funds this program will require, is the fact that the Demonstration Cities Act will reduce participating cities to Federal chattels in accordance with the Supreme Court's dictum that the Federal Government can control that which it subsidizes.

An editorial in the CHATTANOOGA NEWS FREE PRESS of August 19, 1966, in opposing the bill stated:

> The "demonstration cities" program represents a Federal effort that would kill local government. It represents a plan for an appointed bureaucrat to overrule local people on local issues and to substitute his dictation under threat that money depended upon by those involved in the program would be cut off.

Further, this new law is patently unconstitutional. Nowhere in the U.S. Constitution is the Federal Government given the authority to build and rule cities.

The CHATTANOOGA NEWS FREE PRESS then declared:

> It would turn vital decisions in the lives of American city-dwellers over to an appointed bureaucrat in whose selection the people would have no vote, whose actions would be beyond restraint by the people and whose recall would not be within their power.

Additional opposition was voiced by the Lynchburg, Va., NEWS in an editorial on October 23, 1966:

> This bill will do more than any legislation ever enacted by the Congress to destroy the Federal system – the alliance between the sovereign States which created a Nation with a central government.
> The bill proposes to create a new alliance between the large metropolitan areas and the Federal government, by-passing the States and superseding State authority. Congressman Richard H. Poff calls the new alliance the "Federal Metro" form of government.

WHAT "FEDERAL METRO" WILL MEAN TO YOUR COMMUNITY

According to a speech by Congressman Paul A. Fino in the House of Representatives on October 13, 1966, the demonstration cities–metro planning program will:

- Destroy the American concept of neighborhood schools;
- Put Federally-financed rent-supplement housing in suburbs throughout America.
- Put scattered-site public housing in every residential neighborhood;
- Allow Federal bureaucrats to draw up civil rights and open-housing ordinances for every participating city;
- Redesign suburban real property tax structures in order to pay for slum schools;
- Allow Washington social planners to dictate zoning and housing codes for local communities.

Congressman Fino also predicted:

> Governors and mayors will give way to Federal commissars. Local tax boards of assessors may as well fold up. The metro government will control the tax structure.

HOW "FEDERAL METRO" CAN CONTROL YOUR CITY

In the Demonstration Cities and Metropolitan Development Act of 1966 unprecedented powers are given to Robert C. Weaver, Secretary of Housing and Urban Development (HUD). Virtually every local government decision in areas accepting Federal aid will be subject to review by the Secretary of HUD.

On February 21, 1967, Congressman Paul A. Fino stated that under the loosely drawn language of the demonstration cities program recipient cities can be required to meet any stipulation set forth by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The portion of this new law which deals with metropolitan planning is called Title II. According to Sec. 103(4) of Title II. HUD can require cities to be a part of a metropolitan planning program. And then Congressman Fino stated:

> But can HUD force the suburbs of big cities to be part of a metropolitan scheme? The answer is "yes."
> Under Title II of the omnibus cities bill of 1966 – the metro title – all applications for Federal aid under ten programs such as sewers, construction of hospitals, highways, libraries, airports, etc., must soon be submitted to a metropolitan-wide planning body – metro government – for recommendation before they are forwarded to Washington. The metro government to which the applications must be submitted must be a joint planning body for the central city and suburbs.

Sec. 103(4) of the demonstration cities program gives HUD the power to require a city to show that "substantive laws, regulations and other requirements are, or can be expected to be, consistent with the objectives of the program."

In other words, in order for a demonstration city to be eligible to receive Federal grants-in-aid, it will have to:

- Change its local laws such as "open housing," in order to meet the approval of HUD,
- Submit to any guidelines promulgated by HUD, and
- Set up a metropolitan planning commission which would by-pass the authority of the local government units involved.

"FEDERAL METRO" WILL DESTROY STATE BOUNDARIES

Sec. 208(4) of the demonstration cities program gives Secretary Weaver the power to use his own judgment in the final analysis as to what communities would compose a metropolitan area. Secretary Weaver could, if he chose, decree the area extending from Boston to New York City as one metropolitan area, thereby obliterating the authority of the State governments of Massachusetts, Connecticut, and New York State! The metropolitan area decreed by Secretary Weaver would then deal directly with Washington, D.C. for Federal handouts. The consolidating of other large population areas throughout the country could be expected, with the resultant obliteration of State lines.

Thus it is seen that the setting up of Federal Metro government in local areas has now become a pre-requisite for cities to become eligible for Federal grants-in-aid.

HOW TOTAL INTEGRATION IS TO BE FORCED

During the debate in the House of Representatives in 1966 on the demonstration cities bill, Congressmen who had read the fine print soon realized that the bill was intended to be used as a vehicle to force the bussing of children from suburbs into the central city slum schools in order to achieve a 50-50 racial mix.

Because of the heated debate on this particular aspect, the bill, as finally passed, contained an amendment purportedly prohibiting the bussing of children in order to bring about "racial balance."

On February 21, 1967, Congressman Fino charged that this so-called anti-bussing amendment to the demonstration cities bill is meaningless. He stated that the Department of Housing and Urban Development intends to require Federally subsidized metro governments to plan schools and housing on a metropolitan-wide basis. And then Congressman Fino continued:

> No anti-bussing amendment to metro can stop this. HUD is empowered to insist on community acceptance of metropolitan-wide planning standards, and there is no amendment prohibiting HUD from pressuring the metro governments which are to be HUD-subsidized.
> Thus the Federal government already has the power to force communities to set up multi-jurisdictional school programs in order to achieve integration or racial balance in the schools. Title II of the 1966 cities bill requires metro governments which can impose these criteria on communities as the price of aid under ten Federal programs.

Congressman Albert W. Watson on October 14, 1966, put it this way:

> The Secretary could make any grant for any project contingent upon area-wide school mixing, or, for that matter, any other contingency of his choosing. Even zoning of land, or bussing of children could be forced upon the metropolitan area prior to approval of a grant for any purpose, although totally unrelated.

HIGH PRICE OF FEDERAL HANDOUTS

Discussing what will result if American cities meekly bow to the dictates of the Federal Metro planners in Washington as the price for Federal handouts, the Lynchburg, Va., NEWS, on October 23, 1966, stated:

> One of the main objectives of this bill is to achieve what is called "racial balance" – in schools, housing, recreation, in all forms of community life. Metropolitan planning areas will be established which will suck the suburbs into the maw of the big cities and result in sending of suburban school children to ghetto schools and ghetto children to suburban schools. The result will be to provide less schooling for the suburban children whose parents have paid with their taxes to establish superior schools, and superior schools for ghetto children whose parents have paid little, or nothing, or live off welfare. This is what the Socialists regard as "equality."

FEDERAL "EXPEDITERS" – THE NEW COMMISSARS

Although the House of Representatives attempted to delete the section in the bill regarding the appointment of "Federal Expediters," the Senate insisted on this provision and the bill as finally signed into law gives HUD Secretary Weaver the authority, in the words of Congressman Albert W. Watson, to send "Federal commissars roaming the country under the name of 'expediters' in order to facilitate the setting up of Federal Metro governments."

RED-FRONT RECORD OF "FEDERAL METRO" BOSS

Under the Demonstration Cities Act, extraordinary powers are conferred on Robert C. Weaver, Secretary of HUD. Here are a few phrases which appear with monotonous regularity within the bill: "Satisfactory to the Secretary," "if the Secretary determines," "regulated in a manner acceptable to him," "meeting criteria established by the Secretary," "the Secretary shall adopt such requirements as he determines necessary."

What is the background of this man – Secretary Weaver – who, under the provisions of the Demonstration Cities Act, now has the power to become a virtual dictator of America's cities? An editorial in the CHATTANOOGA NEWS FREE PRESS on August 18, 1966, revealed:

> Mr. Weaver is a Negro leader who has been active in agitating for depriving home owners of the right to decision on the sale or rental of their private property. He has in his record a long list of affiliations with organizations cited officially by governmental agencies as Communist front, or pro-Red or Communist, though no one has responsibly suggested that he has been a Communist.

While Secretary Weaver has not been officially identified as a Communist, nevertheless, his consistent and numerous affiliations in some way with Communist-front organizations is a matter of official record. Therefore, his determination to obliterate the Constitutionally guaranteed rights of the States (which has long been a Communist goal) is not surprising.

METRO IS UNPOPULAR WITH THE VOTERS

How the voters feel about Metro, when given an opportunity to express themselves, was clearly outlined by Congresswoman Frances P. Bolton on the floor of the House of Representatives on October 14, 1966. Stated Congresswoman Bolton:

> How many areas of our country have voted for metro government? The answer is, hardly any.
> How many areas overwhelmingly have turned down, on public referendums, the metro concept? Practically every one where a vote has been taken.
> The people have rejected this, and now we are being asked – or is it forced – to circumvent their expressed desires.
> I deeply resent the effort being made to change our entire form of government without opportunity being given to the people of these United States to express themselves.

WATCH FOR PHONY SLOGANS!

It is only a matter of time before teams of Federal "expediters" begin to fan out in every major city in the United States to manage the planning and spending of Federal funds allocated to the cities.

Watch for the deceptive tactics which will be employed by these Federal "expediters." Communities will be told that the demonstration cities program (or its new name, model cities) will be "planned, developed and carried out by local people." The communities will be told that metro planning will enhance "home rule." Both such statements are completely contrary to fact inasmuch as total control of this program rests with HUD Secretary Robert C. Weaver, as documented in this pamphlet.

There is only one recourse for those local communities which oppose Federal intervention

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
April 25, 1967

On April 17 the U.S. Supreme Court refused to grant the delay of total integration in all public schools requested by six Louisiana schoolboards. In commenting on this ruling by the Supreme Court, columnist David Lawrence stated:

> "The Supreme Court has allowed to stand the decision of the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals which upheld the "guidelines" plan imposed by the United States Department of Housing, Education and Welfare....The judicial system has, in effect, taken over the legislative function in sanctioning virtual control over the public-school systems by the Federal Government."

This means that Federal guidelines regarding forced integration promulgated by U.S. Commissioner of Education Harold Howe have now – for all practical purposes – become the "law of the land."

Enclosed are two pamphlets of our TAX FAX series which have just been published and distributed to subscribers of THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN newspaper from coast to coast.

In TAX FAX #80 entitled "Integrate – or Else!" you will find documented material concerning these Federal "guidelines" which have been upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court – as well as background information on the Education czar Harold Howe and an outline of future Federal plans for forced integration.

which were originally issued in the summer of 1966, have now been revised since the Newark, New Jersey, and Detroit, Michigan, riots.

Our previous warnings of Communist involvement in extremist Negro organizations have sadly enough proven to be correct.

The enclosed tabloid edition of THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN was produced immediately following the Newark Black Power Conference and the Detroit insurrection which took place in the final week of July.

J. Edgar Hoover, the Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and Republican Senator Strom Thurmond of South Carolina have both testified to the fact that there is Communist involvement in both civil rights and Black Power extremist organizations.

HERE'S WHAT THE "BLACK POWER" AGITAT

This pamphlet was originally published in 1966. During the first seven months of 1967, race riots resulting in deaths, countless injuries and millions of dollars worth of property damage have occurred in the following cities: Detroit, Newark, Boston, Chicago, Nashville, Louisville, Tampa, Cincinnati, Buffalo, Dayton, San Diego, Minneapolis, Bridgeport, Conn., Waterloo, Iowa, Cairo, Ill., and others.

During the summer of 1966 this Nation witnessed the spectacle of hundreds and sometimes thousands of Negroes running amok in the streets of major cities – shooting, looting and hurling fire bombs. Above the din of police and fire sirens over and over again was heard the ominous chant of "Black Power! Black Power! Black Power!"

What is the real meaning of "Black Power"?

Who is behind it?

And how serious is its menace to the United States?

"MEREDITH MARCH" SPAWNS "BLACK POWER" SLOGAN

During the period June 5-26, 1966, Negro James Meredith conducted a "march" from Memphis, Tenn., to Jackson, Miss. According to a statement by Senator James Eastland on July 21, 1966, eleven of the individuals participating in the so-called "Meredith March" have been identified as being members of Communist-front organizations or members of the Communist Party itself.

It was during the Meredith March that Stokely Carmichael, 25-year-old avowed revolutionary, who had just taken over the reins of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), came into national prominence by repeatedly shouting the phrase "Black Power!"

According to an article by Gary Allen in the September, 1966, issue of AMERICAN OPINION:

> As the long line of marchers approached Jackson, Miss., there was more and more chanting of "Black Power! Black Power! Black Power!" The Black Power advocates were mostly young. Most of those to whom we talked expressed admiration for Stokely Carmichael. It seemed almost as though he had sold a complete generation...on the idea that revolution is the only answer to their problems.

INSURRECTION-PROMOTING STATEMENTS BY STOKELY CARMICHAEL

By stealing the headlines of the Meredith March from such an old-line civil rights leader as Martin Luther King, Stokely Carmichael has found himself in a position of becoming a potential policy-maker for the entire civil rights movement.

What are the views of this violence-preaching, West-Indian born, black racist demagogue?

Below are public statements made by Stokely Carmichael, chairman of the misnamed Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee:

> ●●When you talk of Black Power, you talk of bringing this country to its knees. When you talk of Black Power you talk of destroying everything in Western civilization. (Statement made on August 1 in riot-torn Cleveland.)(1)
> ●●Negroes certainly see that this is the richest country in the world and they want to share in the wealth... If (Negroes) cannot enjoy part of that dream, they're going to burn the country down.(2)
> ●●We've got to let them (the white community) know that when they arrest one of us in our community, we're going to move to disrupt this whole country.(3)
> ●●The question is whether or not this country is going to be able to meet their (Negro) needs peacefully or whether they will have to move to disrupt this country in order to force the country to speak to their needs.(4)
> ●●I don't think black people oughta wait to get the vote.... You oughta get together and tell the (white) man that if you don't get the vote you're gonna burn down this city. Tell him "if we don't get the vote, you're not gonna have a Washington, D.C." (Statement while addressing Negro residents in Anacostia.)(5)

●●The only way to get justice is to get a black sheriff. We want Black Power! All we've been doing is begging the Federal Government. The only thing we can do is take over.(1)

●●No, I would not fight in Viet Nam, absolutely not, and I urge every black man in this country not to fight in Viet Nam.(2)

S.N.C.C. PROVOKES RIOT IN ATLANTA

On September 7, 1966, members of Stokely Carmichael's SNCC were accused by Atlanta Mayor Ivan Allen, Jr., of "deliberately provoking a riot that injured 15 persons here Tuesday night..."

A city police source said SNCC members from New York, Philadelphia and the Watts community of Los Angeles were believed to be at a SNCC meeting held in the vicinity.

Stokely Carmichael was on the scene during the riot where on one occasion Mayor Allen was greeted with taunts of "white devil" and "Black Power!" It was reported that the presence of white officers incensed the youths taking part in the riot who then began chanting "Kill the white cops!"

NEGRO POLITICAL POWER

In addition to being head of SNCC,(3) violence-advocating Stokely Carmichael is also a founder of the all-Negro Black Panther political party in Lowndes County, Alabama.

On August 8, 1966, Congressman John Buchanan revealed that, according to Carmichael, because Black Panther candidates were running in the November 1966 general election in Alabama, SNCC would have on duty poll watchers recruited from Watts in Los Angeles, Southside Chicago and Negro ghettoes in the North.

A column by Austin Scott in the TAMPA (Fla.) TRIBUNE of September 9, 1966, reveals that Carmichael, while addressing Negro audiences in Newark,(4) shouted:

> There's no reason why you can't have a black mayor, a black school board, a black city council. Then you can tax hell out of these white businesses and get the money you need....

An exclusive interview with Harlem's Congressman, Adam Clayton Powell, appeared in the August 14, 1966, issue of U.S. NEWS & WORLD REPORT. Powell was asked the question: "Do you think that political power for Negroes is going to center in the cities?" Adam Clayton Powell replied:

> Oh, yes, very definitely – very definitely. In the next ten years... there will be about 20 cities in the U.S. where, if the black population does not become a majority it will be so big that it will be the swing factor in any election.

In the July/August, 1966, news bulletin published by The Free Society, of which Barry Goldwater is honorary chairman, there appears this statement:

> Population figures point to a basis for Negro political power: within this generation, a majority of the population in eight out of our ten biggest cities will be Negro.

TIE-IN BETWEEN S.N.C.C. AND THE SUBVERSIVE R.A.M.

According to the NEW YORK TIMES of July 29, 1966, Stokely Carmichael on July 28, in Chicago, stated that his organization would "join hands" with the Black Muslim leader, Elijah Muhammad, and with an organization called the Revolutionary Action Movement – RAM.

Earlier, on July 20, the Fulton Lewis, Jr., column revealed:

> Ideological disciples of Fidel Castro and Mao Tse-tung played a key role in the racial turmoil that rocked Chicago in the past week. They are members of the Revolutionary Action Movement (RAM), a super-secret group of Negro militants.... Chicago police last week arrested several RAM members in a West Side tenement, and seized pistols and revolvers, instruction sheets on how to use the weapons and a quantity of marijuana.

Gary Allen, in the September, 1966, issue of AMERICAN OPINION, stated that RAM has secret branches in every major American city who magnify their effectiveness by inciting, leading, and arming mobs. According to police reports, the RAM plan, developed for all American cities, was used in New York City in 1964, but got its first real test, which its leaders deemed successful, in the riots in Chicago in July, 1966.

(1) Statement at Greenwood, Miss., 6/16/66, according to UPI.

(2) Statement on "Meet the Press" TV program, 8/21/66.

(3) In the late spring of 1967, Carmichael resigned as chief of SNCC to devote his full efforts to riot-promoting activities.

(4) Ten months later, on July 11-16, Newark was the scene of a devastating riot.

R.A.M.'S PLAN FOR INSURRECTION IN THE U.S.

Who and what is behind this organization, the Revolutionary Action Movement (RAM) with whom Carmichael has "joined hands"?

The authoritative American Security Council on April 11, 1966, released a special Washington report written by a young man named Phillip Abbott Luce. Luce was a member of the Progressive Labor Party, a pro-Chinese Communist organization in this country, until he broke with the group because of its terror tactics and advocacy of violence. This is what he had to say about RAM:

> Founded in Philadelphia in the winter of 1963, RAM is headed by Max Stanford and Robert Franklin Williams. RAM is active in large city ghettoes and has a hard-core membership of about 250 people. RAM closely follows Williams, who is listed as its "Chairman-in-Exile" and as the "Premier of the African-American Government-in-Exile." While speaking in Hanoi, North Viet Nam, in November, 1965, Williams said: "As a result of the Revolutionary Action Movement I am here to give support to the Vietnamese people in their struggle against U.S. imperialist aggression."

The New China News Agency, according to the AP on August 8, 1966, stated that Robert Williams was reported to have pledged in Peking to fight against racial discrimination in America, exclaiming, "Freedom now or death!"

Williams was also quoted as having said: "We shall take the torch of freedom and justice into the streets of racist America and we shall set the last great stronghold of Yankee imperialism ablaze with our battle cry of 'Black Power!'"

Phillip Abbott Luce also stated in his article in the American Security Report:

> RAM envisions using the urban areas as the base of operations. The revolutionaries in RAM believe that the black ghetto areas of our major cities hold the key to a successful guerrilla war. They specifically propose that black people be organized into small guerrilla units which will use the night to spread terror through a city.

Is not that exactly what happened in Cleveland in 1966? And, not strangely, Lewis G. Robinson, a ringleader of the Cleveland riots (according to the Cleveland Grand Jury report) is a member of RAM and thoroughly familiar with its techniques of guerrilla warfare in the streets of America.

STOKELY CARMICHAEL SPEWS PRO-RED CHINESE LINE

In his column of May 31, 1966, the late Fulton Lewis, Jr., wrote:

> Carmichael, who began studying Marx while a teenager, angrily rejects suggestions that Communists be barred from SNCC. "We are requiring no loyalty oaths," he says. Nor will he hesitate to join with pro-Communist groups in other lands to denounce American policy.

An article by Austin Scott which appeared in the TAMPA (Fla.) TRIBUNE of September 9, 1966, reports that during the first week of September, Stokely Carmichael stumped Northern cities and was frequently greeted with deafening applause in Negro slum districts.

In his column Austin Scott reported that from behind a pulpit microphone in a Harlem church, Carmichael shouted:

> We cannot afford to be part of the American system.... We have to destroy Western civilization.... Integration is just a trick bag.... Nothing counts but power!

In Philadelphia, Mr. Scott quotes insurrectionist Carmichael as declaring:

> Our friends are going to be the people who are fighting to destroy Western civilization. We have got to hook up with our non-white brothers across the world because they are fighting a system that oppresses and exploits them, the very same thing we are fighting.
> They must become our brothers. So we can't fight in Viet Nam if we wanted to, because our brothers are trying to get rid of the (white) man and it's our job to help them bring the (white) man to his knees.

* * * *

To the average American it is inconceivable that there would be American citizens – regardless of color – who would betray this Nation and line up with the murderous Communist Conspiracy to destroy the United States of America.

THE RED PLAN

These Communist-directed riots in the streets of our major cities are all part of a monstrous strategy to divide the whole world into "white" vs. "colored." Under the "colored" banner the Communists are seeking to unite the yellow races of Asia with the blacks of Africa and the United States. Of course, if numbers alone are considered – the whites of the world would be hopelessly outnumbered.

L.B.J. DOES NOTHING

In this pamphlet we have proven how insurrection is now being openly advocated in the U.S. by Negro agitators under the direction of Communists. And yet the President and the Justice Department do nothing about Stokely Carmichael and other insurrectionist leaders.

WHAT YOU CAN DO

(1) Write your Congressman and Senators and demand a Congressional investigation of Communist direction of race riots.

(2) Support your local police! All Americans are urged to stay as far away as possible from all civil rights demonstrations and violent activities. Let your law-enforcing agencies handle the situation.

The Communists are trying to get the white citizenry to meet head-on in open combat with Negroes. Such a confrontation would mean civil war, and would give the Administration an excuse to establish a national police force; to declare martial law; and to set up a dictatorship.

(3) Buy and distribute as many copies of this pamphlet as you possibly can. Give or mail them to retail businesses in Negro areas which have been or may be looted in riots. Send copies to your chief of police, elected local and State officials, as well as your friends and neighbors.

(Revised July, 1967)

PROOF OF RED DIRECTION OF RIOTS

During the spring and summer of 1966, Negro riots took place in the following major cities: New York, Chicago, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Baltimore, Detroit, Milwaukee, Miami, Omaha, Cleveland, Dayton, Atlanta, Washington, D.C., as well as in Jacksonville, Fla., Providence, R.I., Lansing, Mich., Waukegan, Ill., Benton Harbor, Mich., Grenada, Miss., South Bend, Ind., and suburban areas such as Cicero, Ill.

This pamphlet was originally published in 1966. During the first seven months of 1967, race riots resulting in deaths, countless injuries and millions of dollars worth of property damage have occurred in the following cities: Detroit, Newark, Boston, Chicago, Nashville, Louisville, Tampa, Cincinnati, Buffalo, Dayton, San Diego, Minneapolis, Bridgeport, Conn., Waterloo, Iowa, Cairo, Ill., and others.

What is behind these Negro riots which seem to have spontaneously erupted in various parts of the Nation?

F.B.I. CHIEF WARNED

In the February, 1966, issue of the F.B.I. LAW ENFORCEMENT BULLETIN there appeared this statement by J. Edgar Hoover:

> "The Communist influence is cleverly injected into civil disobedience and reprisals against our economic, political and social system."

NEGRO COMMUNIST LEADER THREATENS

Congressman John H. Buchanan, Jr., revealed on August 8, 1966, that during the Communist Party's national convention in New York City in late June of 1966, Claude Lightfoot declared that the Communist Party intends to move openly into the civil rights struggles. Lightfoot, a Negro and head of the party in Illinois, stated that "we will allow no one in the civil rights movement or the white power structure" to block such a move.

THE CLEVELAND GRAND JURY REPORT

A notable service to the entire Nation has been performed by the Cuyahoga County Special Grand Jury in its report on the riots in Cleveland during July, 1966. This report proves the Communist direction of those riots, and reveals the pattern that took place – a pattern that can be repeated in any other large city in the U.S.

Below are excerpts from the Special Grand Jury report on the Cleveland riots:

> "This jury finds that the outbreak of lawlessness and disorder was both organized, precipitated and exploited by a relatively small group of trained and disciplined professionals at this business.
> "They were aided and abetted, wittingly or otherwise, by misguided people of all ages and colors, many of whom are avowed believers in violence and extremism, and some of whom also are either members of or officers in the Communist Party.
> "It is no casual happenstance or coincidence that those throwing fire bombs, or bricks, or bottles, or pillaging, or generally engaged in disorder and lawlessness were in the main young people obviously assigned, trained, and disciplined in the roles they were to play...
> "Nor it is happenstance or even just singular coincidence:
> "(1) that the overall pattern for firebombing and destruction... was so highly selective;
> "(2) that the targets were plainly agreed upon;
> "(3) that certain places were identified to be hit, and that certain other places were similarly spared."

A MAU MAU IN THE U.S.?

The Grand Jury Report then specifically referred to a headquarters known as The JFK House. The initials stand for Jomo "Freedom" Kenyatta and the house is located at 8801 Superior Avenue.

(Jomo Kenyatta was head of the secret, terrorist, bloodthirsty group in Kenya, Africa, known as the Mau Mau. Its members were bound by oath to engage in unspeakable methods of murdering white men, women and children in order to force the white settlers to leave Kenya. Africans who refused to join and participate in these bloody massacres were slain by the Mau Mau.)

One of the leaders at The JFK House, whose name commemorates the savage, white-murdering Mau Mau, is Lewis G. Robinson, who has been affiliated with the Medgar Evers Rifle Club, the gun-toting, violence-preaching Deacons for Defense, and the treason-advocating Revolutionary Action Movement – RAM.

HOW REDS MASTERMINDED THE RIOTS

And then the Grand Jury Report continued:

"There was evidence placed before the Jury that rifle clubs were formed, that ammunition was purchased, and that a range was established and used, that speeches were made at The JFK House advocating the need for rifle clubs, and that instructions were given in the use of Molotov cocktails and how and when to throw them to obtain maximum effect.

"Further, irrefutable evidence was shown to the effect that Robinson pledged reciprocal support to and with the Communist Party of Ohio.

"It was established before the Jury that the leaders of the W.E.B. DuBois Club and the Communist Youth Party, with interchangeable officers and virtually identical concepts, arrived in Cleveland only a few days before the Hough Area disorders. They took up residence at 1844 East 81st Street, only a short distance from the central point of origin of the Hough Area troubles."

The Grand Jury Report then went on to say that these Communist agitators arrived in Cleveland from Chicago, New York, and Brooklyn; that they "made swift contact with The JFK House leadership and with Phil Bart of Cleveland Heights, and his wife Connie, who the evidence showed are the leaders of the Communist Party throughout the Ohio Valley District including Cleveland."

"In the course of its investigation, the Grand Jury has learned that police and firemen were targets for snipers and individuals throwing rocks and bricks. Further, fire equipment was damaged, particularly hoses, which were cut or attempted to be cut so as to render them useless in the protection of persons and property."

The August 8, 1966, issue of U.S. NEWS & WORLD REPORT quotes Cleveland Safety Director John N. McCormick as stating, "There is no doubt in my mind that trouble was planned for Cleveland. The pattern here and in other cities is almost identical."

The CLEVELAND PRESS reported that a 17-year-old Negro youth told the Grand Jury

INFLAMMATORY STATEMENTS BY WHITE AND NEGRO LEADERS

President Lyndon Johnson:

. . . I am proud this morning to salute you as fellow revolutionaries. (Aug. 3, 1965. Speech at the White House to college students.)

Vice President Hubert Humphrey:

Describing what he would do if he had to live in slums.

. . . I think you'd have more trouble than you have had already, because I've got enough spark left in me to lead a mighty good revolt under those conditions. (July 18, 1966. Speech in New Orleans.)

Robert C. Weaver:

Secretary of Housing and Urban Development – a Negro.

. . . If the average white American put himself in the shoes of the average black American, he would be just as angry, just as prone to violence as the Negro is today. (July 20, 1966. News conference in Washington, D.C.)

Rev. Martin Luther King:

Head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

. . . I do feel there are two types of laws. One is a just law and one is an unjust law. . . . I think we have a moral obligation to disobey unjust laws. (Meet the Press, NBC-TV, March 28, 1965.)

that a 200-member gang known as the Black Panthers planned much of the fire-bombing, sniping and looting that marked the riots. He reportedly said he saw fire bombs – Molotov cocktails – being made, and attended meetings where acts of violence were planned.

THE RED PATTERN FOR OTHER CITIES

On August 10, 1966, commenting in the U.S. Senate on the Cleveland Grand Jury Report, Senator Frank J. Lausche of Ohio stated:

> "I would add to that finding that there is a grave potentiality of repetition of riots not only in Cleveland but also in every metropolitan center in the country. In my judgment, the Lansing riot, the New York-Harlem riot, the Los Angeles riot, and the Cleveland riot are trial runs. They are drills under which these Communist leaders are perfecting their technique, making it possible for them to spread the destruction, spread the disorder, and spread the impotency of government throughout the country."

THE PHONY "SLUM CONDITIONS" LINE

President Johnson and spokesmen for the Democrat Administration repeat endlessly how slum conditions in Negro ghettoes are the cause of riots. However, this was factually refuted in an article by Walter Rugaber, datelined Cleveland, which appeared in the NEW YORK TIMES of July 20, 1966, which stated:

> "Hough (the Hough Avenue area of Cleveland), like the Watts section of Los Angeles, is not a slum of high-rise tenements and packed in buildings. The area consists mainly of large houses built in a better era together with two-story and three-story apartment buildings."

Why did these Negro riots erupt in only certain sections of certain cities? The Johnson Administration blames these riots on "poverty" and "summer heat."

But there are slums in other cities throughout the country – white slums and Negro slums. In many of them the temperature and humidity during those summer nights were just as high as in the riot-torn cities. But riots did not erupt there!

Why? Because either the residents of those areas, regardless of race, refused to take orders from Communist agitators; or, because Communist violence squads were not organized for action in 1966 in those particular cities.

CIVIL RIGHTS LEGISLATION DOES NOT PACIFY RIOT LEADERS

On September 16, 1966, reviewing a summer of lawlessness, arson, pillage, looting, violence and murder, systematically carried out by rioting Negroes, Senator Allen Ellender declared on the floor of the U.S. Senate:

> "Ever since the first of the modern civil rights acts was enacted, the proponents of these extreme measures have claimed each year – in 1957, in 1960, and in 1965 – that each new law was necessary to avoid violence and to take the demonstrators off the streets and put them into the courtroom.
> "Nothing has been further from the truth. Negro demonstrations and acts of violence have increased a hundredfold since 1957."

HOW LONG WILL YOU PUT UP WITH IT?

The Democratic Administration has proved itself incapable of dealing with this crisis of potential Negro insurrection, directed by the Communists.

Why hasn't President Johnson publicly denounced the known leaders of these Negro riots and called for their prosecution under the laws of the land?

Why hasn't President Johnson called for a Congressional investigation of Communist infiltration within the civil rights movement?

The answer: LBJ is a politician – and he counts heavily on the Negro bloc vote to perpetuate himself and his "rubber stamp" Congressmen in office. But – how long will responsible Negroes in this country, in view of these Communist-directed riots which are so damaging to the respectable Negro community, continue blindly to vote in a bloc?

An editorial by David Lawrence in the August 1, 1966, issue of U.S. NEWS & WORLD REPORT, puts it this way:

> "A wave of discontent is sweeping the country today. People are asking why the Government at Washington is seemingly indifferent to the riots and crimes in the big cities of the north....

Discontent is increasing largely because of a feeling that persons elected to public office have failed to take the steps necessary to maintain law and order. Congress seems hesitant to enact corrective laws for fear of offending Negro voters...

Black Power Conference Guarded by Mau Mau

COMMUNIST LINKS NOTED

BY KENT COURTNEY

More than 1,000 delegates from Civil Rights and Black Power Negro organizations attended a two-day conference in Newark, New Jersey, on July 22 and 23. This meeting followed the Black rebellion in Newark, and preceded the sacking of the Negro shopping areas of Detroit. Machete-armed members of the Harlem Mau Mau were on guard outside the Military Park Hotel in Newark.

On the same weekend, Stokely Carmichael, the former head of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), was in Communist Cuba where he attended a meeting of the top-ranking Communist revolutionaries who are planning the takeover of the United States. While Detroit was suffering the worst racial insurrection since the Civil War, Carmichael on July 26 in Communist Cuba said, "In Newark we applied war tactics of the guerrillas. We are preparing groups of urban (city) guerrillas for our defense in the cities. The price of these rebellions is a high price that one must pay. This fight is not going to be a simple street meeting. It is going to be a fight to the death."

The spokesman of the American version of the Mau Mau is Charles Kenyatta (an assumed name) who was in charge of the honor guard which displayed the poster pictured to the right. The poster suggests a significant interlock between the Black Power Movement in America and the international Communist conspiracy. REDS INVOLVED IN RIOTS

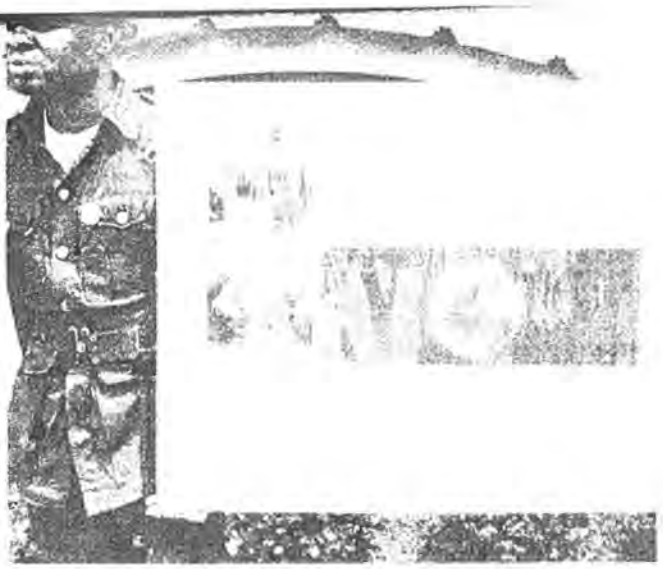
BY U.S. SENATOR STROM THURMOND

WASHINGTON, July 31 – The riot roots may be found in Communism, false compassion, civil disobedience, court decisions, and the criminal instinct that lies repressed in the heart of every man.



Communism is the catalyst which has precipitated the present condition.... The Communists today are calling the riots in our streets a "war of national liberation." The mounting evidence of prior planning and execution in the present insurrections, accords with the public record of the Communist conspiracy and its involvement with civil rights organizations. It is no coincidence that Stokely Carmichael, the self-proclaimed apostle of guerrilla warfare in the United States, has turned up in Communist Havana at a meeting of the organization created by the Soviets and the Communist bloc countries to organize revolution in both of the Americas.

CHARLES KENYATTA, MAU MAU FOUNDER, SPEARS THE BIBLE

Charles Kenyatta, leader of the Harlem-based Mau Mau, is shown above arrogantly posed with a two-foot long machete stuck through books of the New and the Old Testament. Each of the Mau Mau guards was armed with knives and daggers ranging from 8 inches to 24 inches in length.

According to an AP dispatch of July 23, the Black Power conference wound up on a deeply felt anti-white, anti-Christian, and anti-draft tone. There were calls for black-controlled political parties or voting blocs. Some of the delegates termed the conference at Newark, New Jersey, the start of "The Black Revolution."

One of the resolutions adopted called for "the desirability of partitioning the United States into two separate Nations, one white and one black." Communist John Pepper, writing in "American Negro Problems," in 1928 stated, "Negro Communists should emphasize in their propaganda the establishment of a Negro Soviet Republic."

COMMUNIST INFLUENCE IN RACE RIOTS

BY J. EDGAR HOOVER

(Excerpts from testimony given by the Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation before the Subcommittee on Appropriations, U.S. House of Representatives, on February 16, 1967.)

* * * * *

With the continuing increase of racial unrest and activities relating to the civil rights movement in this country during the past year, there has been a pronounced increase of activities by the Communist Party - U.S.A. concerning the Negro question and the racial movement generally.

The emphasis given to the Negro question at the Communist Party's 18th national convention held in June 1966, at New York City, illustrates the party's increased involvement in the racial movement. Claude Lightfoot, the party's vice-chairman, presented the resolution on the Negro question to the convention calling for the broadest linking of the civil rights struggle with the struggle for peace. He emphasized that the Communist Party must be known as the "best fighter" for Negro rights in the United States.

Although the Communist Party has always been active in the field of civil rights, it has done very little in its own name. Based on the action taken at the convention, the keynote now is that the Party will boldly step forward and lead its own movement for civil rights as well as infiltrating all civil rights struggles and joining with more militant elements.

For the most part, legitimate civil rights organizations have rejected the Communists' efforts to penetrate them. However, there have been some segments of these groups that covertly seek Communist advice and direction and in some instances accept Communists within their organizations.

STUDENT NON-VIOLENT COORDINATING COMMITTEE (SNCC)

Since assuming chairmanship of SNCC, Stokely Carmichael is generally considered the chief architect of "Black Power." Indicative of his philosophy concerning racial matters are the following public statements made by him:

> "This non-violence bit is just a philanthropic hang-up. I don't see why people keep thinking about that. The violence is inevitable.
> "When you talk of Black Power, you talk of bringing this country to its knees. When you talk of Black Power, you talk of building a movement that will smash everything western civilization has created. When you talk of Black Power, you talk of the black man doing whatever is necessary to get what he needs. We are fighting for our lives."

SNCC has taken an active stand in opposition to U.S. participation in Vietnam, and in this

OUTSIDE INFLUENCE IN RIOTS AND DISTURBANCES

For the most part, the riots and disorders that have occurred in this country since the summer of 1964 were sparked by a single incident, generally following an arrest of a Negro by local police for some minor infraction of the law. Although most of the riots and disturbances have been characterized by spontaneous outbursts of mob violence dominated by young hoodlums, the involvement of other violent, lawless, subversive, and extremist elements became readily apparent as the rioting grew and spread.

EXPLOITATION BY COMMUNISTS AND OTHERS

Communists and other subversives and extremists strive and labor ceaselessly to precipitate racial trouble and to take advantage of racial discord in this country. Such elements were active in exploiting and aggravating the riots, for example, in Harlem, Watts, Cleveland, and Chicago.

The riots and disturbances of recent years have given Communists a golden opportunity to emphasize the Marxist concept of the "class struggle" by identifying the Negro and other minority group problems with it. Communists seek to advance the cause of Communism by injecting themselves into racial situations and in exploiting them (1) to intensify the frictions between Negroes and whites to "prove" that the discrimination against minorities is an inherent defect of the capitalist system, (2) to foster domestic disunity by dividing Negroes and whites into antagonistic, warring factions, (3) to undermine and destroy established authority, (4) to incite Negro hostility toward law and order, (5) to encourage and foment further racial strife and riotous activity, and (6) to portray the Communist movement as the "champion" of social protest and the only force capable of ameliorating the conditions of the Negroes and the oppressed.

BLACK NATIONALIST, HATE-TYPE AND EXTREMIST ORGANIZATIONS

Nation of Islam (NOI) (Black Muslims)

The Nation of Islam is an all-Negro, violently anti-government and anti-white organization. It has an active membership of about 5,500. Its strength lies predominantly in the northern urban areas.

The NOI membership strength parallels the tense racial situation in these areas. Its highly disciplined membership, coupled with intense hatred of the white race, Government, law, and law enforcement, constitutes a very real threat to the internal security of the Nation. The overall impact of the NOI in racial matters becomes increasingly apparent with the current shift toward black nationalism by some of the more militant civil rights leaders.

SNCC has taken an active stand in opposition to U.S. participation in Vietnam, and in this regard, Carmichael has stated–

"When Johnson calls, let's stand together and say, 'No, I'm not going'. Any black man who fights in this country's Army is a black mercenary."

In espousing his philosophy of "Black Power," Carmichael has been in frequent contact with Max Stanford, field chairman of the Revolutionary Action Movement (RAM), a highly secret all-Negro, Marxist-Leninist, Chinese-Communist-oriented organization which advocates guerrilla warfare to obtain its goals, and has afforded Stanford assistance and guidance in forming a Black Panther Party in New York City.

The NOI membership strength parallels the tense racial situation in those areas. Its highly disciplined membership, coupled with intense hatred of the white race, Government, law, and law enforcement, constitutes a very real threat to the internal security of the Nation. The overall impact of the NOI in racial matters becomes increasingly apparent with the current shift toward black nationalism by some of the more militant civil rights leaders.

REVOLUTIONARY ACTION MOVEMENT (RAM)

RAM, a Negro organization, is dedicated to the overthrow of the capitalist system in the United States, by violence if necessary, and its replacement by a socialist system oriented toward the Chinese Communist interpretation of Marxism-Leninism.

RAM has organized units or membership in several of the larger cities and is attempting to recruit new members and expand its sphere of influence. Various leaders of the organization have participated in activities organized by the more militant civil rights leaders in order to expand its influence in racially tense areas.

OUTSIDE INFLUENCE IN RIOTS AND DISTURBANCES

For the most part, the riots and disorders that have occurred in this country since the summer of 1964 were sparked by a single incident, generally following an arrest of a Negro by local police for some minor infraction of the law. Although most of the riots and disturbances have been characterized by spontaneous outbursts of mob violence dominated by young hoodlums, the involvement of other violent, lawless, subversive, and extremist elements became readily apparent as the rioting grew and spread.

EXPLOITATION BY COMMUNISTS AND OTHERS

Communists and other subversives and extremists strive and labor ceaselessly to precipitate racial trouble and to take advantage of racial discord in this country. Such elements were active in exploiting and aggravating the riots, for example, in Harlem, Watts, Cleveland, and Chicago.

The riots and disturbances of recent years have given Communists a golden opportunity to emphasize the Marxist concept of the "class struggle" by identifying the Negro and other minority group problems with it. Communists seek to advance the cause of Communism by injecting themselves into racial situations and in exploiting them (1) to intensify the frictions between Negroes and whites to "prove" that the discrimination against minorities is an inherent defect of the capitalist system, (2) to foster domestic disunity by dividing Negroes and whites into antagonistic, warring factions, (3) to undermine and destroy established authority, (4) to incite Negro hostility toward law and order, (5) to encourage and foment further racial strife and riotous activity, and (6) to portray the Communist movement as the "champion" of social protest and the only force capable of ameliorating the conditions of the Negroes and the oppressed.

BLACK NATIONALIST, HATE-TYPE AND EXTREMIST ORGANIZATIONS

Nation of Islam (NOI) (Black Muslims)

The Nation of Islam is an all-Negro, violently anti-government and anti-white organization. It has an active membership of about 5,500. Its strength lies predominantly in the northern urban areas.

The NOI membership strength parallels the tense racial situation in these areas. Its highly disciplined membership, coupled with intense hatred of the white race, Government, law, and law enforcement, constitutes a very real threat to the internal security of the Nation. BABY FURNITURE STORE LOOTED AND BURNED

Newark businessmen experienced relatively few fires for reasons undetermined. The Flax's Baby Furniture Store occupied several buildings on Springfield Avenue. It was looted and burned. Businessmen allow their customers to purchase on long terms with weekly payments extending up to a year or more. Much of the merchant's capital is contained in these accounts receivable and a fire which also burns up his office records is disastrous. Insurance policies do not include protection against riot and insurrection and do not cover accounts receivable destroyed by looting and burning. Many of the businessmen in Newark, Detroit, Cleveland and Watts said that they could not go back into business again because banks and insurance companies would no longer be interested in financing or insuring business ventures in an area which had already been hit by violent mob action. Federal re-imbursement for past losses would probably not cover future risks.

PROTECTIVE GRILL DESTROYED

The Varsity Men's Shop, pictured above, located on Springfield Avenue in Newark, New Jersey, illustrates a method of operation by the leaders of the looting. The expandable steel grillwork which had been installed to prevent breaking and entering and simple burglary was no problem to the leaders of the organized looting which took place in Newark.

PROTECTIVE GRILL DESTROYED

The Varsity Men's Shop, pictured above, located on Springfield Avenue in Newark, New Jersey, illustrates a method of operation by the leaders of the looting. The expandable steel grillwork which had been installed to prevent breaking and entering and simple burglary was no problem to the leaders of the organized looting which took place in Newark.

As soon as a mob has taken over an area, a pickup truck is backed up to the store front. A cable attached to the frame of the truck is then looped around the grillwork and the truck drives away, tearing the grillwork from its fastenings. The rear end of the truck is also used as a battering ram to knock out plate glass windows, frames and doors. The mob then rushes in and carries away the contents of the store.

This method of operation was described to this reporter in Watts by a store owner and police officers. Thus it is seen that mob action has been used in a coordinated and organized attack against private property and business owners.

America, preaching hatred for the white man. On his broadcasts he promoted the slogan, "Burn, baby, burn" which this reporter heard hundreds of times shouted by defiant Negroes during and following the Black insurrection in the Watts section of Los Angeles in August, 1965.

Phillip Abbott Luce, a former Communist, and member of the Progressive Labor Party, has written a book entitled, "Road to Revolution: Communist Guerrilla Warfare, in the United states of America." Luce quotes Robert Franklin Williams as saying, "When racial violence comes, the USA will become a bedlam of confusion and chaos. The factory workers will be afraid to venture out into the streets to report to their jobs. Stores will be looted and destroyed. Expensive buildings will be reduced to ashes. Violence and terror will spread like a fire storm. The economy will fall into a state of chaos. During the course of the day, sporadic rioting will take place. Night brings all-out warfare, organized fighting, massive sniping and unlimited terror." Words such as these were repeatedly broadcast by Williams from Communist Cuba. Williams now lives in Peking in Communist China.

The symbol in the center of the battle flag is a muscular black arm holding an oriental dagger dripping with blood with a slogan which reads, "Let's Use Black Force Now."

Although Life Magazine, the United Press and the Associated Press photographers were present, and took pictures of the Mau Mau military guard and of Charles Kenyatta, it is significant, we believe, that none of them, as of August 1, had published the placard so prominently displayed in Newark for hours by the Mau Mau guard. It seems that reference to Communist influences in racial rioting is avoided by the leading newspapers and magazines in the country.

NATION-WIDE REVOLT

Since January 1, 1967, 59 cities in 27 States have suffered shock waves of rioting, looting, arson, sniping and guerrilla warfare, all advocated by various spokesmen for the Communist-influenced Black Revolution.

Dear Mr. Hoover:

The Reds and the crime lovers in this country hate you, WE AMERICANS LOVE YOU FOR ALL THAT YOU HAVE DONE!

GOD BLESS YOU!!!

Why can't you do more! We are in an awfull shape here in this country! McCarthy, would have you fired! This just shows what a "pink" he is! God help us to keep men like him out of the government!

The march on Washington right now could be stopped! Not that we will not all agree to allow white or black the right to not agree and to speak their peice, but we have means of election and by voting that we control this. What I am really concerned about is the killing, burning and the riots. We KNOW THAT THIS IS THE REAL BASIC PLOT OF THE REDS TO TAKE OVER THIS COUNTRY. YOU KNOW THIS ALSO! WHY CAN'T YOU MAKE SUCH A STATE_ MENT TO THE PRESS!

I have always felt you and men like you were the hope of the country! We are loosing ground...why don't you speak up...while you can...if we don't do something we will all be lost soon.....you know this...I know it and I'm a small town boy....we are coming to the end....don't worry about your job... we are all stareing eternity in the face. We will all meet GOD and have to give an account for our labor....you are in a very responsibile position...you could really warn and alert the people to the dangers of what we face IF we don't change our ways...IT MAY BE TOO LATE NOW!!!YOU KNOW IT TO DON'T you!

Myself, I love our blessed America but with it going on at the rate it is in 5 more years it will be "Russia" with a Hitler in charge. TIME BIBLE tells as much about this. I hope to be gone on to be with the Lord as HE is coming soon! But I want to do all I can to preserve our country and our freedom as long as I can.

If you will corresponde or if you have some bulletins I could have sent from your office keeping me informed of coming events, etc. that would be of intrest to me please send them. We who love freedom need to exert every dffort to see to it that we keep it. It will be and has been a real fight...we must stick together and pray together as never before. These riots in the name of what is right are just the REDS working their plan to take us over. Please write and send any information you might think would be helpful to me about our present situation!

God bless you and yours,

IT CAN HAPPEN HERE

IT CAN HAPPEN HERE

"WE ARE THE YOUNG AND AGGRESSIVE," Nikita Khrushchev said, when Americans ventured into Lebanon. "and you are the decadent civilization! We will wipe the memory of capitalism from the face of the earth!"

Communism fully intends to conquer the world by or before 1975, and the Reds consider their program to be as much as five years ahead of schedule. In fact, many of Communism's leaders openly boast that they will have a dictator in Washington, D.C. within the next decade!

"When we conquer the United States," Khrushchev is reported to have said, "sixty million Americans must be removed." Can this possibly happen here in America? A few months ago in Salem, Oregon, an evangelical pastor was approached by a Communist party member in an effort to soften up the Communist cause. When the pastor resisted, he was told that the Communists have a complete record of pastors and members of the churches of Salem in their files ready for action at the appropriate time!

If the Communists did get control of our country, what would this mean to you and to your church? An official publication of the Committee On Un-American Activities of the House of Representatives points out that if Communism should come to the United States it would mean that:

1. If you belong to a church, you must prepare for persecution.
2. The Communists would destroy every copy of the Bible they could find.
3. [illegible]
4. Church weddings, funerals and baptisms would be illegal.
5. Missionary work would be absolutely forbidden.

Yes, it can happen here, unless you and I, and all Americans decide to get busy and do something about it. What can I do, you ask? Rev. W. S. Mooneyham, editor of an evangelical magazine, says: "Face the facts, no matter how unpleasant. The Communists say this is a fight to the finish. Believe them! Khrushchev says, 'We will bury you.' He means it! Keep your head out of the sand and face the issue squarely.

"Don't be complacent. John Noble, who vanished for nine years in a Russian slave camp, said, 'We are drowning in a sea of complacency. Americans simply do not want to care.' You are your brother's keeper, including the 28 million in slave labor camps behind the Iron Curtain.

"Finally, agitate as a Christian for the right-wing forces to take the initiative. We have been on the defensive. A personal acceptance of the gospel message is still the best deterrent to the spread of a godless atheism."

Do you see the peril that is at our very doorstep, and also the challenge that faces us? Then let these words from an article in a French Communist paper, "Paix et Liberte," burn with conviction into your heart: "The gospel is a much more powerful weapon for the renewal of society than is our Marxist philosophy. All the same, it is we who will finally beat you. We are only a handful, and you Christians are numbered by the million. But if you remember the story of Gideon and his three hundred companions you will un-

[illegible] We encourage [illegible] day with some. We are zealous and active that we are determined to achieve our ideal. We know how to exploit the means. We are selective and aware for some end, what is strictly necessary, and give the rest to propaganda purposes. To this propaganda we also sacrifice all our free time and part of our holidays. You however give only a little time and hardly any money for the spreading of the gospel of Christ. How can anyone believe in the supreme value of this gospel if you do not practice it, if you do not spread it, and if you sacrifice neither time nor money for it? Believe me, it is we who will win, for we believe in our Communist message and are ready to sacrifice everything, even our life, in order that social justice shall triumph. But you people are afraid to soil your hands."

Are you practicing your Christianity? Are you living daily for Christ? Do you let the cares of this life - making a living, keeping house, going to school, even church activity - keep you from full abandonment to your Lord and Saviour, Jesus

Oswald Chambers, in his daily devotional book tells us that Christ says in effect to His disciples, "Don't exalt in successful service, but exalt because you are rightly related to me." Do you guard your fellowship with the Lord, your daily life of prayer and Bible reading? What are you living for? Whom are you living for?

If you do really love Him, are you sharing the good news? I didn't ask you if you were a preacher but are you letting your fellow workmate, your neighbors, your schoolmates, know that you want to introduce your Saviour to them also?

How about your pocketbook? Does God have it as well as your life and witness for Him? A known Communist in San Francisco said that because giving one-third of his day to Communism, he also gave half of his income. Do you really give to the cause of Christ and the spread of His gospel as if your life depended on it? You had better, for it does! Most Christians do not even give the minimum tithe to teach. We are content to be Christians of convenience. We give out of what is left over (if anything) after buying new homes, new cars, washers, dryers, sports equipment and so on.

I cannot conclude without this word to someone who may be reading this and who is yet a stranger to the family of God and dead in trespasses and sins. If the Communists do achieve world domination, I should a thousand times, rather fall into their torturing and cruel hands than to leave this life unprepared to meet God. "The body they may kill," wrote the hymnwriter. But Christ said, "Rather fear him which is able to destroy both soul and body in hell" (Matthew 10:28). You may have to face a firing squad after a few more years here on earth, but you don't have to face an eternity in hell after this life is over. When the books are opened in eternity, it won't be a question of what you lived or died for politically, but what you did with Jesus who is called Christ. "He that believeth on him is not condemned: but he that believeth not is condemned already, because he hath not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God" (John 3:18).

Why not ask Jesus Christ, God's only begotten Son, to come into your heart right now, take away your sins and give you life that never ends. Then live after-the-line. God is still on the throne. He will finally put all His enemies under His feet, but you and I can and must have a real part in this victory. "Awake, thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead, and Christ shall give thee light" (Ephesians 5:14). C. Calvin Beisner

HERE ARE THE FACTS

The slaying on April 4, 1968, of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., triggered widespread rioting, looting and fire-bombing in more than 100 cities and towns which, by April 11, had resulted in the deaths of 39 persons, more than 1,700 injured and more than 10,000 arrested.

What was the mood of the rioters? Let us take Washington, D.C., for example: Columnist Ralph de Toledano put it this way:

> The carnival spirit, as stores were looted with impunity – the looters smiling broadly at television cameras – turned ugly and the arson began....
> There were many reasons for the Washington riot. But bereavement and mourning for the death of Martin Luther King was hardly one of them. On television, some of the rioters were interviewed and it was interesting to note that many of them had little or no knowledge of who Dr. King was – or what he might have stood for.

Mr. de Toledano further pointed out that Washington is two-thirds Negro, with a Negro mayor and a heavily Negro city council. There are slums, but there is also a large middle-class Negro population working for the Federal Government or in the professions. "These are not the disadvantaged or the alienated," stated Mr. de Toledano, "yet they were as involved in the looting as the young toughs who began it."

BUYING OFF THE RIOTERS

While Federal troops still patrolled Washington, an AP dispatch of April 10, stated:

> Six members of the President's Riot Commission say immediate action is required to alleviate the causes behind the violence which has wracked Negro slums across the country for six days.
> Commission members said in interviews that they had tried in their report to stress urgency in implementing their recommendations.

And what does "implementing" the Commission's report mean to the taxpayers of this country?

In the coming months, Congress will be deluged with bills seeking to "implement" the Commission's report in order to purportedly prevent further riots. The price tag on such proposals will run into billions of dollars.

Are such proposals sound? Will they prevent future riots? Are they worth a hike in your personal income taxes?

Before anyone can answer such questions, it is necessary to be informed regarding what the Riot Commission recommended – and what it really means.

* * * *

On July 28, 1967, President Lyndon Johnson appointed an advisory commission following the devastating riot in Detroit. Its purpose was to delve into the causes of race riots. The upwards of 160 race riots in the summer of 1967 resulted in the death of more than 80* persons, injuries to thousands, and millions of dollars of damage due to burning and looting.

REPORT BLAMES "WHITE RACISM"

On March 2, 1968, the President's Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders issued its report which charged:

> White racism is essentially responsible for the explosive mixture which has been accumulating in our cities since the end of World War II.
> White society is deeply implicated in the ghetto. White institutions created it; white institutions maintain it, and white society condones it...

Ridiculing the unsubstantiated allegations of the Commission, Congressman Richard L. Roudebush, on March 14, 1968, stated:

> We are told that the 99.9% of taxpaying, law-abiding, church-going Americans who did not participate in the riots are just as guilty as the snipers, looters, murderers, thugs and hoodlums who burned sections of American cities to the ground during the past several summers.

COMMISSION THREATENS

An Associated Press dispatch of March 3, datelined Washington, reported:

> The President's Commission said Saturday that many Negroes may "come to support not only riots, but... rebellion" unless multibillion-dollar measures are taken quickly to heal racial bitterness and riot ravages in city slums....

The Commission's report suggests that the rioters resorted to violence because of what they did not have. There are and have been many people in modern times and throughout history who have not attained all they might desire. Yet they did not resort to criminality.

In this connection, the CHATTANOOGA (Tenn.) NEWS–FREE PRESS of March 2, stated:

> While attention is attracted to the rioters, let it be remembered that there were many Negro citizens who lived literally next door to the violent ones, and in identical conditions, yet conducted themselves with law-abiding propriety and did not riot.

AN INVITATION TO RIOT

In his newsletter of March 5, Congressman James B. Utt asserted:

> I believe that the Commission's report is an open invitation to various groups to create civil disturbances in order to obtain the recognition and concessions which they demand.

An editorial in the GREENVILLE (S.C.) NEWS of March 5, put it this way:

> Overall, the Report is a blatant invitation to violence and rebellion by the Negro minority, which it totally absolves of any blame for its own plight, against the white majority, which it totally condemns with no redeeming deeds or mitigating circumstances.
> By the same token, it is a flagrant challenge to civil rights extremists and political demagogues to do their worst....
> It adds the element of blackmail by raising the specter of a massive black racist rebellion if the whites don't knuckle down and fork over.

RIOT REPORT URGES SPENDING OF MORE BILLIONS

The report of the Commission outlined a number of Federal spending programs which it stated were urgently needed in order to prevent future riots, and then the report admitted:

> These programs will require unprecedented levels of funding and performance...

Among the recommendations of the Commission are: the building of 600,000 low and middle-income housing units in the next year and 6,000,000 units over the next five years, expansion and modification of the rent supplement program, expansion of the Model Cities program, a re-oriented and expanded Urban Renewal program.

Although the Commission avoided putting a price tag on its various proposals, there have been estimates that if these programs were carried out they would cost over $150 billion taxpayers' dollars during the next five years!

WILL TAXES BE RAISED TO "PAY OFF" RIOTERS?

Realizing the need to secure additional tax money to finance its gigantic spending programs, the President's Commission stated:

> The major need is to generate new will – the will to tax ourselves to the extent necessary to meet the vital needs of the Nation.

Regarding this aspect of the report, the CHICAGO TRIBUNE of March 5, declared:

> The proposals of the Commission are so all-embracing that Representative George Mahon of Texas, Chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, estimates that present Federal taxes would have to be doubled to put them into practice.

FAILURE OF WELFARE-STATE SPENDING

An editorial in the INDIANAPOLIS NEWS of March 5 pointed out how big Federal spending for domestic programs has often created the exact opposite of that which such spending purports to achieve. According to the INDIANAPOLIS NEWS:

> Among the welfarist programs which have worked to create existing problems in American cities are (a) minimum wage laws which deprive many young Negroes of employment; (b) urban renewal programs that have destroyed hundreds of thousands of low-income housing units; (c) public housing warrens that have crowded impoverished and often fatherless families together in crime-infested coagulates; and (d) aid to dependent children programs that often subsidize illegitimacy.

Discussing the tremendous increase in domestic spending for the welfare and welfare-related programs of the Democratic Administration, Congressman J. Herbert Burke, on March 7, stated:

> In the last five years defense spending increased by $30.2 billion while domestic spending increased at the same time by $37.5 billion.

FEDERAL SPENDING DOES NOT PREVENT RIOTS

Detroit offers a prime example of the failure of massive Federal aid to cities in order to prevent riots. Detroit had in operation one of the largest anti-poverty programs and extensive Federal housing programs in the country. Yet, as the entire Nation witnessed on TV and in news photographs in July, 1967, a whole area of that city was engulfed in fires set by the rioters.

New York City provides another example. Though city, State and Federal authorities have devoted colossal sums to social uplift in blighted areas, disorder is increasing and Black Power separatism is rampant.

In his column on March 14, Thurman Sensing stated:

> The people who incite and plan riots – the cadres of insurrectionists in the Black Power movement and their allies among the Vietniks – won't be deterred by additional Federal spending. They intend to seize on any grievance, no matter how inconsequential and unfounded, and fan it into a hot flame. Such people can only be dealt with by stern police measures.

REPORT ERRS REGARDING "TYPICAL RIOTER"

The Riot Commission's report described the typical rioter in 1967 as follows:

> The typical rioter was a teenager or young adult, a lifelong resident of the city in which he rioted, a high school drop-out; he was, nevertheless, somewhat better educated than his non-rioting Negro neighbor, and was usually under-employed or employed in a menial job.

The Commission's conclusion in this regard is at great variance with that of an article which appeared in THE REPORTER magazine barely a week before the Commission's report was published. In that article, Irving J. Rubin, Director, University of Michigan Center for Urban Studies, said that the Detroit riot occurred not in the Negro slums, but in an area where the median income of Negro households is about $6,200 a year which is not far below the $6,800 figure for whites in all of Detroit.

The March 9 issue of the CHICAGO TRIBUNE, in an editorial based on the findings of Mr. Rubin, stated:

> Only 28% of those arrested were teenagers and barely half were under 25. Of those 17 and older, 83% held jobs, 40% of them with the big automobile companies. About half were married, and about two-thirds had clean police records.
> Mr. Rubin concludes that the riots reflect a rebellion not of the poor and ignorant, but of the lower middle class.

GUARANTEED ANNUAL DOLE TO LOAFERS

The Commission's report makes the following recommendations:

> ● To provide for those who can work or who do work, any necessary supplements in such a way as to develop incentives for fuller employment.
> All present restrictions on eligibility – other than need – would be eliminated.
> ● To establish uniform national standards of assistance at least as high as the annual "poverty level" of income, now set by the Social Security Administration at $3,335 per year for an urban family of four.

The March 12 column of Paul Scott gave an inkling of what such a Federal minimum income proposal would cost. Stated Mr. Scott:

> According to government economists, a full-fledged guaranteed income program would cost anywhere from $11 billion to $25 billion a year. Under such a program, all the nation's 9,300,000 families now living on less than $3,000 could have incomes boosted to that level.

Paul Scott then also revealed that LBJ played a key role in pressuring the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders to boost the idea of a Federally guaranteed minimum income for every family, particularly those living in the so-called Negro ghetto. According to Mr. Scott:

> The Commission was deadlocked over the guaranteed income issue until the President sent word to Illinois' Governor Otto Kerner, Chairman, that he wanted the proposal included among the Commission's major recommendations.

Inasmuch as the Federal Government has no funds of its own, but only those funds which are collected by taxation, one might ask: Why should an industrious blue-collar worker, white or Negro, with a family to support, have part of his income taxes used to support a ghetto family where the father is either too indolent or refuses to work?

BLACKMAIL

A column by Thurman Sensing on October 26, 1967, discussed the growing army of militant welfare recipients which are now being organized throughout the country demanding that the Federal Government owes them a living. According to Mr. Sensing:

> Earlier this year, a thousand singing, shouting welfare recipients from more than 50 cities gathered in Washington and mocked the Congress. These demonstrators were attending a convention of the National Welfare Rights Movement.
> George A. Wiley, Director of the Poverty-Rights Action Center in Washington, told the group: "If this country does not listen to poor people after what happened in Detroit and Newark, and New Haven, you haven't seen nothing yet!

An editorial on March 4, 1968, in the INDIANAPOLIS STAR, disputing the major conclusions of the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders, summed it up by declaring:

> The launching of big spending programs in response to rioting will not appease the agitators, but encourage them. They will rant, "Look what a little violence has got us! Now let's see what a lot of violence will get!"

WHERE GOV. GEORGE WALLACE, CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT, STANDS ON THE CAUSE OF RIOTS

"People rioted in the cities, not because they were poverty-stricken, but just because they wanted to riot... This business of saying that we've got to provide all these programs to prevent a riot is apologizing for the riots. No apology need be made for these riots. There just ought to be condemnation.

"To stop rioting, let the police do what the police know how to do. When you do that, you'll stop a riot. Just let the police enforce the law."

– Interview by THE STATE and COLUMBIA (S.C.) RECORD of 11/21/67.

WHAT YOU CAN DO

If you oppose the use of your taxpayer dollars to "buy off" rioters, then here is what you can do:

(1) Write your Congressman and two Senators expressing your views. Inasmuch as all Congressmen are up for re-election in 1968, you might wish to point out that you will not support any candidate for Congress who votes for bills incorporating the recommendations of the Riot Commission Report, which, in effect, would bribe and reward the rioters.

(2) BUY and DISTRIBUTE extra copies of this pamphlet, TAX FAX No. 90. Send them to the editor of your local newspaper, city and State officials, members of your State legislature, etc.

Protect The Right Of Self-Defense

Necessity is the plea for every infringement of human freedom. It is the argument of tyrants; it is the creed of slaves.

--William Pitt
Speech, House of Commons
November 18, 1783

President Lyndon Johnson on March 8, 1965, asked Congress to give the Government new weapons for a "war on crime." He specifically requested a ban on the kind of mail-order firearms sales that put a rifle in the hands of Lee Harvey Oswald, assassin of President John F. Kennedy.

On March 22, Sen. Thomas J. Dodd introduced a bill containing the provisions outlined by the President.

Surely all law-abiding citizens whole-heartedly support a war on crime, but does the Dodd bill have another, quite separate, purpose?

WHAT IS THE REAL MEANING OF THE DODD BILL?

A chilling hint of the real significance of Sen. Dodd's anti-gun bill is contained in an editorial by the WASHINGTON POST of April 28, 1965. Supporting the anti-firearms bill, the POST states:

> In a country where four Presidents have fallen assassinated by gunfire and where guns exact a terrible toll in death and tragedy every year, sportsmen can fairly be asked to incur minor inconvenience for the sake of the general welfare. It is time for America to come of age. Disarmament needs to begin at home.

Thus does the WASHINGTON POST, frequently a promoter of Liberal policies, unwittingly reveal that Dodd's anti-gun bill is merely a foot-in-the-door for future repressive legislation which, if permitted by the American people, will ultimately result in repealing Amendment II of the U.S. Constitution.

WHAT THE CONSTITUTION SAYS

The Second Amendment of the Bill of Rights of the U.S. Constitution states:

> A well-regulated militia being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed.

The freedom to possess a weapon for defense of home and State, is no less important than the freedoms of speech, press, religion, assembly and petition guaranteed by the First Amendment.

The right to keep and bear arms is not conferred upon the people by the Federal Constitution. The function of this Amendment is to prevent the Federal Government only from infringing on the right to keep and bear arms.

An article prepared by members of the New Orleans Bar Association on this subject appeared in the New Orleans TIMES-PICAYUNE of June 25, 1963, which stated:

> At the time of the adoption of Amendment II, the complete disarmament of the people would have made possible the encroachment of a dictatorship. The Founding Fathers fought a war to free us from tyranny and provided the Second Amendment to prevent the recurrence of such a dictatorship.

FIREARMS CONTROL LAWS DON'T STOP CRIME

The promoters of the Dodd bill, which would ban the interstate shipment of firearms to individuals, place great stress upon the fact that Lee Harvey Oswald used a mail-order gun to assassinate President Kennedy. In testifying on May 20, 1964, before the Senate Juvenile Delinquency Subcommittee, Sen. Gordon Allott declared:

> As far as I know it has not been generally recognized that Lee Oswald could have walked into any one of several sporting goods stores in Dallas and purchased a rifle of the same quality across the counter, and he would not have violated any law in doing so. Further, Jack Ruby,* I am informed, used a Smith & Wesson .38 for which he had a permit.

Criminals do not legally buy guns and dutifully register them with the proper authorities. Weapons used by hoodlums in the organized underworld are generally stolen in house burglaries and from National Guard or police armories, or are smuggled in from foreign countries.

On May 18, 1965, Congressman James C. Cleveland inserted in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD exerpts from the current issue of THE HANDGUNNER, official publication of the U.S. Revolver Association. According to THE HANDGUNNER magazine, firearms were used in only 15% of all serious aggravated assault cases (including homicide) in the United States during 1963.

New York State, with its highly restrictive Sullivan law on firearms, has the same homicide rate as California, even though California has no Sullivan law.

The article in THE HANDGUNNER magazine then went on to state:

> In New York City during 1963, there were 549 homicides. The knife (or other sharp weapon) was used in 225 or 41%, while physical force (hands or feet) was used in 101 homicides or 18%. A rifle or shotgun was used in 37 homicides or 7%.
> FBI figures show that half of the States (25) have a per capita homicide rate less than New York, which has the unreasonably severe Sullivan law governing firearms.

Referring to the present Federal Firearms Act, which the Dodd bill seeks to make more stringent, Mr. John M. Schooley, former President of the National Rifle Association, in testifying before a Senate Committee stated:

> In my many years of...law enforcement, I cannot recall one case where the provisions of the Federal Firearms Act prevented one criminal from securing a firearm, nor can I recall one instance when a crime was prevented by the provisions of the Act.

And then Mr. Schooley, speaking of "the futility of attempting to reduce crime by legislation that depends upon criminal cooperation," added:

> Such legislation does nothing more than curtail the ownership of firearms by law-abiding citizens. The criminal has never, is not now, nor will he ever be denied the tools of his profession by legislation directed at the tool and not at him.

WHY ANTI-GUN BILL WOULD INCREASE CRIME

While the U.S. Supreme Court continues, by its rulings, to make it more difficult for the American police force and the community to punish rapists, murderers, and other criminals, the Dodd bill seeks to impose harsh restrictions on the right of law-abiding citizens to keep firearms for their own protection.

In his column of May 16, 1965, Ralph de Toledano pointed out:

> New York's famous Sullivan law makes it virtually impossible for a law-abiding citizen to get a police license to own a hand gun. But it has been repeatedly demonstrated that criminals have no difficulty whatsoever in building up arsenals of every conceivable kind of firearms.
> The result: The law-abiding citizen is defenseless – and the criminal is reasonably certain that when he breaks into a home or holds up a man on the street, he will not have to face the muzzle of a pistol.

Thus it is seen that while the promoters of the Dodd anti-firearm bill claim that its passage would reduce crime, if said bill becomes a law, it would actually increase crime.

THE DAN SMOOT REPORT of March 16, 1964, puts it this way:

> A free man must have unrestricted right to own and use personal weapons, in the defense of his family, his home, and his own person, against any kind of marauder – whether the marauder be a soldier of an invading army, an agent of an internal political conspiracy, or a common criminal.

BRIEF ANALYSIS OF THE DODD BILL

The April 26, 1965, issue of THE DAN SMOOT REPORT contains an analysis of the provisions of the Dodd anti-firearms bill, S. 1592. If passed, this bill (amending the Federal Firearms Act of 1938) would:

- Prohibit any person (except authorized dealers, manufacturers and importers) from shipping or receiving in interstate commerce any type of firearm. This provision would place harsh and unreasonable restrictions upon law-abiding citizens who do not have convenient access to licensed dealers for over-the-counter sales and who wish to order sporting firearms by mail.
- Prohibit dealers from selling a pistol over the counter to anyone who does not live in the State where the sale is made. This would impose discriminatory burdens on people who live near State boundaries and those who must cross State lines to shop.
- Require anyone selling rifle and handgun ammunition (even .22 caliber) to buy a $100 dealer license each year. This would be a heavy burden on small independent dealers, such as hardware stores and filling stations, which now sell ammunition to hunters and sportsmen.

Opposing the Dodd bill, Sen. Gordon Allott stated on May 20, 1965:

> The high cost of licenses proposed for dealers under S. 1592 is, of course, designed to, and I believe will, stamp out the carrying of guns and ammunition in stock by small stores. It will lead to further concentration of the industry in a few sources.

UNLIMITED POWER FOR SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY

Senator Allott, continuing his testimony before the Senate Juvenile Delinquency Subcommittee, discussed the power given the Secretary of the Treasury in the matter of approving or disapproving applications for manufacturer's or dealer's licenses. Stated Sen. Allott:

> My mail has reflected concern over the wide discretion allowed the Secretary of the Treasury in this bill. I mention only two facets of this which particularly bother me. Sec. 3 (c) (2), directs the Secretary to disapprove an application for a license if the applicant is not likely to maintain operations in compliance with the act "by reason of his business experience, financial standing or trade connections."
> This seems to me to be such an unnecessarily broad grant of discretion to the Secretary as to preclude any reasonable hope of reversing the Secretary's decision, thereby vesting final authority in an executive officer...

The other facet to which Sen. Allott refers is that portion of the Dodd anti-firearms bill which empowers the Secretary of the Treasury to disapprove the importation of any new firearms if the Secretary or his agent believe the importation would be "contrary to the public interest."

This bill if enacted would give the Secretary of the Treasury, or his delegate, unlimited power to surround all sales of guns and ammunition with arbitrary and burdensome restrictions.

BACKGROUND ON SECRETARY OF TREASURY

On April 1, 1965, Henry H. Fowler officially replaced Douglas Dillon as Secretary of the Treasury. Both Dillon and his successor, Fowler, are members of the semi-secret Council on Foreign Relations one of whose principle aims is promoting secret negotiations with Communist Russia and the unilateral disarmament of the United States of America.

Under the Dodd bill, CFR member Henry H. Fowler would be granted unprecedented and virtually unlimited power to control the guns of individual Americans.

There is little doubt that the promoters of the Dodd anti-firearms bill are well aware that imposing such oppressive restrictions on the legitimate use of firearms in the hands of law-abiding citizens will ultimately result in totally discouraging and eventually eliminating the private ownership of all guns.

REGISTRATION OF GUNS PRELUDE TO TYRANNY

The August, 1946, issue of the AMERICAN RIFLEMAN revealed that in May, 1919, a group of Allied intelligence officers raided the headquarters of a revolutionary group in Dusseldorf, Germany. One of the documents they seized was entitled "Rules for Bringing About a Revolution" and contained the following instructions:

> Cause the registration of all firearms on some pretext, with a view to confiscating them and leaving the population helpless.

The restrictions proposed in the Dodd bill amount to Federal registration of all guns traveling in interstate commerce.

Let us review what has happened in other nations where guns of law-abiding citizens were registered by the government.

It is a major tenet of subversive philosophy to obtain a legal means by which a national citizenry can be disarmed. The Fascist dictator Mussolini used firearms registration to disarm all those who opposed him.

It was the Nazi dictator Adolph Hitler who said:

> The most foolish mistake we could possibly make would be to allow the subject races to possess arms. History shows that all conquerors who have allowed their subject races to carry arms have prepared their own downfall by so doing.

Poland, the Low Countries, France, Denmark, Norway and Czechoslovakia all had firearms registration laws prior to World War II. As the Nazi hordes swept over Europe they merely confiscated the firearms registration lists in the various countries and seized all registered private guns.

Because of restrictive Firearms Acts in England, the British found themselves virtually without personal weapons as they faced the German armies across the English Channel in 1940. There followed an urgent request from Great Britain to the United States for small arms for its citizenry. In his book, Their Finest Hour, Winston Churchill described the 200,000 rifles shipped by the U.S. to England. Stated Winston Churchill:

> When the ships from America approached our shores with their priceless arms, special trains were waiting in all the ports to receive their cargoes....By the end of July we were an armed nation, so far as parachute or airborne landings were concerned. We had become a "hornet's nest." Anyhow, if we had to go down fighting (which I did not anticipate), a lot of our men and some women had weapons in their hands.

If we the citizens of the United States are gradually denied our Constitutional right to "keep and bear arms," in the case of an enemy attack on us could we count on any nation in the world shipping guns to our citizens as we supplied British civilians in 1940?

DISARM CRIMINALS — NOT LAW-ABIDING CITIZENS!

On May 20, 1965, Congressman Bob Casey, in opposing the Dodd anti-firearms bills, declared on the floor of the House:

> It is the criminal — not the 40,000,000 law-abiding gun owners in our Nation — who is causing our gravest domestic problem.

Congressman Casey went on to state that an attempt is being made "to stampede this Congress into passing legislation to create a morass of red tape through which the law-abiding citizen must wade, and ignoring completely any effort to strike at the criminal."

Congressman Casey then introduced a bill which strikes at the root of the crime problem in this Nation. If passed into law, it would disarm the criminal without harassing legitimate gun owners and infringing upon the Constitutional right of law-abiding citizens to keep and bear arms.

WHAT YOU CAN DO

The Dodd anti-firearms bill did not come up for a vote during 1965 or 1966. However, on February 9, 1967, Senator Dodd re-introduced this bill and it was assigned the number of S. 1. Congressman Bob Casey likewise introduced an anti-firearms bill, but Congressman Casey's bill is aimed at disarming criminals – not disarming law-abiding citizens.

According to Congressman Casey's bill, H. R. 360:

> Whoever during the commission of any robbery, assault, murder, rape, burglary, kidnaping or homicide (other than involuntary manslaughter), uses or carries any firearm which has been transported in interstate or foreign commerce shall be imprisoned –
> (1) in the case of his first offense, for not less than ten years;
> (2) in the case of his second offense, for not less than twenty-five years.

If you oppose S. 1. – the Dodd bill – which provides a foot-in-the-door for other legislation which will ultimately deprive American citizens of their Constitutional right to keep and bear arms, then here is what you can do:

(1) Send your Congressman a copy of this pamphlet together with a short note or letter from you urging him to vote for the Casey bill, H. R. 360.

(2) Buy extra copies of this pamphlet and mail, together with a note or personal letter, to your two Senators urging them to vote against S. 1., the Dodd bill.

(3) Distribute extra copies of this pamphlet to your friends and neighbors, civic club members, rifle club members, urging that they likewise write their Congressman and two Senators.

– – Proof of Communist Influence on U.S. Policies – –

This pamphlet was originally published in 1965. Of course, the documented facts contained herein remain the same in 1968. Therefore, this 1968 revision deals only with (1) changing the number of countries which at the end of 1967 are members of the United Nations (an increase of five), and, (2) listing the present key policy-making positions held in the Federal Government by members of the Council on Foreign Relations, proving the ever-increasing influence of the CFR.

In this pamphlet you will see the chilling parallel between the aims of leading Liberal organizations such as the Council on Foreign Relations and those of the Communist Party, USA. You will also see lists of those individuals who belong to these Communist-paralleling organizations. Finally, this pamphlet proves that no matter which party occupies the White House, the policies of the U.S. Government, both domestic and foreign, are ominously similar to those advocated by the Communist Party, USA.

SOCIALISM EQUALS COMMUNISM

Gus Hall, leading spokesman for the Communist Party, USA, in addressing 6,500 students at the University of Hawaii on October 23, 1964, declared:

> So let me say again: We, the Communists of the United States, are Americans who are convinced that Socialism and Communism provide the answers for the basic problems now developing from Capitalism.

Recognizing that strict adherence to the U.S. Constitution would prevent the legal Socialization of the United States, Gus Hall, in his address at the University of Hawaii previously referred to, stated:

> For our part, we (that is, the Communists) are working towards a constitutional change to Socialism.

In other words, a basic tenet of the Communist program is to pressure Congress into doing the bidding of the Communist Party in order to bring about, by so-called "constitutional change," the establishment of a Socialist government in the United States.

Discussing the present modus operandi of the Communist Party, the vigorously anti-Communist newsletter, *THE DAN SMOOT REPORT, on September 27, 1965, pointed out that Communists no longer advocate Communism in the United States. Rather, they advocate the programs of Liberalism, knowing that completion of Liberal programs means completion of the Socialist revolution.

Proving the close relationship between the Communist Party, USA, and the Liberals, Communist chieftain Gus Hall, at a banquet on October 18, 1964, said:

> We look upon all forces on the Left as brothers and sisters in struggle. We therefore urge a new look by all of us on the question of organizing and promoting a united Left that will begin to determine the course of our country.

One of the "forces on the Left" is a group known as Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) describing itself as "a Liberal, independent political organization" which "works to strengthen Liberal tendencies in both parties and oppose Conservative policies in both."

LEGISLATIVE RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE COMMUNIST PARTY

The following recommendations are excerpted from the 1954 draft platform of the Communist Party, USA, as well as from editorials and authorized policy statements appearing in issues of THE WORKER, official publication of the Communist Party, USA. These are direct quotes unless otherwise noted:

DOMESTIC POLICY

(1) Abolish the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

(2) Abolish passport controls. (NOTE: This would permit free travel by Communists to Red Cuba and other Communist countries.)

(3) A militant struggle by labor to raise wages on all levels.

(4) A Federal health program. Establish Social Security and health insurance for the aged as well as all others.

(5) A substantial increase in unemployment and old age benefits.

(6) Wage a war on poverty.

(7) Decent housing and living conditions for the 77 million Americans who now live in poverty.

(8) A monumental urban renewal program.

(9) Federal housing program.

(10) Federal aid to education.

(11) Repeal Section 14(b) of the Taft-

*P.O. Box 9538, Lakewood Station, Dallas Texas. 75214.

Hartley Act. (NOTE: This is the section which guarantees to individuals the right to work without having to join a union.)

(12) Civil Rights

(a) Withhold all Federal financial assistance to states which violate or deny the...rights of any section of its citizens. (NOTE: This was incorporated in the Civil Rights Act of 1964.)

(b) Establishment of a FEPC applying to private industry and employment as well as to public. (NOTE: This was urged by the Communist Party in 1963 and incorporated in President Johnson's Civil Rights bill of 1964.)

On the critical issue of Civil Rights, Communist Claude Lightfoot, in an article in THE WORKER of September 12, 1965, crowed over the extent of Communist influence in the Civil Rights movement. Stated Lightfoot:

> In the struggle to obtain first class citizenship for black Americans, American Communists, black and white, have much to be proud of and nothing to be ashamed of, for ours is a glorious record of achievements.
> ....The existence of Soviet power has helped to provide the setting, out of which Negro demonstrators can now march through streets of big metropolises of our nation chanting slogans such as "Freedom Now!"

LEGISLATIVE RECOMMENDATIONS OF AMERICANS FOR DEMOCRATIC ACTION

When reading the following list, note point by point the alarming similarity between the aims of this purportedly respectable Liberal organization, the ADA, with those advocated by the Communist Party, USA.

This list of legislative recommendations is based on public statements by ADA spokesmen and official publications of the Americans for Democratic Action.

DOMESTIC POLICY

(1) Abolition of the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

(2) Removal of passport controls "based on beliefs or association." (NOTE: Such as membership in the Communist Party.)

(3) Raise the minimum wage from $1.25 to $2.00 an hour.

(4) Universal health insurance program, not limited to the aged.

(5) More liberal Social Security and public assistance benefits.

(6) More Federal funds for the war on poverty.

(7) More funds for the Area Redevelopment Act to provide for rehabilitation of distressed communities.

(8) Adopt a ten-year program of Federal aid to urban renewal and development.

(9) Enlarge the public housing program.

(10) A massive broad-scale program of Federal aid to education beginning with pre-school age children and continuing through adult education.

(11) Repeal Section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley Act.

(12) Civil Rights

(a) Elimination of discrimination and segregation in the sale and rental of housing accommodations, both public and private.

(b) Increased public housing program with full integration of facilities.

(c) The elimination of segregation in public schools and positive action to bring about integration.

FOREIGN POLICY COMMUNIST PARTY, U.S.A.

(I) GENERAL

(a) Mutually advantageous cooperation among states (that is, nations) based on peaceful co-existence.*

(b) Sooner than we realize, mankind will have smashed Capitalism...The advent of world Socialism, now standing historically at our doors, in fact, already across the threshold, will liberate man from his ages-long slavery...

(II) UNITED NATIONS

The United Nations and its Security Council are essential international organs and they must express the peaceful hopes of the people.

The United Nations can, of course, be regarded as a useful instrument.*

(NOTE: Khrushchev's enthusiasm over the "usefulness" of the U.N. is readily understandable in view of the fact that the now Communist-dominated U.N. has failed to significantly prevent Soviet aggression since the U.N. was founded in 1945.)

(III) DISARMAMENT

The need to press for a policy of disarmament has become a critical need.... Every opportunity for world disarmament must be utilized.**

(IV) FOREIGN AID

The extension of credit to bolster world trade and to help overcome the hunger and under-development of the colonial lands.***

Also, the Communists encourage U.S. foreign aid because it paves the way in "under-developed" countries for Red take-over.)

(V) RECOGNIZING RED CHINA

Recognition of the Chinese Peoples' Republic (Red China) and its admission to the U.N.*

(VI) TRADE WITH REDS

Trade with Capitalistic countries is absolutely essential for us.

It is to the best interests of our people to replace the trade blockade against the Socialist (that is, Communist) countries with a policy of large-scale trade.

(VII) VIET NAM

Cease all attacks upon North Viet Nam! Withdraw American troops from South Viet Nam.*

FOREIGN POLICY
AMERICANS FOR DEMOCRATIC ACTION

The following statements are excerpted from an official brochure entitled "A Program for Americans, 1964," published by Americans For Democratic Action:

(I) GENERAL

(a) ...a community of effort for collective actions broad enough to encompass the ideals and hopes, and allay the fears, of all the peoples.

(b) Our ultimate goal is the creation of a world community.

(II) UNITED NATIONS

Strengthening the U.N. is imperative.

(III) DISARMAMENT

Our aim must be to achieve general and complete disarmament.

We suggest that our Government undertake further unilateral initiatives which might improve the atmosphere for multilateral disarmament negotiations.

(IV) FOREIGN AID

Massive financial and technical assistance in under-developed areas.

Decreasing emphasis on military and increasing emphasis on other forms of aid.

(V) RECOGNITION OF RED CHINA

Immediate initiation...of negotiations toward diplomatic recognition of the Peiping regime and its accreditation to the U.N.

*Front-page editorial in THE WORKER of November 8, 1964.

*Gus Hall in THE WORKER of February 9, 1965.

(VI) TRADE WITH THE REDS

Further liberation of foreign trade policy. (NOTE: meaning trade with Communist countries.)

(VII) VIET NAM

A cease-fire in Viet Nam, the withdrawal of U.S. forces, and the "neutralization" of the former Indo-Chinese states. Cease all bombing of North Viet Nam in order to "facilitate" Communist acceptance of an invitation to attend a conference.*

(NOTE: The purpose of such a conference would be to establish a Communist-controlled coalition government.

THE COUNCIL ON FOREIGN RELATIONS

Eastern intellectuals of the Conservative wing of the Republican Party who enthusiastically attack the Liberalism of the ADA are strangely silent regarding the Council on Foreign Relations.

This is obviously due to the fact that leading members of the modern Republican faction, which now controls the policy-making functions of the Republican Party, are members of the Council on Foreign Relations.

Following is a list of a few prominent Republicans who are, or have been, members of the Council on Foreign Relations:

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower
Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon
New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller
Michigan Governor George Romney
New York City Mayor John V. Lindsay
Thomas Dewey
Henry Cabot Lodge
General Lucius D. Clay
Senator Jacob Javits

THE DAN SMOOT REPORT of July 20, 1964, describes the Council on Foreign Relations as:

> ....an elite who set policies of our Federal Government; and, through a vast interlocking combine of educational and opinion-forming agencies, they influence or control propaganda which persuades Congress and the public to accept the policies....
> The ultimate aim of the Council on Foreign Relations is the same as the ultimate aim of international Communism: to create a one-world Socialist system and make the United States an official part of it.

With the foregoing in mind, compare the aims of the Council on Foreign Relations

FOREIGN POLICY RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE COUNCIL ON FOREIGN RELATIONS

Following are recommendations of the Council on Foreign Relations according to Study #7, published by the CFR on November 25, 1959, and later submitted to the U.S. Senate Committee on Foreign Relations: (These are direct quotes unless otherwise noted.)

(I) GENERAL

(a) Build a new international order (which) must be responsive to world aspirations for peace, (and) for social and economic change..., an international order..., including states (nations) labeling themselves as "Socialist." (Emphasis added)

(b) Our broader and ultimate objective... is a universal community of nations.*

(II) UNITED NATIONS

Maintain and gradually increase the authority of the U.N.

(NOTE: As of December 11, 1967, the U.N. consisted of 122 countries, a number of which were recently carved out of jungles in Africa and Asia and self-constituted as "nations." These new countries immediately lined themselves up with the Afro-Asian bloc in the U.N. which is controlled by the Soviet Union.)

(III) DISARMAMENT

The U.S. should fully explore Soviet proposals for complete or partial disarmament.... Efforts to resolve political conflicts with Communist powers should occur simultaneous with, NOT prior to disarmament negotiations. (Emphasis by the CFR)

Negotiate on these problems perhaps directly with the U.S.S.R., in secret...

(IV) FOREIGN AID

More ambitious, longer term U.S. economic aid programs (which) avoid making such aid contingent upon political commitments to the West. (Emphasis added)

A long-term program should be devised in an international forum (NOTE: meaning the Communist-dominated United Nations) to help solve the world's food supply problem.

(V) RECOGNITION OF RED CHINA

Channels must exist to communicate with the Communist regimes, including that of Communist China...at the highest level, but not public performances. (NOTE: In other words, secret dealings with Red China.)

(VI) TRADE WITH THE REDS

Expanded trade in non-strategic goods between Western nations and the European Soviet bloc can have a useful impact on overall East-West relations, and is definitely indicated for the future.*

(NOTE: There is no such thing as "non-strategic" trade, inasmuch as any trade with the Soviet Union strengthens its economy and thereby its war-making ability.)

*Statement on January 31, 1962, by Assistant Secretary of State for International Organizations Affairs, Harlan Cleveland, Member of the Council on Foreign Relations.

HOW CONGRESS IS CARRYING OUT THE AIMS OF THE COMMUNIST PARTY, U.S.A.

Following are bills passed by Congress during the Kennedy and the Johnson administrations which had been urged and/or had the full support of the Communist Party, USA, and its political handmaiden, the group known as Americans for Democratic Action:

DOMESTIC POLICY

(a) Minimum wage increased.

(b) Medicare, financed through Social Security.

(c) Increase in Social Security benefits.

(d) Funds for "war on poverty."

(e) Funds for area redevelopment.

(f) Funds for urban renewal.

(g) Funds for Federal housing.

(h) Federal aid to (and thus, control of) elementary and secondary schools.

(i) Repeal of Section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley Act which guarantees the right to work. (Passed the House in 1965 but was held up in the Senate.)

(j) Civil Rights legislation concerning public accommodations, private businesses, the suspension of literacy tests as a requirement for voter registration in States which supported Goldwater in 1964, and outlawing segregation in schools receiving Federal funds.

FOREIGN POLICY

The following bills, carrying out the aims of the Council on Foreign Relations, Americans for Democratic Action and the Communist Party, USA, were also passed:

(a) Funds for the Communist-dominated United Nations, including purchase of U.N. bonds to finance U.N. aggression against the anti-Communist Congo.

(b) Funds to support the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency whose function is to explore means for unilateral disarmament of the U.S. and to soften up the American people to accept the disarmament of our national defenses.

(c) Longer term foreign aid with a provision to allow shipment of foreign aid to Communist countries.

(d) Authorization of use of taxpayers' funds to finance sale of wheat to Communist Russia.

*Statement by Senator Jacob K. Javits before the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, February 24, 1965. Senator Javits is a member of the Council on Foreign Relations.

The July-August, 1965, issue of AMERICAN OPINION magazine of which Robert Welch (founder of The John Birch Society) is editor, carried a section entitled "Scoreboard 1965." The "Scoreboard" estimated the present degree of Communist influence, or control, over the economic and political affairs of the nations of the world and stated that the degree of such Communist influence over U.S. policies is now from 60% to 80%.

In view of the foregoing documented facts outlining the aims of the Communist Party, USA, plus the record of how the U.S. Congress is carrying out these Communist aims, it could well be that Robert Welch's estimate of 60% to 80% Communist influence on U.S. policies is an understatement!

A.D.A. INFILTRATION OF JOHNSON ADMINISTRATION

Following is a list of members of the Communist-paralleling Americans for Democratic Action who hold, or have held, positions in the Johnson Administration:

Hubert H. Humphrey, Vice President of the United States
Chester Bowles, Ambassador to India
Philip H. Coombs, Asst. Secretary of State for Educational and Cultural Affairs
Thomas K. Finletter, Permanent Representative to NATO
Orville L. Freeman, Secretary of Agriculture
W. Averell Harriman, Ambassador-at-Large
Howard Morgan, Member of Federal Power Commission
Wilbur Nestigen, Under Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare
Robert C. Weaver, Administrator, Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency
G. Mennen Williams, Asst. Secretary of State for African Affairs
Harris L. Wofford, Special Assistant to the President

C.F.R. INFILTRATION OF EISENHOWER ADMINISTRATION

The Council on Foreign Relations never settles for second-best. Rather, it demands and gets its members into key positions in the policy-making functions of the U.S. Government, regardless of which party is in power.

The following CFR members held positions in Eisenhower's Republican Administration:

Dwight D. Eisenhower, President of the United States
Richard M. Nixon, Vice President of the United States
John Foster Dulles, Secretary of State
Christian A. Herter, Secretary of State*
Douglas Dillon, Under Secretary of State for Economic Affairs
Robert Murphy, Deputy Under Secretary of State for Political Affairs
Livingston T. Merchant, Asst. Secretary of State for European Affairs
Joseph C. Satterthwaite, Asst. Secretary of State for African Affairs
Francis O. Wilcox, Asst. Secretary of State for International Organization Affairs
Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations
Allen W. Dulles, Director of Central Intelligence Agency
Robert B. Anderson, Secretary of the Treasury
Thomas S. Gates, Secretary of the Navy
James P. Mitchell, Secretary of Labor
Nelson A. Rockefeller, Under Secretary, Department of Health, Education and Welfare
John A. McCone, Chairman, Atomic Energy Commission
James J. Wadsworth, U.S. Representative on Disarmament

C.F.R. MEMBERS IN THE JOHNSON ADMINISTRATION

Proving that the Communist-accommodating Council on Foreign Relations is now increasing its influence, the following members of the CFR hold, or held, these top policy-making positions in the Johnson Democratic Administration:*

Hubert Humphrey, Vice President of the United States
Dean Rusk, Secretary of State
Henry H. Fowler, Secretary of Treasury
Alexander B. Trowbridge, Secretary of Commerce

Richard F. Pedersen, Deputy U.S. Representative to the U.N. Security Council

Walter M. Kotschnig, Deputy U.S. Representative on the U.N. Economic and Social Council

William S. Gaud, Administrator, Agency for International Development (foreign aid)

William P. Bundy, Asst. Secretary of State for East Asian and Pacific Affairs

John M. Leddy, Asst. Secretary of State for European Affairs

Lincoln Gordon, Asst. Secretary of State for Inter-American Affairs and U.S. Coordinator, Alliance for Progress

NIXON AND THE C.F.R.

In 1967, Richard Nixon was claiming he was no longer a member of the Council on Foreign Relations. However, for proof of how Nixon parrots the Communist-accommodating line of the CFR, see TAX FAX No. 8 entitled "Nixon... Puppet of the Eastern Kingmakers."

WHAT YOU CAN DO

The Eastern kingmakers can be expected to be very active during the coming presidential campaign. President Lyndon Johnson, although not yet an official CFR member, is acceptable to the CFR because he is carrying out their Communist accommodating policies. Therefore, the CFR will devote its unlimited financial resources to promoting its candidates for the GOP nomination: Nixon or Rockefeller. In this way the CFR hopes to continue to direct the policies of both parties.

Abraham Lincoln said it: "Let the people know the facts and the country will be saved."

Therefore, if you want to do something to put a halt to the CFR's America-destroying-plans – BUY and DISTRIBUTE extra copies of this pamphlet.

What Wallace's 10 Million Votes Mean for the Future

Dear Friend:

When THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN, then called FREE MEN SPEAK, published its first issue in January 1955, it carried on the front page a statement entitled "Our Policy" as follows:

> "This newspaper is dedicated to the defeat of the Socialist and Communist influences that now pervade the thinking and the policies of our Federal Government and the two major political parties. We believe that there is no difference between a New Deal Democrat and a Socialist-Internationalist Republican.
> This newspaper will promote all individuals and organizations who believe that a new political party based on Constitutional States Rights is the answer to the Socialism that has captured both (formerly great) parties."

(This same statement has appeared in all 98 issues of THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN since 1955.)

At that time a meaningful third party was only a seemingly hopeless dream, the advocacy of such a party, however, being the only policy we could in good conscience pursue.

Thirteen years of unceasing effort were to pass before 1968 when former Alabama Governor George C. Wallace took the reins of leadership and managed to get his American Independent Party on the ballot in all 50 States and garnered almost 10 million votes on Election Day, November 5.

The reason for the founding of THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN in 1955 was to oppose the Socialist, soft-on-Communism policies of Republican Dwight D. Eisenhower who at that time occupied the White House. (It will be recalled that in 1952 Eisenhower was overwhelmingly elected because of his Conservative, anti-Communist campaign speeches and promises -- promises he quickly forgot once elected.)

And now, Republican Richard Nixon has been elected and has pledged to carry out policies similar to those of the Eisenhower regime, policies which THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN vigorously opposed during the years 1955-1960.

COMPARE GOLDWATER'S 28 MILLION VOTES IN 1964 WITH WALLACE'S ALMOST 10 MILLION IN 1968:

When Republican Barry Goldwater ran on a platform of Conservative principles in 1964:

(1) He had at his disposal and working enthusiastically for him the professionally organized GOP political machinery in all 50 States.

(2) Goldwater had GOP commissioners in all precincts -- also poll watchers.

(3) Goldwater had the editorial support of leading daily newspapers in key Southern and border States.

(Please turn to other side.....)

(4) He also had the support of Conservative publications such as HUMAN EVENTS and NATIONAL REVIEW.

Not only did Goldwater receive the vote of all Conservatives (both Democrat and Republican)--he also received a goodly number of those who traditionally vote the Republican ticket regardless of who is the candidate.

On the other hand:

When anti-Communist George Wallace ran as the presidential candidate of his American Independent Party in 1968:

(1) Wallace had no time to build or organize a national political machine to get out the vote for him.

(2) Wallace's newly organized third party did not have sufficient time to see to it that commissioners were on hand at all the voting precincts -- nor did he have his party's poll watchers in all 50 States to guarantee that votes cast for him were accurately tabulated. (How many Wallace votes were stolen because there were not enough Wallace poll-watchers on hand, is a question which will never be answered.)

(3) Wallace did not receive the support of key daily newspapers in crucial border States. Rather, they editorialized against him. (But more on that later.)

(4) Wallace was attacked and maligned by both HUMAN EVENTS and NATIONAL REVIEW as well as syndicated newspaper columnists representing the Eastern-based "Conservative establishment."

And yet, in spite of all the foregoing, Wallace managed to get almost 10 million votes!

THE REASON WHY WALLACE DID NOT CARRY THE BORDER STATES

Although Hubert Humphrey, Richard Nixon and George Wallace in the closing days of the campaign each asserted, as do all candidates for public office, that he would win outright, nevertheless it was generally conceded by experienced political observers that the race would be very close indeed between HHH and Nixon. The only hope of outright victory for either Humphrey or Nixon lay in their carrying several of the border States. On the other hand, Wallace's only chance as the third-party candidate was to gain enough votes so that neither major candidate would receive a majority of the vote and thus the election would have been "thrown into the House of Representatives." To do this, Wallace had to carry all Southern States as well as some crucial border States. And, in the opening hours of the vote tabulation on Tuesday night, November 5, Wallace was doing just that! But as the hours wore on, the tide changed and Nixon began to gain in the border States.

Why? I now know. I have just finished reading the editorials in leading Conservative newspapers from the key border States which were written as the campaign drew to a close. They all echoed the same theme: "A vote for Wallace is a vote for Humphrey because if the election is thrown into the House a Democratic Congress will elect Humphrey. Therefore, vote for Nixon." Because these were Conservative newspapers, they were trusted by their readers and so their readers did just that! They marched to the polls and voted for Nixon -- instead of voting according to their consciences. Even so, a total of 2,093,611 uncompromising voters in the States of Florida, Kentucky, Maryland, North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee did their own thinking and despite the exhortations of Republican Strom Thurmond and the Conservative newspapers in their area to vote for Nixon because "only Nixon could win," went to the polls and voted for Wallace.

PROOF OF WALLACE SUPPORT

Although Wallace did not receive editorial support from leading daily newspapers (with their great influence over their readers), Wallace, nevertheless, did not lack for funds in his presidential bid. It is reported by even the Leftwing press that Wallace received in the neighborhood of $9 million for his presidential campaign to cover TV appearances, campaign rallies, etc.

That is certainly a sizeable sum, and it resulted in the entire Nation being given the opportunity, via TV in the election year of 1968, to hear Wallace's Conservative, anti-Communist message which was first espoused by THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN Newspaper in January, 1955.

WHAT THE WALLACE CANDIDACY PROVED

Of course, votes cast for Wallace were votes cast for his Conservative, anti-Communist principles. Votes for Nixon were votes cast against the Liberalism of Humphrey. Therefore, what we see here is a "de facto coalition of protest" on the part of the American people who actually registered a vote of "no confidence" in the Liberal policies of the Johnson Administration. This protest vote amounted to 57 percent versus only 43 percent in favor of Liberal, Socialist, soft-on-Communism policies. Truly, this is a tremendous victory for the Conservative Cause!

THE FUNCTION OF THIRD PARTIES

A November 5 editorial in the SHREVEPORT (La.) JOURNAL (one of the handful of daily papers which supported Wallace for President) stated:

> "Whatever the outcome -- win, lose, or draw -- it is certain that George Wallace has established his American Independent Party as a third major political force which will wield a great influence on Presidential elections for many years to come."

Wallace, immediately following the election, stated:

> "If we had not been in the race some of the statements by the other two candidates would never have been made, and some that were made would not have been as emphatic."

Wallace was referring to the fact that Nixon, as the campaign drew to a close, felt compelled to make some seemingly Conservative-sounding statements.

It will be recalled that the Socialist Party candidate, Norman Thomas, ran for the Presidency in 1932 and only gained 884,649 votes, a percentage of 2.2 of the total votes cast. Yet so great was the influence that the Socialist Party registered on the Democratic Party, and later on the Republican Party, that Norman Thomas, the perennial Socialist Party candidate, in 1960, I believe it was, declared that because both the Democratic and Republican parties had adopted his views, there was no longer any need for him to run.

And, if we go back a century or more ago, it will be recalled that John C. Fremont was chosen in 1856 as the presidential candidate of the fledgling Republican Party (which, incidentally, started as a third party!) This was the first time the Republican Party had entered the presidential race. Fremont was not elected. But four years later the Republican Party's candidate, Abraham Lincoln, won the election!

WALLACE AND THE FUTURE

An indication of the stature of Wallace's bid for the Presidency is the fact that he was able to persuade the highly respected founder of the Strategic Air Command, General Curtis E. LeMay, to accept the slot as Vice Presidential candidate of the American Independent Party ticket. In an after-election statement,

(Please turn to other side.....)

General LeMay said:

"I feel we made a tremendous impact on America and it is going to be felt for a long time."

An article by William Kling of the Chicago Tribune Press Service immediately following the election reported his interview with George Wallace. According to this news story:

"Politically, Wallace pointed to his 10 million votes as an adequate base on which to continue his movement. He noted that Nixon held no political office between his service as Vice President which ended in 1961, and his election yesterday."

Kling quoted Wallace as stating:

"Our movement is still in existence and our movement will continue."

AP correspondent Jules Loh, who travelled on the Wallace campaign trail, in a column on November 6 reported that Wallace said he had no political plans for the future either on a State or National level, and that he was going to practice law in Alabama. As I see it, what this means is that Wallace is not going to run for any office (such as U. S. Senator or the Governorship of Alabama) in the future. Wallace knows he can win any election in his State. So, when he says he is going to "practice law," I can only view it to mean that he is going to "practice law" like Nixon did while he, Nixon, was preparing to run for the Presidency in 1968.

Wallace, who has been in politics all of his adult life, well knows the need for political organization from the precinct level on up. I would, therefore, interpret his statement to mean that he intends to spend the next four years organizing his American Independent Party on a permanent basis nationwide!

BECOME A "NIXON WATCHER" AND WATCH HIM BOW DOWN TO THE LIBERAL CONTROLLERS OF THE G.O.P.!

The election is over. Nixon won. Now he can relax. He no longer has to maintain the pretense that he harbors Conservative views in order to attract the Conservative vote on Election Day.

Well, well, now what was it those Conservative newspapers in the border States told their readers prior to the election? As quoted in this letter, they warned: "A vote for Wallace is a vote for Humphrey." It didn't take Nixon long -- three days in fact -- to prove that "A vote for Nixon was a vote for Humphrey."

A news dispatch by Walter Mears, AP writer who accompanied Nixon on the campaign route from the beginning, reported on November 8:

"Richard M. Nixon and Hubert H. Humphrey conferred Friday, joined in urging national unity, and the Republican President-elect said he will be calling on his beaten Democratic rival for advice, counsel and assistance in the years ahead."

A column by syndicated columnists Evans and Novak on November 11 revealed the following:

"An approach through veiled intermediaries is now being made by Nixon to the man he squeaked by in last week's election -- Hubert H. Humphrey. Nixon wants Humphrey in some capacity, possibly Ambassador to the United Nations, not just as a token of bipartisanship in foreign policy but to dramatize Nixon's intention to run a coalition government."

On November 11, Nixon met with LBJ at the White House to discuss Vietnam and other foreign policy problems. According to a column by AP correspondent Walter Mears, Nixon said:

"If there is to be progress in foreign affairs it can come only if the Communist world realizes that Johnson is fixing policies which will be carried on by the new Administration." (Emphasis added).

> "I gave assurance in each instance to the Secretary of State and of course to the President that they could speak not just for this Administration, but for the Nation, and that meant for the next Administration as well."

And so Wallace's oft-repeated statement that there is "not a dime's worth of difference between the two major parties" has already been proven tragically true.

NIXON AND THE C.F.R.

Syndicated columnists Evans and Novak on November 8 predicted:

> "Nixon's Cabinet is expected to be speckled with left-of-center Republicans....John Gardner, the Liberal Republican who served as President Johnson's Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, could have that job back -- or the Urban Affairs portfolio - if he desires."

According to other columnists, it is highly probable that there will be a Rockefeller in Nixon's Cabinet -- either David as Secretary of the Treasury or Nelson as Secretary of Defense. Also mentioned for a Cabinet post is C. Douglas Dillon. All of the foregoing named are members of the Communist-accommodating Council on Foreign Relations. (For documented information of how the policies of the CFR in many cases parallel those of the Communist Party USA, see TAX FAX No. 68, and also my new paperback book, "The CFR.")

An AP dispatch on November 11 reported the views of Dr. Arthur F. Burns who is described as "a leading advisor to President-elect Nixon". Not surprisingly, Dr. Burns is a member of the notorious Council on Foreign Relations.

PLANNING FOR A CONSERVATIVE SWEEP IN 1972

Within three months -- or probably less, the way things are now going -- I predict that Conservative Republicans throughout the Nation, after seeing Nixon in action as President and seeing how totally the CFR controls him, will get a stomach-full and begin to join up with the American Independent Party movement.

Some way, somehow, that bloc of 10 million voters who supported the Conservative, anti-Communist position of George Wallace must be held together as an increasingly powerful political force.

In this regard, THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN can play a useful role. A number of our readers have written us that they are convinced that it was the 13-year advocacy of a third party by the Ind/Am, plus the millions of TAX FAX pamphlets which we have published and distributed since 1956 that helped to mold public opinion and create a favorable climate nationally for the emergence in 1968 of a new party leader - George Wallace. Because of the help he received throughout the country, he was able to get on the ballot in all 50 States.

As a matter of fact, I have just done a tabulation and find that during the period July - October 1968, we here at THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN Headquarters put out more than 1,000,000 (1 million!) pieces of pro-Wallace campaign literature. This includes TAX FAX pamphlets both sold and given away free to small pro-Wallace groups which could not afford to purchase them. In a number of cases we gave permission to organized State groups to reprint our TAX FAX pamphlets for their own distribution. I would therefore estimate that at least 2 million pro-Wallace TAX FAX were in circulation during the campaign. And how many of those pamphlets were read and then passed on to others?

The Socialists worked for many years, day-in-day-out, before they succeeded in taking over the policy-making positions of both the Democratic and Republican parties. Therefore, I would say that what we Conservatives have accomplished in the past 13 years is phenomenal!

WILL "THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN" BE ABLE TO CONTINUE ITS OPERATIONS?

As you know, the work of THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN through the years has been made possible only because of contributions from our subscribers. In many cases, when a political campaign is over, there remains a huge pile of unpaid bills. However, I am happy to say that because of contributions received, we were able to pay all bills that were due in October, and were even able to pay a goodly portion of printing bills for Wallace TAX FAX pamphlets printed in October. However, there still remains to be paid printing bills in the amount of $4,380.35, and of course these bills must be paid as soon as possible. Bills for general operating expenses which were incurred in October have now been received and these also must be paid during November. Funds are also needed for salaries and postage.

By the time you receive this letter I will have completed work on the September-October-November issue of THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN. (After Nixon announces his Cabinet appointments, we will put out a December issue -- thus putting us back on a schedule of six issues a year.) The September-October-November issue will carry, among 40 other articles, an article by me pointing out how Wallace and his American Independent Party can, if his movement is held together now and starts working toward 1972, actually win outright the election four years hence.

Although this new issue will go to press, I have no funds on hand to pay postage to mail it out to our subscribers. Further, additional pamphlets in the TAX FAX series are presently in the idea stage and work will go forward on these as soon as I finish with the paper. Postage will also be needed to mail these out.

WILL YOU HELP?

If you believe that THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN can provide a unifying function in order to help keep that bloc of 10 million Conservative votes together.....If you believe THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN and its TAX FAX pamphlets can serve to help recruit new members for the American Independent Party movement, then I hope that you will wish to contribute as much as you possibly can in order that operations here at THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN Headquarters can not only continue but be stepped up in the months ahead.

Contributions in the amount of $25, $50, $100, $200 and more are urgently needed. However, your desire to participate in this history-making movement will certainly not be measured by the amount of your contribution. Contributions in any amount will be must gratefully welcomed.

My hands are tied. I can do nothing further until I hear from you, and you thus give me and THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN your vote of confidence and faith in our work.....

Here are the three latest TAX FAX pamphlets !

Dear Subscriber of THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN:

Right after the election, The IND/AM received a contribution of $25.00 from a subscriber with an attached letter which opened like this: "Dear Phoebe: Please give Nixon a chance before you start to blast him."

On the surface, my friend's request was certainly most reasonable. On the other hand, how could I "blast Nixon" unless I had the facts in hand? And when I did have those facts -- how could I do anything other than give my subscribers the facts?

Nixon's TV extravaganza announcement of his Cabinet produced no distinct clues of the direction his Administration will take. The only item of note was the fact that there was not a single prominent Conservative among his selections.

But as for Nixon's "advisors": That, indeed, is something else!

Consider this: (1) Daniel P. Moynihan, Nixon's chief advisor on domestic policy, campaigned for Democrat Hubert Humphrey for President; (2) David Packard, appointed by Nixon to be Deputy Secretary of Defense, prior to the GOP nominating convention raised money in California for Rockefeller; and (3) Henry A. Kissinger - Nixon's foreign policy advisor - acted, prior to the Republican convention, in the same capacity for Nelson Rockefeller!

Please see TAX FAX #94 - enclosed - exposing Kissinger whom Nixon appointed as his chief foreign policy advisor.

NIXON AND THE COMMUNIST-DOMINATED UNITED NATIONS

On December 17, 1968, Nixon pledged his support to the U.N.

Because the United Nations has the all-out support of the Liberal press, tragically few of the vast number of American voters are aware of how the U.N. really operates -- and how this supposed "peace-keeping" organization is helping the Communists and hurting anti-Communist nations.

But, even worse than that. How many of your friends know that the Communist-dominated U.N. is now actually making foreign policy for the United States of America? (See enclosed TAX FAX pamphlets, Nos. 95 and 96 for documented proof.)

How Richard Nixon, as President of the United States, handles the issue of the U.N. boycott of anti-Communist Rhodesia, will tell Conservatives all they need to know about the Nixon Administration's basic foreign policy.

Because Nixon later reiterated his December 17 statement of support for the United Nations, it is now ominously obvious that Nixon intends to carry out, to the letter, the aims of the Communist-accommodating

Council on Foreign Relations. (See my new book, "The CFR," for details. Also, see the enclosed TAX FAX No. 94.)

CONSERVATIVES HOLD THE BALANCE OF POWER IN THE U.S.

The Presidential election of 1968 proved conclusively that the Liberal candidate, Hubert Humphrey, lacked the support of the majority of the American voters. Richard Nixon, on the other hand, only topped Humphrey by a little over 500,000 votes out of a total of 63,000,000 votes cast.

In addition, there were those 10,000,000 votes cast for George Wallace because of his Conservative, anti-Communist platform.

The latest news I've received is that throughout the country there are various Wallace-for-President, American Independent Party groups that are holding their organizations together and planning for the future.

But they need "recruiting" literature. These three TAX FAX pamphlets can supply that need. Further, they provide a firm foundation of fact -- impervious to the smears and half-truths of the Liberals and psuedo-Conservatives.

WHAT YOU CAN DO -- IF YOU WISH TO BE A PART OF THIS FIGHT FOR AMERICA

(1) Order bulk copies of the enclosed three new TAX FAX pamphlets, knowing that each pamphlet contains specific suggestions for political-action efforts. Distribute these pamphlets where you think they will be most effective.

(2) If, for any reason you are unable to undertake distribution of the enclosed pamphlets, then you can still be a part of this "citizen political action" movement fighting Communism, by sending in a contribution. The IND/AM will use such contributions to finance mailings to influential groups throughout the country. Also, copies will be sent to small but enthusiastic Wallace groups which lack the finances to purchase them. (Of course, every request for free TAX FAX pamphlets from any group is carefully considered on the basis of how the group plans to use these pamphlets. Many requests are always received but only bona fide requests are shipped.)

THE ANSWER IS UP TO YOU!

TAX FAX Nos. 95 and 96 represent a distillation of a pile of research material four feet high!

TAX FAX No. 94 give you facts organized and put together in a concise format unobtainable anywhere else.

After reading the enclosed pamphlets, if you want to be a part of the anti-Communist movement which supported Wallace for President -- or if you supported Nixon for President but now that you have the facts have changed your mind -- then order today copies of the enclosed pamphlets and/or send in a contribution to our TAX FAX Distribution Fund.

P.S.
The January issue of THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN is now in preparation and will shortly be mailed to you.

TAX FAX No. 95

-- The Truth About Rhodesia --

On November 5, 1965, the United Nations General Assembly adopted a resolution calling on Great Britain to suspend the Rhodesian Constitution and establish a new government, using force if necessary. This resolution had the support of the Afro-Asian bloc in the U.N. (which at that time numbered 59 countries) as well as the support of the Communist bloc countries in Europe. This U.N. action brought Rhodesia to the end of her rope and as a consequence, Rhodesia declared her independence of Great Britain on November 11, 1965.

HYPOCRISY OF CHARGES AGAINST RHODESIA

The U.N.'s action against Rhodesia was the result of a long campaign by the Leftwing press and the Communists who had been charging that Rhodesia should be condemned because hers was a minority government – 200,000 white Rhodesians rule nearly 4 million black Rhodesians. This, according to the Leftwingers, constituted "an outrage to world opinion."

In this regard, Michael Padev, INDIANAPOLIS STAR foreign editor in a column on November 16, 1965, stated:

> But "world opinion" conveniently forgets that minority governments exist not only in Rhodesia. In fact, one of the worst minority governments in the world can be found only a few hundred miles from the U.N. building – in Castro's Cuba.
> The most fiery champions of military action against Rhodesia, the Communists, represent minority governments – in fact, governments based on the smallest minority of people, a dozen or so bosses of the Communist Party machinery.

U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations Arthur Goldberg, in pledging U.S. support to the U.N. action against Rhodesia, stated that "the international community will not tolerate the existence of a discriminatory system based on minority rule." However, as Senator Paul Fannin in a speech to the Senate pointed out: "Fewer than half of all the U.N. members – including the Soviet Union and many of the African nations – have governments clearly based on majority rule."

In attempting to justify U.S. action in siding with the U.N. against Rhodesia, the U.S. State Department claimed that Rhodesian independence constituted "a threat to international peace and stability in Africa." This is absurd! Rhodesia has never had any threatening designs on any other country.

BRIEF FACTS ON THE U.N.

As of November 19, 1968, the U.N. consisted of 126 countries. Each nation has one vote in the U.N. General Assembly. In other words, the Maldive Islands in the Indian Ocean (94,000 population, 115 sq. miles) and Gambia in Africa (324,000 population, 4,000 sq. miles) can outvote the United States two-to-one in the U.N. General Assembly in spite of the fact that together these two countries represent fewer people than live in a single middle-sized American city.

There are nearly two dozen of these tiny countries – sometimes termed "mini-powers" – which pay altogether little more than one half of one percent of the U.N. annual budget. By contrast, the United States, with only one vote, alone pays more than 30 percent each year. The Soviet Union is second with an assessment of more than 17 percent. Yet the Soviet Union has three votes in the U.N. General Assembly, that of the Soviet Union, Byelorussia, and the Ukraine.

A column by Tom Hoge on November 4, 1968, pointed out that the African group of countries "now totals 40 nations (which) may one day control the General Assembly."

U.N. ACTION AGAINST RHODESIA

On November 20, 1965, nine days after Rhodesia declared her independence from Great Britain, the U.N. Security Council called for a worldwide economic boycott against Rhodesia.

In December, 1966, the U.N. Security Council passed a resolution requiring its members to impose sanctions against trade with Rhodesia in selected strategic items.

On May 29, 1968, the U.N. Security Council passed a British-sponsored resolution which imposed total sanctions upon almost all Rhodesian trade. The U.S. cravenly went along with this additional attack upon a free nation. The new boycott ordered an end to all exports and imports to and from Rhodesia except medical supplies, books, news, and propaganda. The resolution cut off all funds for investment and all remittances except for pensions.

According to a UPI dispatch of November 7, 1968:

> The U.N. General Assembly approved a resolution calling on Britain to use force to topple the white-minority regime of Ian Smith in Rhodesia and proposing extension of present U.N. sanctions to Portugal and South Africa.

Thus is seen the blood-thirsty militancy of the U.N., supposedly a peace-keeping organization.

ILLEGALITY OF U.N. ACTIONS

The U.N.'s actions against Rhodesia are totally illegal and constitute a flagrant violation of Article II, Clause 7 of the United Nations Charter itself which states:

> Nothing contained in the present Charter shall authorize the United Nations to intervene in matters which are essentially within the domestic jurisdiction of any state (country) or shall require the members to submit such matters to settlement under the present Charter.

And yet the U.S. Government readily acceded to and cooperated with the patently illegal intervening of the U.N. into the domestic affairs of Rhodesia!

Discussing U.S. support for the British-instigated U.N. blockade of anti-Communist Rhodesia, Congressman Armistead Selden on April 12, 1967, stated:

> We are supporting Great Britain in an economic boycott of Rhodesia. Yet, not only have the British not given us material aid in Southeast Asia, but they have continued to trade with an aggressor (North Vietnam) with whom we fight. Also, they have continued their trade with a nation (Communist Cuba) that advocates the overthrow of every government in the Western Hemisphere.

PRO-COMMUNIST BIAS OF U.N. REVEALED

How can the U.N. possibly justify its embargo against Rhodesia, a nation which has never threatened the territory of any country? At the same time, the U.N. takes no steps against the flow of oil to Communist North Vietnam which is warring against its neighbor, South Vietnam.

Commenting on the hypocrisy of the U.N., Anthony Harrigan in his book "One Against The Mob" stated:

> The U.N. was silent on the rape of Hungary and the genocide that Communist China committed in Tibet. The U.N. averted its gaze while India swallowed Portuguese Goa. It waged war against Katanga, and it refuses to recognize terror and oppression behind the Iron Curtain. But it quickly determined that Rhodesia was "a threat to the peace."

THE TRUTH ABOUT RHODESIA

Through World War II, Rhodesian troops fought shoulder to shoulder with allied forces against the Fascists. The Prime Minister of Rhodesia, Ian Smith, a fighter pilot, was one of the heroes in the aerial battle that saved London from destruction.

Regarding the political views of the Rhodesian government, Congressman H. R. Gross, on March 13, 1968, declared:

> No nation has been more anti-Communist than Rhodesia.

Similarity Between Two Former British Colonies – America and Rhodesia

Britain, the U.N. and the U.S. have refused to recognize Rhodesia's Declaration of Independence. Instead, they consider Rhodesia still a colony of Great Britain.

Discussing this subject, an editorial by William Loeb, publisher of the MANCHESTER (N.H.) UNION LEADER, stated:

> Supposing, back in 1776 when our colonial forefathers wanted their independence from Great Britain, George III had said to the colonies: "You can't have independence unless you provide that the Indians have a majority vote which will control the affairs of the United States of America from now until kingdom come."
> Today, almost 200 years later, that is exactly what the British are saying, in effect, to the 200,000 white people in Rhodesia. They are saying: "You can't be independent unless you allow the black majority to rule you."

Here's how the Lynchburg, Va., NEWS of November 14, 1965, put it:

> The same men who advocate turning a highly civilized nation over to savages are the same men who succeeded in getting enacted a Federal law giving black Americans who cannot read or write a vote in determining the affairs of this Nation.

Leftwing Lie About Rhodesia Denying Voting Rights To Blacks Refuted

An official publication of the Rhodesian Government has declared:

> Rhodesians believe that the reins of government should be held in responsible hands. The colour of those hands is immaterial.... The British government, on the other hand, believe in what they euphemistically term "majority rule," by which they mean black rule, which is blatant racialism.

The Leftwingers have attempted to create the impression that the black man is not allowed to vote in Rhodesia. This was refuted by columnist Ralph de Toledano who visited Rhodesia after its Declaration of Independence. According to Mr. de Toledano:

> The Rhodesian Constitution sets up no racial categories and no system of preferences. The vote is there for any man who has a minimum of education and certain modest property requirements. These apply equally to white or black – and it should be remembered that, in the early days of the American Republic, similar qualifications for the (voting) franchise were required.

The main body of the Rhodesian legislature – 50 seats – is elected on a non-racial basis but, in addition, there is an arrangement whereby voters with much lower qualifications elect a group of 15 members. This special electorate is almost entirely black and therefore guarantees a minimum potential of 15 black seats. The same voters also exercise a qualified but significant influence in elections for the main group of 50 seats. However, if all black Rhodesians had taken up the voting rights that are available to them, they could already have captured all the 15 special seats plus a number of the 50 regular seats, according to a statement by the Government of Rhodesia on October 31, 1965.

In a speech in October, 1967, John G. Kinnear, an American born in Africa, stated:

> Rhodesia currently has 14 African representatives in its Parliament, side by side with her white representatives. Most of them support Ian Smith. Rhodesia's 600 tribal chiefs, to a man, support the Smith government.

Similarity Between American Pioneers And Rhodesian Pioneers

An editorial in the SHREVEPORT (La.) TIMES of November 20, 1965, discussed the history of Rhodesia: Rhodesia was created by white men. Before the European settlers arrived, this California-sized territory was just bush country, sparsely populated by native hunters beset by disease and tribal warfare. Without the advent of white men, it would still be bush country today.

Then the SHREVEPORT TIMES editorial went on to say:

> The English settlers arrived in Rhodesia some 75 years ago in cattle-pulled wagons. They carved out a nation with axe, rifle and plow. There was some fighting with the natives, but nothing like the Indian slaughter that accompanied the westward tide of American expansion. European medicine, care and cleanliness have, in fact, catapulted the black population in Rhodesia from 400,000 in 1900 to four million today.
> Today Rhodesia is prosperous and even-keeled politically. It takes no foreign aid and its sturdy farmers neither want nor need hand-outs from the Rhodesian government.
> Now Britain and the world are asking these men to surrender what they and their fathers have won through industry, sweat and blood.

Who Should Rule Rhodesia?

THE DAN SMOOT REPORT of January 10, 1966, discussed how Britain has, in recent years, been quick to grant independence to all-black British colonies in Africa. Mr. Smoot then went on to state:

> The fourteen British African territories which have been granted independence since 1956 had had little or no experience in self-government. Communist influence in most of them is now strong. In some – such as Tanzania and Ghana – Communists are in control. Most have a primitive economy and culture.

On the other hand, in Rhodesia where black man and white man exist together in peace, the blacks are enjoying education, medical care, housing, and opportunity that have given them the highest living standard in Africa except for that in the Republic of South Africa.

Should Britain, the U.N. and the U.S. succeed in dragging down the government of Rhodesia and turning that government over to the black majority, all of the progress that has been achieved for both races in Rhodesia will be destroyed.

Here's the way Congressman William G. Bray put it in a speech in the U.S. House of Representatives:

> Completely obscured by all the frenzied attacks on Rhodesia is the simple fact that its present Government is not willing to run the risk of seeing the indescribable chaos and horror of the Congo repeated in Rhodesia. The sudden Belgian withdrawal from the Congo led to destruction of that country as a sound, viable unit and caused the deaths of thousands, both black and white.

U.S. SENATORS DENOUNCE U.S. POLICY ON RHODESIA

On January 19, 1967, Senator James O. Eastland of Mississippi addressed the U.S. Senate. Following are excerpts from the resolution he introduced at that time:

> On behalf of myself and the Senator from Arizona (Mr. Fannin) I submit a resolution expressing the sense of the Congress about the treatment of Rhodesia by the U.S. Government:
> ...WHEREAS Rhodesia is not hostile to the United States nor an enemy of the United States either under international law or under the laws of the United States;
> WHEREAS the Prime Minister of Rhodesia has offered Rhodesian troops and supplies to assist the United States in Vietnam;
> WHEREAS, according to the Constitution (Article I, Section 8, Clause 3), only the Congress has power to regulate commerce with foreign nations and the Executive has no legal authority to block trade except under laws which control trading with the enemy;
> WHEREAS the United States Government, without any authority from the Congress or the American people, has adopted and encouraged a stringent policy of economic sanctions against Rhodesia....
> RESOLVED by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That it is the sense of the Congress of the United States that the United States Government immediately cease its inhumane, illegal, arbitrary, unfair, harmful, and costly policy of economic sanctions against Rhodesia...and resume this Nation's former policy of honorable self-interest toward this friendly country.

WHAT YOU CAN DO

If you believe that U.S. official government policy, which cooperates with the dictates of the now Communist-dominated United Nations, poses a distinct threat to our Nation as an independent Constitutional Republic.....

Then here is what you can do:

(1) Write your Congressman and two Senators (if you don't know their names, telephone your local newspaper) and demand an end to the Communist-directed sanctions against anti-Communist Rhodesia.

(2) When writing your Congressman and two Senators, urge them to vote for any legislation which will enable the U.S. to get out of the pro-Red, anti-U.S. United Nations.

The Leftwing press has been careful to not inform the American people regarding the extent of support in Congress to rescind the unilateral, unconstitutional action taken by the U.S. Government in blockading anti-Communist Rhodesia.

You can break this Leftwing "paper curtain" by buying and distributing copies of this TAX FAX pamphlet.

Will Nixon Continue LBJ's Policy of Hurting Our Friends?

How Richard Nixon, as President, handles the "Rhodesia question" will prove:

(1) The extent of control by the United Nations over U.S. foreign policy.

(2) Whether the foreign policy of Republican Nixon differs in any way from that of Democrat Lyndon Johnson.

On December 17, 1968, President-elect Richard Nixon visited the United Nations in New York. Here's how the Associated Press reported that visit:

> As he left the U.N. Secretariat, Nixon said he had particularly wanted to come with Secretary of State-designate William P. Rogers, who accompanied him, "so that by this visit we could indicate our continuing support of the United Nations and our intention in these years ahead to do everything that we can to strengthen this organization...." (Emphasis added)

Thus did the Nixon Administration declare its loyalty to the United Nations, which is now dominated by the Soviet Union, its satellites and the Afro-Asian bloc.

* * * *

On April 9, 1966, the Security Council of the United Nations by unanimous vote of 10–0, made the determination that Rhodesia was "a threat to the peace" and even authorized the use of force to deal with this so-called "threat to the peace." The U.N. attempted to justify its actions against Rhodesia by asserting that the government of Rhodesia is a "minority rule" government. So it is, for the white people in Rhodesia who control the government constitute only about one-twentieth of the population. However, if that were a legitimate basis for intervention by the U.N., what about the "minority" governments in the Soviet Union, Communist Czechoslovakia, Red China and Communist Cuba? Needless to say, the U.N. has taken no action of any kind against these "minority" governments.

On September 27, 1967, Congressman John Rarick (who has visited Rhodesia) inserted in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD a letter written to President Johnson by Chief Sigola of the Sipezini area of Matabeleland in Rhodesia. A portion of the letter follows:

> We know that we black people will be able to take over the government when we are civilized enough to do so, but it would be wrong to do so overnight. We know it will take a long time.

Chief Sigola concluded his letter by stating that he and the Council of Chiefs, who are the elected representatives of the African tribes of Rhodesia, "will stand firmly behind our Prime Minister in any steps which he decides to take."

Needless to say, the black population in Rhodesia, like that in South Africa, has a higher living standard than exists in any of Africa's black-ruled countries.

Because the U.N.'s charges against Rhodesia are absurd, what then is the real reason for the economic warfare the U.N. is waging against Rhodesia?

RHODESIA, BULWARK AGAINST COMMUNISM

THE WORKER, official Communist publication, in its November 21, 1965, issue, carried a statement by the Communist Party USA calling for "full support to the use of the full power of the U.N." against Rhodesia.

The February 1966 issue of WORLD MARXIST REVIEW reminded Communists that they "cannot pause or rest" until the government of Rhodesia "is ousted."

Lin Piao, Mao Tse-tung's Minister of National Defense, in an article in the PEKING REVIEW of September 3, 1965, stated that "the peoples (Communist) revolutionary movement in Asia, Africa and Latin America has been growing vigorously." Communist Piao then went on to say:

> In the final analysis, the whole cause of world revolution hinges on the revolutionary struggles of the Asian, African and Latin American peoples.

Communist strategists have long held the view that Western Europe would not fall to the Communists until they first gained control of Africa.

How the Communists have been gaining control of vast portions of Africa was discussed in THE DAN SMOOT REPORT of January 10, 1966:

> This Communist program is called "liberation of the African masses." Its slogans are decorated with the words "democracy," "freedom," "independence," "majority rule." It is succeeding with the help of the United Nations and of the great Western powers. By exerting pressure on European nations to acquiesce in the Communists' African program, the U.N. and the U.S. have greatly aided Communist conquest: they have provided what is cynically called the "moral force" that has been the prime factor in eliminating white rule in Africa, before the natives qualify for self-rule.

As the European powers pulled out of Africa and handed over power to primitive irresponsible peoples, the countries returned to chaos, barbarism, bloodshed and turmoil.

Britain readily granted independence to primitive, black-ruled colonies who soon fell under Communist influence and control. But Britain, the U.N. and the U.S. took immediate punitive action against white-ruled Rhodesia for one reason only: Rhodesia is vigorously anti-Communist.

RHODESIA OFFERS TROOPS TO HELP U.S. IN VIETNAM

It was in May of 1967 that Ian Smith proved the sincerity of Rhodesia's staunch anti-Communism. At that time, Prime Minister Smith offered to send 5,000 Rhodesian troops into Vietnam to help the United States defeat the Communist North Vietnamese.

In a full-page ad appearing in the NEW YORK TIMES on October 31, 1965, the Government of Rhodesia, just prior to her Declaration of Independence from Britain, offered her friendship to the United States, an expanding market for American exports, as well as:

- Total and unqualified alignment in any confrontation with the Communist world, and
- A strong and determined bulwark against Communist penetration in Africa.

What was the Johnson Administration's response to Rhodesia's offer of friendship and support against the Communist enemy?

U.S. WAGES ECONOMIC WAR ON ANTI-COMMUNIST RHODESIA

On November 12, 1965, the day after Rhodesia announced her independence from Great Britain, the United States announced the slapping of an arms embargo and other tough measures against Rhodesia in support of Britain's efforts to topple Ian Smith's government.

This action by the U.S. Government was in violation of the Export Control Act of 1949 which was amended by Congress in 1965 to read thus:

> The Congress further declares that it is the policy of the United States to oppose restrictive trade practices or boycotts fostered or imposed by foreign countries against other countries friendly to the United States.

Rhodesia is a friendly country – and always has been.

Notwithstanding, on March 18, 1966, the U.S. Commerce Department took additional action against Rhodesia by expanding the list of products that could not be exported to that anti-Communist country.

HURTING OUR FRIENDS AND AIDING OUR ENEMIES

Seven months later, on October 12, 1966, the U.S. Department of Commerce listed approximately 400 items which had just been removed from the restricted list and which U.S. traders can now ship to Communist countries without even an export license!

In addition, certain strategic materials can be shipped to Communist countries if an export license is obtained. Following are just a few strategic items for which the U.S. Commerce Department has granted licenses for shipment to the Soviet Union: airborne communication equipment; diesel engines and spare parts; copper scrap; airborne radar; electrical and electronic equipment and parts; computers which are necessary to the guidance of intercontinental missiles and interpretation of radar warnings.

Thus as is seen that the official policy of the United States Government is (1) to encourage trade with the Soviet Union and its satellite countries which are supplying the materials to North Vietnam that each day kill American soldiers, while at the same time (2) cutting off trade with the friendly and anti-Communist nation of Rhodesia.

CRIMINAL PENALTIES FOR TRADING WITH AN ANTI-COMMUNIST COUNTRY

On January 5, 1967, President Lyndon Johnson issued Executive Order No. 11322 to carry out the economic sanctions against Rhodesia voted by the United Nations Security Council on December 16, 1966. This Executive Order had the effect of stopping more than 80 percent of American imports from Rhodesia.

What is not generally realized is the fact that it is a criminal offense to disobey an Executive Order. Non-compliance can be punished with a ten-year prison term, a $10,000 fine, or both.

Commenting on this subject, the CHATTANOOGA (Tenn.) NEWS–FREE PRESS of August 23, 1968, stated:

> But if you trade with murderous, aggressive Communist Russia that has shocked the world once more by its invasion of Czechoslovakia, you will be subject to no penalties at all.

If ever proof was needed of the extent of power exercised by the Communist-dominated United Nations over U.S. private citizens, this Executive Order should dispel all doubts.

Congress has voted no boycott on Rhodesia. The U.S. Senate has not approved a treaty cutting off trade with Rhodesia. And neither the House nor the Senate has passed a law to imprison Americans for trading with Rhodesia.

What has occurred proves that the United Nations has usurped the powers of Congress.

U.S. EMBARGO ON RHODESIAN CHROME THREATENS OUR NATIONAL DEFENSE

Among the items which Executive Order No. 11322 of January 5, 1967, prohibits from being imported into the United States is metallurgical grade chromite ore from Rhodesia, the key ingredient of chromium and stainless steel.

On October 8, 1968, Senator Thomas B. Curtis pointed out in a Senate speech:

> Through 1965, Rhodesia was the main source of U.S. chromite imports....
> Since the imposition of sanctions against Rhodesia in January 1967, the Soviet Union has become the single largest supplier.

Senator Curtis then went on to state that although the U.S.S.R. has said that it will make 450,000 to 475,000 tons of chromite ore available to the U.S. next year, there is no assurance that the Soviet Union will supply any ore.

Congressman H. R. Gross, on September 28, 1967, had made the similar point on the floor of the U.S. House of Representatives, when he warned:

> I hope that the Members of the House are aware of the next step the Kremlin can take. The U.S.S.R. can simply refuse to sell us chrome ore – as they did during the Korean War – if the Communists decide to put the squeeze on us in Vietnam.

It was Senator Strom Thurmond who on June 10, 1968, declared:

> Evidently, the Administration is willing to allow us to become dependent upon a hostile Communist enemy for a critical material. Without chromite, we cannot produce the sophisticated alloy needed for modern aircraft and weapons. In a protracted conflict, our stockpiles would disappear.

WHO IS RESPONSIBLE FOR OUR SUICIDAL FOREIGN POLICY – AND WHY?

Shocking as are the facts in this pamphlet, remember, they are documented facts.

The first question to arise is "Why?" – to be closely followed by "Who?"

Who has masterminded this sell-out of American interests to such a point that our very national security is in peril?

This same question was raised by Prime Minister Ian Smith of Rhodesia in a letter he wrote to the DAILY ADVANCE of Lynchburg, Va., on April 21, 1966. After setting forth the position of anti-Communist Rhodesia, Prime Minister Smith asked:

> What madness is abroad in the world today? Who, in your Administration, steered the U.S. Government – and therefore, you, the people of America – into supporting Britain's war of trade sanctions and embargoes against a friendly country committed to exactly the same struggle as you are?

As to "who" is directing U.S. foreign policy, there is a simple and brief answer: The Council on Foreign Relations. This is the semi-secret, private organization which has been directing U.S. foreign policy for more than three decades, regardless of which political party occupies the White House.

As for "why" the U.S. Government has adopted a policy of hurting our friends and helping our enemies, that question cannot be so briefly answered. So great are the ramifications of our foreign policy, as dictated by the Council on Foreign Relations, that it is the subject of a recent book by the author of the TAX FAX pamphlet series. This new book is described below:

WHAT WILL NIXON DO?

Article I, Section 8, Clause 3 of the U.S. Constitution vests all authority over the regulation of trade solely in the Congress. Therefore, LBJ's Executive Order No. 11322 is unconstitutional, inasmuch as it was issued without specific Congressional authority.

On January 10, 1967, Congressman James B. Utt introduced a joint resolution which stated in part:

> Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the President of the United States is authorized and directed to notify the United Nations and all other interested parties that the United States will not honor the United Nations sanctions against Rhodesia.
> Section 2: The provisions of Executive Order Numbered 11322, of January 5, 1967, relating to prohibitions against imports of certain commodities from Rhodesia, are hereby rescinded.

Congressman Utt is expected to re-introduce this joint resolution as soon as Congress convenes in January, 1969.

If President Nixon refuses to back Congressman Utt's resolution, or any other resolution which would rescind this Executive Order, Nixon will, in effect, be defying the U.S. Constitution in order to obey the commands of the pro-Red United Nations.

WHAT YOU CAN DO

If you wish to help in this national drive to revoke this disastrous trade policy regarding Rhodesia, here is what you can do:

Write personal letters: (1) to your Congressman and two Senators demanding support of the Utt resolution which would rescind the U.S. embargo on Rhodesia; (2) to editors of your local newspapers; (3) to civic leaders and other opinion-formers in your community. WHY NIXON REFUSED TO DISCUSS FOREIGN POLICY AS A PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE:

BEWARE OF RICHARD NIXON'S FOREIGN POLICY ADVISOR!

Documented proof of how the Communist-accommodating CFR now controls Nixon

TAX FAX No. 94

-- HERE ARE THE FACTS --

On December 11, 1968, President-elect Richard Nixon, in a television spectacular, introduced his cabinet.

Columnists Evans and Novak described the group as "proficient men conspiculously lacking in the kind of glamour that marked the Eisenhower and Kennedy Administrations."

It is noteworthy that the new Cabinet does not include any prominent Conservatives. On the other hand, it does include two Liberal Republican Governors, George Romney of Michigan and John Volpe of Massachusetts, neither of whom carried their States for Nixon.

Because of the makeup of the Cabinet, it was immediately apparent that the Cabinet members would prove to be mere administrators of policies promulgated by the far more influential advisors appointed by Nixon.

C.F.R.'S GRIP ON THE WHITE HOUSE

Because of the publication of books* on the subject, an increasing number of Americans are becoming aware of the tremendous power that is exerted on U.S. foreign policy by the semi-secret organization known as the Council on Foreign Relations.

This control of foreign policy by the CFR began in 1939 and continues regardless of whether the Democrats or the Republicans occupy the White House. In each Administration the CFR manages to place its members in top policy-making positions.

In her book, The CFR, Phoebe Courtney documents the alarming similarity between foreign policy recommendations of the Communist Party USA and the foreign policy recommendations of the Council on Foreign Relations on such subjects as the United Nations, disarmament, foreign aid, recognition of Red China, and trade with Communist countries.

The following themes recur again and again in publications and recommendations of the Council on Foreign Relations, and in publications and speeches by individual members of the CFR:

- The Soviets are "mellowing";
- The way to world peace is through disarmament – even unilateral disarmament on the part of the U.S.
- A trust that Communist Russia will live up to future treaties, disregarding her long record of broken treaties in the past.
- Promoting trade with Communist countries;
- An ultimate partnership between the Soviet Union and the United States resulting in the establishment of a world Socialist government.

The Invisible Government by Dan Smoot, 1962
The CFR by Phoebe Courtney, 1968

NIXON FOLLOWS THE C.F.R. LINE ON U.N.

Another of the aims of the Council on Foreign Relations is to maintain and gradually increase the authority of the United Nations.

On December 17, 1968, Nixon visited the U.N. with Secretary of State-designate William P. Rogers. At that time Nixon pledged "our continuing support of the United Nations and our intention in these years ahead to do everything that we can to strengthen this organization..." (See TAX FAX Nos. 95 and 96 for documented information regarding the Communist-dominated United Nations.)

NIXON'S TOP FOREIGN POLICY ADVISOR – KISSINGER

On December 2, 1968, Nixon announced that he had appointed Harvard Professor Henry A. Kissinger as his assistant for national security affairs to oversee the foreign and defense policy machinery of the White House. Nixon stated that Kissinger will preside over a "revitalizing" of the National Security Council staff aimed at focusing more on foreign-policy planning, shifting operational diplomacy back to the State Department.

It is interesting to note that Kissinger was chosen by Nixon before the Secretary of State was selected. This would certainly put Kissinger closer to the center of power than most top officials in the State Department.

UPI writer, Mike Feinsilber, in a column on December 8 stated:

> In a sense, Kissinger will serve as Nixon's personal State Department as opposed to the actual Secretary of State, a public figure and the director of a vast bureaucracy.

Prior to the selection of William P. Rogers as Secretary of State, William Loeb, publisher of the MANCHESTER (N.H.) UNION LEADER, stated:

> The United States has a Secretary of State and Mr. Nixon will be appointing a new one very shortly and that man is supposed to be in charge of the foreign relations of the United States.
> Then WHY does Mr. Nixon also have to have a foreign relations advisor in the White House?

The answer is: By setting up Kissinger as the key foreign policy presidential advisor, the Council on Foreign Relations will have its man at the pinnacle of government in charge of both the State Department and the Defense Department. In fact, so close are Kissinger's ties to the CFR that he could be called "Mr. CFR."

That the slot of chief White House policy advisor on national security affairs is controlled by the CFR, is obvious from the fact that the man Kissinger will replace – Walt W. Rostow – (LBJ's national security advisor) likewise was a high-ranking member of the Council on Foreign Relations.

BACKGROUND ON KISSINGER

Prior to becoming President Nixon's chief foreign policy advisor, Kissinger was foreign policy advisor to New York Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller during his campaign for the Republican nomination. Indeed, he did all he could to help Governor Rockefeller take the Republican nomination away from Mr. Nixon!

As a consultant, Kissinger served in the Truman, Eisenhower and Kennedy administrations.

Kissinger was born on May 27, 1923, in Fuerth, Germany, and became a naturalized U.S. citizen in 1943. Since 1951, Kissinger has been associated with Harvard University's international seminar and its defense studies program. In 1955 and 1956, Kissinger was the director for nuclear weapons and foreign policy studies in the Council on Foreign Relations. From 1956 until 1958, he was director of a special studies project for the Rockefeller Brothers Fund.

In his column of December 5, Joseph C. Harsch, himself a member of the CFR, stated:

> Politically, Professor Kissinger belongs to the "Eastern Establishment"...
> Kissinger has grown up in the foreign policy group which revolves around the Council on Foreign Relations in New York. Here he came to know, and work with, the whole cluster of top men in banking and industry who make up the true inner core of the so-called "Eastern Establishment."
> A few names in the group are sufficient. It includes John J. McCloy, Douglas Dillon and David Rockefeller.

(FOREIGN AFFAIRS, official publication of the Council on Foreign Relations, in its October 1968 issue listed Henry A. Kissinger as a member of its editorial advisory board.)

Mr. Harsch, obviously pleased with the appointment of Kissinger to the key policy making spot in Nixon's Administration, then went on to say:

> The (Kissinger) selection is reassuring to the men who backed Governor Rockefeller against Mr. Nixon.

KISSINGER'S VIEWS ON FOREIGN POLICY

An editorial in the LOS ANGELES TIMES of December 8 stated that top White House foreign policy advisor Kissinger "is known as something of a hard-liner in his dealings with the Communist world."

Columnist Richard Wilson in an article on December 2 ventured the opinion that "it is very hazardous to classify a thinker so complex as Dr. Kissinger."

And some columnists have been so uninformed as to classify Kissinger as a "hawk."

The confusion regarding Kissinger's real views stems from the fact that Kissinger is the author of several books on the subject of nuclear strategy and foreign policy. However, during the period 1957 to 1960, Kissinger changed his views – a fact overlooked by some political analysts.

In 1957, Kissinger wrote "Nuclear Weapons and Foreign Policy"* which was published for the Council on Foreign Relations. In that book, Kissinger had argued that the most effective deterrent to any substantial Communist aggression was the knowledge that the United States would employ nuclear weapons from the very outset.

Four years later in his book, "The Necessity for Choice," Kissinger stated that he had rethought the theory and decided that it was wrong.

Discussing this about-face by Kissinger, WASHINGTON POST staff writer, Chalmers M. Roberts in his column on December 3, stated:

> He (Kissinger) later decided that it was doubtful that the United States would know how to fight a limited nuclear war and therefore a conventional strategy should first be employed in case of Communist attack.

James Reston of the New York Times News Service in his column of December 5 stated:

> Kissinger worked very closely with Jerome Wiesner, Thomas C. Schelling and others on the formulation of "the strategy of equilib-

*Harper & Brothers

rium" for dealing with the Soviet nuclear threat.... This stable deterrent system, it should be noted, did not rest, as Mr. Nixon's campaign speeches seemed to rest, on the assumption that the United States must always have a clear superiority in military arms over the Soviets. (Emphasis added)

In his book, "Nuclear Weapons and Foreign Policy," is found the following sentence which can leave little doubt as to Kissinger's overall views on foreign policy regarding any military confrontation with the Communist aggressors:

> It is the task of our diplomacy to make clear that we do not aim for unconditional surrender... But equally, we must leave no doubt about our determination to achieve intermediary objectives and to resist by force any Soviet military move. (Emphasis added)

Professor Kissinger sneers at the historic policy of the United States which always called for an all-out effort (in any war forced upon us) to achieve victory. Here is the way Kissinger put it in the aforementioned book:

> Our feeling of guilt with respect to power has caused us to transform all wars into crusades, and then to apply our power in the most absolute terms. We have rarely found intermediary ways to use our power.... Force alone will not overcome the contemporary revolution.

Note Kissinger's use of the euphemism "contemporary revolution" for the murderous, aggressive Communists!

KISSINGER'S U.S. FOREIGN POLICY FOR THE FUTURE

In his book, "The Necessity for Choice, Prospects of American Foreign Policy," Kissinger stated:

> This is the measure of the task ahead: Simultaneously with building up our capability for limited war and our conventional forces, we will be embarked on arms-control negotiation of crucial import. Our leadership must convince public opinion that we have to increase our military expenditures even while making earnest efforts to negotiate on arms control.

In other words, it would appear that the future foreign policy of the United States, based on Kissinger's advice, will be:

(1) Endless no-win wars against Communist aggression in areas throughout the world selected by the international Communist conspiracy headquartered in the Kremlin, and

(2) Increased military expenditures to finance these no-win wars while at the same time negotiating with the Communists on disarmament of the United States.

*Note: Not coincidentally, Messrs. Wiesner, Shelling and Reston are all members of the Council on Foreign Relations.

KISSINGER AND VIETNAM

CFR-member Joseph C. Harsch, in his column on December 5, revealed:

> He (Kissinger) was one of the first among the top experts to conclude that a military victory in Vietnam was, perhaps, neither possible nor to be desired.

NIXON PICKS C.F.R. MAN TO REPRESENT U.S. AT U.N.

On December 20, Nixon appointed Charles W. Yost as U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations. Yost was a chief advisor to Hubert H. Humphrey during his presidential campaign. Yost was also deputy U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations during the Johnson-Humphrey Administration.

In his book, "The Insecurity of Nations: International Relations of the Twentieth Century,"* published for the Council on Foreign Relations, Nixon's representative to the U.N., Charles Yost, stated his views on foreign policy. A book review of Yost's book appeared in CHOICE, published in Middletown, Conn. According to this book review:

> Real security, Yost asserts, comes not from the addition of armaments to existing stockpiles, but by the control and reduction of armaments. This can happen only after the nation-state gives up its sovereignty to some larger control body, i.e., the United Nations. (Emphasis added)

If the policies advocated by Nixon's U.S. Ambassador to the U.N., CFR member Yost, should prevail, the United States of America will cease to be an independent, sovereign nation.

NIXON FOOLED THE VOTERS

The 1968 Presidential election proved that Conservatives now hold the balance of power in this country. It was last-minute switch-overs from George Wallace, American Independent Party candidate, which enabled Nixon to carry key Southern and border States. These voters switched because of propaganda masterminded by Nixon strategists that "a vote for Wallace would help elect Humphrey," because such votes would be denied Nixon.

But what have those Conservatives, who voted for Nixon, gained?

As documented in this pamphlet, Kissinger, Nixon's chief foreign policy advisor is a Rockefeller man, and Nixon's Ambassador to the U.N., Yost, is a Humphrey man.

WHAT YOU CAN DO

If you are one of those 10,000,000 Americans who, voting his conscience, voted for the anti-Communist candidate, former Alabama Governor George Wallace....

Or, if you are one of those millions who voted for Nixon – and now regret it, here is what you can do:

The power exerted on the foreign policy of this nation by the Communist-accommodating Council on Foreign Relations can be broken, if the American people are given the facts regarding the semi-secret, all-powerful CFR.

The sinister forces behind this drive--

WHY THE ATTACK ON THE C.I.A.?

HOW HENRY KISSINGER NOW HAS ONE-MAN CONTROL OF ALL U.S. INTELLIGENCE SERVICES.

CONTAINED
9295l2

87

HERE ARE THE FACTS

A well-organized and orchestrated program is under way to discredit, neutralize, and eventually immobilize the intelligence services of our government. These include the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA), the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) and U.S. Army Intelligence.

The February 4, 1974, issue of THE HERALD OF FREEDOM, Frank A. Capell, Editor, revealed:

> "Informed Washington sources point out that the increased attacks against the CIA and FBI are an integral part of an overall campaign to drastically curtain every aspect of U.S. national security."

Unfortunately, some in the CIA have made mistakes which have aided the attack on this particular intelligence agency.

On December 22, 1974, an article by Seymour Hersh appeared in THE NEW YORK TIMES which charged that the CIA "in direct violation of its charter, had mounted massive, illegal intelligence operations during the Nixon Administration against members of the anti-war movement and dissident groups inside the United States."

Not surprisingly, on January 7, 1975, the Communist DAILY WORLD called for the abolition of the CIA as "an outright cold war agency. It is an anomaly in a period of detente." The Communist Party, U.S.A., has long promoted attacks on the FBI, Army Intelligence, and Congressional committees investigating Communists and subversives.

When the CIA was created by Congress out of the wartime Office of Strategic Services in 1947, domestic activities specifically were ruled out of bounds. Such work was to be the exclusive province of the FBI.

But where is the line between domestic spying, and foreign spying conducted on domestic soil?

IS THE C.I.A. GUILTY OF DOMESTIC SPYING?

It is well to recall the turmoil and confusion being fostered in this country in the 1960s by the anti-war dissidents. Rabidly anti-American groups like the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) were taking on a sinister international character. As the House Committee on Internal Security's staff study on terrorism notes:

> "In accordance with (an) increasing fascination with terrorist guerrilla theory, SDS leaders began to make more journeys to (Communist) Hanoi and (Communist) Havana."

Some of these trips lasted for many weeks and culminated in 1968 in a "workshop on sabotage" at the SDS convention.

In this connection an article in Washington-based HUMAN EVENTS of January 11, 1975, stated:

> "During this period, U.S. intelligence units had to contend with many groups, the members of which engaged in extensive foreign travel to countries like North Korea, North Vietnam and Cuba. Among them were the pro-Castro Venceremos Brigade, the Black Panthers, the Indochina Peace Campaign (Jane Fonda/Tom Hayden), Women Strike for Peace, Vietnam Veterans Against the War, the Socialist Workers Party and the Communist Party, U.S.A."

The CIA, because of its world-wide apparatus, is in a unique position to examine the activities of members of these anti-war groups who travel overseas to meet with Communists.

Here's how THE NEWS, Lynchburg, Va., in an editorial on January 3, put it:

> "The CIA is accused of probing into the activities of revolutionary, violence-prone organizations ambushing policemen, committing sabotage, and disrupting the government's prosecution of the war in Vietnam. The opposition to that war, by these organizations of subversives dedicated to a Communist victory, was not peaceful. It was bloody and malignant."

ATTACK ON INTELLIGENCE SERVICES

On January 27, the Senate voted 82 to 4 to establish a special 11-member committee to investigate alleged intelligence-gathering abuses by the CIA, the FBI, the National Security Agency, the Defense Intelligence Agency, the State Department's Bureau of Intelligence and Research, and the intelligence branches of the Army, Navy and Air Force. A similar committee is expected to be set up in the House.

The chairman of the Senate's investigating committee of the nation's intelligence and security agencies is Senator Frank Church.

Paul Scott, Washington-based syndicated columnist, on February 1, declared:

"The Liberal Democratic Senator has been one of the most vocal and active Congressional critics on the way these agencies – especially the Central Intelligence Agency and the Federal Bureau of Investigation – have been used to oppose the spread of Communism throughout the world.

"The question now being asked by top U.S. intelligence and security officials is whether Church plans to use the inquiry to neutralize CIA covert operations against the Communists abroad and the undercover efforts of the FBI to keep track of subversives in the U.S."

THE SINISTER C.N.S.S.

In his column of January 1, Paul Scott revealed that spearheading the drive against the CIA is the Left-leaning Center for National Security Studies (CNSS) which is headquartered in Washington, D.C. Heavily loaded with anti-war activists and radical leaders, the CNSS is run by Robert L. Borosage, a young Washington attorney and an active member of the National Lawyers Guild. In 1950, the House Committee on Un-American Activities described the National Lawyers Guild as "the foremost legal bulwark of the Communist Party."

According to Scott:

"The CNSS's power flows from its members' contacts within the Administration, the Congress, the press, and private foundations. The Stern and Field Foundations, noted as supporters of radical and Far Left causes, already have pumped more than a quarter of a million dollars into the operations of the CNSS. Another financial backer is the Fund for Peace (FFP), which has been working to disarm the U.S. since 1969."

The CNSS launched the attack against the government's security and intelligence agencies at a two-day forum in September 1974. The principle theme of the conference was that the President and Congress must dismantle or drastically curb the government's covert intelligence and security operations. An immediate objective of the group is to force all government agencies to end their surveillance of Far Left radicals and their foreign contacts including Communists.

THE. C.F.R. AND THE C.I.A.

An increasing number of Americans are becoming aware of the awesome power and influence now wielded by the prestigious Council on Foreign Relations (CFR). So great is that power that the CFR has been described as "the invisible government."

The DAN SMOOT REPORT of July 20, 1964, had this to say about the CFR:

"The ultimate aim of the Council on Foreign Relations is the same as the ultimate aim of international Communism: to create a one-world socialist system and make the United States an official part of it."

Today, the Rockefeller-controlled CFR exercises total control over the Ford Administration which is obediently carrying out the following Communist-accommodating policies advocated by the Council on Foreign Relations: Disarmament without inspections, increased trade with the Communists, and detente with the Soviet Union and Red China. Incredible though it may sound to the average American, the eventual aim of all of these policies is a final merger of the U.S.S.R. and the U.S.A.

With that in mind, the attempts to hamstring the CIA in its anti-Communist activities can be viewed in the proper perspective.

On January 5, President Gerald Ford named an eight-member commission, headed by Vice President Nelson Rockefeller to investigate charges that the CIA has been carrying out domestic-spying operations. What the nation's press did not, however, tell the American people when front-paging this story was that five of the eight members of the commission, John T. Connor, Lane Kirkland, General Lyman L. Lemnitzer and Nelson Rockefeller are all members of the Communist-appeasing CFR.

What type of recommendations Rockefeller's commission can be expected to make are contained in a column by Frank Starr which appeared in the CHICAGO TRIBUNE of January 10. Starr reviewed a lengthy article in FOREIGN AFFAIRS which he failed to mention is the official publication of the Council on Foreign Relations. The article projects a new, smaller CIA limited to collection and analysis of day-to-day intelligence. In other words, in keeping with the CFR's policy of currying favor with the Soviet Union, whose aim has always been the overthrow of the U.S. government, the CIA would be prevented from engaging in any covert action against Soviet spies in various countries abroad.

According to Paul Scott's column of January

18, Rockefeller succeeded in having President Ford appoint him as Vice Chairman of the National Security Council, the government's top foreign and national-security policymaking body. The President serves as chairman of the NSC with Henry Kissinger as director. In his column Scott stated:

"With members of the NSC being the Secretary of State (Kissinger), Secretary of Treasury, Secretary of Defense, and Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, the Rockefeller-Kissinger team will be able to dominate the panels' national-security recommendations."

KISSINGER'S CONTROL OF ALL U.S. INTELLIGENCE

The intelligence apparatus of the United States with something like 200,000 employees in 16 major agencies, costs the taxpayers an estimated $6 billion each year.

In their recently-published latest book, *Kissinger on the Couch, Phyllis Schlafly and Rear Adm. Chester Ward (Ret.) charge that German-born, CFR-member Kissinger has assumed "one-man absolute control over the entire U.S. intelligence community."

There are 7 subcommittees of the National Security Council. Of these Kissinger is chairman of the Washington Special Actions Group, the Senior Review Group, the Verification Panel, the Defense Program Review Committee, the Intelligence Committee (the most powerful policymaking committee in intelligence) and the Forty Committee.

In his January 18 column, Paul Scott declared:

"As chairman of the 'Committee of Forty,' Kissinger plays a major role in controlling the missions and policies of the Central Intelligence Agency. All covert operations, for example, undertaken by the CIA must first be approved by the Kissinger Committee. The Committee recently issued guidelines for the CIA's intelligence-gathering operations inside Portugal. The guidelines barred all covert operations designed to keep the Communists from taking over in that country."

DELIBERATE DECEPTION

At the Moscow Summit in May 1972, Kissinger terminated the Cold War and substituted the detente negotiated with the Kremlin along with the SALT I (Strategic Arms Limitation Talks) Agreements.

Authors Schlafly and Ward aver in their book that SALT I "enshrined and publicized to all the world the strategic inferiority of the United States to the Soviet Union. And then the authors continued:

"When a development will advantage the United States against the U.S.S.R., this brilliant project is being deliberately slowed down. It is not scheduled for operational employment until 1978....Under the Kissinger programs for the freeze of U.S. developments and the Brezhnev programs for continued Soviet buildup of strategic weapons systems, the Soviets should attain a preclusive first-strike capability against the United States before that time."

By controlling all intelligence operations and information-gathering Kissinger has managed, so far, to create a picture of "sufficiency" of our strategic deterrent against attack by the Soviet Union.

This deception has been facilitated by the Kissinger-controlled National Security Council's Intelligence Committee and the Net Assessment Group.

In this connection, authors Schlafly and Ward have this to say:

"The former has the authority to 'review' all the results, that is, to suppress, alter, or veto any reports.

"The Net Assessment Group segregates from all other intelligence information the one area most vital to the President of the United States: the strategic military balance. The 'net assessment' authority of this group endows it with exclusive power to interpret the present and prospective state of such balance -- primarily, of course, the state of the strategic military balance between the United States and the Soviet Union."

With Kissinger's total control of all activities in the intelligence apparatus, he is able to censor any reports which challenge the sincerity and good will of the Soviets in relation to the SALT I Agreements.

Kissinger has now instituted new guidelines on evaluations of Soviet intentions – an obvious move to stifle any future revelations to the American people about the Soviet buildup of nuclear weapons. Such guidelines were ordered by Kissinger because, as the authors of this new book state:

"There was substantial evidence about new strategic weapons developments to support an evaluation that SALT had not slowed the dynamism of the Soviet buildup....and that the Soviets were even accelerating a program to increase their already massive counterforce capability against the United States."

In his February 8 column, General Thomas A. Lane (Ret.) stated:

"No doubt, Secretary of State Kissinger has been embarrassed by CIA reports of Soviet activities which belie his theory of Soviet commitment to detente....

"When President Ford and members of Congress find that intelligence reports are fully harmonized with the detente judgments of Secretary Kissinger, they should realize that the country is in maximum danger."

WHAT YOU CAN DO

If you believe that Henry Kissinger, now that he controls the entire intelligence apparatus in this country, and in view of his obsequious bowing to the Soviet Union on every occasion, poses a distinct threat to the national survival of the U.S.A. as a free and independent nation, then here are a few suggestions as to what you can do:

(1) BUY and DISTRIBUTE extra copies of this pamphlet. Give or send them to your friends and neighbors, members of civic and patriotic groups, etc.

(2) Send copies to your Congressman and two Senators demanding an immediate investigation of Kissinger's manipulation of intelligence reports to support his continuing appeasement of the U.S.S.R. and his proven-false position that the Soviets pose no threat to the U.S. because of their nuclear superiority.

"A Dire Foreboding" Fulfilled

By TAYLOR CALDWELL

(Reprinted from THE WANDERER)

Taylor Caldwell is the most widely read author in the world. Her books include Dynasty of Death; Melissa; Let Love Come Last; The Balance Wheel; Turnbulls; The Devil's Advocate; Never Victorious, Never Defeated; Tender Victories; Your Sins and Mine; Strong City; Listener; Dear and Glorious Physician; Prologue to Love; Grandmother and the Priests.

In the past three or four days national newspapers have called me about my letter to the Wanderer Forum of last October, in which I expressed my opinion that our President was in great danger from the "liberals" in America who would love either to create a disastrous "incident" or who deeply and blackly hated Mr. Kennedy because he had not betrayed his Country as they had hoped in 1960. All the newspapers asked me how I "knew" in October, or earlier, that Mr. Kennedy was so threatened.

Before I go into this matter more thoroughly, I wish to define my own semantics when I say or write the word "liberal." By "liberals" I mean those traitors who were or are members of Communist fronts in America and all organizations on the Attorney General's list of subversive groups, including the Progressive Party. I also mean covert Communists who pretend they are true liberals, but whose heart is with Khrushchev. I also mean those arrogant men of wealth, in or out of politics, who despise the electorate of America and the people they call "the masses" (though they are always careful to proclaim their love of those same "masses)." I also mean those who try to create division among Americans and hatred by using minority blocs as their dupes while pretending to be their defenders, and are inspiring disorder and publicly or privately ridiculing our Constitution....

In short, I mean Godless and authoritarian crypto-Communists who have brought class warfare to our Country, hatred through their constant efforts since 1933, and have created wants and greeds that are totally unnecessary to a people's real happiness, and softness towards our deadly enemy, Communism, and scorn for American principles and traditions, and a pseudo-intellectualism which has corrupted and perverted our entertainment, our education, our citizenship, had married a Communist woman, that he had, himself, declared his open Communism, that, in September of this year, he had again applied for a Soviet visa to go to Russia – again –, that his own writings showed that he had first read DAS KAPITAL when he was fifteen – "it was like a religious experience to me" –, that he had confessed that he had turned our radar secrets over to Communist officials when he was resident in Russia, and that there were witnesses to his murder of the heroic patrolman who had tried to arrest him and that the gun then in his possession had been used to kill that patrolman. Oswald was identified as the man who had left the murder building immediately after he had killed the President.

The Chief Justice of the Supreme Court Earl Warren, had the effrontery to say, as quoted in the last issue of the U.S. NEWS & WORLD REPORT, that the President had been assassinated because of the "hate and venom poured into the bloodstream of America" by Conservatives, or, as he called them, "the extremists of the 'Right'."....

Other "liberals" now whine in the press that "we are all guilty". That is a lie. No patriot pulled the trigger that killed Mr. Kennedy.

No real Democrat or Republican is guilty of that murder. No American did it. It was a Communist inflamed with Communist madness, filled with Communist hatred and fury....

However, there really are hundreds of thousands of people in America who are almost as guilty as Oswald. For many, many years our children in our secular schools have not been taught patriotism – as children in other nations are taught it....

Children have been taught, in our secular schools, to despise patriotism and love for their Country. They have been told that the Founding Fathers did not pledge their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor in the struggle for freedom, but merely out of self-serving and greed! Not too long ago I read in a secular school-book that our Constitution was really written "against the workingman and in behalf of the privileged classes."....

It would be very interesting, indeed, to know who the teachers of Lee Harvey Oswald were, and what he was taught about his Country by those teachers. We could perhaps then fix a part of the guilt of his crime on others as well as Oswald, himself. It is as much the duty of the secular schools to train children to honor and adore God as it is to teach

PANAMA CANAL

The Stars and Stripes Forever

By Thurman Sensing

The U.S. Marines who raised the Stars and Stripes above the mountain of Suribachi on the Japanese island of Iwo Jima in World War II wrote a glorious, never-to-be forgotten page in American history. The nameless American youths who earlier this month raised the flag with the broad stripes and bright stars in front of their school on American territory in the Panama Canal Zone also deserve the thanks of the nation.

But there's tragedy in this event, which was followed by Panamanian rioters assaulting U.S. territory. For these patriotic youths were raising the American flag in defiance of a regulation of the American governor of the Canal Zone. The U.S. State Department, in a despicable deed of appeasement of Panama's leftwing nationalists, had agreed that the American flag would not fly in front of an American school attended by American children.

What could those children have thought when they read of Iwo Jima and other battles in which our flag was the symbol of our nationhood and then learned that that flag could not fly over their school? Americans at home can be thankful that they refused to countenance the shameful betrayal of American sovereignty by State Department officials. The parents of these youngsters can be everlastingly proud of the patriotic reactions of their children. If this is the measure of American youth, the Republic will be safe in the hands of the next generation.

But the Republic is NOT safe in the hands of those who are willing to see the stars and stripes pulled down or hidden out of sight. This is what happened, for the U.S. flag had been removed from the federal court building and other American offices in the Canal Zone in the period before the Panamanian invasion.

Great principles and important interests are involved in the Canal Zone situation.

Panamanian leftists want to deprive the United States of a portion of its territory, of its sovereign right to fly its flag alone, and to take away from the U.S. control of the canal that is a part of our system of trade and national defense.

By a treaty signed more than 60 years ago, the United States obtained the right in perpetuity to the sole use, occupation and control of the Panama Canal and Canal Zone. This treaty is as valid as the document by which the United States obtained Alaska from the Russians or the Virgin Islands from Denmark. No one in the

And, in conclusion, I mean those people who are cold and hard of heart about mankind while weeping publicly, and sentimentally, about "the rights of men," particularly the naive "minority blocs" who actually believe they are sincere. . .

Yes, I knew Mr. Kennedy was in awful danger long ago. But, odd to say, it was the late Senator Joseph McCarthy who prophesied, to me, over ten years ago, that Mr. Kennedy would die as he has done.

Joe was my dear friend. We corresponded often, especially during the days when he was so shamelessly attacked and defamed and censured by lesser men, men not worthy to sit in his presence. Joe wrote to me not long before he "died": "The people will never know the terrible power of the Communists and their fellow-travelers in this Country until a President is assassinated...."

The conservative literature I have been receiving over many years from both Democrats and Republicans has been critical of both Mr. Eisenhower and Mr. Kennedy, et al, but not once did they attack the latter personally or call for violence against him or denounce his Faith or laugh at his family or publish scandal against him. After all, these are sane people.

Is it not a little strange that three prominent Americans, and PRAVDA the Communist Russian newspaper, within minutes of the unpardonable crime against our President, began to scream that it was "the work of a Rightist"? When the full facts came out that the assassin was a Marxist Communist, that he had plotted the murder meticulously, that he was a member of the Communist organization, the Fair Play for Cuba Committee, that he had appeared on television defending Castro, that he had distributed Communist literature on the streets of New Mr. Kennedy.

No real Democrat or Republican is guilty of that murder. No American did it. It was a Communist inflamed with Communist madness, filled with Communist hatred and fury....

It is as much the duty of the secular schools to train children to honor and adore God as it is to teach them to read and write....

If a child is not taught love of God and Country and respect for all legal authority, he is the easy prey of atheistic Communism and its results.... Dozens of our young soldiers in Korea defected to the Communists, not because they were traitors, but because they had had no background of honor and patriotism, no idea of the character and principles of their own Country, and had little or no religious education. Whose guilt is that? If there is a "collective guilt for the death of our President" then it is because all of us did not insist that our children be taught religion and prayer in our secular schools, whether or not we sent our own children to private or parochial schools. It was your duty, and mine, to demand at least fifteen minutes of religious education in the public schools, daily. We did not, to our everlasting shame.

It was our duty, Catholic, Protestant or Jewish, to protest resoundingly the U.S. Supreme Court edict against prayer in our public schools. It is still our duty. We must demand, for the sake of our Country and the future safety of our Presidents, that that infamous "decision" be repealed at once.

Many people are still unaware that the murderers of Presidents Lincoln and McKinley had been infected by Marxism and had called themselves "anarchists." The man who attempted the life of President Roosevelt was an "anarchist." Still many other people are unaware that Lenin called to all "the peoples of the world" to employ assassination and bloody revolution to overthrow legally-constituted government, in order to establish Communism in them. For Communism began a long time ago. It was in 1848 that Karl Marx issued his Communist Manifesto, and it is terrible reading. I advise all concerned patriotic Americans to read it. It will cure them of any latent "liberalism."

This treaty is as valid as the document by which the United States obtained Alaska from the Russians or the Virgin Islands from Denmark. No one in the American government, whether minor official or President, has the right to dispose of this American territory or to accept any reduction in this country's sovereign rights in the Canal Zone. It is to be hoped that the Johnson administration realizes that it cannot play international politics with the Panama Canal or trade it away or share it with any other nation or combination of countries or international body. The Panama Canal, by historic right, is solely an American canal. If the Panama Canal were to fall into the hands of some Latin American equivalent of Dictator Nasser of Egypt, who controls the Suez Canal, America's security would be gravely threatened.

Indeed in considering the riots in Panama it must be borne in mind that the long-time principal aim of the Communists in Latin America has been to take the canal away from the United States. If they were successful in this enterprise, it would be of greater help to the Soviet Union than anything they have done thus far, including the capture of Cuba. The Panama Canal is the lifeline of U.S. security in this hemisphere. It is not one bit outdated by the air age, for all intercoceanic shipping depends on it, as do our naval forces for swift movement from one ocean to the other.

All good Americans have cause to pray that President Johnson will fully appreciate the importance of fully defending and maintaining U.S. rights in the Panama Canal Zone and that he will resist to the utmost all efforts to steal or undermine those rights.

If Mr. Johnson should heed the counsel of appeasers in the State Department, one can be sure that the American people would never forget such appeasement in the upcoming presidential election. It is highly unlikely that anyone could be elected President who bore the stigma of giving away the Panama Canal.

Sheepishly, they could only mutter that they were "shocked, shocked." The interesting question arises about what it was that "shocked" them: The murder of the President or the fact that it was a Communist who had done it? Their remarks reveal the utter darkness in the soul of the "liberals," their utter inability to understand, their irresponsibility, their hysteria. Apparently even they began to see the untenability of their position, so a little later they drew deep breaths and began to denounce "extremists of the Left and Right." No one, so far, has pointed out to them, boldly, that it was not an "extremist of the Right" who had killed Mr. Kennedy.

One of them even appeared on television a few days ago to look, without shame, into the camera's eye and to say that "no one, now, will ever know the full truth of the assassination" (after the murder of Oswald by Jack Rubenstein). He had the audacity to say this despite the revealed information that Oswald had been a Communist for a number of years, that Communist material was found in his room, that his fingerprints were discovered on the murder weapon and in the murder room, that television clips had been shown revealed him distributing Communist literature, that he had applied for Soviet

Patrick Henry's noble cry, "Give me liberty or give me death" does not appear in the majority of textbooks of the secular schools any longer. Nor do other stirring phrases from similar heroes. They extolled patriotism, and that simply will not do in an atmosphere of "One Worldism."

And, by the way, where have many of our clergy been all these years? In a number of newspapers and magazines I have read their sermons and their solemn pronouncements. Many have rarely taught the eternal truths and laws of God as laid down from Moses to Christ. But they have talked of psychiatry and mental health and social significance in their desecrated pulpits. They have talked urbanely of matters purely secular. Some of them have been called before the House Committee on Un-American Activities to explain their strange affiliations. Some have even demanded the abolition of that committee and have picketed side by side with Communists to have it eliminated. On these men, too, lies the guilt of Oswald. They have betrayed our people and our Country...,

We are implored to "stop the hatred." What hatred? The only hatred I know of in America - after all my years of reading - is the hatred of the Communists and the "liberals," who have been corrupting our children and our young people and have loathed all that was America, and have wished to impose a murderous slavery and death upon us. But, it seems, we are not supposed to hate these malicious assassins, these despoilers of our souls. We must "stop the hatred." (One wonders how many appeals there would be today to the "liberals" and fellow-travelers to "stop the hatred" if some deranged man with Right-wing leanings had, in a moment of insanity, murdered our President! As one Conservative columnist has said: "He that even the streets of America would now be running red with the blood of American patriots.")

I say - let us NOT forget! We have not despised Communism enough! Most of us have not even hated it. It is a time for true hatred, and true wrath now, and true vengeance. The blood of a young and vital President, the father of young children, the devoted husband of a charming young woman, calls up to us from the ground for vegeance.

Let that enthusiastic blood, that innocent blood, give birth, like the dragon's teeth, to avenging men. Let our grief turn to righteous anger. It is a good thing to hate evil. It is a sacred thing. We have been given what may be the final opportunity to cleanse our Land of the deadly infection which runs through our lifestream, to undo the corruption that has invaded us. If we do not, then none of us is safe from our enemies, and the assassination of our President will not end the matter.

"The State of LBJ"

(Reprinted from CHATTANOOGA NEWS-FREE PRESS)

Congress and the American people on January 8 received one of the smoothest, broadest and most carefully calculated political performances ever designed for the re-election of a President as Lyndon B. Johnson delivered his "State of the Union" message - which was more a "State of LBJ" message of political intent.

No political Santa Claus ever bore a bigger pack or opened it wider - accompanying all this with a promise of smaller "after Christmas" bills.

THE REACTION

Highly significant - and a little surprising - in the wake of this masterful political performance is the reaction of a great many representatives and senators - not only Republicans but conservative Democrats and even liberals in both parties- who are openly skeptical of the LBJ promises and critical of some aspects of his program. Perhaps the American people are equally alert; they should be.

THE $97.9 BILLION BUDGET

The most impressive single point of President Johnson's address was his declaration that he will seek a budget of 97.9 billion dollars. This was the most generally appealing point. It indicated how Mr. Johnson's mind is working. Not only did he cut below the once-predicted 100-billion mark. Not only did he "hold-the-line." He acted to fix the name of Johnson in the presidential firmament as an independent star: He cut below the current budget of his own former presidential running mate by half a billion dollars. This was a master move.

But two important facts remain, and only the shortsighted will overlook them. Even with this cut, Mr. Johnson estimates the budget will run 4.9 billion dollars in the red - hardly something to rejoice about. And more important, Mr. Johnson proposed a score of new spending programs that would tax not only the American people but will tax the skill of a political magician of even Mr. Johnson's experience to bring about. In the face of this, he asks an 11-billion dollar tax cut.

Furthermore, it should be observed in considering the LBJ budget request that this is for the year of presidential election- while after-election budgets would have to bear the major brunt of the multi-billion-dollar programs of rapidly increasing "built-in" expenses that Mr. Johnson proposes to begin now.

ON 'CIVIL RIGHTS'

No American should miss the repeated emphasis of President Johnson on enactment of a coercive and unconstitutional civil rights program in payment for the political support of the radical agitation groups.

"Let this session of Congress be known as the session which did more for civil of John Fitzgerald Kennedy - not because of our sorrow or sympathy - but because they are right." Mr. Johnson failed to provide evidence to support his contention of right, though he did introduce the emotional appeal based on tragedy.

Nor should Mr. Johnson's misrepresentation near the end of his speech be overlooked. He descended into the smearing depths to say: "John Kennedy was a victim of hate." He did not say Mr. Kennedy was a victim of a Communist. He did not suggest that the same Communist would have been similarly disposed toward a President Eisenhower or Truman - a Johnson or a Goldwater - as he was against President Kennedy. Mr. Johnson chose the role of hate-monger himself for political appeal.

THE 'POVERTY PACKAGE'

Perhaps the major pitch of Mr. Johnson's address was for his 'poverty package.' He chose a time of unmatched national prosperity and generally high living standards to appeal for a war on "poverty." This is the attractive cry designed to switch attention away from national accomplishment by the free enterprise system to greater dependence upon paternalistic, socialistic, centralized government, in his hands, of course.

He called for a beginning of socialized medicine under a new social security tax on all the people, for a variety of "health" programs, for unconstitutional Federal education programs which carry with them threat and assurance of Federal control, for building homes, schools, libraries and hospitals.

Is it the purpose of the Federal Government to be the chief provider or stimulator of home-building or school programs? The authors of the Constitution neglected to see it the way Mr. Johnson sees it. The Constitution leaves to the people a great part of their affairs that Mr. Johnson would assume.

He wants to put your tax money into financing local bus, streetcar, subway and train systems, into establishing a youth corps of CCC variety, into taking up the vocational education of youth, into expanding Federal subsidies of taxpayers' money to finance new businesses in competition with existing tax-paying businesses.

BROAD VARIETY

There was a demand for eased immigration law, for dangerous disarmament, for space exploration, for a strong defense.

One of the highly important parts of Mr. Johnson's address that is most difficult for laymen to evaluate is his statement that he is cutting back production of enriched uranium by 25 per cent and

HOW YOU PAY TAXES TO

(Reprinted from CHATTANOOG

With a great many Americans deeply concerned about the Johnson Administration's "Foreign Aid to Russia program," it seems an official effort is being made to keep the taxpayers from knowing just how much of their money is involved.

The "Foreign Aid to Russia" program is exemplified by current wheat deals to bail Russia out of its economic problems and thus allow it to become stronger in its program to "bury" us.

The new development of "secrecy" about involvement of American taxpayers money is merely one more reprehensible feature of an already foolishly dangerous plan.

When the wheat deal to aid Russia was first offered, it was required that Russia pay cash and haul the grain in American ships, thereby putting hard money in American pockets and gaining more revenue for this country through the shipping.

Because of the costly and unreasonable governmental involvement in artificial price supports, again at taxpayers' expense, our domestic price for wheat is higher than the price on the world market. To get our prices down to a level so Russia will buy, the Federal Government offered a subsidy in the neighborhood of 56 to 60 cents for every bushel the Russians mark. Not only did he "hold-the-line." He acted to fix the name of Johnson in the presidential firmament as an independent star. He cut below the current budget of his own former presidential running mate by half a billion dollars. This was a master move.

But two important facts remain, and only the shortsighted will overlook them. Even with this cut, Mr. Johnson estimates the budget will run 4.9 billion dollars in the red - hardly something to rejoice about. And more important, Mr. Johnson proposed a score of new spending programs that would tax not only the American people but will tax the skill of a political magician of even Mr. Johnson's experience to bring about. In the face of this, he asks an 11-billion dollar tax cut.

Furthermore, it should be observed in considering the LBJ budget request that this is for the year of presidential election-while after-election budgets would have to bear the major brunt of the multi-billion-dollar programs of rapidly increasing "built-in" expenses that Mr. Johnson proposes to begin now.

ON 'CIVIL RIGHTS'

No American should miss the repeated emphasis of President Johnson on enactment of a coercive and unconstitutional civil rights program in payment for the political support of the radical agitation groups.

"Let this session of Congress be known as the session which did more for civil rights than the last hundred sessions combined," he declared. Those who claim that here is a "friendly Southerner" might be called upon to explain their confidence in Mr. Johnson in view of this statement.

And they might consider these words by him: "As far as the writ of Federal law will run, we must abolish not some but all racial discrimination." This is not only a statement of the constitutional principle of equal justice or equality before the law, but a call for forced invasion of every thread of the fabric of personal and private activity to impose the racial integrationists' views over private and personal choice.

And there was this statement, so smooth some may almost have missed its real and vicious meaning: "All members of the public should have equal access to facilities open to the public." Do you notice the recurring word "public"? But what Mr. Johnson was talking about was having the Federal Government to unconstitutionally deprive private individuals of their private property, this confiscation to allow the use of the private property by those who only want it but have no right to it. In pre-agitation times, this was known accurately as "trespassing" and "stealing."

Mr. Johnson proposes not less but more force than his predecessor in unconstitutional "civil rights" action.

APPEAL TO EMOTION

The appeal for enactment of his radical and far-reaching program did not leave out emotional references to his predecessor. If there are any who expected a real change of direction with the changing leadership, ment, in his hands, of course.

He called for a beginning of socialized medicine under a new social security tax on all the people, for a variety of "health" programs, for unconstitutional Federal education programs which carry with them threat and assurance of Federal control, for building homes, schools, libraries and hospitals.

Is it the purpose of the Federal Government to be the chief provider or stimulator of home-building or school programs? The authors of the Constitution neglected to see it the way Mr. Johnson sees it. The Constitution leaves to the people a great part of their affairs that Mr. Johnson would assume.

He wants to put your tax money into financing local bus, streetcar, subway and train systems, into establishing a youth corps of CCC variety, into taking up the vocational education of youth, into expanding Federal subsidies of taxpayers' money to finance new businesses in competition with existing tax-paying businesses.

BROAD VARIETY

There was a demand for eased immigration law, for dangerous disarmament, for space exploration, for a strong defense.

One of the highly important parts of Mr. Johnson's address that is most difficult for laymen to evaluate is his statement that he is cutting back production of enriched uranium by 25 per cent and shutting down four plutonium piles. These moves, of course, have to do with our production of nuclear weapons. So secret is this field, there is no way for those not privy to the secrets of our government to know whether this is wise, too little or too much.

'CONSERVATIVE' OR 'LIBERAL'?

Here was a man who at moments was trying to appear conservative - while offering the most leftist sort of governmental plans. Here was a man who at moments was trying to appear liberal - while uttering conservative sounds relating to the size of the current budget.

The purpose, of course, was to gain the confidence of the conservatives by the conservative statements and the confidence of liberals by the liberal statements. The just result might well be a lack of confidence by both liberals and conservatives. There is far more evidence, however, to support the likelihood that conservatives rather than liberals will be fooled if they place their confidence in Mr. Johnson.

There is no reason for anyone to think Mr. Johnson believes in turning from the Kennedy platform and program. Mr. Johnson supports all of that - and calls for more.

Those who believe in sound, constitutional government, in freedom of the individual within an orderly and just society, have cause for even greater alarm than before. For Mr. Johnson has simply presented with more appealing salesmanship the pitch for bigger and more powerful centralized government with more control over every facet of the lives of our people, a type of increased government

With a great many Americans deeply concerned about the Johnson Administration's "Foreign Aid to Russia program," it seems an official effort is being made to keep the taxpayers from knowing just how much of their money is involved.

The "Foreign Aid to Russia" program is exemplified by current wheat deals to bail Russia out of its economic problems and thus allow it to become stronger in its program to "bury" us.

The new development of "secrecy" about involvement of American taxpayers money is merely one more reprehensible feature of an already foolishly dangerous plan.

When the wheat deal to aid Russia was first offered, it was required that Russia pay cash and haul the grain in American ships, thereby putting hard money in American pockets and gaining more revenue for this country through the shipping.

Because of the costly and unreasonable governmental involvement in artificial price supports, again at taxpayers' expense, our domestic price for wheat is higher than the price on the world market. To get our prices down to a level so Russia will buy, the Federal Government offered a subsidy in the neighborhood of 55 to 60 cents for every bushel the Russians get. But now the Russians may not have to pay the rest of the price. Under pressure from President Johnson, Congress was finally forced to bow down and allow him to use American taxpayers' money through the export-import bank to let Russia have "credit." And the requirement that American ships be used has been watered down, too.

LBJ's Foreign A

WASHINGTON - With a demonstration of tough and ruthless arm-twisting seldom, if ever, seen in Congress, President Johnson has driven through the House of Representatives a foreign aid bill providing for $3 billion in new money and authority for him to "sell" American products to the Communists on credit.

This is the same President Johnson who, addressing a joint session of Congress on Nov. 27, 1963, said:

BOOK REVIEW

"AMERICA'S UNELECTED RULERS"

The following review appeared in the October 31, 1963 issue of THE TABLET, Brooklyn, N.Y., a national weekly newspaper with a circulation of 139,611:

AMERICA'S UNELECTED RULERS by Kent and Phoebe Courtney, Conservative Society of America Publication, New Orleans, 177 pages.

The book's purpose is to present, by direct quotations, the views of the leading figures in the Council on Foreign Relations, and how they are affecting the Foreign Policy of the United States.

The Council on Foreign Relations has over 1,400 members. These people come from the most important segments of American life. All of them do not agree with the policy followed by the council. However, the council can boast of the support of those who hold membership whether they agree or not.

The power of the council can be discovered by reading of the success that they have had through the years. Their strength, within and without the government, is so great that if the American public was aware of it they would move quickly to bring them under control.

Warnings in books of this type fail to alert the public sufficiently to the dangers they face from within. They fail only because the public refuses to take the warning seriously. This danger is as grave as that which we face from the power of the lobby. When a great nation lives under the shadow of invisible government it opens the door to its own destruction. No matter what the reason might be for setting up the council, the manner in which it operates makes it a threat to our way of life.

The authors have presented the story in a lucid, readable style. This story had to be told. It is well that Americans have the opportunity to see this power behind the scenes and to decide for themselves how serious the threat really is.

(Editor's note: If you wish to buy a copy of AMERICA'S UNELECTED RULERS mentioned in the above review, order from: The Conservative Society of America, P. O. Box 4254, New Orleans 18, La. Price: $2.00 (paperback) indexed.)

Backers of the amendment, and I was one of them, pointed out that if Russia was allowed to buy on credit it would have just that much more to spend to promote the Communist world conspiracy in such countries as Cuba.

We also pointed out that Russia alone among the Communist countries still owed

So this was the situation when Russia bought 37 million bushels of wheat with Agriculture Department approval during the first week of January. This deal was supposed to be for "cash," but a lot of it was American taxpayers' cash.

The deal involved about 26 million dollars of your money in subsidies.

But this is higher than the anticipated subsidy by about $1,750,000. The subsidy rate agreed to by the Johnson Administration averages 72.5 cents a bushel - about 15 cents more than normal.

Newsmen asked Agriculture Department officials why. Was this not only a subsidy on the wheat to aid Russia but also a subsidy on transportation costs to aid the Russians more?

The newsmen couldn't get frank and clear answers.

The taxpayers have every right to know how they are being taxed to aid Communist Russia on the one hand and taxed to build defenses against Communist Russia on the other.

This is an indefensible situation.

One Agriculture Department spokesman was quoted as flatly denying there was a transportation subsidy to Russia. But that this may be slick, weasel-wording was indicated when another Agriculture Depart-

The New Ultras

By Edith Kermit Roosevelt

WASHINGTON - While racial, religious and nationalistic fanaticism appears to be on the wane a new sort of absolutism is being forged in the name of world brotherhood on a far grander scale than was ever dreamed of by old-fashioned bigots. This "humanitarian" plan is blood-chilling in its application.

Who are the new fanatics? They are intellectuals who wield tremendous power in government and in foundations and educational institutions. Their aim is for the United States to collaborate with all countries -- including Communist ones -- to build a just, democratic world government that would free humanity from war or want. They tend to blame all human failings on what they believe to be an artificial social order which they intend to remake to bring out the natural good which they assume exists in all people.

Why are such well-intentioned men dangerous? Because they believe they constitute an elite ordained to freeze the world into their preconceived notions. They alone have seen the vision of Utopian society. But in bringing about their Grand Design they are quite willing to countenance and even to promote police-state methods.

Such men exert enormous influence, particularly on the Federal Government, because many bureaucrats and politicians share the current fad that centralized rather than local control is the answer to every major question. Only recently, one such intellectual, Seymour Melman, professor of industrial engineering at Columbia University, discussed the U.S. budget in a conference with President Johnson. Melman's views, published in his book "The Peace Race," advocate the diversion of our "military industrial complex" into a gigantic "give away" to the less developed countries. We are, in fact, proceeding to implement this policy. To bring about his monolithic scheme for "world industrialization with freedom" in a disarmed world, Melman further urges "inspection by the people"--in other words an informer system.

The absolutist implications of the U.S. plan for General and Complete Disarmament in a Peaceful World are quite obvious when U.S. and Soviet intellectuals meet at the Pugwash conferences. They had a large hand in framing it. A major channel was Pugwash participant Louis B. Sohn, Harvard law professor and consultant to the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency. The Disarmament Agency recently financed a study by another Pugwash participant, historian Walter Millis, on "the Political Control of an International Police Force." At the eighth Pugwash conference, held Sept. 11-16,1961, Millis stated that the only way to make a world peace court effective is to impose the death penalty on individuals who had committed "a crime against peace" if they failed to appear in court, when summoned.

It was at a gathering of extremists in Stowe, Vt.,--not in Dallas or Birmingham--that Millis set forth the idea that persons accused of a "crime against peace" should be hunted down and lynched as "outlaws." He said:

> "The (peace) court could deputize any and all Americans to try and execute the sentence. An American citizen killing an 'outlaw' could not be legally tried for murder in an American court, inasmuch as the treaty setting up the Court would be the law of the land."

Presumably, any ordinary American who supports national security and opposes Communist slavery could qualify as a peace criminal.

Most legislators and the majority of Americans who pride themselves on being "practical" men ignore or dismiss such ideas as crackpot or as isolated incidences. In the same way, the work-a-day world ignored or shrugged off the ideology of MEIN KAMPF and the notions of the eugenics professors that helped to create it. Yet the fact is that there are ideologues in the United States who are so obsessed by the ultimate morality of their quasi-religious crusade that their movement seems quite amoral by conventional standards. For instance, the idea of scientific experimentation on live human beings crops up again and again in the radical world government and disarmament literature that is produced by the bushel in our government-subsidized "think factories" and in foundations and universities. Elton B. McNeil, psychology professor at the University of Michigan, writes matter-of-factly in the April, 1963, issue of the Journal of Arms Control that "various forms of psychosurgery (lobotomy, leucotomy, topectomy) produce docile, tractable persons who might in some fashion be involved in an inspection process."

Political prognosticators viewing the governor's race in Louisiana's Democratic primary runoff seem to have underestimated key issues badly. And that is highly significant, for it might be an indication that the political observers calculating the influences in the 1964 presidential race might be making the same mistake.

DeLesseps Morrison had been picked 2-to-1 to win the Democratic nomination for governor—by everybody but the voters. Mr. Morrison is an able and articulate gentleman who has a long record of service as mayor of New Orleans. A candidate for governor three times, many thought that this time was charm. Early in the campaign, he was put sharply on the defensive because of the segregation issue, he being more "liberal" than his opponent, John J. McKeithen. And Mr. Morrison also had the handicap of having been a Kennedy appointee as ambassador to the Organization of American States. But both the segregation issue and the Kennedy connection were considered much less handicapping after the assassination of the President on Nov. 22.

When the votes were counted in the runoff, however, Mr. McKeithen had a sizable margin of more than 40,000 votes over Mr. Morrison.

Those connected with the Kennedy-Johnson Administration apparently have not overcome a drop of popularity in the South. And the people seem still deeply concerned about the unconstitutional integration efforts involved in legislation like the current civil rights bill, that embodies dangers far beyond any racial questions as it seeks to create more dictatorial power in Washington.

The result in Louisiana does not indicate Louisiana—or any other Southern state—is a "sure thing" for a national Democratic nominee who supports the civil rights bill and carries on the unpopular Administration policies that have been prevalent in recent years.

The Louisiana vote may have significance reaching far beyond Louisiana.

Dallas police said the day following the assassination of President Kennedy that they were checking the possibility that the assassin and Walker's sniper were the same person.

The Chicago SUN-TIMES said it had learned that evidence linking Oswald the accused assassin of Mr. Kennedy, with the attempted shooting of Walker is included in an FBI report on Mr. Kennedy's death.

It said Justice Department officials received the report in Washington from FBI headquarters.

A sniper fired a rifle shot through the window of Walker's home in Dallas on April 10. The bullet narrowly missed Walker and bored a one-inch hole in the wall of the room where Walker was working on his income-tax returns.

At the time, the SUN-TIMES said, Dallas police reported the shot had been fired from an alley about fifty yards from Walker's residence. Dallas detectives recovered the slug from Walker's home.

The SUN-TIMES said Washington officials said "other evidence" had been uncovered that caused the Federal Bureau of Investigation to continue the investigation of a possible connection between Oswald and the Walker incident.

According to the Houston CHRONICLE of December 6th, Oswald was reported to have boasted to his wife that he was the sniper who took a shot at Walker last Spring.

Mrs. Marina Oswald, widow of the man accused of assassinating President Kennedy, reportedly told investigators Oswald came home the night of April 10 and told her he had tried to kill Walker.

The Russian-born Mrs. Oswald, twenty-two, was quoted as saying her husband was very excited as he told her of his escapade.

An address book containing the name "Walker" and Walker's telephone number was found in Oswald's Dallas room, the CHRONICLE reported.

The shot was fired at Walker a little more than a month after Walker had urged Kennedy to invade Cuba with airborne troops and "liquidate the scourge of Cuba."

Walker said on December 5:

"I didn't know anything about Oswald until he was arrested for the assassination of the President. At the time the shot was fired at me, I was receiving threats by mail and telephone, but I have been unable to connect any of them with Oswald."

RIGHT WING EDITORIALS WANTED

Patriots, please send us right-wing, patriotic editorials which may appear [illegible] on them with pencil or crayon, as all newspaper editorials are reproduced in THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN by a photographic process. Thank you.

Above is a photograph which appeared in the Castro newspaper BOHEMIA of Havana, which shows a vast mob of Castrolites parading in the Plaza de la Republica on January 2, 1962, with a coffin. The coffin bears this inscription: "Mr. Kennedy Lies Here. Cuban Revolution Killed Him." What is so appalling is that this photograph was taken on January 2, 1962, more than two years ago!

This photograph was reproduced in the December 31, 1963, issue of the anti-Communist Cuban exile newspaper, UNIDAD, published in Miami, Fla. UNIDAD had captioned this photograph with one word - "Coincidencia?" (Coincidence?)

What a grim coincidence indeed that approximately one year and eleven months after this ghoulish spectacle took place in Communist Cuba, the President of the United States was assassinated by a Communist, an admirer of Castro, Lee Harvey Oswald! Further, it should be noted that the inscription on the coffin is not in Spanish but in English. Was Castro thus telegraphing to the world that he intended to have one of his agents murder the President of the United States?

It can most certainly be expected that the purpose of this staged photograph was propaganda, and that said photograph was widely distributed throughout the Communist slave empire. The Communist world now knows that the President of the United States was assassinated on November 22, and that, obviously shrinking from wounding the feelings of the Communist tyrants, Khrushchev and Castro, neither President Johnson nor any official spokeman for the United States has in any way recognized the fact that Kennedy's assassin was a pro-Castro Communist.

The Finger Points To Castro

(Reprinted from RICHMOND (Va.) NEWS LEADER)

There is no reason whatever to believe that the United States are immune to the interntional Communist conspiracy.

The prime suspect, in our opinion, is not Khrushchev, who was already making good progress toward his goals. The finger points to Fidel Castro, an old hand at assassination. While at the University of Havana, he wove the nets in three or four assassination plots; he wove them again at Bogota. In August last year, as Castro rode through Matanzas Province in an open jeep, a bullet meant for the tyrant was stopped in the flesh of a bodyguard. Castro, probably with reason, accused the American Central Intelligence Agency. Two weeks later, he recovered his composure to talk to reporters at a reception in the Brazilian embassy. Every American who mourns our President will want to read the dispatch as it appeared in September:

HAVANA, Sept. 8 - Prime Minister Castro said Saturday night "United States leaders" would be in danger if they helped in any attempt to do away should think that if they are aiding terrorists' plans to eliminate Cuban leaders, they cannot themselves be safe."

If there is any doubt which leader Castro had in mind, a UPI reporter at the same interview centered almost entirely on Castro's vituperation of the late President: "President Kennedy is the Batista of his time, and the most opportunistic American President of all times.... Kennedy is a cretin, and a member of an oligarchic family that controls several important posts in the government..."

After the assassination of Diem and his brother, upon which the U.S. smiled, to say the least, there is every reason to assume that Castro reviewed his position. The parallel with the assassination of Trujillo is too close, and the CIA left too many clues around. Certainly Prince Norodom Sihanouk of Cambodia had second thoughts about the CIA, and his own neck.

Castro was rapidly approaching a crisis.... There were well-founded rumors that Averell Harriman's deal between Washington and Moscow dealt Castro out. On November 18, the late President spoke

Why did Lee Harvey Oswald go to the Cuban Embassy in Mexico City on September 28th? Is it true he returned from Mexico City on October 3rd with $5,000, part of which was found in his room after the assassination? What was the connection between the armed Castro agents caught by the FBI in New York in December, 1962, the Fair Play for Cuba Committee whose chairman took the Fifth Amendment seventy-eight times, Castro, and Oswald? When and where did Oswald learn to speak Spanish?

Is it true, as charged by several newspapers, that Harriman and Khrushchev last summer in Moscow worked out a plan to eliminate Castro and replace him with a Tito-like Communist (who would be eligible for U.S. aid), and this was the reason Castro said on September 7th at the Brazilian Embassy in Havana: "U.S. leaders should think that if they are aiding terrorists' plans to eliminate Cuban leaders, they cannot themselves be safe"?

Did the U.S.-approved elimination of President Diem and his brother in South Vietnam on November 1st convince Castro (as charged by the NEW YORK JOURNAL AMERICAN, December 8th, 1963) "that it was thereafter a race between him and President Kennedy to see who would be the first to suffer assassination"?

What was the significance of the Communist clenched-fist salute given by Oswald to photographers after he shot our President? What was contained in the letters Oswald received from the Communist Party and the Fair Play for Cuba Committee shortly before President Kennedy was assassinated? Is it true that Castro had commissioned several teams of Kennedy assassins to try their luck, among them being Enrique Pasqual Ruedolo Gongora, a Cuban who fled from the United States to Spain the day after the assassination and, when arrested by Spanish police, confessed he had planned to kill President Kennedy?

Why was Oswald permitted the rare privilege of traveling freely inside the Soviet Union and where did he get the money for his trips? Why did the KGB permit Oswald to marry a Communist and then take her out of Russia immediately on request? Who in the State Department waived Section 212A of the Immigration Act which bars the granting of visas to Communists and thus allowed Mrs Oswald to come to the United States?

These are the questions the Warren Commission should answer if it is to be a thorough investigation and not like the Justice Roberts Pearl Harbor Commission which had to be followed by Army, Navy and Congressional investigations before the truth was known.

THE GOLDWATER CANDIDACY

(Reprinted from Charleston, S.C. NEWS & COURIER)

Sen. Barry Goldwater has opened his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination in a hard-hitting style that should jolt the public out of sentimentalism and complacency.

In an interview on the television program "Meet The Press", Sen. Goldwater said he would back renunciation of the nuclear test ban treaty if he became President. He called Lyndon Johnson's economy drive a neon-light sham, and declared that Nelson Rockefeller is "used to giving money away."

Differences always exist as to the best tactics to be used in a campaign. Some persons may say that Sen. Goldwater ought to go slowly and handle both Johnson and Rockefeller with kid gloves. But the issues are deadly serious and deserve direct comment, not cliches or pulled punches.

The test ban renunciation was Sen. Goldwater's most important statement. It should be remembered that many prominent military men and civilians, including Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, said that the test ban endangered U. S. security. Thus Sen. Goldwater is in good company when he urges a reversal of what was perhaps the chief legislative victory of the Kennedy administration.

Insofar as South Carolina delegates to the GOP nominating convention are concerned, we predict already have been published that Rockefeller money is being spent lavishly in New Hampshire to prepare for a GOP primary this spring.

The powerful Eastern internationalist wing of the Republican Party fears Sen. Goldwater's clear-cut nationalism and all-out devotion to conservative principles. It prefers a soft compromising type, a mild, "me-too", middle-of-the-roader who would copycat the Lyndon Johnson line.

Despite political difficulties to be faced in the months ahead, we believe that Sen. Goldwater's chances of obtaining the nomination are excellent.

In our judgment, the American people want a choice in the presidential election between a "liberal" and a conservative. The Republican Party, with its strong new wings in the South and West, is likely to give the voters that choice.

If Sen. Goldwater wins the nomination, the big battle will begin. By a series of rapid fire strikes — foreign aid, credit sales of wheat to Russia, cuts in defense spending — Lyndon Johnson has made clear that he seeks total identification with the radical, extremist program that the Kennedys laid down for almost three years.

In his short period in the White House, Lyndon Johnson has established a quickie record such as one might expect of Bobby Kennedy had he been his brother's [illegible]

Soviet Trawlers In Co

By Florence Fowler

(Reprinted from MONTROSE (Cali

We are at war with the Soviet Union and each of its captive states such as Cuba. This is the present political and military reality.

Logic, therefore, dictates that every possible effort on the part of our military, our so-called "scientific community" - every governmental and non-governmental agency - should be dedicated to keeping out of the hands of this Red Enemy any information whatsoever which could be of direct or indirect help to him.

One, if not the, major battle arena in the future war will be the ocean. Since the end of World War II, and dramatically since 1955-thanks to UNesco-ICSU's infamous "IGY"-the Soviet Union has built up its stock of submarines, ice breakers, etc., and above all-an oceanographic research fleet, including phoney "fishing trawlers," designed to provide both the vital scientific information about the ocean specifically and in general, and a cover for operations of a military or paramilitary nature, which alone can assure victory.

I've just read 180 pages of testimony and a report issued by a Subcommittee of the House Armed Services Committee under the title: "Russian Trawler Traffic in U.S. Territorial Waters." For copies, address Hon. Porter Hardy, House Office Bldg., Washington, D.C.

It is scare stuff, even without any reference to current USSR - U.S.A. collaboration in oceanographic research via UNesco's machinery!

Behind the hearings was the concern of Congressmen from coastal states, including Florida, over reports of abnormally-equipped Red "fishing" trawlers interfering in at least one trial of a U.S. nuclear submarine, invasion of the "Thrasher" search area, sighting off Canaveral the day Cooper was to go into orbit, cable-cutting, etc.

In January, 1963, the Red trawlers began invading U.S. territorial waters, appearing within the three-mile limit off Florida. Too late for the probe itself, the Report notes news reports had come that the "trawlers" had been used as transports

Insofar as South Carolina delegates to the GOP nominating convention are concerned, we predict that they will be solidly behind the Arizona senator. Elsewhere in the nation, the struggle to win the nomination will be hard. Gov. Nelson Rockefeller cannot be counted out. He has immense personal fortune that he can use to advance his dream of political destiny. Reports lavishly [illegible] prepare for a GOP primary this spring.

Thus a Goldwater-Johnson campaign would be an unmistakable opportunity for the American electorate to determine whether it wants the country to turn further left, or continue in the historic direction of the Republic.

associates because there is no "power to expose for the sake of exposure." The Warren Commission has no authority to indict or try anyone, or to legislate, or do anything but expose the truth. It is charged by President Johnson "to report its findings and conclusions to him, to the American people, and to the world." If witnesses before the Commission are asked about Communism, they may refuse to answer for the reason given by the Chief Justice in the Watkins case that there is no power to expose them to the world for the sake of exposure.

In Cole vs. Young (351 U.S. 536) the Supreme Court ruled that persons not occupying "sensitive" positions cannot "adversely affect the national security." Since Communist Oswald was only an errand boy in the Texas Book Depository, the Warren Commission cannot criticize anyone for permitting an expert marxman to be at a window overlooking the Presidential cavalcade.

In Stephen Mesarosh (alias Steve Nelson) vs. U.S. (352 U.S. 1) Chief Justice Warren, speaking for the four to three majority of the Supreme Court, set aside the conviction of Communist Nelson (who had helped organize the theft of our atomic secrets) because an FBI undercover witness had testified that he was present at a Communist meeting which plotted "to assassinate a U.S. Senator" (Joseph McCarthy). The Court's opinion shows that Chief Justice Warren and J. Lee Rankin (then Solicitor General and now chief counsel for the Warren Commission) agreed that this testimony was so improbable that it was "untrue" and the witness must have "testified falsely, possibly because of a psychiatric condition." This raises the question whether the Commission's chairman and attorney have a preconception that no member of the Communist conspiracy would ever plan the assassination of a high U.S. official.

In the Watkins case Chief Justice Warren said that the charter of the House Committee on Un-American Activities would not "withstand an attack on the ground of vagueness." The charter of the Warren Commission is equally vague. Also in the Watkins case, Chief Justice Warren excused a witness from testifying about his Communist associations because: "The mere summoning of a witness and compelling him to testify, against his will, about his beliefs, expressions or associations is a measure of governmental interference." If any Fair Play for Cuba associates of Oswald are summoned by the Warren Commission, they may cite this Warren opinion as ground for not testifying about their associations with Oswald.

COLUMN, RIGHT!

BY KENT COURTNEY, PUBLISHER

OSWALD'S FATHER-IN-LAW

Those outstanding columnists, Allen and Scott, have revealed that the unpublished 12"-page FBI report entitled "Investigation of the Assassination of President Kennedy", contains the startling information that the Russian wife of Lee Harvey Oswald is the daughter of a Colonel in the Soviet Military Intelligence Service on duty in the Minsk region where Oswald lived and worked for some time. Marina Oswald has not denounced Communism or the Soviet Union. Is it possible that she is a trained Soviet agent and married Oswald under orders of her superiors to act as a control over her husband, a trained professional assassin?

* * * * *

Dr. K. Owen White of Houston, President of the Southern Baptist Convention, says that gifts to Mrs. Lee Harvey Oswald "would be a wonderful opportunity to demonstrate the fact that our faith is warm and personal." It looks like Dr. White wants Americans to reward Mrs. Oswald because her husband killed Kennedy.

A RIGHT TO SUBVERT?

Up in Rockefeller-land, a New York Appeals Court ruled that Herbert Aptheker, a member of the National Committee of the Communist Party, has the right to speak on campuses operated by the State universities. We wonder if Robert Welch and Tom Anderson will be given equal time?

TITO'S NEW PLANT

On September 1 Tito and Khrushchev toured a model Yugoslav $40 million plastic plant. This Yugoslav plant was (1) financed partially with a $23 million U.S. Foreign Aid grant, (2) equipped with U.S. machinery, (3) everything was designed by U.S. engineers, and (4) it was constructed under supervision of U.S. technicians.

Yugoslav and Russian flags flew gaily as Tito and Khrushchev inspected the factory, but nowhere at the plant was there a sign indicating the part that the United States played in building this factory for Tito's brand of Communism.

The Russians are building an oil refinery in Western India for Nehru's Socialist government. Representative Glenard P. Lipscomb revealed that the Commerce Department has agreed to allow and the civil rights of the overseas Chinese who have been harrassed by the police state methods of Sukarno's Indonesia. Achmed Sukarno in Southeast Asia is the same kind of advance agent for Khrushchev that Castro is to Central and South America.

LOOK OUT MISSISSIPPI

John Lewis is the 23-year old National Chairman of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee, which Committee coordinates violent demonstrations all over the South. He announced plans on December 7 in San Francisco to organize mass voter registration demonstrations in Mississippi. He expects at least 75,000 Negroes to be arrested as a result of these demonstrations. And he hopes that "the Federal Government will have to take over the State." Lewis was arrested for creating violence in Atlanta on January 18.

SON OF WHOM?

Republican Congressman Robert Taft, Jr., declared on December 7 that he was a candidate for the U.S. Senate seat in Ohio. Taft (a protege of Ohio's superpolitician, Ray Bliss) said that if Senator Barry Goldwater heads the national GOP ticket that "it would make it difficult" for his (Taft's) Senatorial campaign in Ohio.

Young Taft is critical of the Democrat Administration for not getting the civil rights bill on to the floor of the House for a vote. Strangely enough, Taft, agreed that this testimony was so improbable that it was "untrue" and the witness must have "testified falsely, possibly because of a psychiatric condition." This raises the question whether the Commission's chairman and attorney have a preconception that no member of the Communist conspiracy would ever plan the assassination of a high U.S. official.

In the Watkins case Chief Justice Warren said that the charter of the House Committee on Un-American Activities would not "withstand an attack on the ground of vagueness." If any Fair Play for Cuba associates of Oswald are summoned by the Warren Commission, they may cite this Warren opinion as ground for not testifying about their associations with Oswald.

The Warren Commission may be unable to comply with President Johnson's command to make the truth "known as far as it can be discovered" unless it decides not to follow these earlier Supreme Court opinions.

lease of the House Report, the LOS ANGELES TIMES reported the first west coast invasion of the electronically-equipped Red "trawlers," sighted first Aug. 1 off the Washington coast near the Bremerton Navy Yard, then moving into Southern California waters. Two 165-ft. Soviet "trawlers" had been under Naval air surveillance for two weeks. Although part of that time they had been in fishing grounds, no fishermen reported any fishing activity.

"A Navy source," the TIMES reports, "said the ships could have been fishing, but they were more likely gathering information about the Pacific Missile Range and weapons tests off San Clemente Island."

What can these phoney "trawlers" do? Let the House report tell you:

"TRAWLER CAPABILITIES. While it is possible that the Russian vessels are no more than fishing boats taking their cargo to Cuba, witnesses agreed that these ships could be gathering scientific information, charting our coastline and ocean floor for purposes useful in sub-marine warfare, or selecting sites for the landing of spies and saboteurs. Both the Navy and Coast Guard admitted that the ships could be landing or picking up spies or saboteurs or smuggling military items and that this could be done with little chance of detection in the landing or picking up operations.

"Other witnesses discussed the possibility of these vessels conducting electronic surveillance of certain aspects of our military defenses and exploring ways of interfering with or controlling the mid-

The Russians are building an oil refinery in Western India for Nehru's Socialist government. Representative Glenard P. The plans will go to Moscow for studying and copying by Russian engineers. Shall we title the play, "Malice in Plunderland"?

CUBA'S REVOLUTION EXPORTED ALL OVER

The United Nations acquired two new members the other day, one of which was the Island of Zanzibar which is 23 miles off the Eastern coast of Tanganyika. The population is 310,000. The chief industry is the production of cloves. Shortly after independence a Communist-style massacre swept the island. Total reported deaths are expected to reach 4,000. The revolt is apparently led by Cuban-trained African guerrillas.

The revolts in Panama were reportedly led by Cuban-trained saboteurs and snipers.

President Kennedy was assassinated by a Marxist-Communist American citizen who was apparently under the discipline of Castro.

The cancer of Khrushchev's Cuba is spreading like a plague throughout the world. It is about time that a complete naval and air blockade be imposed on Cuba. It is time to isolate the aggressor.

And, Lyndon, you won't get away with making it a "political" blockade as in 1962!

WITH THESE AS ALLIES, WHO NEEDS ENEMIES!

The Cuban Revolutionary Unity Movement supplies us with the information that the so-called allies of the United States continue to supply the vessels which keep Castro's economy going in Cuba. During the five months from June to October, inclusive, 163 ships of free world nations...

Strangely enough, Taft, the son of the author of the Taft-Hartley law, is especially opposed to Goldwater's stand on the right-to-work measure. It looks like Robert Taft, Jr. has adopted the no-win tactics of the Liberal Republicans.

AGRARIAN REFORM IN MEXICO

Hugo Salinas Price, Editor of the Mexican-American Bulletin (Apartado Postal No. 15940, Mexico 16 D.F.) reports that the once bountiful agriculture of Mexico was ruined by the Socialist land reform of Mexico. The Mexican revolution of 1910 promised the peasants land of their own, but the Socialists turned the program into Communist-styled agrarian reform. The peasants now work for "Ejidos," Communist entities which lend the land to the peasants but give them no property rights over it.

There are over 4 million "ejidatarios" These landless serfs work the government land just like Russian serfs work in the "kholhoz."

Senor Price was recently elected President of the PNM (Nationalist Party of Mexico). Previously this party had an incoherent platform, but today promises to bring about the Mexican Miracle. STROSE (Calif.) LEDGER)

lease of the House Report, the LOS ANGELES TIMES reported the first west coast invasion of the electronically-equipped Red "trawlers," sighted first Aug. 1 off the Washington coast near the Bremerton Navy Yard, then moving into Southern California waters. Two 165-ft. Soviet "trawlers" had been under Naval air surveillance for two weeks. Although part of that time they had been in fishing grounds, no fishermen reported any fishing activity.

"A Navy source," the TIMES reports, "said the ships could have been fishing, but they were more likely gathering information about the Pacific Missile Range and weapons tests off San Clemente Island."

What can these phoney "trawlers" do? Let the House report tell you:

"TRAWLER CAPABILITIES. While it is possible that the Russian vessels are no more than fishing boats taking their cargo to Cuba, witnesses agreed that these ships could be gathering scientific information, charting our coastline and ocean floor for purposes useful in sub-marine warfare, or selecting sites for the landing of spies and saboteurs. Both the Navy and Coast Guard admitted that the ships could be landing or picking up spies or saboteurs or smuggling military items and that this could be done with little chance of detection in the landing or picking up operations.

"Other witnesses discussed the possibility of these vessels conducting electronic surveillance of certain aspects of our military defenses and exploring ways of interfering with or controlling the guidance and abortive systems of our missiles and rockets. (Security kept some facts out of the report.) The Department of the Navy has at least two programs designed to find ways of eliminating th dangers of premature firing of rockets or missiles or the explosion of their warheads by radio and radar waves. These are but a FEW of the possibilities raised by the presence of the Russian ships off our coast."

And our U.S. "policy"? We consider these ships "only as FISHING vessels and NOT as potential instruments for the gathering of military information through various means, including electronic surveillance!"

TAFT SAID:

"We cannot clear up the mess in Washington, balance the budget, reduce taxes, check creeping Socialism, , or purge subversives from our State Department unless we come to grips with our Foreign Policy upon which all other policies depend."

CUBA'S REVOLUTION EXPORTED ALL OVER

The United Nations acquired two new members the other day, one of which was the Island of Zanzibar which is 28 miles off the Eastern coast of Tanganyika. The population is 310,000. The chief industry is the production of cloves. Shortly after independence a Communist-style massacre swept the island. Total reported deaths are expected to reach 4,000. The revolt is apparently led by Cuban-trained African guerrillas.

The revolts in Panama were reportedly led by Cuban-trained saboteurs and snipers.

President Kennedy was assassinated by a Marxist-Communist American citizen who was apparently under the discipline of Castro.

The cancer of Khrushchev's Cuba is spreading like a plague throughout the world. It is about time that a complete naval and air blockade be imposed on Cuba. It is time to isolate the aggressor.

And, Lyndon, you won't get away with making it a "political" blockade as in 1962!

WITH THESE AS ALLIES, WHO NEEDS ENEMIES!

The Cuban Revolutionary Unity Movement supplies us with the information that the so-called allies of the United States continue to supply the vessels which keep Castro's economy going in Cuba. During the five months from June to October, inclusive, 162 ships of free world nations arrived in Cuban ports. Following are the names of the countries and the number of vessels involved in this traffic which supports the Communist enemy on our shores: Greece, 51; United Kingdom, 50; Lebanon, 33; Norway, 5; Morroco, 6; Finland, 1; Italy, 7; West Germany, 1; Sweden, 3; Spain, 2; French, 4.

And yet official voices in Washington refer to the "economic" squeeze against Castro--baloney!

ATTORNEY GENERAL, AT LARGE

Now that Bobby Kennedy is assuming top State Department duties in the Far East, perhaps the new title for Dean Rusk is Assistant Secretary of State. Or is Bobby Kennedy already performing the functions which only a few months ago were being carried out by the then-Vice President Johnson?

After what Bobby Kennedy and Achmed Sukarno did a few years ago to the Dutch in West New Guinea, the British may find themselves thrown out of Singapore, Hong Kong and the entire Far East!

The Attorney General in charge of protecting civil rights agitators in the South might well inquire about the unhappy fate

IN MEXICO

Hugo Salinas Price, Editor of the Mexican-American Bulletin (Apartado Postal No. 15940, Mexico 15 D.F.) reports that the once bountiful agriculture of Mexico was ruined by the Socialist land reform of Mexico. The Mexican revolution of 1910 promised the peasants land of their own, but the Socialists turned the program into Communist-styled agrarian reform. The peasants now work for "Ejidos," Communist entities which lend the land to the peasants but give them no property rights over it.

There are over 4 million "ejidatarios" These landless serfs work the government land just like Russian serfs work in the "kholhoz."

THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN suggests that Foreign Aid to the Socialist (Communist-oriented) government of Mexico be withheld so that free enterprise can restore freedom to the peasants and all the population of our neighbor to the South.

In the same newsletter it is reported that Russian submarines are landing arms on the Pacific Coast of Mexico and are being smuggled into the country.

Another item reports that one-half million tons of wheat have been exported from Mexico recently. Destination unknown. 28 million dollars worth of cotton was recently sold to Red China. Large deals in rice, trucks and petroleum are also expected to benefit the Communist government of Red China.

NATIONALISM

"The professed internationalist usually sneers at nationalism, at patriotism, and at what we call 'Americanism,' He bids us forswear our love of country in the name of love of the world at large. We nationalists answer that he has begun at the wrong end; we say that, as the world now is, it is only the man who ardently loves his country first who in actual practice can help any other country at all."

The Company We Keep

(Reprinted from CHATTANOOGA NEWS-FREE PRESS)

In recent months, there have been disturbing signs of irresponsibility from the UN, as pressure groups led by small nations have violated the UN Charter to meddle in the internal affairs of other nations, have reacted according to emotion rather than to reason, and have shown little capacity and less willingness to stand for the principles that prompted idealists to initial support of the UN. On December 16, 1963, the UN got two more members who do not add encouragement.

Zanzibar and Kenya became the 112th and 113th "nations" to have UN membership.

Zanzibar is a small island "nation" that lies in the Indian Ocean off the eastern coast of Africa. It is a former British protectorate that has an area of only 1,044 miles and a population of only 312,000 - yet it has one vote in the UN General Assembly, the same as the United States.

The situation involving Kenya is less promising. It is a former British territory in East Africa, having recently been given independence. Its prime minister is a native leader named Jomo Kenyatta. He was first noted a few years ago under the name "Burning Spear" as he led the uprising of the murderous Mau Mau, who terrorized Kenya and murdered white settlers, men, women and children. The Mau Mau initiated its members with witch-doctor-style ceremonies involving the drinking of blood and other obscene rites too degraded and horrible to describe here. And now the leader of that hideous mob is head of a "nation" that is a member of the U.N., with the same rights and privileges as other U.N. members.

Now the U.N. has grown to 113 members. The Afro-Asian bloc, with the addition of these two, comprises 66 of the members. It is easy to see, therefore, that the United States is in hazardous company if an emotional issue should swing the Afro-Asian bloc against some position that we may take as a matter of moral right. We could be voted down with ease by a majority that often has acted irresponsibly.

This is particularly significant as there are those among us who are inclined toward more "world government" and seek to put more and more of our affairs under U.N. treaties, agreements and agencies.

As highly civilized as are the people of the United States and as responsible as are the local governments and the state governments that properly exist within our national union, we have difficulties with self-government ourselves and with en-

The Cuban Issue In '64

(Reprinted from Charleston, S.C. NEWS & COURIER)

Fidel Castro's New Year Day address, in which he hailed his five years in power as a "victory against Yankee imperialists," serves as a fresh reminder that the Cuban problem cannot be swept under a rug in the United States.

President Johnson must deal forcefully with the Castro threat, or the public will want to know the reason why in the 1964 presidential campaign.

Castro's speech, which was followed by a parade of military might, indicated his interest in exporting revolution to the other Americas. He said that Cuba's revolution "is part of a universal revolution."

The word "revolution" is somewhat misleading. Red Cuba is a part of a war of communist aggression. It is a war conducted by revolutionary conspirators within nations that depend on arms and money from outside sources and on the benevolence of dupes inside the countries they seek to subvert.

In this connection, it is interesting to note that the end of 1963 brought news that the Fair Play for Cuba Committee, Castro's front organization in the USA, is closing its operation. Identification of Lee H. Oswald, assassin of President Kennedy, as a worker for the committee was the final blow it could not sustain.

It would be a mistake, however, to believe that Castro's friends will cease their efforts in this country. The Fair Play for Cuba Committee was not the only group that gave Cuba a clean bill of health. The Fellowship For Reconciliation deplored what it called "the subversion of the Cuban government." As late as Jan. 1, 1962, 70 professors at Harvard, Brandeis and MIT signed an open letter to President the nuclear scientist whose security clearance was lifted and who last month received a medal from President Johnson.

The people who supported Castro are still around. They are lying low because of the discovery of Oswald's connections. They should be flushed into the open in 1964.

The Warren Commission should be investigating reports that Lee H. Oswald was a Castro agent. Constantine Brown, an experienced and reliable reporter, writes from Rome that Italian intelligence sources believe that Oswald was linked to the Cuban dictator.

The Cuban situation requires tough-minded analysis which we fear the U.S. State Department will not provide. During the 1950s the department falsely interpreted Fidel Castro as a hero of Cuban democracy. Instead he turned out to be a communist.

The News and Courier was among those who spotted him as such at the time. An American businessman, longtime resident of Cuba and fully informed on the comfortable economy of Latin America's richest republic before Castro, now lives in Charleston. He has confirmed our estimate at the time of the State Department's misjudgment of Batista and Castro. He calls the error "incredible". The outcome has been terror and poverty for Cubans in place of freedom and prosperity, and a military threat to the United States in place of friendship of a close neighbor.

The State Department today appears to be following a policy of co-existence with a communist satellite at our doorstep — another tragic mistake.

A test of Lyndon Johnson's leadership will be his willingness to crack down on Castro and head off subversion elsewhere in Latin

As highly civilized as are the people of the United States and as responsible as are the local governments and the state governments that properly exist within our national union, we have difficulties with self-government ourselves and with encroachments in violation of the Constitution by our central government. Yet there are some who push us further into U.N. involvement despite clear evidence of the fact that most there do not share our ethical standards, our ideals, our goals.

The United States has become a minority in a world organization whose members range from Communist aggressors to Mau Mau murderers. We are in a precarious association.

"Farm and Ranch" Continues Operation

Tom Anderson, Editor of FARM AND RANCH Magazine, in an exclusive interview in New Orleans, informed THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN that although FARM AND RANCH is no longer going to be published as a national magazine, all of its former subscribers will continue to get a Farm and Ranch tabloid newspaper.

For many years Tom Anderson has published the "Arkansas Farmer," the "Mississippi Farmer," the "Alabama Farmer", the "Georgia Farmer" and the "Tennessee Farmer." FARM AND RANCH Magazine subscribers in the foregoing States will now receive the State tabloid newspaper. In other words, if you live in the States just mentioned and you formerly received FARM AND RANCH Magazine, your subscription will be fulfilled and you will shortly be receiving the tabloid newspaper of your State.

Farm and Ranch in the tabloid newspaper format will shortly be received by FARM AND RANCH Magazine subscribers in the following States: Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Kentucky, North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia and Florida. Subscribers outside of these areas will probably receive the Farm and Ranch Newspaper from the State closest to them. Subscribers in the Western States can expect to receive a copy of the "Texas Farm and Ranch."

the publication is being distributed. These tabloid Farm and Ranch newspapers run from 16 to 40 pages, depending on the amount of local advertising. The current circulation of all of these magazines is slightly over one million. All of the Farm and Ranch newspapers in the 13 States, will carry Tom Anderson's famous editorials each month. More attention will be given to State matters in each of the separate magazines, and, of course, it can be expected that each State newspaper will report on the voting records of the Congressional delegations of each of those States.

The INDEPENDENT AMERICAN is happy to dispel a number of false rumors going around the country to the effect that Tom Anderson had been forced out of business. The truth of the matter is that the national magazine FARM AND RANCH had lost so much national advertising that it could no longer operate, but Tom Anderson is confident that the individual State newspapers will grow and prosper.

THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN wishes Tom Anderson and the Farm and Ranch newspapers all the success that they deserve, and we wouldn't be a bit surprised to see Farm and Ranch newspapers start up in States outside the South. We are glad to report that Tom Ander-

It is incomprehensible that U.S. troops posted to guard the Canal Zone would submit to sniper fire from across the boundary without crossing the boundary to wipe out the sniper nests. In an operation properly coordinated with the Panama forces, cleaning out the snipers should have been a Panamanian responsibility; but any Panamanian failure of will or capacity should have freed General O'Meara immediately to protect his own forces.

Pussyfooting has gone too far. In a world under assault by Communism, the U.S. cannot withdraw from the Canal Zone. It cannot administer the Zone with a hostile and uncontrolled population sniping across the Zone boundary. If the Panama government cannot control its people, the U.S. must do so. This is proper recourse under international law. President Johnson must make his determination clear. If he vacillates, violence will be encouraged.

Responsible Panamanian leadership must recognize these realities and make them clear to the people. The canal has been a great boon to the country. Its administration with mutual confidence and respect will bring increasing benefits to the people of Panama. But how can responsible Panamanian leadership develop while U.S. weakness encourages demagogues to demand that the U.S. get out?

It must now be made clear that the U.S. will be fair in sharing canal income with the Republic of Panama but absolutely unyielding on the question of de facto sovereignty over the Canal Zone. This is the only practical basis for administering the canal.

RESPONSIBILITY

The defense of the cherished freedoms secured and handed down to us by our forefathers is the responsibility of each American.

Civil Rights The Impact on Business

BY JOHN C. SATTERFIELD

(Reprinted from THE STATE, Columbia, S.C.)

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Mr. Satterfield, a former President of the American Bar Association, now is secretary-treasurer of The Coordinating Committee for Fundamental American Freedoms, with headquarters in Washington, D.C.)

Many small businessmen assume that the civil rights bill does not apply to them. They believe that if they are not in the business of "public accommodations," or part of a large, interstate corporation, then they can continue to operate their business without federal regulation.

But the Administration is interested in small businessmen as well as large. The man who runs any sort of small business will find new controls in his dealings with the government, with his customers, and with his employees.

The fact is, any small businessman who is a federal contractor or sub-contractor will have to meet whatever conditions the President imposes. The federal conditions will also apply to any dealings with state or municipal governments, either as a supplier or service contractor.

More surprisingly, the small businessman—even so small a businessman as one who employs but one person—will be controlled by federal guidelines if he receives the benefit of any federal financial program.

Unless he is prepared to open his books and records to federal inspectors, his sources of credit may dry up. He could be denied loans from the Small Business Administration, or from any bank that receives federal protection such as the Federal Deposit Insurance, or makes use of FHA, GI, FNMA or other loans related to federal financing.

Moreover, under the civil rights bill, if he is already committed to such federal benefits, court action could force him to comply with any new regulations that are issued.

More Federal Tentacles

Until this bill went to Congress, it was always public policy that conditions attached to financial assistance had to have some reasonable business purpose. The conditions had to have some connection with the purpose of the program. But this bill will amend between 100 and 200 federal assistance acts for reasons which have nothing to do with financial assistance.

The small businessman will also discover that his relations with his customers have completely changed if he falls within the broad definition of "public accommodations." For the first time, an act of Congress would impose an obligation to render service as determined by federal inspectors. Under the provisions of this bill, the small business would be put in the same classification as the gigantic public-service monopolies such as electric and telephone companies.

The concept of a private business, based on private decisions would no longer exist. Every business would be classified as a "public utility," opening the way for many kinds of government regulation. This totally new precedent could revolutionize the system that was always known as private enterprise.

'Fair' Employment Practices

The small businessman's relations with his employees would also change. A federal Fair Employment Practices Commission would be ready to judge every dealing with every employee. In one portion of the bill, the careful guidelines set up by state FEPCs are swept aside in favor of "such powers as (the President) deems appropriate" without any limitation as to number of employees. The federal FEPC would control not only hiring and firing, it would control the whole relationship of employer and employee.

The employer could not "limit, segregate, or classify his employees in any way which would deprive or tend to deprive any individual of employment opportunities." This wording is very significant because it would deprive the employer of his right to evaluate the performance of his employees. Any worker who might be downgraded because of poor work could complain that the demotion "tended to deprive" him of civil rights. No matter what the employer's intention, the federal FEPC could rule that he was engaged in an unfair labor practice.

A Controlled Economy

As analysts study the full significance of the provisions of the civil rights bill, they are changing their mind about what the bill will actually do. They are coming to realize the bill—publicized as a "moderate" version of the earlier model—is, in fact, more severe than ever. The bill would change so many aspects of American life that civil rights would disappear in a mountain of federal control. The mail from many Congressmen's constituents is already beginning to reflect this fear.

Small businessmen especially will be hard-hit by the new controls. Unless they let Congressmen know how they feel, they will take another beating.

GOODBYE TO FREE SPEECH

By Harry Browne

Freedom of speech is so sacred in America that few believe we could ever lose it.

We bend over backward to respect the rights of others to their unique - and sometimes dangerous - views. Even the Communist Party has never been outlawed as such.

AMERICAN TOLERANCE

We take this attitude - even though the present head of the worldwide Communist movement has vowed to bury us.

Incredible, then, is the news that the American delegate to the United Nations has voted to approve the new UN "Declaration on the Elimination of Racial Discrimination."

How does the UN plan to eliminate racial discrimination? Certainly not by persuasion or by example. It proposes force - the same kind of force it exerted to end the Katanga secession and drive the "white mercenaries" out of the Congo.

ALIEN PROPOSAL

Here's how the UN proposes to erase the prejudices that have existed in human hearts for thousands of years: "...all states shall take immediate and positive measures including legislative and other measures to prosecute and/or outlaw organizations which promote racial discrimination or incite to or use violence for the purpose of discrimination based on race, color or ethnic origin."

This means simply that the U.S. is expected to outlaw organizations that promote racial discrimination - despite a Constitution that permits "no law ... abridging the freedom of speech."

The Declaration will now come to the U.S. Senate for ratification. It doesn't seem possible that the Senate could even consider such an alien document. But then who would have believed our UN delegate would have voted for it?

How ironic that all of this is happening to satisfy the demands of an illiterate ruling class in Africa that practices worse discrimination than we can even imagine.

WE LOSE AGAIN

Haven't we waited a little too patiently while our political leaders have played with the UN? We have been lulled to sleep with assurances that the UN would not interfere with our affairs. Yet our own State Department has proposed that we turn over our military might to the UN. And now our "diplomats" sign a treaty calling for the elimination of free speech in America.

The UN is an expensive and dangerous toy. It's time to take it away from those who have proved their inability to deal with it realistically.

Barry Hits CFR Pet Scheme

More and more Americans are becoming aware that the Council on Foreign Relations is the Organization whose leading members have, for the past few decades, managed to exercise total control of the nominating machinery at Republican conventions. One of the pet schemes of the CFR is a system of regional alliances to be eventually united into a Socialist world government, of which the United States would be a mere satellite nation.

GOP presidential candidate Senator Barry Goldwater apparently differs sharply with the CFR masterminds on the subject of the so-called Alliance for Progress in Latin America. Here are Goldwater's views as expressed on the floor of the Senate recently, and as reported in the November-December, 1963, issue of PAN AMERICAN HEADLINES, published by the Committee on Pan American Policy, Harold Lord Varney, President:

"The administration has created no new good neighbors in Latin America. It has, instead, opened the hemisphere's doors to new enemies. The Alliance for Progress has brought no new unity, no true alliance and no real progress. Instead, under the Alliance, hopes of unity against Castro have been sacrificed to unrealized hopes of unity in social progress. And social progress has become the progress of Socialism."

movement has vowed to bury us.

Incredible, then, is the news that the American delegate to the United Nations has voted to approve the new UN "Declaration on the Elimination of Racial Discrimination."

How does the UN plan to eliminate racial discrimination? Certainly not by persuasion or by example. It proposes force - the same kind of force it exerted to end the Katanga secession and drive the "white mercenaries" out of the Congo.

ALIEN PROPOSAL

Here's how the UN proposes to erase the prejudices that have existed in human hearts for thousands of years: "...all states shall take immediate and positive measures including legislative and other measures to prosecute and/or outlaw organizations which promote racial discrimination."

Would have voted for it?

How ironic that all of this is happening to satisfy the demands of an illiterate ruling class in Africa that practices worse discrimination than we can even imagine.

WE LOSE AGAIN

Haven't we waited a little too patiently while our political leaders have played with the UN? We have been lulled to sleep with assurances that the UN would not interfere with our affairs. Yet our own State Department has proposed that we turn over our military might to the UN. And now our "diplomats" sign a treaty calling for the elimination of free speech in America.

The UN is an expensive and dangerous toy. It's time to take it away from those who have proved their inability to deal with it realistically.

President Johnson's first State of the Union message was a reminder that politics hasn't changed very much in this country within the past generation.

Thirty years ago, Franklin D. Roosevelt was sighing over "one third of a nation, ill-fed, poorly clothed, and badly housed." And the emphasis was the same in Mr. Johnson's message to Congress on Wednesday. He said:

"We must modernize our unemployment insurance . . .

"We must provide hospital insurance for our older citizens, financed by every worker and his employer under Social Security . . .

"We must . . . give more help to those displaced by slum clearance, provide more housing for our poor and elderly, and seek . . . a decent home for every American family.

"We must help obtain more modern mass transit within our communities as well as low-cost transportation between them."

When the President says "we must" do thus and so, he means you must—you, the taxpayers, who are the source of all government revenue.

It is you who must pay for the unemployment insurance, the hospital insurance, the slum clearance projects, the "decent home for every American family," the mass transit systems for cities and all the other "benefits" Mr. Johnson and his supporters propose to "give" you.

Remember that. And remember that what Mr. Johnson is promising today, in the way of stamping out poverty and providing for everybody's welfare from the cradle to the grave, is to all intents what Franklin D. Roosevelt was promising in 1934.

After 30 years of almost uninterrupted welfare statism, a hard-headed skeptic may be pardoned for wondering why there should still be in this country any people unemployed, any people "ill-fed, poorly clothed, and badly housed." Yet the fact is that in spite of all these years of federal paternalism, "the poor ye have always with you."

There's no denying it. Socialism doesn't work well in the American economy. Next time, at the polls, let's support candidates who favor getting the federal government out of competition with private enterprise, out of the taxpayer's pockets, and out of its 30-year-old habit of assuming that Washington, D.C., knows better than you do how you want your dollars to be spent.

PANAMA RIOTS EXPO

By Maj. Gen. Thom

WASHINGTON... The bloody rioting in Panama reflects the failure of grown men to face their responsibilities. Weakness of political leaders on both sides has sought to accommodate deteriorating relationships instead of correcting them. There is always a reckoning.

Administration of the Panama Canal requires the wholehearted cooperation and mutual respect of the Panamanian and American people. This is developed by frank talk and firm understanding, not by recrimination and distrust. U.S. attempts to cater to anti-U.S. sentiment by granting concessions have fostered the development of hostile political elements in the Republic of Panama and led inevitably to intensified strife.

The Panama flag should never have been flown in the Canal Zone except on special occasions to honor it. To fly it as a sign of sovereignty is to confuse the whole issue of responsibility for the government of the Canal Zone.

The first mistake was made by President Eisenhower in 1960 when he ordered the Panama flag flown beside the U.S. flag at one point in the Canal Zone. This error was compounded by President Kennedy in 1962 talks confirmed by a 1963 convention to fly the Panama and U.S. flags together at 56 points in the Canal Zone. Should we now be surprised that students were confused about authority in the Canal Zone or that Communists and demagogues exploited the confusion?

We must learn some day that weakness encourages violence. There is serious weakness in the U.S. posture in Panama.

Reports make clear that violence was a product of the failure of the Panama government to maintain order within its jurisdiction. President Chiari's public accusations against the U.S. spurred the rioting. Instead of demanding that he fulfill his responsibilities, the U.S. weakly submitted to outrage and violence. President Johnson should have severed diplomatic relations and hailed Panama before the O.A.S.

The action of General O'Meara in holding his troops within the Canal Zone un-as "a radical reactionary who would. . . dismantle the modern state." Lippmann then goes on to sneer that Goldwater's political philosophy has its roots "in the crude and primitive capitalism of the Manchester school," and that Goldwater's philosophy is that "of the newly rich on the make.'

Another example of the type of Liberal frothing-at-the-mouth that can be expected appears in a column by Max Freedman of January 13, which contains the following derogatory phrases: "Goldwater huddled in an over-crowded house in New Hampshire with some zealous supporters ...rasped out his criticisms..." Then, attempting to ridicule and/or minimize Goldwater's strong statements, Freedman opined that "The Senator sounded querulous," that is, according to the dictionary, peevish, fretful. Trying to blackout the persistent anti-Communist theme which Goldwater emphasized in New Hampshire, columnist Freedman, who apparently disapproves of the voter being given a choice between Liberal and Conservative viewpoints, referred to "the rather squalid level of a primary contest." And then, "While they (the candidates in the New Hampshire primary) are squabbling over petty local problems"... This, of course, is deliberate distortion inasmuch as many of Goldwater's remarks on his first tour in New Hampshire dealt with foreign policy problems. Here is a concrete example: At a news conference in Concord, New Hampshire, on January 8, Goldwater stated that if he becomes President he will train Cuban refugees to invade their homeland and "would be inclined" to provide U.S. air cover for an attack on Cuba.

To offset the very strong lead Goldwater now has for the Republican nomination, the Liberal establishment is frantically pushing forward Nixon, a member of the Council on Foreign Relations, as the so-called compromise candidate in a deadlocked convention.

On January 13, at the conference of the Associated Press' Board of Directors meeting in New Orleans, Paul Miller, President of the Associated Press and a New York Republican, stated, "Mr. Nixon is the most likely candidate." When questioned about Goldwater, AP chieftain Paul Miller stated, "Goldwater is a very fine man, but he has lost a lot of strength in the last two months." Miller didn't even bother to prove this statement. Apparently he realized that he couldn't! Or perhaps he was relying on some of those phony public opinion polls which have appeared recently in the daily press showing Nixon ahead of Goldwater. It will be interesting to see how long the pollsters attempt to carry out this deception.

GOLDWATER CAN WIN IF HE SPLITS OFF THE LIBERAL FACTION

trotted out the bugaboo of "don't split the Republican Party or you will help elect a Democrat President." The fallacy here is that the word "split" to most people means to divide evenly. If the Republican Party at the voter level were equally split or divided, it would, of course, help elect Democrats. This, of course, presumes that the Republican Party - at the voter level - consists equally of Liberal Republicans and Conservative Republicans. This is not true! At the voter level - at the precinct level - yes, and at the State level, with the exception of a few Eastern States, Republican voters are overwhelmingly Conservative. These Conservative Republicans at the State level, however, have been badly brainwashed by the handful of Liberal Republicans who control the superstructure of the Republican Party and who use the nation's press, radio and TV to continue to deceive the grass-roots Conservative Republicans into believing that they, the Conservatives are a minority in the Party. For example, in CFR-member Walter Lippmann's column on January 8, he discussed the, to him, horrifying possibility that Goldwater forces would dominate the Republican convention in San Francisco this July. Then, commenting on what would be the policy of the Goldwater forces, Lippmann predicted:

> "The established Republican leadership which is now grouped around General Eisenhower, is to be ousted and purged, and the Goldwater faction, which is a minority within a minority party, are to be invested as the only true Republicans."

Lippmann sneered at what he termed the "audacity of this claim."

Then, reflecting the great fear of the Eastern kingmakers that the Goldwater-Conservative forces might actually "win the day" at the convention, Lippmann lamented.

> "If he (Goldwater) is able to capture the Republican Party organization by getting himself nominated, the condition of the Party will be a shambles for the Republicans. The question in 1964 will then be not how to beat Lyndon Johnson, but how to survive the assault and the challenge of the Goldwater faction."

It is seldom one can find such an honest expression of alarm on the part of the Eastern Liberal minority which for years has been fooling the American people that they were the majority in the Republican Party. If they were actually the majority, they would have no reason to fear any Goldwater challenge.

Therefore, in order to disprove the myth that the Eastern Liberal kingmakers represent the majority viewpoint of the Republican Party, it is necessary that Conservative Republicans not "split the Republican Party", but instead, "split off" the [illegible] known as the Eastern

PILGRIM'S FEAST

MEET THE INTERN

(Reprinted from RICHMOND (V

It was a most curious group, with curious aims, that sat down to dine last November in New York. It was the sixtieth annual banquet of the Pilgrims of the United States an organization devoted to strengthening ties between the U.S. and Great Britain. In fact, the Pilgrims would like to do away with the national boundary lines altogether.

The Pilgrims are one of the lesser-known manifestations of the one-world cult. This particular sect would like to start a centrally controlled world with a nucleus of English-speaking nations, using the gradualistic approach which characterized Fabian Socialism. Although the doctrine sounds like the teaching of obscure crackpots, its members are among the most illustrious citizens of the world. Speakers at the dinner were Nelson Rockefeller, governor of New York, and Lester B. Pearson, Prime Minister of Canada.

From the speaker's table thundered forth deprecations against the slow progress of the Atlantic Community. Just about a year ago, it will be remembered, General de Gaulle upset the plans to convert NATO and the Common Market into an embryo United States of Atlantica. Rocky once more advocated a NATO "body" which would formulate NATO policy, including negotiations with Soviet Union and trading with the Communist bloc. In Rocky's view, the American role in such a body should be the same as our role in the UN. Presumably that would mean that the U.S. citizen would have one per cent of the vote and pay 40 per cent of the bills.

Prime Minister Pearson spoke with the same enthusiasm: "The Atlantic Community...must come to mean more than a military coalition of states, each primarily concerned about its own sovereignty." He said that national interests must be preserved, "but increasingly in the contest of collective policy and action." He argued that "to stand firmly and exclusively on the immutable and exclusive rights of national sovereignty in this nuclear, stratospheric, jet-propelled age makes as much sense as driving to this dinner with a horse and buggy."

There is no question that these senti-

Dans Reyes was one of a group of 20 Cubans who managed to seize a coastal passenger launch in December and flee their country. The floundering boat was intercepted by a Norwegian vessel and its occupants taken to Key West.

Another recently-arrived exile, Jose Manuel Fernandez Toledo, reports that whole battalions of Soviet troops have been moved into Matanzas Province, an area where anti-Communist resistance is strong.

Several exiles have given similar testimony: "Soviet trailer-trucks with low beds have carried cylindrical weapons covered by canvas" from base to base.

Another Cuban who fled his native land last month, Alfredo Luis, reports on the Communist activity:

"Soviet troops have moved into the Varadero Peninsula in force, and are feverishly constructing military fortifications. They are being constructed from the extreme point of the peninsula back to the channel of Chappalli, a distance of several miles, and consist of a series of Soviet military camps.

ments represent the general tenor of feeling among the men who are supposed to be the leaders of our nation. At the preceding banquet of the Pilgrims, a special medallion was awarded to former President Eisenhower for his devotion to "Anglo-American unity." President Kennedy telegraphed his personal congratulations. The only other winner of the Pilgrim's medal is Winston Churchill.

It would be an error to attach too much importance to this particular dinner or this particular organization. The Pilgrims are simply the same old faces giving the same old awards to themselves. On other occasions, these people assemble under the aegis of the Atlantic Union, the Citizens Council for NATO, the Foreign Policy Association, the Council on Foreign Relations, Arden House, the Bilderbergers, the American Assembly, or the United World Federalists. Here and there a name is different, and the stated purposes are a degree more or less Socialistic.

However, the end result is always a new assault on national sovereignty and a drive towards centralized control of the world. Partisans of liberty have always opposed centralized power because it leads to tyranny. We uphold the right of the individual to plan his own life, without the community planning it for him. We uphold the sovereignty of the States except in the few matters they have delegated to the Federal government. We uphold the sovereignty of the nation even when it joins with friendly allies for the common defense. The essence of freedom consists in divided powers, no matter how we drive to formal dinners.

The disease of liberalism lies in its neurotic fascination with collectivism. The Pilgrims of the United States no doubt believe that it is a fine thing to batter down national loyalties.

activity is being carried out openly by Soviet bloc officers and troops.'

Some of the most valuable information obtained by U.S. intelligence comes from the exiles who continue to flee Cuba in droves. On a single day last month 167 Cubans arrived in Florida on crowded boats.

So great has been the exodus, reports the Free Cuba Committee, that all available fishing craft have been confiscated to patrol Cuba's coast. Rocket-firing MIGS and Soviet patrol boats have sunk a large number of boats carrying Cubans to the States.

Some of these attacks have come in international waters. The "Ballerina," for instance, was shot apart by a MIG fighter that flew far from Cuba to kill the boat's seven occupants, including three children, were killed.

Four Cuban boys who fled in a 17-foot boat were rescued by an American merchant ship. They told of the terror in Cuba: "The regime is trying to forestall a popular uprising by resort to terror in which they shoot down anyone like a dog for the slightest reason. The government is as terrified as the people."

Observers expect that anti-Castro activity will step up in coming months. The bearded one has announced plans for compulsory military service, beginning March 1.

COMMUNIST AGITATION and RACIAL TURMOIL

WHAT IS BEHIND THE "CIVIL RIGHTS" REVOLUTION?

The Negro situation is being exploited fully and continuously by Communists on a national scale.
-- J. Edgar Hoover, Director
Federal Bureau of Investigation
January 16, 1958

Attorney General Robert Kennedy on July 25, 1963, issued a statement in which he said that "based on all available information from investigation and other sources" he had found no evidence that "any of the top leaders of the major civil rights groups are Communists or Communist-controlled." In his all-inclusive statement Attorney General Kennedy thus displayed his ignorance of the background of racial agitation in this nation.

An editorial in the July 21, 1963, issue of The Worker, official organ of the Communist Party, U.S.A., has this to say:

> The Communist Party of the United States wholeheartedly and selflessly supports the just struggle of the Negro people for freedom and integration in the political, economic, and social life of the nation.

In a statement before the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee released on January 17, 1960, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover quoted Lenin's statement made in 1902 that:

> We (Communists) must go among all classes of the people as theoreticians, as propagandists, as agitators, and as organizers . . . .

Mr. Hoover then went on to also quote instructions issued by the Communist Party, U.S.A., to its members as early as 1925, as follows:

> The aim of our Party in our work among the Negro masses is to create a powerful proletarian movement which will fight and lead the struggle of the Negro race against exploitation and oppression.

William Z. Foster, Communist leader, in his book, Toward Soviet America, published in 1932, discussed the role of Negroes by stating:

> The Negroes constitute a great potential revolutionary force . . . . The Negro masses will make the very best fighters for the revolution.

REDS PROPOSE NEGRO REPUBLIC IN SOUTH

As a means of enticing Negroes into the Communist revolutionary movement, Foster promised that in a Soviet America "the Negro will have the most complete equality – economically, politically, and socially."

In his book Foster also stated that:

> The right of self-determination will apply to Negroes in the American Soviet system. In the so-called Black Belt of the South, where the Negroes are in the majority, they will have the fullest right to govern themselves, and also such white minorities as may live in this section.

A Communist pamphlet entitled The Negroes in a Soviet America by James W. Ford and James S. Allen, published in June, 1935, by Workers Library Publishers, discussing the proposed Negro republic in the Southern part of the United States, declared:

> A Soviet government must confer greater benefits upon the Negroes than upon the whites, for the Negroes have started with less. This is the real test of equality . . . . The actual extent of this new republic . . . . would be certain to include such cities as Richmond and Norfolk, Va.; Columbia and Charleston, S. C.; Atlanta, Augusta, Savannah and Macon, Ga.; Montgomery, Ala.; New Orleans and Shreveport, La.; Little Rock, Ark.; and Memphis, Tenn.

NEGROES REJECT RED BAIT

Much to the disappointment of the Moscow-indoctrinated leaders of the Communist Party, Negro Americans did not fall for the bait of a Soviet Negro republic in the South because it soon became evident that the Communists were merely attempting to use the Negro. This was borne out by the late Joseph Kornfeder, former Communist, who appeared before the Joint Legislative Committee, State of Louisiana, on March 7, 1957, and testified:

> They (the Communists) aim to use the Negro – preach a doctrine of racial nationalism – in order to use the Negro for their purposes. Once they have used him, then they will do with the Negro what they have done in Russia with the peasant and the workingman.

Kornfeder's statement was corroborated by J. Edgar Hoover on January 16, 1958, when Hoover said:

> The (Communist) Party's objectives are not to aid the Negroes – but are designed to take advantage of all controversial issues on the race question so as to create unrest, dissension and confusion in the minds of the American people.

In his book, Masters of Deceit, Mr. Hoover pointed out:

> The (Communist) Party's sole interest, as most American Negroes know, is to hoodwink the Negro, exploit him, and use him as a tool to build a Communist America.

THE NEW RED LINE ON RACIAL AGITATION

In view of continuing failure to "sell" the American Negro on a Negro Soviet republic in the South, the 17th National Convention of the Communist Party, U.S.A., in December, 1959, announced an about-face on its long-established policy which advocated the formation of a Negro nation within the United States. This marked a fundamental change in the line of the American Communist Party which had dated back to 1930. Moscow-trained Negro Communist leader James Jackson, in explaining to the party faithful the turn-about on Communist policy stated that "it has been misconstrued as a form of segregation."

Because of this policy change in the Red line, white and Negro members of the CPUSA reverted to an alternative official program of action regarding racial agitation which had been spelled out in 1932 by Communist leader William Z. Foster in Toward Soviet America as follows:

> The Communist Party actively promotes . . . organizations to defend the rights of Negroes . . . Where no mass organizations exist in these fields, the Party takes the initiative in forming them; where such are already in existence, and are headed by conservative officials, the Party follows the policy of building an opposition within them and fighting for the revolutionary program and leadership. This is the so-called boring-from-within policy.

A column by Ray Cromley, appearing in the Birmingham, Ala., Post-Herald of August 8, 1963, reveals that the Communist Party, U.S.A., is now sending out Communists with specialized training, instructing them to infiltrate local branches of Negro civil rights organizations and to arrange for Party members to participate in local demonstrations. According to Mr. Cromley "this grass-roots attempt to infiltrate the civil rights movement is currently, at least – one of the major activities of the Communist Party, U.S.A."

Despite the zigzags of the Communist Party which may at times appear to be a retreat from former positions, the Communist Party, U.S.A., never deviates from its prime objective which is to overthrow the constitutional government of the United States of America by any means possible.

In the September, 1962, issue of Political Affairs, theoretical organ of the Communist Party, U.S.A., is found a deceptively understated declaration of Red aims, as follows:

> In the Negro peoples' movement the major task (for Communists, that is) is to support the struggle to end Jim Crow in housing, education, franchise, etc., and to stress the fight for jobs and adequate wages and relief . . .

REDS URGE NEGRO REVOLUTION

In a pamphlet entitled Turning Point in Freedom Road, by Negro Communist Claude Lightfoot, published in October, 1962, the screws were turned tighter when Lightfoot, calling for a step-up in agitation, stated:

> The Negro movement has, by and large, broken with gradualism, and seeks revolutionary solutions to its problems.

This new Red line admittedly promoting revolution in the U. S. was accentuated by Negro leader Benjamin J. Davis, national secretary of the CPUSA, in the August, 1963, issue of the Communist publication Political Affairs when Davis, in an article entitled "The Time is Now!" screamed:

> The whole country – north, east, south and west – is in the throes of a peoples' revolution . . . The Negro Freedom movement – American counterpart of the national liberation movements in Africa, above all, but also in Asia and Latin America – has, since Birmingham – entered a new stage.

Here is proof positive of Communist direction and control of such movements as the FLN (National Liberation Front) which took over Algeria, as well as Communist guerrillas such as the FALN (Armed Forces of National Liberation) in Venezuela.

Communist Davis, declaring that "the movement aims to demolish so-called moderation," went on to say that "the struggle" will be "fought out and won by the American people within the framework of the present capitalist system." Davis further said:

> Birmingham brought the simmering upsurge of the people to a revolutionary pitch . . . . Communists believe that the "freedom now" aims of the program answer the pressing democratic needs of the people and . . . (are) the central domestic issue before the country. At the same time, Communists believe the achievement of this program will lay an indispensable basis, not only for the further social program of the country, but for its socialist and communist future when U. S. imperialism . . . will be no more.

Promising Communist support of the so-called Negro Freedom movement led by organizations other than the Communist Party itself, Davis exulted:

> The Communist Party greets with boundless joy the present revolutionary freedom movement of the Negro people, and will spare no sacrifice to help bring about its total victory now . . . . There is a wide area of agreement between the Communist Party and the Negro Freedom movement on program, aims and tactics.

NEGROES MARCH ON WASHINGTON, D.C.

Following several months of feverish planning which manifested itself in a solid front of cooperation between the most important Negro civil rights groups in the country, more than 150,000 Negroes marched on Washington, D.C. on August 28, 1963. The disciplined, placard-carrying marchers, swarming over Constitution Avenue, bore a sinister resemblance to May Day scenes in Moscow's Red Square.

Who were the leaders and participants of this tightly-organized show of strength with its threatening overtones?

Among the Negro leaders in the forefront were, of course, Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People; Rev. Martin Luther King, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference; A. Philip Randolph, president of the AFL/CIO Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters; and Whitney M. Young, Jr., executive director of the National Urban League.

At the beginning of the ceremonies in front of the Lincoln Memorial, one of the speakers, paying tribute to W. E. B. DuBois, who had just died in Accra, Ghana, asked for a moment of silence. The huge crowd immediately complied, with bowed heads.

Who was this man, W. E. B. DuBois, whom the speaker referred to as "the father of the modern freedom movement," and what were his views?

DuBois, who is listed by congressional investigating committees as having had 96 Communist front affiliations, was a founder of the NAACP. In 1959, DuBois was a recipient of the Lenin Peace Prize.

The Communist official publication, The Worker, of September 1, 1963, in mourning the passing of W. E. B. DuBois, referred to a letter DuBois wrote to Communist leader Gus Hall when he, DuBois, joined the Communist Party, U.S.A., in 1961. Wrote DuBois:

> Capitalism is doomed to self-destruction . . . . In the end Communism will triumph. I want to help bring that day.

BACKGROUND ON N.A.A.C.P.

On more than two occasions in the past several years, listings of Communist affiliations of certain members of the NAACP have been entered in the Congressional Record. The NAACP, as could be expected, has attempted to whitewash such documentation, and on occasion has attempted to create the impression that it was an anti-Communist organization.

The shallowness of such professions of anti-Communism are clearly evident. For instance, in 1956, Leroy Watkins, then executive secretary of the NAACP, warned all chapters to guard against the "intensive efforts" of Communists to infiltrate the NAACP. At the same time, however, The Crisis, official publication of the NAACP, was recommending books by Negro Claude Lightfoot, then chairman of the Illinois Communist Party, and Doxey E. Wilkerson, member of the Party's national committee, as "must" background reading for Negroes.

Only two years later, in March, 1958, the NAACP leadership brought a court action in Florida seeking to halt an investigation by the Florida Legislature of Communist activity in that State.

The foregoing are examples of the so-called anti-Communist activities of the NAACP!

Gathings of Arkansas and appearing in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD July 29, 1963.

COMMUNIST PARTY SUPPORTS N.A.A.C.P.

Laying down the Party line, the January, 1956, issue of the Communist magazine, Political Affairs, stated:

> We must support the NAACP in this struggle with every ounce of energy at our disposal.

Abner W. Berry, in his column in the Daily Worker dated February 19, 1957, discussed a Communist Party convention resolution on the question of Communist cooperation and work with the NAACP, and commented:

> There was implied in the resolution that there would be no separate organizations set up by the Communists through which they would seek to steer the Negro people's movement, but rather they would support those organizations, such as the NAACP and similar groups in the South which were in the field . . . . Communists in labor unions are thus pledged to get their unions to support the NAACP to better express the alliance of labor with the Negro people. Communists in communities are pledged to aid in increasing the membership and financial strength of the NAACP, whether as members or not.

REV. MARTIN LUTHER KING

An article appearing in the March, 1935, booklet entitled Party Organizer, issued by the Central Committee of the Communist Party, U.S.A., stated:

> In the United States there are five million of the Negro population organized in fraternal organizations, ten million in churches . . . . We must systematically study how to penetrate among the millions of organized Negro workers.

In International of Youth, published under the authority of the Young Communist International, headquarters in Moscow, March, 1935, appears the following:

> . . . In the South, especially for the Negro youth, the church is the center of all cultural and social activity. It is here that we must work. By building our units in the church organizations, we can improve our work . . . In Alabama there are certain places in which we can in a short while take over the church organizations of youth under our leadership, and these can become legal covers for our work in the South.

By a strange coincidence, the leader of the riots in Birmingham, Ala., in April, 1963, was a Negro minister by the name of Rev. Martin Luther King. According to an article appearing in the New Bedford, Mass., Standard-Times:

> Mr. King was quoted as telling a Chicago assembly last year, "it (the Montgomery, Ala., boycott, in which there was much violence) is a part of something that is happening all over the world. The oppressed people are rising up. They are revolting against colonialism and imperialism and all other systems of oppression."

When Martin Luther King draws a parallel between the situation of the American Negro and "oppressed people's" rights against "colonialism" and "imperialism" he is following exactly, to the word, the Communist line.

The Negro ex-Communist, Manning Johnson, appearing before the Joint Legislative Committee of the State of Louisiana on March 8, 1957, testified regarding Communist infiltration of Negro churches in the South, stating:

> They (the Communists) had two-fold purposes . . . . First, to be in a position to pressure the pastor of the church to participate in various Communist-front activities . . . The other was to give a coat of protection and responsibility to the Communists operating in the South. For example, in a number of the States, the police officials were constantly after the Communists. Well, the best place for hiding was in the church. So they cloaked themselves in religion, becoming active members in the church.

Again, it is no coincidence that with increasing frequency Negro churches are becoming the assembling areas for mobilizing the Negro masses to pour into the streets in Negro demonstrations.

The activities of Martin Luther King have met with beaming approval by members of the Communist Party, U.S.A. In the pamphlet entitled Turning Point in Freedom Road published in 1962, the Negro Communist Claude Lightfoot praises Rev. King by describing his activities as "the healthiest sign in the whole Negro struggle."

THE STRANGE ASSOCIATES OF MARTIN LUTHER KING

King conducts most of his racial agitation activities in his capacity as president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. The national secretary of King's organization is a Negro by the name of Rev. Fred L. Shuttlesworth. An article in the June, 1963, issue of the Cincinnati Enquirer identified Shuttlesworth as also the new president of the Southern Conference Educational Fund. According to the article, both the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee and the House Committee on Un-American Activities have described the SCEF as an organization set up to promote Communism throughout the South. The field secretary of the SCEF is an identified Communist by the name of Carl Braden, of Louisville, Kentucky.

HUNTER PITTS O'DELL

Rev. Martin Luther King has a facility of attracting to his ranks men with highly questionable backgrounds. One of these is Jack H. O'Dell. An article appearing in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat of October 25, 1962, stated:

> A Communist has infiltrated to the top administrative post in the Rev. Martin Luther King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference. He is Jack H. O'Dell, acting executive director of Conference activities in southeastern states . . . From his birth in Detroit in 1923 until as late as 1958, he was known as Hunter Pitts O'Dell. This O'Dell, by whatever name, operates as a concealed member of the national committee of the Communist Party, U.S.A., according to a highly authoritative source.

On April 12, 1956, Hunter Pitts O'Dell invoked the Fifth Amendment when testifying before the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee. However, Robert Morris, counsel for the subcommittee, said information had been received that O'Dell was, in fact, district organizer for the Communist Party in New Orleans. Hundreds of documents seized at O'Dell's home substantiated his position in the Communist conspiracy.

Shortly after the above-mentioned article appeared in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat and in other newspapers throughout the country, King accepted O'Dell's resignation. When public attention was no longer focused on King and his relationship with O'Dell, King quietly rehired O'Dell. However, it soon became known that O'Dell was again in King's employ and, at a press conference in Atlanta on July 25, 1963, Rev. King admitted that on June 26 O'Dell had, "by mutual agreement," left the Southern Christian Leadership Conference for a second time. King gave as the reason his concern that O'Dell's affiliation with the integration movement would be used against it by "segregationists and race baiters."

In other words, according to Rev. King, anyone who brings out the fact that a man with Communist affiliations is associated in a prominent position with the civil rights movement is a "race baiter."

BAYARD RUSTIN

Another strange former associate of Rev. Martin Luther King is Bayard Rustin, a Pennsylvania-born Negro with a British accent. One of Rustin's activities during the period of five years that he served as secretary to Rev. Martin Luther King, was to organize King's 1958 march on Washington which the Communist publication The Worker called "a Communist project."

Briefly, here is the sordid background of Rev. King's former personal secretary:

On January 21, 1953, Bayard Rustin pleaded guilty in Pasadena, Calif., to a charge of sex perversion and was sentenced to 60 days. Earlier, as a student at the College of the City of New York, in 1936, Rustin joined the Young Communist League. In World War II he served 26 months in Federal prisons as a conscientious objector.

When A. Philip Randolph, chairman of the August 28, 1963, March on Washington, was confronted with the background facts on the March's deputy director, Rustin, and was asked if such a record would cause the replacement of Rustin, Randolph replied "No, he's Mister March himself! We couldn't do without him."

It is not surprising that Martin Luther King associates himself with characters tagged with Communist-front labels when King's own views are coming nearer and nearer to those of the Communist Party itself. In addressing the March on Washington participants in August, 1963, Rev. King promised that there would be "neither rest nor tranquillity in America" and that "the winds of revolt will continue to shake the foundations of our nation" until his aims are met.

The "revolt" or "revolution" which was so frequently referred to by the speakers in Washington is not really one for so-called Negro "rights," but is, instead, a revolution to seize political power in this nation in order to first hoist the flag of Socialism – and ultimately, Communism – over the United States of America.

WHAT YOU CAN DO

The Communist plan to use the civil rights movement as a vehicle for revolution in the United States must be fully exposed. The American people, both white and Negro, can defeat this plan to use racial agitation as a means to overthrow the constitutional government of the United States.

If you wish to help expose the plans of the Communists, here is what you can do: YOU

(1) Send a copy of this pamphlet to your Congressman and two Senators demanding a full Congressional investigation as to the extent of Communist infiltration of civil rights organizations, such as the NAACP, the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE), etc. In this way certain racial agitators can be officially identified as Communists or members of Communist-front organizations. Respectable Negro organizations can then guard against infiltration by such identified Communists.

(2) Use the documented facts in this pamphlet in writing letters to the editor of your local newspaper proving the Communist influence behind racial agitation in the nation or in your particular city. Be sure to send a copy of this pamphlet with your letter, thereby substantiating your statements.

(3) If the pastor of your church is unaware of the Communist influences in the civil rights movement, bring the facts in this pamphlet to his attention, as well as to the attention of the leading laymen in your church.

(4) Distribute copies of this pamphlet to department store owners, theater owners, hotel managers, etc., who would be affected by civil rights legislation which would deny business owners the right to choose their customers. Also, distribute copies to owners of business establishments on whose premises racial demonstrations have taken place or have been threatened.

(5) Mail or distribute copies to members of your local School Board and local judges in order that they may have these documented facts which bring the real meaning of racial agitation into focus.

This pamphlet is published by THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN, a national Conservative newspaper, which is dedicated to the restoration of Constitutional Government. A sample copy of THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN newspaper will be sent to you on request.

WHAT YOU CAN DO

It is the responsibility of all Americans to counter the propaganda of the One-Worlders who promote the United Nations. In 1962, Congressman James B. Utt of California introduced a bill to rescind and revoke membership of the United States in the United Nations and the specialized agencies thereof.

If you wish to join in this fight to preserve America's national sovereignty by withdrawing from the Communist-dominated United Nations, then buy and distribute as many copies of this pamphlet as you can. This pamphlet can be used as a tool to rally support for Congressman Utt's resolution calling for the withdrawal of the U. S. from the U.N.

Also use this pamphlet as a basis for letters to the editor of your local newspaper. Send copies of this TAX FAX pamphlet to your friends, neighbors, teachers, student leaders of high schools and colleges, newspaper editors, radio commentators, Chambers of Commerce, members of patriotic and civic clubs – and, of course, to your Congressmen and Senators, urging their support of Congressman Utt's bill to get the U. S. out of the U. N.

—NATIONAL SOVEREIGNTY OF U.S. IS AT STAKE—

AGGRESSION IN THE CONGO

In August, 1961, United Nations forces in the Congo abandoned their role as a force for peace and in the name of preventing civil war and restoring order, the UN launched a civil war and destroyed public order in Katanga, the most peaceful and best-ruled area in the Congo.

Senator Thomas J. Dodd of Connecticut, in a speech on the floor of the Senate on September 22, 1961, said, "The UN command in Katanga acted in a wanton and brutal manner against the spirit of the UN, and without authorization under the charter."

The United Nations attack against Tshombe's government was in support of the Communist-dominated government of Gizenga. Authoritative sources indicate that one-third to one-half of Gizenga's government were either Russian-trained Communists or men who have been appointed by Gizenga. Gizenga has been identified at least as a willing tool of International Communism. Fierce and cruel, mercenary Ghurka soldiers from India were used by the United Nations in their aggressive attack and attempted conquest of Katanga. These Ghurka troops were "guilty of brutalities that will forever stain the name of the United Nations," according to Senator Dodd.

Senator Dodd continued, "I would ask those who defend the United Nations action in Katanga whether they believe that the proper way of preventing civil war is to intervene against the intended victim and not against the aggressor."

If United Nations armed forces, originally organized to preserve peace, are used instead for aggression, then where can we expect another attack by United Nations "peace forces" against small independent nations?

WHAT WAS THE PRELIMINARY PURPOSE OF THE U.N.?

In 1945, when the U.N. was formed, the prestige, strength, and influence of the United States overshadowed all other nations of the world. The United Nations was devised as a means of shifting the balance of world power from the United States to the Soviet Union. A preliminary aim of the U.N. Charter was to achieve total control over American foreign policy. Because of clever manipulation of the U.N. by the Soviet bloc, American foreign policy is today paralyzed.

The basic foreign policy of the United States should be the defense of the free world against Soviet aggression. Today we find that so entangled has the United States become with the Soviet-dominated U.N. that instead of an independent foreign policy, the United Nations has now been substituted as the cornerstone of U.S. foreign policy. This subservience to the U.N. completely hamstrings all effective U.S. efforts to halt Communist aggression throughout the world.

"PEACE-LOVING" AGGRESSION BY THE REDS

Since the formation of the United Nations in 1945, (whose membership, according to the U.N. Charter is limited to "peace-loving" nations) Soviet and Chinese Communists have murdered millions of people. At the time of the signing of the U.N. Charter, 200 million people were behind the Iron Curtain. Today, 17 years later, by methods of "peaceful aggression," and using the U.N. as a screen for operations, the Soviet Union controls 900 million people throughout the world.

CUBA - A COMMUNIST SANCTUARY

The U.N. refuses to halt the complete Communist take-over of Cuba, only 90 miles from America's mainland. President Kennedy, in November, 1962, guaranteed Cuba to the Soviets as an invasion-free sanctuary. From Cuba, the Communists can launch subversive activities against the entire Western Hemisphere.

Clearly, the United Nations does not and cannot keep the peace. The U.N. merely preserves and solidifies Russia's conquest of the world by preventing the free world from taking any action whatsoever except to "debate" each new aggression in the U.N. General Assembly.

THE U.N. RECORD IN WAR

Although at the time of the Korean War there were 60 nations in the United Nations, 93% of the U.N. forces in Korea were American, and 95% of the total cost of the Korean War was borne by American taxpayers. Significantly, former Sen. William E. Jenner has pointed out:

"The United Nations policy during the Korean War was to prevent American military leaders and American fighting men from winning a victory over the Communist forces. Our commanders were not permitted the right of hot pursuit against attacking Red planes . . . . American forces were not permitted to carry the war to the soil of our enemy, but were compelled to limit all fighting to devastation of the territory of our ally. That was the U.N. plan in Asia . . ."

U.N. "supervision" of the Korean War resulted in the United States losing the only war in our history and at the tragic toll of 137,000 American casualties.

BEHIND THE KOREAN DEBACLE

The Communist conspirators who organized the United Nations were very clever, inasmuch as the control of the military forces of the U.N. has always been in the hands of the Soviet Union. The Under Secretary of Political and Security Council Affairs has always been a representative of the Soviet Union or Communist bloc, according to a letter written by Frederick G. Dutton, U. S. Department of State, dated October 26, 1962.

Article 47, Par. 3, of the U.N. Charter states:

"The Military Staff Committee shall be responsible through the Security Council for the strategic direction of any armed forces placed at the disposal of the Security Council."

Because during the Korean War, the Under Secretary for Political and Security Council Affairs was a Communist, all directives to Gen. MacArthur and reports from MacArthur regarding the Korean War passed through Communist hands. U. S. troops were prevented from taking any action against the Communist Chinese in the Korean War which did not meet with the approval of the Communist Under Secretary for Political and Security Council Affairs.

Any future wars or police actions fought by the U.N. or carried on by a U.N. World Police Force would be fought under the exact same incredible handicap because any such military operations would be controlled by the U.N. Security Council, operating under its anti-American rules and regulations.

BEWARE NATO TRAP

There are some who feel that NATO is a "shield" against Communist aggression. This, however, is refuted by the fact that although NATO purports to be a regional organization composed of Free World nations opposed to Communism, NATO is actually under the control of the Soviet-dominated United Nations. Article 53 of the U.N. Charter states that no regional organization can take any enforcement action (as a deterrent against aggression) "without the authorization of the (U.N.) Security Council . . ."

Article 54 of the U.N. Charter states that the U.N. Security Council "shall at all times be kept fully informed of activities undertaken . . . by regional agencies . . ." (such as NATO). The Soviet Union, a member of the all-powerful Security Council, exercises veto power.

SPIES IN THE UNITED NATIONS

J. Edgar Hoover, Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, has confirmed the charge frequently made that the United Nations provides a protective "front" for Soviet spies to operate freely in the United States under the cloak of "diplomatic status." In May, 1960, the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee issued a report prepared by J. Edgar Hoover entitled "Exposé of Soviet Espionage."

"Attention is called to the fact that many of the incidents and causes previously cited involved Soviet employees of the United Nations. They are guests of the United States and are supposedly dedicated in the cause of international peace. BUT they are, in fact, carefully selected envoys of the international Communist conspiracy, trained in trickery and deceit and dedicated to the concept of fully exploiting the freedoms of the countries they seek to destroy. It is too much to expect that they would not subvert the United Nations."

SOVIET CONTROL IN THE UNITED NATIONS

In October 1960, nationally known U.N. authority, Alice Widener, wrote in her syndicated newspaper column:

"The UN Personnel directory (document A/C. 5/L.564) lists the following UN Secretariat appointments at Headquarters in New York City:

Political Affairs Division, Senior Political Affairs Officer, Mr. Vladimir Jelinek, Czechoslovakia.

Disarmament Affairs Group, Atomic Energy Section, Chief, Mr. Otto Frey, Czechoslovakia.

Atomic Energy Section, Political Affairs Officer, Mr. Pavel Lukianov, USSR.

Department of Trusteeship and Information from Non-Self-Governing Territories, Under-Secretary, Mr. Dragoslav Protitch, Yugoslavia.

Trusteeship Agreements Section, Chief, Mr. Fedor Popov, USSR.

Economic and Social Council Secretariat, Secretary of the Council, Mr. Wladyslaw R. Malinowski, Poland.

Office for Europe, Middle East and Africa, Acting Chief, Mr. Svetislav Orlic, Yugoslavia.

Fellowship Placement Office, Placement Officer, Mrs. Dorit Kamil, Poland.

Office of Public Information, Principal Officer, Mr. Boris V. Karpov, USSR."

OUTNUMBERED MORE THAN 100 TO 1

In 1945, when the United Nations was formed, it was composed of 51 nations. One vote was allowed the United States, but the Soviet Union managed to obtain 3 votes – its own, plus a vote each for Byelorussia and the Ukraine, which are mere provinces of Russia.

Over the years a large number of new nations have been admitted to membership in the United Nations, so that the United States is now outnumbered and outvoted by more than 100 to 1.

U.N. BECOMING ANTI-U.S.

Included in recent admissions were newly-created African nations, most as primitive as the Congo, with strong leanings toward the Soviet bloc. Each of these new African nations has an equal voice with the United States in the U.N. General Assembly. Their combined vote, along with that of present members who oppose the United States, will, in the not-too-distant future, be enough to admit Red China to the United Nations. When that happens, the dominating influence in the United Nations will be the Soviet Union, seconded by its Red Chinese partners. This Soviet-Red China axis will be aided by Afro-Asian peoples unschooled in the philosophies of government or the principles of freedom, nations which have no concept of the laws of civilization.

When these new African nations begin to vote on the side of the Soviet Union, instead of abstaining from voting, the balance of power in the United Nations will swing to the Soviet Union. The United States will then be outnumbered and out-voted on every crucial issue!

U.S. FOOTS BILL FOR UNITED NATIONS

The United States actually finances the operations of the United Nations, which is becoming increasingly anti-American. We are committed to pay 1/3 of the costs of the UN, but because of our Foreign Aid program to some 70 countries around the world, we give away sufficient money to allow all of them to pay their dues to the United Nations. Thus directly and indirectly, the United States is paying practically the entire cost of the United Nations.

Since the formation of the United Nations in 1945, the Soviet Union has refused to pay its portion of some special U.N. assessments. Communist Russia has refused to pay its share of a special appropriation needed to finance U. N. intervention in the Congo.

Under the U.N. setup, United States taxpayers have been forced to make up the U.N. treasury deficit of millions of dollars, caused by Russia's refusal to pay her share.

In the final analysis, U.S. taxpayers are forced to pay for the financing of the Soviet-dominated United Nations, whose principal aim is the DESTRUCTION OF THE NATIONAL SOVEREIGNTY OF THE UNITED STATES.

VIEWS ON U.N.

Below are pro-American quotations regarding the purposes of the United Nations, NATO, world government, and the tremendous threat to the national sovereignty of the United States that any of these internationalist organizations pose:

"'Strengthening' the United Nations would have the same effect as transforming NATO into a federal government, except that it would hasten the communization of the world rather than of merely the NATO powers. We should remember that the U.N. bureaucracy was set up by socialists for socialist purposes, and that it is largely dominated by the Soviet socialists and their fellow travelers."

– V. Orval Watts, author of "United Nations: Planned Tyranny," Published by Devin-Adair Co.

"NATO has already proved its incompetence and impotence. Furthermore, to involve ourselves in a federal group with a socialist or semi-socialist state would be the ruination of this country. The United Nations has already done such grievous harm to this country as to warrant its being thrown out of the United States and the United States getting out of it. To cite but one example, it was the cause of our losing the war in Korea . . . ."

– Spruille Braden, former ambassador to Cuba, Colombia, and Argentina

"The U.N. as it stands is not only useless to us, it is positively harmful. It ties the hands of the free world . . . We will someday be outnumbered there, and then the U.N. could be turned against us by people who share none of our value systems, deliberately pervert the meaning of words, and deal in the cold cynicism of the Communist drive for world power. We should get the U.S. out of the U.N. and the U.N. out of the U.S."

– George F. Carter, Professor of Geography, Johns Hopkins University

EXAMPLES OF FANTASTIC FOREIGN AID

Your tax dollars were spent to finance the following:

(1) During the last 10 years India has received $1.3 billion dollars in aid from American taxpayers. In early 1959 India discovered oil and immediately made arrangements with Russia to build an oil refinery in India and agreed to purchase oil drilling equipment from Communist Russia!

(2) A $500,000 sawmill, shipped to Iran 3 years ago is still crated and apparently will never be used.

(3) Three huge irrigation pumps destined for Pakistan are being stored in Japan because the Pakistan government has shown no inclination to build a pump-house to put them in.

(4) $300 million dollars to Iran for a road that went nowhere and a dam that didn't materialize.

(5) A motor pool in an unnamed country showing that enough U. S. tires were supplied during one year to make 44 tires available for each truck . . . . Another country was sent enough ammunition to supply its army for 185 years.

(6) Millions of dollars to Jordan to relieve Jordan's budget deficit. What about OUR budget deficit?

(7) Millions of dollars to the tiny "under-developed" country of Kuwait whose sheik is now boasting of his new palace which has 90 air-conditioned rooms and a 20-room section for a harem whose occupants will enjoy an elaborate swimming pool.

(8) For the 271 members of the American Foreign Aid staff in Pakistan, your tax dollars bought 229 automobiles, 529 refrigerators, 650 stoves, 666 air conditioners and hired 1,021 Pakistan natives as gardeners!

FACTS ON FOREIGN AID

. . . . There are 86 nations in the world. We are giving "aid" of one kind or another, financed by your tax dollars, to 73 countries and territories.

. . . . Our National debt of $283 billion dollars is $47 billion more than the debts of all of the nations of the world put together!

. . . . "If we continue dissipating the wealth of the United States, we may wind up in a worse condition than a great majority of those countries we are now helping," says Congressman George W. Andrews of Alabama.

. . . . Every billion dollars that goes overseas for so-called "Economic Aid" to "under-developed" countries means that financial capital which could provide jobs for 10,000 Americans at home has been lost!

. . . . In 1958 when Congress voted $3.3 billion in new money for Foreign Aid there was a total of $8.2 billion of unexpended funds in the pipeline! The new $3.3 billion was completely unnecessary!

. . . . Great Britain has again cut income taxes and sales taxes. This new British tax cut was made possible because of the billions of your tax dollars shipped to Britain in Foreign Aid!

FOREIGN AID IS A FAILURE

The Big Spending Liberals who control both the Democrat and the Republican parties wish to continue FOREIGN AID FOREVER!

Foreign Aid has not halted the march of Communism . . . it has made enemies of our friends and has aided our enemy, Communism . . . it has squandered America's wealth to the four corners of the globe, and if continued can bankrupt America!

Foreign Aid Claims Are Fraudulent

"There is not one word in the Constitution which empowers the Federal Government to tax the people of this country to pay the bills for running other countries."
. . . . John T. Flynn, Author and Radio Commentator

SECRECY CLOAKS FOREIGN AID PROGRAM

Why have the American people been kept uninformed regarding where $85 billion of their hard-earned tax dollars have gone in the past 10 years under the Foreign Aid program? Even members of Congress cannot obtain the full facts and figures!

The promoters of Foreign Aid in years past, tried to "sell" the American tax-paying public on the idea that the purpose of Foreign Aid was to "preserve the Free World against World Communism".

However, this "phony" sales line has now been completely exposed, because in 1958 the Legislative Reference Service of the Library of Congress revealed the fact that . . . .

YOUR TAX DOLLARS ARE BEING USED TO "AID" COMMUNIST COUNTRIES

During the period July 1, 1945, to June 30, 1957, over $2½ billion of your tax dollars were sent to Communist or Communist-dominated countries such as Albania, Czechoslovakia, East Germany, Hungary, Poland, the Soviet Union, and Yugoslavia!

Tito of Yugoslavia, who frequently pledges his loyalty to the Soviet Union, now has the fifth largest airforce in the world – an airforce that can be used against the Free World – an airforce that was financed by your tax dollars in so-called Foreign Aid.

Also, pro-Communist Indonesia is using $300 million of our Foreign Aid to defeat the anti-Communist forces in that country!

STRENGTHEN OUR ALLIES? BUT THEY DON'T BACK US UP!

Another slogan of the "Foreign Aid" advocates is that we must "build up resistance to Communism". Over a period of years we have given almost a billion dollars in Foreign Aid to India, Indonesia, Egypt, Finland and Afghanistan. And yet, when a vote was called for in the United Nations to condemn Communist Russia for its brutal, repressive measures against the people of Hungary in the uprising in 1956, how did these "dollar-bought friends" vote? They abstained from voting! If these countries dare not state their views on such a clear-cut issue as Russian terrorism in Hungary, would they be dependable allies in any conceivable situation?

ECONOMIC AID TO "UNDER-DEVELOPED" COUNTRIES – A HOAX

Now that it has been revealed that Foreign Aid dollars, supposedly to be used to "fight Communism", are actually being sent to "aid" Communist countries, the Foreign Aid promoters have had to find a new "sales gimmick" for the Foreign Aid Program.

This new "angle" is that poor, undernourished countries provide a hotbed for Communist infiltration, and that, therefore, Foreign Aid should be used to "aid these under-developed countries so they can resist Communism". This is a very clever technique. It arouses the sympathies of generous Americans, but it is NOT TRUE!

The Citizens Foreign Aid Committee, sponsored by many of the leading Conservative figures in America today, has brought out the fact that not poverty but "Red armies, aided by local traitors and fifth columnists" have provided the means of Red take-overs. And then the Committee report states that some of the world's poorest countries, such as Turkey, Greece, Tibet and South Korea are the most courageous fighters against Communism and our most stalwart allies. The prosperous nations such as France, Italy and Venezuela are the ones where the Communists have made the greatest inroads!

DEVELOPMENT LOAN FUND – ANOTHER GIMMICK

There is another "front" utilized by the promoters of Foreign Aid to squander your tax dollars abroad. It is called the Development Loan Fund and lends money to assist American business firms in the establishment of overseas factories. The investments made by the Development Loan Fund are so risky that private industry refuses to gamble its stockholders money! Therefore, the Foreign Aiders take your tax dollars to finance these risky business ventures overseas, and in many cases your tax dollars are used to build factories overseas that will manufacture products that compete with those made by our American workmen!

PHONY "ECONOMIC WAR"

Still another "gimmick" used by the Foreign Aid promoters is to state that the Soviet Union has "declared economic war" on the United States, and that therefore billions of taxpayers' dollars should be spent in Foreign Aid to combat this threat.

The U. S. State Department says that since 1954, Soviet bloc countries have concluded agreements with under-developed countries outside the Soviet bloc for an estimated amount of $2.4 billion dollars for intermediate and long term credits and loans; and that we should meet this threat of "economic penetration" by spending more on Foreign Aid to under-developed countries.

But THE INDIANAPOLIS STAR has pointed out how fraudulent this new "approach" is. For example, the purported $2.4 billion Soviet "aid" program is based on the Soviet rate of exchange of 4 rubles to a dollar, when actually the U.S. dollar is worth between 25 to 50 rubles! If we use the rate of 24 rubles to a dollar we find that the "economic war" launched by Communist Russia actually means they are lending only about $400 million for a four-year period or $100 million a year; whereas, the United States is giving away about 60 times as much – $6 billion a year!

ALSO: United States private industry and business invests about $2 billion a year in foreign countries, and private charities send about a half a billion dollars overseas each year to "backward" areas. Therefore, we see that U. S. private industry and private charity are sending $2½ billion dollars overseas each year whereas the Soviet Union's "economic war" threat amounts to only about $100 million a year!

CERTAINLY THERE IS NO NEED FOR ANY FOREIGN AIE EXPENDITURES FOR THE PURPOSE OF FIGHTING AN "ECONOMIC WAR" WITH RED RUSSIA!

SUBJECT: The assassination of President Kennedy --
A telephone call from Mrs. Marguerite Oswald to Kent H. Courtney

Dear Mr. Hoover:

At approximately 5:45 PM on October 27, 1964, I answered my home telephone (University 5-1613) and a woman's voice introduced herself saying, "Is this Kent Courtney? This is Mrs. Oswald."

I did not know any Mrs. Oswald, so I said, "What are your initials?"

She replied, "I am the mother of Lee Oswald. My first name is Marguerite."

She then said that she wanted to know if I had ever had any personal contact with her son, Lee.

I answered that at no time had I any direct contact with her son.

I volunteered the information that the nearest contact I ever had was with Carlos Bringuiere, but I did not elaborate.

Mrs. Oswald then went on for several minutes in an apparently well-rehearsed statement in which she attempted to prove that her son was not the assassin of President Kennedy.

She pointed out what she considered several errors in the Warren Commission Report, while at the same time telling me that if her son had killed the President he would have been proud to tell everyone that he did and tell them why. At the same time she said that she was wrongly accused, that she did not alter her son Lee's birth certificate; but in a sort of double-talk she indicated that he might have altered the birth certificate.

At one point Mrs. Oswald asked me if my printing company had ever printed anything for the Fair Play for Cuba Committee. I told her that I had not printed anything, and that if he had come and asked me to print it I would have refused.

I have no idea why she called me or how she got my name, and I terminated the conversation as quickly as I could by repeating again, "I have had no personal contact with your son and therefore I don't think there is anything I can do for you."

I did volunteer the information that I thought the Warren Commission Report was incomplete and that I did hope after the election of Barry Goldwater that the new Congress would set up a special joint committee for further investigation into the assassination.

Knowing that Mrs. Oswald has been talking before audiences, arranged in some cases by individuals with Communist-front affiliations, and knowing that Mrs. Oswald is doing everything she can to confuse the issue, I would not be a bit surprised to see it reported that Mrs. Oswald might be saying things on the lecture platform claiming that she learned these things from me as a result of a telephone conversation with me, giving the hour, the date and time.

Therefore, this is the reason I am now informing you by this letter, and your Field Agents in Charge at the New Orleans and Dallas offices, concerning this conversation.

As you know, I have always made it a practice to send the Washington office and the local New Orleans office copies of all of our publications, and I wish to reaffirm the fact that we here at THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN shall always support the Federal Bureau of Investigation in its effort to control crime and the agents of the international, atheistic Communist conspiracy.

Constitutionally yours,

Correcting A GOP Misrepresentation

JOHNSON'S REPUBLICANS

BY PHOEBE COURTNEY, EDITOR

The National Republican Congressional Committee is currently circulating a fund-raising letter signed by Bob Wilson, chairman of the Committee, to all who financially supported Barry Goldwater last year. In his letter Congressman Wilson states:

"We need you as an active and informed Republican on the local level."

THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN is happy to assist the Republican National Committee in helping to "inform" Republicans throughout the country of the misstatements contained in an enclosure which accompanied Congressman Wilson's fund-raising letter. Excerpts from the Republican Congressional Committee enclosure follow:

"WHO SAYS THERE IS NO DIFFERENCE BETWEEN REPUBLICANS AND DEMOCRATS?

A recent non-partisan survey gives the answer. Key House votes were analyzed -- votes that would clearly put the advocates of economy on one side and the spenders on the other. Here is what the survey showed:

For the sake of discussion let us not consider the votes cast on Elimination of the Gold Cover and deal solely with the four bills involving the expenditure of billions of taxpayer dollars.

The Republican Congressional Committee enclosure stated that 83 Republican Congressmen have 100% economy ratings. And yet in our voting index compiled from the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD we found that of the 140 Republicans in the present session of Congress only 31 voted against the four bills mentioned above. Thus, contrary to the statement circulated by the Republican Party, actual figures prove that not 83, but only 31 Republicans have a 100% economy rating.

Following are the names of those actually earning a 100% economy rating based on these four issues: Andrews, Buchanan, Dickinson, Edwards and Martin of Alabama; Rhodes of Arizona; Don Clausen, Del Clawson, Lipscomb, Smith, Utt, Bob Wilson, and Younger of California; Callaway of Georgia; Hanson of Idaho; Collier, Erlenborn, Findley, Michel and Charlotte Reid of Illinois; Gross of Iowa; Dole of Kansas; Walker of Mississippi; Hall of Missouri; Battin of Montana; David Martin of Nebraska; Bolton and Devine of Ohio; Belcher of Oklahoma; Brock of Tennessee; and Poff of Virginia.

Nowhere in the Republican enclosure is the "recent non-partisan survey" identified; nor are the "key House votes" which were "analyzed" or the 83 Republican Congressmen who purportedly earned a 100% economy rating identified in any way.

The Republican enclosure states "figures don't lie." Oh, don't they? Let's see: THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN has just completed an analysis of how each member of the House of Representatives voted on five key issues in this new session of Congress. Votes were tabulated on the following: (After each issue appears the amount of money involved.)

(1) Federal Aid to Education ($1.3 billion)

(2) Elimination of the Gold Cover

(3) Increased appropriations for the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency ($40 million)

(4) Appalachia boondoggle ($1.1 billion)

(5) Medicare (Unknown billions)

Elimination of the Gold Cover and deal solely with the four bills involving the expenditure of billions of taxpayer dollars.

The Republican Congressional Committee enclosure stated that 83 Republican Congressmen have 100% economy ratings. And yet in our voting index compiled from the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD we found that of the 140 Republicans in the present session of Congress only 31 voted against the four bills mentioned above. The Republican flyer states that "only one Republican scores less than 50% for economy." Below are the names of 13 Republicans who voted FOR all four key issues tabulated and thus voted AGAINST economy:

Tupper of Maine; Mathias of Maryland; Fino, Halpern, Lindsay and Reid of New York; Corbett, Curtin, Fulton, McDade, Schweiker, Watkins and Whalley of Pennsylvania.

Thus it is seen that 13 Republicans -- not the "one" Republican claimed by the Committee -- scored "less than 50%" on economy issues.

The documentation of these statements refuting the claims of the National Congressional Committee are contained in a preliminary voting index entitled "Johnson's Republicans" researched and prepared by Kent and Phoebe Courtney, and published by the Conservative Society of America. If you wish to order a copy of "Johnson's Republicans" see the advertisement elsewhere in this issue for further details.

Is Congress Now A Mere Agency Of The White House?

By Edith Kermit Roosevelt

WASHINGTON -- We frequently hear in State Department circles that the United States and Soviet Russia will eventually "converge" and have the same political system. In practice, this is proving to be a one-way street. Soviet Russia is not becoming more democratic but the United States is beginning to Sovietize its political institutions. We are witnessing this in the style of the 89th Congress in its "first 100 days." Like the U.S.S.R. Party Congress, our legislature is functioning as a mere ceremonial body with all the power concentrated at the top of the bureaucracy.

Formerly, it was the Congress who drafted the bills. Now it is taken for granted that the White House should act in place of our legislative bodies. The Congressmen fall over one another in a pathetic eagerness to place their names on the identical bills which the President has prepared for them whether these concern immigration, education, apportionment or Medicare. No matter what the issue, Congressional hearings have become a mere formality. Conscientious, probing questions have gone by the board.

For a number of legislators, the line is laid down in advance by the Democratic Study Group located in Room 304 of the Old House Office Building. Before legislators step on the House or Senate floor, reporters can hear their asides to an aide, asking "How am I supposed to vote on this one?" Few bother to read beyond the few paragraphs on the "fact sheets" prepared by the Democratic Study Group and handed to them at the last moment.

Congressional staffs are of little help in this connection. These men, who usually come from the Congressmen's home districts, are generally inexperienced on the Washington scene. They rarely possess any sort of background, much less expertise, in matters involving foreign policy, weaponry, economics, science and technology, intelligence or any of the other specialists needed by those who govern. Hence, they are susceptible to one-sided indoctrination at the seminars and study groups conducted by those tax-exempt organizations which serve as extensions of the State Department and other Government agencies. They view such contacts as stepping stones to better jobs in the Executive branch of Government, opportunities for financial prerequisites or as the means of acquiring status in Washington's social whirl. Nor is this all. Federal officials even draft a number of major speeches for legislators on foreign affairs, military policy and other matters.

The system under which Congress is functioning as virtually a White

It was a $2.1 billion supplemental appropriation bill. It covers that amount of supposed budget reduction which was talked about last year but not acted on. It is to pay for overspending this year, on amounts appropriated by the Congress last year.

This is one of the things that happen to government "economies." Cuts that look good are made when the budget is going through Congress and getting all sorts of public attention. In the following months spending quietly goes on at a higher rate. With equal quietness a "sup-

Groundwork Laid For Formation Of Anti-Communist Party

BY KENT COURTNEY, PUBLISHER

The Congress of Conservatives, winding up its three-day meeting in Chicago on May 1, unanimously roared its approval of a 16-point Program of Action designed to preserve the Constitutional Republic of the United States of America. This 16-point Program is printed elsewhere in this issue of THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN.

Because neither the Democrat nor Republican Parties, under their present leadership, is supporting this pro-American, anti-Communist Program of Action, the Congress of Conservatives in their Declaration of Principles established an Advance Committee to encourage the formation of new political parties at the State level. The Advance Committee is composed of 40 individuals from 20 States who met in off-the-record caucus for two days and two nights before presenting their Declaration of Principles and Program of Action. This 40-member Committe, plus volunteers from the more than 425 individuals from 33 States who registered at the three-day Congress, are now at work in the several States recruiting leadership in order to establish new anti-Communist political parties.

As soon as a sufficient number of States show real and tangible upon which the new party is based. An article by Joe Norman of Enfield, North Carolina, answering the Richmond NEWS LEADER's attack appears elsewhere in this issue.

At the opening of the three-day convention sponsored by THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN, I was interviewed by the press and predicted that the Republican Party deserves to die if it does not become anti-Communist. I further stated that under the present leadership the Republican Party is not an anti-Communist party and pointed out that Dirksen was actually the "Assistant Floor Leader" for Johnson's pro-Socialist, pro-Communist legislation.

This apparently irritated the Chairman of the Republican Governor's Association, Governor Robert Smylie of Idaho, who told the Associated Press, "The Republican Party is an anti-Communist party, just as is the Democrat Party an anti-Communist party." Inadvertently Governor Smylie himself recognized that there is no difference between the Democrat and Republican Parties! If he calls the Democrat Party an anti-Communist party, then, of course, he doesn't understand Communism at all, and his statement illustrates

The possibility that a new national, anti-Communist party will be established earned nationwide press coverage while the Congress of Conservatives was in session. Follow-up stories a week later and editorials have appeared from Virginia to California, and from Long Island to Florida. Since the Congress took place THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN has heard from organizers who are hard at work in Montana, in Colorado, Florida and North Carolina.

Whispers of political revolution—to match the civil rights revolution—were heard immediately after the overwhelming Democratic victory last November. Now the pattern of that revolution is emerging. The outlook for local governments in cities and towns throughout the country is not good. A new political coalition now being quietly organized may well displace the workings of local governments without ever challenging local leadership in a legitimate election.

The formula is simple, and, if it is applied as its advocates wish, it will give the American political Left its greatest impetus since the Liberal-Communist Popular Front of the 1930's. Civil rights leaders and labor union leadership hope to utilize the massive Negro bloc vote now being created throughout the South by the Johnson voting rights bill as a basis for a new Leftist political coalition. Their ultimate aim is to expand the civil rights revolution into a full social, economic, and political revolution all over the country.

Civil rights leader Bayard Rustin hinted at such an expanded revolution right after the election. He envisioned more rent strikes, more rights demonstrations, and, ultimately, the political indoctrination of the nation's poor. Now, Rustin reveals, following a recent strategy meeting of civil rights leaders and union officials in Washington, that the new political force is already operative. It will be effectively working by the Congressional elections of 1966. Attending the strategy sessions called by United Auto Workers President Walter Reuther were representatives of Martin Luther King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference, the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee, the NAACP, CORE, and the Urban League.

The coalition will adopt Martin Luther King's tactics of involving all the people of a community in mass actions to achieve certain political goals. The coalition also would make full use of all provisions of the 1964 civil rights act, the voting rights bill when it passes, and the Johnson administration's war on poverty. Rustin indicated that coalition organizers would seek to use community action groups being set up under the poverty program to weld voting blocs among persons in low-income and slum areas.

An example of how such political infiltration from the Left could be accomplished was provided last week in Alabama when the Federal government awarded antipoverty funds to biracial groups in Birmingham and three other Alabama cities while ignoring the antipoverty units set up by the State government in the same communities. One grant of $66,349 went to a "non-profit corporation" set up last fall by a 30-year-old Birmingham lawyer more sympathetic to civil rights groups. Its title: the Birmingham Area Committee for Development of Economic Opportunity, Inc.

Such private antipoverty units are not subject to local government control. Operating on public money, they nevertheless remain outside the local public scrutiny and can function as the political indoctrination groups that Rustin envisions. It is diabolically simple: give the poor money, then vote them like sheep. It could happen here.

OUR POLICY

This newspaper is dedicated to the defeat of Socialist and Communist influences that now pervade the thinking and the policies of our Federal government and the two major political parties. We believe that there is no difference between a New Deal Democrat and a Socialist-Internationalist Republican.

This newspaper will continue to promote all individuals and organizations who believe that a new political party based on Constitutional States Rights is the answer to the Socialism that has captured both (formerly great) parties.

We will never align ourselves with any person or group which preaches hatred. Instead we will conserve our energy for the fight against atheistic Communism, and we pledge ourselves to LOVE OF GOD AND AN INDEPENDENT U.S.A.

OUR THANKS

Because we are political and "controversial" we have no advertising income. We therefore thank all of our readers who send donations every week so that more and more sample copies can be sent to patriots throughout the country. INSURRECTION BY NON-VIOLENT PROVOCATIONS

By Senator Strom Thurmond

A phenomenon until a few years ago almost unknown on the American scene has now become an almost daily occurence in the United States. The phenomenon is most commonly called a demonstration. It might take the form of a civil rights demonstration, a pacifist march against U.S. Vietnam policies, a campus revolt, or a sit-in of some variety.

For all the familiarity with such activities, through personal observance, television, and printed words and pictures, there appears to be precious little comprehension of what is actually occurring, among the public generally, and apparently even among some who participate.

The demonstrations, in actuality, constitute a professional application of the art of civil disobedience. The initial prerequisite is to establish the character of the activity as non-violent. This is accomplished by the time that point already been induced.

Civil disobedience embraces lawlessness, and the demonstrations ARE lawless. Those laws to be disobeyed are selected usually at the discretion of the directors of the operation. Occasionally, however, the participants expand the scope of the laws chosen by the leaders to be broken.

A distinction must be made between the grievances at which the massive civil disobedience is ostensibly directed at correcting, and the laws which are disobeyed in the process of the activity, for rarely are they either identical or related.

It is the provocative disobedience of laws unrelated to the ostensible grievance which distinguishes this as an insurrection, rather than a reform movement. Because the campaign of civil disobedience seeks to undermine through defiance a

WHERE DO WE GO

(Reprinted from FT. LAUDERD/

One of the most vexing problems that must be confronting President Lyndon Johnson today is how to keep the loss of American lives we are undergoing in the Dominican Republic from becoming a useless and tragic sacrifice.

For the time being there can be little doubt that the intervention of American troops did prevent a Communist takeover in this revolution-plagued country. This does not mean, however, that danger has been averted. The chances of a Commie takeover by force of arms have definitely been lessened by President Johnson's bold, and, to our way of thinking, justifiable action.

At the same time, however, the very fact that President Johnson has expressed a firm desire to get American troops out of the Dominican Republic just as fast as possible has increased the likelihood the Communists may still get exactly what they want in the Dominican Republic through diplomatic rather than military means.

What disturbs us, and we are quite sure disturbs many other Americans with even a slight knowledge of Latin-American affairs and political trends, is the speculation making the rounds that a trio of well-known Latin-American leftists has been selected to supervise things in the Dominican Republic, if and when peace is restored, and until such time as a free election can be held to select a new government to run the country.

Making up this trio are Luis Munoz Marin of Puerto Rico, Romulo Betancourt of Venezuela and Joe Figueres of Costa Rica.

When one considers that Juan Bosch, the former president of the Dominican Republic and a man who had a great deal to do with stirring up a revolution designed to bring about his triumphant return to the Dominican Republic, is a close friend of Munoz Marin, and was being sheltered in Puerto Rico all the time he was plotting the overthrow of the Donald Reid-Cabral government, Marin can hardly be classified as a neutral in this affair.

Marin has powerful friends in the U.S. State Department. He also has friends and influence throughout leftist circles all over Latin America, all of whom would like nothing better than to see a new regime in the Dominican Republic patterned on the same principles that brought

PROVOCATIONS

By Senator Strom Thurmond

A phenomenon until a few years ago almost unknown on the American scene has now become an almost daily occurence in the United States. The phenomenon is most commonly called a demonstration. It might take the form of a civil rights demonstration, a pacifist march against U.S. Vietnam policies, a campus revolt, or a sit-in of some variety.

For all the familiarity with such activities, through personal observance, television, and printed words and pictures, there appears to be precious little comprehension of what is actually occurring, among the public generally, and apparently even among some who participate.

The demonstrations, in actuality, constitute a professional application of the art of civil disobedience. The initial prerequisite is to establish the character of the activity as non-violent. This is accomplished through public protestations of the peacefulness of the activity, the willingness and readiness of the participants to docilely submit to whatever violence might be visited upon them, and usually by public statements on police brutality or the likelihood for its occurrence. In view of the violent tendencies inherent in mob psychology, there has been remarkably little overt violence by the activists. This is a tribute to the mastery of the techniques by the leaders and directors of the movement.

But non-violence is only one of the two major elements which comprise the successful civil disobedience operation. For civil disobedience success, non-violent a demonstration should be, but provocative it MUST be. Provocative is the other adjective, rarely enunciated, never advertised, which is the key to the success of the campaign of civil disobedience. It is almost invariably possible to mount an essentially non-violent activity, which is at the same time so provocative that it will require even the most benevolent authority to respond with forceful resistance -- if violence from unofficial sources has not at that point already been induced.

Civil disobedience embraces lawlessness, and the demonstrations ARE lawless. Those laws to be disobeyed are selected usually at the discretion of the directors of the operation. Occasionally, however, the participants expand the scope of the laws chosen by the leaders to be broken.

A distinction must be made between the grievances at which the massive civil disobedience is ostensibly directed at correcting, and the laws which are disobeyed in the process of the activity, for rarely are they either identical or related.

It is the provocative disobedience of laws unrelated to the ostensible grievance which distinguishes this as an insurrection, rather than a reform movement. Because the campaign of civil disobedience seeks to undermine, through defiance, a whole spectrum of the rules of society, the movement denies and seeks to subvert the very rule of law, itself. Necessarily, it also subverts the political order which the society has instituted for its own government.

The movement, therefore, is nothing more or less than a war against society and the existing political order -- in short, an insurrection.

When one chooses individually to openly defy a law, he becomes a criminal. When one conspires or joins an ORGANIZED effort to defy a whole spectrum of laws, he becomes an insurrectionist; and his participation constitutes a declaration of war on the society in which he lives.

Unless both the general public -- especially those confronted with such activities at close quarters -- and officials from the lowest to the highest levels of government soon perceive the real nature and purpose of the whole span of the campaign of civil disobedience we are experiencing, and act accordingly, our society and the governmental structure on which it is based will surely be destroyed.

That would then restore the situation in the Dominican Republic to just about where it was when a right-wing revolt, led by military figures fearful of Bosch's leftist

The purpose of THE RADIO EDITION OF THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN is to give the Conservative side of the vital issues concerning this country today.

Having tried and failed with previous variations on the theme, U.S. liberals have come up with a new edition of the "Communism is mellowing" line.

These days, we are being told the real trouble in the world is created, not by Moscow, but by Red China; that the men in the Kremlin are in effect our allies against the men in Peking; and that we must become more co-operative with the "good" Communists in the Kremlin to ward off the "bad" Communists in the Orient.

Such is the message emanating from liberal columnists in the press, the slick magazines and the public media generally; and such is the theory behind important policies of the American government. Thus we see augmented "cultural exchanges," an effort to step up "peaceful trade" with Moscow, bland words of conciliation from our diplomatic representatives. Yet the facts of international life are otherwise:

1 Up to their old tricks in Germany, the Communists have taken once more to harassing the flow of traffic into West Berlin, in violation of the post-World War II access agreements. This renewal of an ancient aggression hardly suggests that the European branch of the Communist enterprise has changed appreciably.

2 Two men, one an employe of the Pentagon, are taken into custody on charges of selling U.S. secrets to the Communist enemy. Without prejudging the guilt or innocence of the individuals involved, the episode makes it clear the FBI finds reason

The current uprising in the Dominican Republic shows only too well just what can happen by our ignoring the real threat that Cuba poses to this hemisphere. Communism, like a roving cancer cell, is difficult to isolate. So long as the Communists are permitted to maintain an untouchable sanctuary in this hemisphere, so long will they remain busy spreading the seeds of revolt and rebellion throughout every other country they can reach.

Today it is the Dominican Republic which is serving as the showcase of Communist-inspired chaos and revolution. Tomorrow it could be Venezuela, Panama or any of a number of other countries which have been prime targets for Red-trained and Red-financed agitators whose basic objective is to overthrow established anti-Communist governments all throughout Latin America and replace them with regimes more oriented to the Moscow-Peking line.

We had a golden opportunity to drive the Communists out of Cuba at the time of the Bay of Pigs fiasco and we had another opportunity during the Cuban missile crisis. On both occasions, however, we were too meek and too timid to press ahead, with the result the Monroe Doctrine was to all effect and purpose tossed in the ashcan.

Now, we are witnessing the bloody aftereffects of a policy of trying to coexist with a Communist sanctuary in our own backyard. Now, one of our closest neighbors is being forced to endure what has all the appearances of a Communist-inspired revolution which has already taken over 400 lives and wounded many hundreds more.

So, where do we go from here? Is President Johnson to be content with merely protecting American lives and property while doing nothing more than we have been doing to hit at the basic source of the trouble and unrest that threatens almost all of the nations in this hemisphere? Will he reinstate

Press Roundup

Why the Communist-inspired Voting Rights Bill Should Be Defeated

Although aimed directly at a few Southern States, it is realized by even many Northern newspapers that President Johnson's Voting Rights bill is a foot in the door for eventual Federal rigging of all elections.

Once the unconstitutional Voting Rights bill is adopted by Congress, it will become a legal precedent and its legal powers will be expanded by the passage of future, equally illegal laws.

Henry J. Taylor, National syndicated columnist

"It's astounding, but true, that the Communist Party, USA, actually planned the Johnson Administration's Voting Rights Act of 1965.

"The veil should be lifted on a fact of history, certainly unknown to our public and probably unknown even to most Congressmen and Senators who will vote 'yea.'

"They will be voting a 1956 project designed in Moscow.

"In December, 1956, The Communist Party, USA, began a program which it named the 'Lincoln Project.' Its target date for fulfillment should interest us today -- 1965.

"At its inception in 1956 the plan was published in Philadelphia by the respected American Flag Committee and read:

" 'To implement the Lincoln Project, the Communist Party's Central Committee will begin to dispatch agents to 11 Southern States next month (January, 1957) to work with local party leaders in surveying 20 counties, any one of which might be ideally suited as a target for disorder early in 1965.

" 'This survey will continue through 1957, the Central Committee making the choice of 20 counties...with the final selection to be made on the estimated most favorable conditions prevailing in 1965.

" 'The legislation which the (Communist) Party will seek from Congress in 1965 has already been prepared by its legal staff. It provides for elimination of all educational requirements, including minimum literacy tests, as qualifications for voting in Federal, State and local elections; voids residence with respect to counties, municipalities and other political subdivisions within a State and establishes a system of direct Federal supervision and control of the local, county, State and Federal elective process.' "

"The LBJ bill primarily attacks six States (most of which didn't vote for him) through a contrived formula that assumes illegal racial discrimination in voting without specific proof.

"Mr. Johnson isn't concerned about the violation of voting rights in Texas and Chicago and similar places. They are places that delivered their votes to him. What he is concerned about is getting the votes of the racial agitators and punishing those who vote against him. So he has drawn a phony formula that violates the Constitution, hits States that went against him and yet leaves grave injustices untouched.

"This hypocricy indicates the LBJ proposal is to provide him votes, not to provide all the American people constitutional voting rights."

These are questions President Johnson must answer in the days ahead, as it is becoming increasingly more difficult for him to justify the rising toll of American lives lost in Viet Nam while we continue to ignore the growing Communist menace that exists right off our shores.

"The President's Voting Rights bill, although allegedly aimed at racial discrimination, actually seems to be aimed at the existance of 'any test or device' in a State where less than 50 per cent of the voters were registered on November 1, 1964, or where less than 50 per cent voted in the presidential election of November, 1964.

"In other words, the 'test or device' is to all intents and purposes abolished in such states.

"It therefore is important to understand what is being abolished. The President's voting rights bill defines test or device as meaning 'any requirement that a person as a prerequisite for voting or registration for voting (1) demonstrates the ability to read, write, understand, or interpret any matter, (2) demonstrate any educational achievement or his knowledge of any particular subject, (3) possess good moral character, or (4) prove his qualifications by the voucher of registered voters or members of any other class.'

"In other States of the Union, a 'test or device' might be legally used to disfranchise a voter.

"In short, it would seem that a Negro who is illiterate in States covered by the bill will be given 'voting rights' that are not possessed by other citizens in this country."

The WALL STREET JOURNAL, New York

"When President Johnson... asked Congress for a new law to safeguard the voting rights of Negro citizens he rested his case on the Constitution and on the basic principle of morality.

"What he has now proposed that the Congress do is enact a law which would violate that Constitution he asks us not to flout and, more, which is itself immoral.

"....The requirement that voters be able to read and write is by no means restricted to those Southern States now the object of this special legislation. Many others -- including New York State -- require that qualification, as the Constitution entitles them to do.

"If it is immoral, as the President says, to deprive a qualified citizen of his right to vote 'under color of a literacy test,' is it moral to violate one part of the Constitution under the color of upholding another which is in no wise in conflict?

"Nor does the question end there, for what this bill proposes to do is to set up a double standard. Some States would be permitted to keep their literacy requirements. Others would not.

"To play with complicated formulas to measure justice by percentages, and to aim punitive laws at some States, not only violates both the letter and the spirit of the Constitution but buries the real moral question in sophistry."

WHAT TO WATCH FOR

By Phoebe Courtney, Editor

Conservative Republicans who so dedicatedly supported Barry Goldwater last year would do well to keep a close eye on the shell game being performed by the Republican hierarchy now that the Liberals have taken back control of the Republican Party.

On the right hand, party-loyal Republicans are taking pot shots at the adherents of a new anti-Communist party -- which would give the voter in 1968 a clear choice between Socialism and Americanism -- while at the same time attempting to fabricate a Conservative image for the Republican Party.

On the left hand, master-minded by Ray Bliss, the Liberal Republicans are now prepared to go all-out to elect GOP Congressman John V. Lindsay as Mayor of New York City. It should be borne in mind that Lindsay, a Leftwing extremist of the first order, is just as radical as Sen. Jacob Javits or Governor Nelson Rockefeller, or perhaps even more so.

An idea of the kind of campaign Lindsay will run was revealed in the May 15 issue of the NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE which stated that Massachusetts Attorney General Edward Brooke, a prominent Negro Republican, will be imported into New York City to help Lindsay garner the Negro bloc vote.

Indicating the strategy behind the running of Leftwing extremist Lindsay for Mayor against Robert Wagner, who will be trying for an unprecedented fourth term, is this sentence from the NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE: "Democrats and Republicans alike see the Lindsay candidacy as a golden, if far from odds-on, chance for the GOP to stage a dramatic comeback from last November's presidential defeat."

If Lindsay defeats Wagner, as THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN predicts (Ray Bliss has already indicated that he will throw vast sums into Lindsay's candidacy to insure victory) -- the Liberal masters of the Republican Party will proclaim that the espousal of Liberalism or "moderation," as they put it, is the only path for the Republican Party to follow. Scrupulously disregarded will be the fact that Lindsay differs in no way from the most radical Democrat. The New York City mayoralty race could in no way be considered a clash between Liberal and Conservative viewpoints. It is merely a popularity contest between two Liberals in an overwhelmingly Liberal-oriented city.

Should Republican Lindsay be elected as Mayor of New York City he would immediately attain national stature within the Republican Party.

Those Conservative writers and columnists who oppose a new independent, anti-Communist party and counsel instead "working within the framework of the Republican Party," are going to be called upon in the months ahead to exert every bit of their talents in wordmanship legerdemain to justify their position as to the practicality of "working within the Republican Party."

On Tuesday, April 27, Republican Congressman William L. Dickinson of Alabama, spoke for one hour on the floor of the U.S. House of Representatives on the "civil rights" disorders in his state. This was his second such speech.

What Mr. Dickinson had to say concerning a conspiracy between the U.S. Government and civil rights leaders to create a massive civil disturbance in Selma that could be quelled only by Federal troops, and of plans to invade Selma by the 101st Airborne Division -- should strike terror in the hearts of every American citizen who still thinks he is "free" and values his freedom.

The facts concerning the existence of the conspiracy are contained in the letter of Brig. Gen. F.W. Boye Jr., Deputy Chief of Legislative Liason, Office of the Secretary of the Army. Excerpts from General Boye's letter and later the whole letter were inserted in the Congressional Record as part of Mr. Dickinson's documentation.

Assistant Attorney Burke Marshall and Assistant Secretary of Defense Solis Horwitz attempted, while under oath, to convey the impression that no orders had been given to develop a plan to occupy Selma with Federal troops.

Neither of these men directly DENIED that such orders had been given, but their answers were both dishonest and equivocal.

They stated that they could find no "reports" or "written reports" in their files containing such orders.

Yet, in his letter, General Boye stated that the reconnaissance of Selma was made "under authority emanating from the Department of the Army, where information had been received indicating that a civil disturbance beyond the capability of local authority to handle was a possibility in the Selma area."

The statements of Marshall and Horwitz were made in the form of affidavits, which have the same implications for purposes of perjury as testimony given in a court.

What must one believe? Obviously either the Assistant Attorney General and the Assistant Secretary of Defense lied under oath, or else the orders of General Boye were made orally because someone did not want written records of such orders in the files. These orders were given more than 18 months ago, during the terms of President John F. Kennedy and At-

INVESTIGATE THEM ALL!

(Reprinted from CHATTANOOGA NEWS-FREE PRESS of 3/31/65)

There has been a tremendous demand from some leftwing quarters for a congressional investigation of the Ku Klux Klan. And if there is suspicion that the KKK is acting as a terrorist organization rather than that just some of its members have acted on their own as criminals, then there is no major reason the klan should not be investigated. But approval of an inquiry into the KKK has stirred a peculiar uneasiness on the part of those who proposed it.

For one thing, they don't want the House Committee on Un-American Activities to do the job. It has carried on responsible investigations of subversion for many years. The liberals hate to see that committee investigate the KKK since the lefties don't want to approve anything the Un-American Activities Committee does, because they don't like its exposure of Reds.

But there is still another reason -- and at the moment a most important one. It came out into the open yesterday as some of those who want the KKK investigated hesitated to approve a $50,000 appropriation to the committee to get the probe under way. The big reason was stated when Rep. Joseph Y. Resnick, D-N.Y., direly predicted the KKK inquiry "will lead to an investigation of Martin Luther King." And Rep. William Fitts Ryan, D-N.Y., declared, "What we really face is giving this committee an opening wedge for a witch hunt into civil rights organizations."

If the terminology confuses you, don't let it. You see, it's not a "witch hunt" if it's aimed at the KKK; it is a "witch hunt" if it is aimed at Red infiltration of the racial agitation groups. Or at least that's the way the lefties see it.

* * * * *

But investigation of the KKK alone is not enough. It would, in fact, be a ridiculous thing to survey the klan and yet fail to make searching inquiry into the other organizations and individuals involved in the racial strife that is tearing our nation apart and is breeding open and covert lawlessness.

The Un-American Activities Committee reports it is also making preliminary inquiries about the activities of the Black Muslims, the American Nazi Party and the Minutemen. But this alone would not scratch the surface.

It is time for there to be full disclosure of the facts about Communist infiltration and Communist front involvement in the chief racial agitation groups like Martin Luther King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference, the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee, the Congress of Racial Equality, the NAACP and others of similar nature.

There is no real question that Red-oriented infiltration has been considerable. There have been many involved whose records make their participation in agitation no less questionable than the activities of the Ku Klux Klan.

It is easy for he President to blast forth at the KKK in a speech following an atrocious murder and not lose any votes in the process. It is not so politically profitable to inquire into the activities of the integration agitation groups, and it could be politically costly. But the purpose of investigating either the KKK or the integration agitation organizations should not be political. The purpose should be the disclosure of facts that would provide greater security for all our people under the law and to unmask those who would destroy our American freedom.

Unless there is full examination in depth of the integration groups, as well as the KKK and similar organizations, the American people will have reason to believe President Lyndon B. Johnson's position is politically rather than idealistically inspired.

Americans ought not to be against only KKK violence or against only Communist-inspired violence. Americans ought to be against any and all violations of the law. Wrong is wrong because of what it is and not because of which side does it.

As Mr. Dickinson pointed out, the assassination of Mr. Kennedy, set back the timetable.

General Boye's letter reveals that U. S. Government officials were working hand-in-glove with "civil rights" leaders in fomenting "civil disturbances" "beyond the capability of local authority to handle." In other words, the Federal Government was conspiring to overthrow law and order in an American city to have apparent justification to quell such a "disturbance" with Federal troops!

The grave concern held by many Americans about a trend toward a Labor boss-dominated government at the national level has nothing whatever to do with the individual workers who belong to unions at the local level. Their fear, to the contrary, is that these people also will be captives of Big Labor leadership. One has only to think about the records of some national union organizations to get the point.

One mechanism Big Labor hopes to use to gain control without regard to local desires is compulsory membership. Its leadership already has put the squeeze on President Johnson for his help in outlawing "Right to Work" laws, which are on the books in 19 States. Congress is surely feeling the heat about now.

The impression given on the matter is that organized labor is determined and unanimous in seeking to repeal Section 14-B of the Taft-Hartley Law. Not so. Many individual members disagree that unions should have the power to force every man to belong in order to earn a living.

And certainly the Big Labor spokesmen do not represent the great majority of American workingmen who choose not to belong to unions. The record should show that there is substantial opposition within the ranks of unions to enforced membership.

Recently, while AFL-CIO leaders were planning strategy for their drive against 14-B, a protest demonstration was going on in front of the very headquarters where they met. It was conducted by AFL-CIO members who have formed themselves into a group called "Union Members Committee Against Compulsory Union Membership." A spokesman for the group expressed it very well: "We believe in good unions, but to force a man to join a union to hold his job is un-American, and we oppose that with all our might."

"He said the 'invasion' was forestalled when Selma officials arrested 'a Negro gunman and dope addict from Chicago' who was supposed to set off the rioting. He identified the man as Wolf Dawson, alias Curtis Hampton, alias Frank Dawson."

This is the full extent of the AP's reference to Mr. Dickinson's remarks concerning the invasion of Selma in the AP story in The Daily Advance of Wednesday, April 28.

The AP report in this newspaper on the same day, Wed., April 28, contained generally the same information, but was one paragraph shorter.

THE UGLY SIDE

(Reprinted from CHATTANOOGA NEWS-FREE PRESS)

Widespread attention has been given the ministers and nuns and others in distinctive attire who came from throughout the nation to participate in the recent Selma-to-Montgomery march generated by Martin Luther King, Jr. But very little attention has been given to another most significant group of participants -- those who displayed open immorality, promiscuity, obscenity and indecency.

All those present weren't idealists.

Some were bums and worse.

The cases of disgusting depravity were not rare, according to a number of eyewitness accounts that are beginning to come to light.

Why has not the Nation been given a true picture of the ugly side of the march? There are perhaps two reasons: (1) Some individuals, organizations and news agencies undoubtedly do not want the true picture to be given to the American people. (2) Other news agencies, ourselves included, are handicapped by not wanting to expose to the families who read our paper the detailed descriptions of shocking actions that were anything but isolated cases and have been reported by reliable persons who witnessed them.

If the Nation could be fully informed about "the other side" of the march, if the American people should be aware of the immorality openly displayed by members of each race and members of the two races together in and around the march, a sense of revulsion would undoubtedly arise.

The ministers and other church personnel who traveled through many States to take part in the Alabama demonstrations claimed they did so from an idealistic viewpoint. They claimed that they were acting in a moral sense. Well, isn't their moral sense outraged by indecent exposure, by promiscuity, by obscenity?

But there has been a notable lack of expression by these ministers on the march in condemnation of the immorality that surrounded them and that at least some of them were aware of.

Where is their moral voice on these matters?

Rep. William L. Dickinson, an Alabama Republican who represents the district including Montgomery, stood on the floor of Congress on March 30 and declared that "drunkenness and sex orgies were the order of the day" during the march, reporting also that "Negro and white freedom marchers invaded a Negro church in Montgomery and engaged in an all-night session of debauchery within the church itself. The leadership of the church had to get help to have these 'freedom marchers' put out of their church."

Rep. Dickinson expressed himself in language that was relatively restrained, and yet so graphic that we do not care to quote it directly and in full.

Nor does he stand alone. News representatives with good reputations for honesty have made similar reports. Law enforcement officers and others have commented similarly in private communications. There are many believable sources.

But the Nation as a whole has been given only a picture of idealism, of ministers and nuns marching with seekers of "rights."

It is time to recognize that this is not the full and true picture.

(Editor's note: THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN newspaper, like the CHATTANOOGA NEWS-FREE PRESS cannot bring itself to print the disgusting details of what really went on during the Selma march. However, if you have a strong stomach, you are directed to the speeches of Congressman Dickinson which appear in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD of March 30 and April 27.

Secretary Of "No Defense" McNamara Overrules Joint Chiefs Of Staff

By Fulton Lewis, Jr.

(Copyright, 1965, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, May 6 -- A member of the House Committee on Science and Astronautics has accused the Pentagon's civilian leaders of an "appalling" disregard for the national security.

Rep. John Wydler says the refusal of Defense Secretary Robert McNamara to proceed with work on a military space program threatens the nation's very existence. There is no longer a question, he says, of whether "space tanks," "space artillery," and "space sentries" will be developed. The only question remaining is when and by whom.

The New York Republican believes, too, that anti-missile defenses can best be operated by men in space. The possibilities of aerospace military reconnaissance, surveillance and communications are all too clear.

"In the face of this," Wydler says, "it is hard to understand the hesitancy of the Department of Defense and its inability to act decisively."

McNamara at this late date is still "considering the advisability" of the manned orbiting laboratory, the only major program yet proposed that is directed toward the utilization of military men in space.

Wydler calls for a crash program designed to win military control of inner and outer space. Noting the expenditure of billions for a moon probe that has little or no military significance, Wydler says that McNamara's refusal to proceed with work on a military space program is "impossible to justify."

The Defense Secretary is attacked, too, for a persistent disregard of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Sen. Strom Thurmond, a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, has charged that McNamara on five occasions this year over-

(1) The Joint Chiefs unanimously recommended the deployment of 1,200 Minuteman intercontinental ballistic missiles. McNamara slashed this figure by 200.

(2) The Joint Chiefs unanimously recommended development of a new supersonic, manned strategic bomber. McNamara ignored their request for $121 million, recommended instead the appropriation of $39 million. The Senate authorized the entire amount of $121 million, but McNamara has indicated he will not use the funds.

(3) The Joint Chiefs unanimously recommended the appropriation of $200 million for development of the Nike-X anti-missile missile. McNamara rejected the plea and cancelled work on the project.

(4) The Joint Chiefs unanimously recommended funds for development of the YF-12 interceptor aircraft. McNamara vetoed the recommendation.

(5) The Joint Chiefs unanimously recommended the production of six nuclear attack submarines. McNamara reduced the number to four. The Senate authorized funds for all six, but again there is little expectation that McNamara will permit the money to be spent.

Summing up, Thurmond charged that in "five of the most critical decision areas, where military judgments are most essential, the Secretary acted counter to the unanimous recommendations of the Joint Chiefs."

Thurmond, a general in the Army Reserve, charged McNamara with empire building. At the very time he is downgrading the Joint Chiefs, Thurmond says, McNamara is constructing a personal bureaucracy of awesome proportions.

But the greatest worry among Republicans is what Birch Society members and some other Conservatives will do if the party nominates a so-called moderate like Gov. George W. Romney of Michigan or Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania for president in 1968.

Summing up, Thurmond charged that in "five of the most critical decision areas, where military judgments are most essential, the Secretary acted counter to the unanimous recommendations of the Joint Chiefs."

Thurmond, a general in the Army Reserve, charged McNamara with empire building. At the very time he is downgrading the Joint Chiefs, Thurmond says, McNamara is constructing a personal bureaucracy of awesome proportions.

During the past four years, he reports, McNamara has increased his personal staff more than tenfold, from less than 3,000 to 34,000.

The Iron Hand of Bureaucrats

(Reprinted from SHREVEPORT TIMES)

The recent directive by the federal Commissioner of Education on the extent of desegregation that must be accomplished by local public school districts in order to be eligible for federal aid funds under the new program of President Johnson clearly shows the extent to which Washington bureaucrats intend to clamp their own iron hand of control onto the nation's public schools.

Where the federal Commissioner of Education is disregarding and by-passing the principles of desegregation of public schools established by the federal judiciary, another federal agency is disregarding provisions of the 1964 civil rights act. A federal commission has been established to pressure employers into employing more Negroes. This is not a campaign to employ Negroes in a ratio of Negro-white population, or a ratio of Negro-white job seekers fully qualified for such jobs as may be available. It is a campaign to employ Negroes regardless of anything else. In other words, it makes a color qualification for employment and thus becomes racial discrimination; the Negro would have preference over an equally qualified white man for a job—or perhaps even a not-so-well qualified Negro would have preference over a white man fully qualified.

So, in education we have a federal campaign to bi-color schools with instant desegregation — including faculties and other employes—regardless of federal court orders, and in employment we have a discriminatory campaign under which color of the skin is a qualification for a job, but only if it is not a white skin.

Cry for Wallace in White House Applauded

By WILLIAM J. CONWAY

CHICAGO (AP) — A suggestion that "we need George Wallace in the White House" touched off applause Thursday at the Congress of Conservatives.

The name of the Alabama governor, a prime figure in the controversy over civil rights, popped up in the midst of a long speech by Lester Maddox, who lost his Atlanta restaurant after he refused to serve Negroes.

The program of the three-day conference calls for a statement of principles Saturday that may become the basis for a new anti-Communist party.

COURTNEY CHAIRMAN

The chairman of the congress, Kent Courtney of New Orleans, La., whose political action monthly, the Independent American, is sponsoring the gathering, termed any talk of candidates premature.

He said 40 persons had been invited to a closed caucus to begin discussions of the possibility of starting a new political unit.

Nothing will be disclosed about the discussions, he said, until the windup Saturday which has been designated "new party day."

NEW PARTY ADVOCATE

Courtney, himself, is an advocate of a new party. "If the groundswell is as big as we think it is, it will come about," he told a news conference.

Meanwhile, Gov. Robert E. Smylie said in Boise, Idaho, on Thursday that there are no grounds for assertions that the Republican party "will die if it does not become anti-Communist."

"The Republican party is an anti-Communist party, just as is the Democratic party anti-Communist," the GOP governor told a news conference.

He said the Congress of Conservatives "is not a conservative movement. It is a money-raising campaign for Mr. Courtney."

Rightists Call For New Party

(Reprinted from the STAR-BULLETIN & ADVERTISER, Honolulu, Hawaii, 5/3/65)

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Congress of Conservatives ended a three-day meeting yesterday with a pledge "to participate in the formation of a national anti-Communist party."

A declaration said delegates to the meeting would comprise an advance committee to "encourage the formation of appropriate new state parties, support existing independent parties, seek the achievement of a national committee, and encourage the appearance of potential candidates for the new national party's nomination."

Delegates roared approval of a 16-point action program prepared by the political action executive committee.

The action program urged liberating Cuba "from its Communist conquerors."

"We should capture Chinese and Russian Communists now based in Cuba, and hold them as hostages pending release of Americans from Russia and Red China," the program said.

It also would:

- Reestablish free government on the mainland of China "as a permanent solution to Communist aggression in Southeast Asia."
- End "Federal support of Communist subversion of America through agitation of racial turmoil in the streets."
- Break relations with Russia and the East European satellites and continue nonrecognition of Red China.
- "Reappraise the political and military doctrines which have, during the past 20 years, reduced the United States from a position of incomparable power to a condition of national peril" and "stop unilateral disarmament."

The action program also proposed that the United States withdraw from all projects that would establish world government, severely restrict permanent immigration and "eliminate unconstitutional and uneconomic business and industrial operations of the Federal government," which would "make practical the repeal of the Marxist-oriented graduated Federal income tax."

The declaration said that "in every part of these United States, Americans by the millions are ready" to form a third political party.

The new party "will depose a corrupt establishment and resurrect the hopes of anti-Communists throughout the world," the declaration said.

Kent Courtney, New Orleans, La., publisher and chairman of the meeting, asked delegates to indicate their support of the declaration and action program.

They stood and cheered and there were no "nay" votes expressed.

Following the acceptance, former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker told the audience:

"I know you feel the historical importance of the event of this hour. We do not have a party in America today—any party. We have only a dictatorship."

3D PARTY BACKED BY CONSERVATIVES

But Its Creation Is Deferred in Chicago Resolution

Special to The New York Times

CHICAGO, May 1—A resolution of intent to participate in the formation of a national anti-Communist party was unanimously adopted by the Congress of Conservatives today at the final session of its three-day meeting.

The statement was much milder than had been indicated when the conservatives gathered here Thursday. Delegates said there had been a split, with a number of conservatives arguing that a break with the Republican party would help the Democrats.

The resolution called for an advance committee to assist and encourage the formation of conservative parties in the individual states and to seek achievement of a national committee.

The advance committee will operate without a chairman, but will have a secretary and a treasurer.

'More Realistic'

Today had been called New Party Day on the conference schedule, printed before the congress opened. The original intention was to proclaim the new anti-Communist party today so as to counter the celebration of May Day in Communist nations.

Kent Courtney of New Orleans, chairman of the meeting, explained that the mild third-party resolution was "more realistic." He said that conservative parties had to be organized in the states before a national party could become a reality.

Smylie, who is chairman of the National Republican Governors Association, said Courtney "makes no contribution either to Americanism or good government with his divisionary and exclusionary tactics."

When told of Smylie's comments, Courtney denied that he made any money from the conservative movement.

"This convention cost us money," Courtney contended. "We had to raise funds from subscribers (of the Independent American) to hold this convention."

Courtney said half of his publication's income comes from subscriptions and sales and the other half comes from donations.

CONSERVATIVES WANT THIRD PARTY AND GOV. WALLACE

CHICAGO, April 30 (UPI)—Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace "right now" is the man best qualified to run for President under the flag of a new party, the governor of a conservatives' convention said today.

"Wallace is the man of the hour," said Kent Courtney, New Orleans publisher, chairman of the "Congress of Conservatives." Top conservatives from throughout the nation are attending the three-day congress to decide whether to field a third party in time for 1966 elections.

If the group decides to form a third party, Courtney said, "and if today were 1968 and if Wallace is the man of the hour then as he is now, then he would probably be the presidential nominee."

Courtney said a third party, formed to battle a "Communist conspiracy" would be free of representatives of "hate groups."

"I want no political action with people who preach violence, hatred and bigotry," Courtney said. He made the remarks in a news panel program taped for broadcast Sunday.

Asked if Wallace could be attacked as a "racist," Courtney said: "Martin Luther King is every bit as much a racist as is George Wallace."

The three-day congress of conservatives, opened to "all patriotic Americans who oppose communism," was attended by Robert Welch, founder of the John Birch Society; Lester Maddox, former Atlanta restaurant operator and former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker.

Walker, who quit the Army after coming under fire because of his political training program for troops under his command in Germany, was critical of President Johnson and U.S. policy in South Viet Nam.

"Johnson's war is bipartisan, pro-left and a war of privity and privation," Walker said at a news conference. "Never has policy been so blindfolded and up such a blind alley."

Walker also criticized the nation's press for allegedly not permitting the Viet Nam crisis to become an issue during the presidential campaign of last November.

Chicago, Ill. — Ultraconservatives from 36 states, including members of the John Birch society, cheered Thursday when an Atlanta segregationist proclaimed:

"We need Gov. Wallace in the White House."

The occasion was a "congress of conservatives" promoted by Kent H. Courtney of New Orleans, publisher of a rightist newspaper, who hopes the meeting will lead to the formation of a new "anti-Communist" political party. Courtney said about 400 advance reservations had been made by persons from 36 states, including 20 from Wisconsin.

The militant segregationist who said that "that great, courageous American," Alabama's Gov. George Wallace, was needed in the White House was Lester Maddox, who sold his restaurant in Atlanta rather than bow to the civil rights law and serve Negroes.

Has Right to Bear Arms

Next to his remarks about Wallace, his statement that he once pulled a gun on civil rights demonstrators "because the Constitution says I have a right to keep and to bear arms," drew the biggest applause.

He said he had carried a gun because of a sharp increase in crimes in which people were "attacked, beaten, murdered and raped."

Maddox charged that Communists directed the civi rights movement.

Big Day For Right-Wing Heroes

CHICAGO DAILY NEWS
April 30, 1965

BY PAUL GAPP

It was a great day for the ultra conservative movement's two greatest living martyrs—Gen. Edwin A. Walker (Ret.) and Lester Maddox.

Walker said President Johnson "has come closer to being a dictator than any other man in the history of the United States of America."

Maddox, a Southern restaurateur-turned crusader, informally nominated Gov. George Wallace for the presidency in 1968.

Each time, delegates to the Congress of Conservatives applauded, cheered, whistled and stomped their approval.

And this was only the first day of the three-day congress out of which is expected to spring a third national party based on an anti-Communist platform.

Still to be heard from is the founder of the John Birch Society, Robert Welch, and Salt Lake City Mayor J. Bracken Lee, a prime supporter of the third party concept.

Whatever Welch's message, it may be anticlimactic after the bombast of Walker, who on Thursday twice lashed out at Republicans, Democrats, the American press, Communists and a dozen other targets.

The general, who was deposed for his "pro-Blue" indoctrination of troops in Germany, first spoke at a press conference where he charged that the news media are Communist-infested and Washington-controlled.

BUT Walker's big show was on Thursday night, when he addressed an almost-full house of 1,300 in the Sheraton-Chicago Hotel.

While the crowd filed into the grand ballroom, a seven-piece band played "Chicago," "I'm a Yankee Doodle Dandy," and "The Stars and Stripes Forever."

Delegates paraded down the center aisle, waving the flags of 36 states represented at the meeting. The master of ceremonies was Kent Courtney, New Orleans publisher and organizer of the congress.

RANGING over a sometimes confusingly related array of subjects, Walker returned repeatedly to Asian affairs.

"The greatest hoax ever designed . . . has already started," he said. "It was planned at Potsdam. It is that the Chinese are the number one enemy of the United States of America."

Walker said the overriding menace is Russia, and charged that there is a "coalition between Moscow and Washington, D.C."

Cries of "YES" and "THAT'S RIGHT" came from the audience as Walker drove home his main points.

Earlier, the other right wing martyr, Lester Maddox, also drew standing ovations.

Maddox closed his restaurant in Atlanta, Ga., in preference to serving Negroes who staged sit-ins there. He has since been stumping through the country in behalf of the right wing movement.

He accused the FBI and the Internal Revenue Service of maliciously harassing him and his customers during the restaurant's last days. He said his business was "stolen."

Maddox lashed out at civil rights leaders, federal power and President Johnson, then posed and answered a concluding question:

CHICAGO, April 30 (UPI)—Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace "right now" is the man best qualified to run for President under the flag of a new party, the governor of a conservatives' convention said today.

"Wallace is the man of the hour," said Kent Courtney, New Orleans publisher, chairman of the "Congress of Conservatives." Top conservatives from throughout the nation are attending the three-day congress to decide whether to field a third party in time for 1966 elections.

Many states already have such parties, he added.

"The final terms of organization will, of course, be set by a new national convention," the resolution said. "The advance committee will serve as a catalytic agent, and will not be an exclusive, divisive, or dictatorial body."

During the closing luncheon mimeographed sheets were distributed that sharply criticized President Johnson and the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt. Mr. Courtney interrupted the proceedings to say that the sheets had been distributed without authority and did not in any way reflect the opinion of the congress.

J. Bracken Lee, Mayor of Salt Lake City, told the 400 persons at the final assembly that he would like to see the two major political parties realigned along liberal-conservative lines. He said he did not expect this to happen.

Robert H. W. Welch Jr., founder of the John Birch Society, was presented by the congress with an oil painting of George Washington kneeling in prayer at Valley Forge. This was described as the first annual Joseph R. McCarthy Award.

It was explained that the congress planned to present such an award each year to an outstanding conservative. An accompanying citation praised Mr. Welch for his anti-Communism and his adherence to the ideals of the late Republican Senator from Wisconsin.

Conservative Group Ends Chicago Session

By WILLIAM J. CONWAY

CHICAGO (AP) — The Congress of Conservatives approved Saturday a declaration of its "intention to participate in the formation of a national anti-Communist party."

The three-day meeting also wound up with adoption of a program of action that, among other things, called for a liberation of Cuba.

Members of the congress stood, clapped and cheered the reading of that plank and this elaboration of it: "We should capture Chinese and Russian Communists now based on Cuba and hold them as hostages pending release of Americans from Russia and Red China."

This had been designated as "New Party Day." The day didn't bring forth a new party but it did lay the groundwork for what the leaders hope may become one in the future.

COURTNEY PAPER

"We offer the people the skeleton of a national organization," said Bard Logan of San Antonio, Tex., a member of the committee which drafted the approved document.

"It will be a reality only after they organize state parties," he told a reporter.

The congress was sponsored by the Independent American, a political action monthly newspaper published by Kent Courtney.

Courtney, who served as chairman of the sessions, said 500 persons had registered.

The participants voted to set themselves up as an "advance committee" to "encourage the formation of new state parties, support existing independent parties, seek the achievement of a national committee and encourage the appearance of potential candidates for the new national party's nomination."

The declaration said, "Final terms of organization will be set by a new national convention." No time or place was set.

One of the organizations exhibiting literature at the meeting which will continue through Saturday, is Let Freedom Ring, based in Sarasota, Fla. It uses a telephone service in various cities to spread "patriotic messages."

The current message in Chicago imputes pro-Communist leanings to former President Eisenhower and urges listeners to buy the book "The Politician," in which Robert H. Welch, founded of the John Birch society, accuses Eisenhower of being a conscious agent of the Communist party.

Courtney was applauded when he described the book as "a wonderful biography."

Mrs. R. E. Duhnke, Appleton, carried Wisconsin's flag in a parade of state flags opening the "rally for America." She is attending with her husband. She said they had been invited by the John Birch society, of which she is a member.

THE CINCINNATI ENQUIRER

Robert Welch

(CHICAGO (CDN) — The founder of the John Birch Society had the last word at the Congress of Conservatives here, and he used it over and over again in his 60-minute address.

The word was "insanity."

"The whole country is one vast insane asylum," said Robert Welch, "and they're letting the worst patients run the place."

While a banquet audience of several hundred in the Sheraton-Chicago Hotel cheered and applauded Friday night, Mr. Welch explained why he believes the nation's behavior is psychotic.

"The United States has sent bubble gum to Turkey, Metrecal to Cambodia and sex stimulants to China," said the former candy manufacturer from Belmont, Mass.

U. S. strategy in South Vietnam is "having the country fall into Communist hands without making it appear that we pushed it," said Mr. Welch.

Foreign aid is speeding the outflow of gold and weakening the nation's economic position, he said.

Mr. Welch characterized U. S. Supreme Court Chief Justice Earl Warren as the "leading hero" of Communists in the United States.

The appointment of Justice Warren to head the committee investigating President Kennedy's assassination was "so absurd as to approach insanity," said the founder of the nation's most powerful right wing organization.

Other purported events and situations that Mr. Welch described as symptomatic of national madness included:

• A San Francisco dance for homosexuals, which Mr. Welch said was sponsored by a group of Protestant . . . strikes at many things

• A National Council of Churches' recommended reading list, which, Mr. Welch said, includes "books that cannot be sent through the mails."

• A college organization founded in memory of the Chinese Communist soldier who killed John Birch, the martyr for whom the society is named.

Immorality and collectivism are the two keys to the Communist scheme for domination of the United States, said Mr. Welch.

There are "1000 manifestations" of moral, spiritual, political and economic confusion across the nation, he said.

Among those listed by Mr. Welch were urban renewal, "press distortion," soft treatment of criminals, pornography and poor school curricula.

Mr. Welch likened the civil rights struggle in the United States to the post-war revolutions that have spawned many newly-independent nations.

He said the Communist master plan calls for an "independent Negro-Soviet republic to be carved out of the United States."

If the plan succeeds, said Mr. Welch, "thousands of white citizens will be murdered in the South. Tens of thousands of good Negroes themselves will be tortured and murdered . . ."

The Federal government is abetting the scheme, Mr. Welch declared, "and this borders on insanity."

So cunning are the Communists that they cannot be outsmarted on an intellectual basis, he said.

"Morality sees further than intellect. We must fall back on the moral code of the days when we really had one."

Birch members hate no one, said Mr. Welch. "We only hate the evil they do."

The current message in Chicago imputes pro-Communist leanings to former President Eisenhower and urges listeners to buy the book "The Politician," in which Robert H. Welch, founded of the John Birch society, accuses Eisenhower of being a conscious agent of the Communist party.

Courtney was applauded when he described the book as "a wonderful biography."

Mrs. R. E. Dahnke, Appleton, carried Wisconsin's flag in a parade of state flags opening the "rally for America." She is attending with her husband. She said they had been invited by the John Birch society, of which she is a member.

Some 1,300 persons attended the night session.

Loud applause greeted that boost for the Alabama governor by Lester Maddox, the Atlanta restaurant owner who closed the doors of his eating place rather than comply with the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and serve Negroes.

In an address titled, "Where Were You While the Light Of Freedom Burned Low?" Maddox said:

"My business was stolen from me by President Johnson and others who conspired to destroy constitutional government."

Among the others, Maddox included a person he referred to as "Humpty-Dumpty-Humphrey"—obviously a reference to Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

The crowd loved that line.

Maddox suggested that all those who slept while freedom's light burned low should "get ourselves under one banner." And that banner, he proposed, should be carried by such stalwart conservatives as Clarence E. Manion, Dan Smoot and Edwin A. Walker.

• The simultaneous existence of school prayer bans and permissiveness to the extent of allowing pupils to "shoot dice or stamp on the American flag."

This had been designated as "new party day." The day didn't bring forth a new party but it did lay the groundwork for what the leaders hope may become one in the future.

Dr. Fernando Penabaz is shown in conversation with General Richard B. Moran just prior to the Friday, April 30, luncheon where both were featured speakers. Dr. Penabaz, who is now affiliated with the Christian Crusade of Tulsa, Oklahoma, has a daily radio broadcast over hundreds of stations in Central and South America. Educated in the United States, Dr. Penabaz received his Doctor of Civil Law from the University of Havana, and is one of the more knowledgeable and effective of the refugees from Cuba who is actively fighting the Communist menace here in the United States.

Dr. Penabaz several times brought the over-flow audience to their feet with cheers and applause. He also presented some startling facts concerning the extent of Castro's network of espionage and subversion which now extends everywhere in the United States, as well as in South American countries. Dr. Penabaz interspersed his factual presentation with delightful intervals of humor and sarcasm, effectively emphasizing the danger of American apathy. He showed how Cuban businessmen were apathetic, and as a result they were murdered, their properties confiscated, their children abducted to Russia and their wives and daughters defiled.

More than 1600 people filled the Grand Ball Room of the Sheraton-Chicago Hotel to hear General Edwin A. Walker address the anti-Communist Rally sponsored by the Congress of Conservatives. General Walker covered a wide range of subjects for over an hour to an enthusiastic, applauding audience.

The responses to his question was the basis of his impressive speech entitled "Many Voices Have a Message for America." The essence of their messages was that Americans should recapture our Constitutional Republic and reject Socialism, appeasement and surrender.

Western Division Manager of American Opinion Bookstores, who spoke on Thursday afternoon, April 29, on the subject "The Patriotic Bookstore, A Center of Community Activity." As a result of his participation in the Freedom Fair at the Congress of Conservatives, Mr. Voit has just informed us that more than 20 individuals expressed sincere interest in opening new American Opinion bookstores.

To the right of Kent Courtney, standing, is Dr. Hardgrove S. Norris of St. Augustine, Fla., who spoke on the afternoon of Friday, April 30. His report revealed Communist influences in the demonstrations at St. Augustine, but he pointed out that the rioting did not take place until after the Federal Government had interfered with the right of the city to declare martial law and maintain peace and good order.

Capt. Eugene Guild, left, of Glenwood Springs, Colo., Director of Fighting Homefolks of Fighting Men, introduced General Walker at the anti-Communist Rally on Thursday evening, and also made a 20-minute speech on Friday afternoon, April 30. In his speech Capt. Guild emphasized the fact that one of the most serious factors affecting the morale of the members of the armed services is the fact that the Defense Department seems to be following a policy of abandonment of our fighting men who have been captured in the Korean War and in various brush fire wars during the last 15 years.

To the right of Kent Courtney, publisher of THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN, which sponsored the three-day conference, is author and lecturer, Medford Evans (Ph.D). Dr. Evans has been associated with the John Birch Society as a State coordinator; he did research and assisted General Walker in connection with the hearings on the muzzling of the military; he is the author of "The Secret War for the A Bomb," and is a regular contributor to the American Opinion Magazine. His speech at the Congress of Conservatives on Friday morning, April 30, eloquently upheld the historical truth that Negro slavery is an African Negro institution; that the white man in America, although he purchased slaves from slave owners, should not be held responsible for enslaving the Negro. Rather, the white man in America should be proud of the fact that our ancestors freed the Negro. Dr. Evans' speech will shortly be available in printed form under the title "Civil Rights Myths and Communist Realities." It will be published by the Conservative Society of America.

Four Southerners confer at the Congress of Conservatives. Kent Courtney of New Orleans, master of ceremonies at the opening day luncheon, is shown above greeting Lester Maddox (left), restauranteur emeritus of Atlanta, Mrs. J. Milton (Larry) Lent, founder of The Conservatives of Savannah, and Gen. Richard B. Moran of Kerrville, Tex. Lester Maddox was the featured speaker at the Thursday luncheon. General Moran spoke at the Friday luncheon on "The Insanity of Unilateral Disarmament." Mrs. Lent was the first speaker of the afternoon session on Friday, April 30, and spoke on the subject of organizing for citizen political action.

The opening event of the anti-Communist Rally on Thursday night which featured the speech of General Edwin A. Walker, was a roll call of the States. There were delegates from 34 States present at the Congress of Conservatives. A volunteer from each of these States carried his State flag up the center aisle and placed it on the stage where these flags formed a back-drop for other meetings. Patriotic music, played by a Dixieland band, was an exciting part of the ceremonies before the introduction of General Walker by Capt. Eugene Guild of Glenwood Springs, Colorado.

Robert Welch, right, is shown accepting an original oil painting of George Washington in prayer at Valley Forge. The painting is estimated to be over 115 years old and was presented to Mr. Welch in connection with the first annual Senator Joseph R. McCarthy Great American Award presented by the Conservative Society of America to the nation's outstanding anti-Communist. Kent Courtney, National Chairman of the CSA, made the award on behalf of the members of the Conservative Society of America.

Shown above is the Thursday luncheon meeting in the King Arthur Room of the Sheraton-Chicago Hotel. More than 260 people were present to hear the speakers, Dr. George Hess, and Lester Maddox. The crowd was electrified with the rousing speech given by Mr. Maddox, the first victim of the unconstitutional Civil Rights Act, who told of his persecution by various agencies of the Federal Government which finally resulted in the closing of his Pick Rick Restaurant in Atlanta, Ga.

Dr. Douglass has taken the basic idea of a telephone message service and turned it into a nationwide patriotic message service called "Let Freedom Ring." Any group of patriots, for a cost of less than $50 a month, can arrange to lease from the telephone company a message machine. The messages, which are printed and sent weekly to all members of the Let Freedom Ring patriotic service, are recorded by a local voice. Each week the message changes in conformity with the national pattern. Hundreds of thousands of Americans are receiving these short, two-minute messages each week. All they have to do is dial a local telephone number. For further details concerning Let Freedom Ring, write P.O. Box 645, Sarasota, Fla.

Flanking General Walker are Mrs. Kent (Phoebe) Courtney and Kent Courtney. Mrs. Courtney made her first speech at the Congress of Conservatives on Saturday, May 1, at which time she analyzed five major pieces of legislation which have been voted upon in Washington so far this year. After discussing each piece of legislation proposed by the Johnson Administration, Mrs. Courtney named the long list of Republicans who voted for such Democrat-sponsored bills. She also documented how so far this year out of a total of 140 Republican Congressmen, only 71 voted Conservative more times than they voted Liberal; 15 Congressmen divided their votes equally between the Conservative and Liberal positions and 54 Republicans, out of a total of 140, voted Liberal more times than they voted Conservative. Mrs. Courtney's speech was based on a new voting index just published by the Conservative Society of America titled, not unexpectedly, "Johnson's Republicans."

He pointed out that when both parties carry out the same programs which aid Socialism and Communism, you don't have a two-party system. In fact, you don't have any party system. Gen. Walker said that "What we have now is a no-party system and that means a dictatorship."

Declaration Of Principles

With a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, the Congress of Conservatives,

Chicago, May 1, 1965,

Affirms its faith in the principles of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States of America, as conceived and intended by the Founding Fathers. God created people; people created the States; the States created the Federal Government; and God, not government, is the rightful Master of the people. We rededicate ourselves to the divinely inspired Ten Commandments and the Sermon on the Mount.

Recognizes that an attempted world revolution -- external and internal, violent and nonviolent -- threatens to destroy the Union, subvert justice, incite domestic disorder, liquidate the common defense, abuse the general welfare, and steal the blessings of liberty from ourselves and our posterity.

Discerns the danger of our becoming a one-party nation, like all one-party Socialist nations under Communism, where no man's life, liberty, or property is safe from agents of the dictatorship.

Recalls with rising hope that in November, 1964, twenty-seven million Americans would not be seduced or intimidated by power, but voted the conscience of a Conservative -- thus, in effect, constituting themselves a reserve army of freedom and, in view of subsequent capitulations, a virtual Committee of 27 Million for the formation of a new national party -- the largest united articulate minority in America.

Records its conviction that most of the 43 million who voted another way were equally dedicated to the principles of Americanism, but simply did not have the facts -- or else did not have their votes counted right.

Declares its intention to participate in the formation of a national anti-Communist party. In this critical year we are confident that in every part of these United States, Americans by the millions are ready. We urge every patriot to prepare to make his own contribution to this party of faith, freedom, independence, and prosperity -- the party of the future, which will depose a corrupt Establishment and resurrect the hopes of anti-Communists throughout the world.

Constitutes an Advance Committee to assist in every possible way all who support the principles of this Declaration and the following Action Program. The Advance Committee will encourage the formation of appropriate new State parties, support existing independent parties, seek the achievement of a national committee, and encourage the appearance of potential candidates for the new national party's nomination. The final terms of organization will, of course, be set by a new national convention. The Advance Committee will serve as a catalytic agent, and will not be an exclusive, divisive, or dictatorial body. It will have no chairman, but will have a secretary and treasurer. The treasurer shall be bonded, and decisions as to disbursements, placing of funds in escrow for the new national committee, or other disposition, shall be made by the full Advance Committee.

Attaches herewith a program of action recommended to the American people, to the new national convention, and to constituent State parties.

Action Program for Preservation of The Constitutional Republic of the United States of America

To return to sane national policy, the following action should be taken "with all deliberate speed":

1. Reappraise the political and military doctrines which have, during the past 20 years, reduced the United States from a position of incomparable power to a condition of national peril. This means stopping unilateral disarmament and reconsidering the whole arms-control-and-disarmament policy, program, and agency.

To return to sane national policy, the following action should be taken "with all deliberate speed":

1. Reappraise the political and military doctrines which have, during the past 20 years, reduced the United States from a position of incomparable power to a condition of national peril. This means stopping unilateral disarmament and reconsidering the whole arms-control-and-disarmament policy, program, and agency.

2. Withdraw from any and all projects looking to the establishment of World Government, as being at best futile, and at worst catastrophic. The United Nations has failed to keep the peace and is now being used as a smokescreen for Communist aggression. The UN should be developed away from the concept of a universal police agency under the Secretariat to a legitimate forum of free nations with equitably distributed financial support.

3. Break diplomatic, cultural and trade relations with all governments which are openly creatures of the Communist Party. This means, in the first instance, Soviet Russia and her East European satellites. It should go without saying that it also means continued non-recognition of Red China.

4. Liberate Cuba from its Communist conquerors. In the achievement of this objective, which traditional American hemispheric policy, as contained in the Monroe Doctrine, requires, we should capture Chinese and Russian Communists now based on Cuba, and hold them as hostages pending release of Americans now being held by Russia and Red China. The importance of liberating Cuba is emphasized by its use as a base for military and paramilitary operations against the United States and the Western Hemisphere.

5. Re-establish free government on the mainland of China as a permanent solution to Communist aggression in Southeast Asia.

6. Extend the frontiers of real freedom by judicious use of the financial, military, and moral power of the United States. Openly declare as an objective the liberation of the enslaved nations, both the so-called satellites, like Poland and Hungary, and those swallowed up and lost, like the Baltic nations.

7. Manage foreign aid so as to assist only those nations which support the struggle against Communism, and so as to check the gold outflow which now threatens this Nation with financial disaster.

8. Stop Federal support of Communist subversion of America through agitation of racial turmoil in the streets.

9. End the news-management syndicate of Big Government, Big Business, Big Labor, and the monopolistic media of communications.

10. Revitalize the national economy through recognition of the power of personal and private enterprise. This is the most effective approach to the problem of poverty. Socialism, in contrast, leads to Communism, with the far deeper poverty of abject slavery. Reduce the elephantine Federal bureaucracy. Eliminate un-Constitutional and uneconomic business and industrial operations of the Federal government, which elimination will make practical the repeal of the Marxist-oriented, graduated Federal income tax. Uphold the right to work. End Federal land grabs. End programs of intervention in agriculture which make the American farmer at once a ward and a slave. Respect the integrity of the medical, legal, and other professions.

11. So long as we have significant unemployment, severely restrict permanent immigration. Establish immigration policies which protect the American freedom which sincere immigrants come here to find.

12. Renovate the program of internal security. To this end, support not only the anti-subversive work of the Federal Bureau of Investigation but also that of the House Committee on Un-American Activities and the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee.

13. Restore the dignity of the Supreme Court. Restore the Constitutional balance of the coordinate branches of the Federal Government.

4. Liberate Cuba from its Communist conquerors. 14. Uphold local law-enforcement officers in the performance of their duties.

15. Return control of education to the States and to the people.

16. In the American tradition of separation of church and state, resist the political activities of churches, and the quasi-religious activities of the Federal Government. The best Peace Corps America ever had was conducted by private missionaries.

NEW PARTY OFFICIAL ANSWERS CRITICAL EDITORIAL

By Joe Norman

Editor's Note: : If we here at THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN interrupted our day to reply to every derogatory, sneering, snide editorial which has ever been written about us or our activities, we would have no time for anything else, which would suit the Leftwing just fine!

On May 12 an editorial entitled "Mr. Courtney's Conservatives" written by Jack Kilpatrick appeared in the RICHMOND (Va.) NEWS LEADER. While Mr. Kilpatrick is not a Leftwinger and did not sneer too openly, his editorial was, however, far more revealing than he doubtless intended it to be because it is now obvious that Mr. Kilpatrick believes in "working-within-the Republican Party" regardless of the fact that the Liberals now control the GOP. The RICHMOND (Va.) NEWS LEADER wrings its editorial hands over the probability that a new national anti-Communist party could, in their words, "drain off enough Conservative voters in closely contested elections to defeat the more Conservative of the two major party candidates." In other words, it would appear that Mr. Kilpatrick prefers, instead, for the American people every four years to continue to have merely a choice between the lesser of two evils -- with a Geiger counter becoming standard equipment for the voter to detect even a trace of Conservative principles in the platforms or candidates of the two major parties.

THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN says "No!" .and so does a member of the Advance Committee to Form a New Party, Mr. Joe Norman of Enfield, N.C., who visited Mr. Kilpatrick on his way home from the Congress of Conservatives in Chicago.

Below is the reply by Mr. Norman to the editorial which appeared in the RICHMOND (Va.) NEWS LEADER of May 12.

Dear Sir:

As one who attended Mr. Courtney's 1965 "Congress of Conservatives," I feel bound to clarify some of the statements in your editorial, "Mr. Courtney's Conservatives," published May 12.

The editorial at one point states, "These earnest men have let their principles get clean away from political reality." Possibly, we are proudly guilty as charged. This sentence means, to me, that we were not expedient. The general belief among the more than 600 dedicated people from across the nation was that we, as amateurs, had no desire to be expedient with the welfare of the land of our fathers and that the Official Party, now divided into two branches one called, Democratic and the other Republican, is a past master at expediency. We had no wish to compete in this category. However, we knew we had an open field, for the Official Party's principles, or should I say the lack of them, are well known. The "Congress" in Chicago was aware of the ridicule to be piled on by being so inexpedient as to stand on principles but, even so, faced the issues squarely and fearlessly. With little change your sentence could be fitted to the Dem-Rep Party, "These just Constitutionalist) would do would be to knowingly hurt any true Conservative or any Conservative cause. We plan to band together to help, not hinder. We will endorse and work for any Conservative regardless of party label. Is it unrealistic to expect Scranton, Rockefeller, Romney or Nixon to be nominated by the "me too" branch of The Party in 1968? We have had enough of these "Little Sir Echoes." Is there any difference between these four men of tried expediency and Mr. Johnson, other than each would like to be president? What choice is there in a carload of such ministers of expeditious schemes and contrivances? To take a stand, they first inquire which way the wind presently blows. For a 1968 presidential candidate do you not think the Second Party should nominate someone of Senator Thurmond's caliber?

What of the role of the Second Party in the States in 1968? The consensus of the "Congress" in Chicago was to leave that entirely in the hands of the State leaders. For the most part it was thought that the time was too short to try to have a complete slate of candidates by then for congressional, State, county and town offices. However, it was also the strong consensus that we could be most effective by endorsing and working for Conservative candidates regardless of which branch of The Party

Republicans And Democrats Support This Insanity

The tremendous total of over $11 billion is available for Foreign Aid spending in the current fiscal year ending June 30, according to the Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott column of April 2, 1965.

This sum, which consists of unspent Foreign Aid appropriations voted by Congress in recent years, does not include President Johnson's $3.4 billion Foreign Aid program for the coming year. One fact is certain: Billions of authorized Foreign Aid Funds will be carried over into the new fiscal year.

Below is graphically illustrated the colossal failure of the U.S. attempt to "buy" friends around the world via Foreign Aid handouts of U.S. taxpayer dollars:

- Marshall Tito, who received half a billion dollars in weapons as a part of $2.5 billion in aid from the U.S., has patched up his differences with Moscow.
- Cuba, which received $52 million in U.S. Aid, has established the first Communist beachhead in the Western hemisphere.
- Cambodia, which received $376 million, last Fall announced that she wants no more U.S. aid.
- Indonesia, which has received $932 million, is now in the Red China and Russian camp.
- The United Arab Republic, having received $952 million in U. S. aid, continues to menace American interest in the Middle East.
- In nations receiving U.S. foreign aid, 66 U.S. embassies, USIA libraries and AID offices have been attacked by mobs during the past three years.
- In the UN, 41 countries receiving U.S. aid voted against the U.S. at least 50 per cent of the time.

While we have been trying to "buy" friends, our gold reserve has dropped from $22,857,000,000 on December 31, 1957, to $15,596,-000,000 on December 31, 1963, a drop of $7,261,000,000 in six years.

The President has announced his concern over American tourists spending money in foreign countries, thereby increasing our gold shortage.

Dear Sir:

As one who attended Mr. Courtney's 1965 "Congress of Conservatives," I feel bound to clarify some of the statements in your editorial, "Mr. Courtney's Conservatives," published May 12.

The editorial at one point states, "These earnest men have let their principles get clean away from political reality." Possibly, we are proudly guilty as charged. This sentence means, to me, that we were not expedient. The general belief among the more than 600 dedicated people from across the nation was that we, as amateurs, had no desire to be expedient with the welfare of the land of our fathers and that the Official Party, now divided into two branches one called, Democratic and the other Republican, is a past master at expediency. We had no wish to compete in this category. However, we knew we had an open field, for the Official Parry's principles, or should I say the lack of them, are well known. The "Congress" in Chicago was aware of the ridicule to be piled on by being so inexpedient as to stand on principles but, even so, faced the issues squarely and fearlessly. With little change your sentence could be fitted to the Dem-Rep Party, "These expedient men have let their political reality get clean away from principles."

We would be "clean away from political reality" if we would remain in the Official Liberal Party, hereafter called The Party. On which branch of this merged party could we expect a voice? Has not the Rep branch just kicked Mr. Goldwater out because of his leaning toward the principles set forth by this Conservative Congress? Was not Goldwater's last word, "Unity"? Would it be "political reality" to expect Messrs. Javits, Rockefeller, Romney or Scranton to adopt our principles for their 1968 platform? It may be that we are not realistic. We hope we are.

I have been asked many times since my return from Chicago, "If there is a new party formed, what will happen to the Republican Party?" My answer is, my concern is not for the Republican Party. As a lifetime Democrat, it is not for that party either. Both of these merged parties have betrayed everything which I hold dear. My concern is the United States of America, not parties. We have "partied" too long and it is now past time to place country first.

Our crying need is for a Second Party. There is presently no party of opposition. Javits, Rockefeller, Romney, Scranton and company actually damaged Goldwater far more than Johnson in the 1964 presidential campaign. Now the Rep [illegible] firmly in their hands.

Just Constitutionalist) would do would be to knowingly hurt any true Conservative or any Conservative cause. We plan to band together to help, not hinder. We will endorse and work for any Conservative regardless of party label. Is it unrealistic to expect Scranton, Rockefeller, Romney or Nixon to be nominated by the "me too" branch of The Party in 1968? We have had enough of these "Little Sir Echoes." Is there any difference between these four men of tried expediency and Mr. Johnson, other than each would like to be president? However, it was also the strong consensus that we could be most effective by endorsing and working for Conservative candidates regardless of which branch of The Party they are now affiliated. This we will do.

Now that I have tried to remove most of the thorns of your editorial I wish to thank you for saying we were "sincere." I believe I could take an oath on that for the entire group. All these 600 dedicated people from across our beleaguered nation want is Constitutional government. Further you state, "...they are in this venture not for money, but love...." What better motive could any have in this day of false nonviolent brotherly love? "...and when they invoke the name of Divine Providence, they feel their faith pulling at their heart." We prayerfully hope to attain and maintain this standard. "When they speak of principles, they mean principles, the word underlined and italicized, unbending, unyielding; and they recite their convictions with more dedication than the typical churchgoer who mumbles a preoccupied path through his creed." Later, you call us "kinda" ignorant. After the above quote I can accept the latter appellation with relish. If through ignorance we attain such high praise I intend to remain "ignorant." I do not believe any group in the last several hundred years has received a greater compliment than the above. For my small part in this Congress I am humbly thankful and meekly beg to live up to your high estimate. You have my undying appreciation for that sentence and I am sure I speak for the entire 600, who, enthusiastically, without one dissenting vote, accepted the principles of the Congress. Edmund Burke said, "The only thing necessary for the triumph of evil is for good men to do nothing." We are not guilty of this sin of omission.

Thanking you, I am

The President has announced his concern over American tourists spending money in foreign countries, thereby increasing our gold shortage.

Representative Otto E. Passman, Chairman, Foreign Operations Subcommittee on Appropriations, pointed out in a report on March 15, 1965, that the U.S. debt exceeds by $34,300,000,000 the debts of ALL OTHER COUNTRIES IN THE WORLD. Why should any foreign country borrow money to meet operating expenses when they can simply apply to the U.S. for Foreign Aid?

And why, why, why, do the American people continue to permit this futile and criminal squandering overseas of America's wealth?

They will not let it slip again. What of Congress? Have not Mr. Dirksen and Mr. Ford beaten a path to the White House for weekly orders? Are there many, or any, in the Democratic branch with better Democratic voting records than these two? Should we trust our future to their frivolous foursome or the dubious duet? Is it "political reality" to follow these groups? We insist it is not.

As a constant and appreciative reader of the News Leader editorials it is difficult for me to understand the statements, "Mr. Courtney's redoubtable little army proposes to march off in a dozen directions at once." And "...there should be no mistaking the truth that many of these principles and programs have a following." Rather than "a dozen directions" should it not have said two? We only accepted and endorsed the teachings of the Bible and the upholding the Constitution of the United States, as written. I had thought the editorials of the News Leader over the past several years had strongly stood for these selfsame everlasting principles. Is it right to speak of these ideals, but wrong to implement them? I think not.

The American Conservative Union

By Phoebe Courtney, Editor

THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN newspaper has received numerous inquiries from its subscribers asking its views regarding the newly formed organization known as the American Conservative Union.

A column by the CHICAGO TRIBUNE's Walter Trohan which appeared in the ATLANTA TIMES of January 3, 1965, described an organizational meeting he attended two weeks previously of a group now known as the American Conservative Union. Stated Mr. Trohan:

"Goldwater isn't being put to death, but he is being consigned to political oblivion by those who believe they can raise $250,000 in the first year, and more thereafter, by forming his Conservative backing into a tightly knit organization, which they plan to control."

Chairman of the new organization is former Congressman Donald C. Bruce of Indiana; vice chairman is Congressman John M. Ashbrook of Ohio; the secretary is Robert E. Bauman, national chairman of Young Americans for Freedom; and the treasurer is Frank S. Meyer of NATIONAL REVIEW magazine. On the Board of Directors are William F. Buckley, Jr. and L. Brent Bozell of NATIONAL REVIEW. Chairman of the Committee on Political Action is William A. Rusher also of NATIONAL REVIEW magazine.

A.C.U. DECLARES A "TONG WAR" AGAINST THE JOHN BIRCH SOCIETY

Describing the first meeting of the ACU, columnist Walter Trohan stated in his column:

"The self-appointed directors (of the ACU) declared a tong war against members of the John Birch Society, which provoked a considerable hassle which occupied most of the first session."

The January 5, 1965, issue of the NATIONAL REVIEW BULLETIN, in an article describing the American Conservative Union, reported:

"The inevitable question was raised by the Washington press after the story (about the forming of the ACU) broke: How does the ACU relate to the John Birch Society? Chairman Bruce replied: 'There is no relation between the two organizations. The directors of the ACU take a view of world affairs substantially at variance with that taken by Mr. Robert Welch in his most publicized writings. Briefly, we may agree that there is urgent need for political and educational action to the extent of Communist penetration in this country could hardly consider the above carefully vague statement as inspiring. Note - the phrases "parry the enemy's thrusts," "exerting relentless pressure," and "advance the frontiers of freedom." Nowhere is there any mention of rooting out and destroying the Communist cancer. Likewise, the ACU's statement studiously avoids the fact of Communist infiltration within the Government of the United States as well as within practically all facets of American life.

NO CONSPIRACY?

Bill Buckley, his magazine NATIONAL REVIEW and now his new organization, the American Conservative Union, refuse to recognize the fact that there most definitely IS a conspiracy -- an interrelated, international conspiracy whose members within the United States promulgate orders and policies so detrimental to the national interest of this Nation that they could only have originated in the Kremlin. How else can it be explained away that no matter whether the Democrat Party or the Republican Party is in power the same Communist-appeasing policies are carried out?

How can it be explained away that the policy makers -- those promoting these Communist-accommodating policies (whether it be a Democrat Administration or a Republican Administration) belong to the semi-secret Council on Foreign Relations which has been exposed by Dan Smoot in his book, "The Invisible Government" and by Kent and Phoebe Courtney in their book, "America's Unelected Rulers"?

WORKING WITHIN THE REPUBLICAN PARTY

A Confidential Preliminary Report which was accompanied by a letter from Vice Chairman John Ashbrook dated March 1, 1965, states that "The ACU will work actively within the Republican Party." This despite the fact that because Barry Goldwater voluntarily relinquished control of the party at the National Committee meeting in Chicago in January, 1965, the Republican Party is now completely in the hands of the Liberals; this despite the fact that Republican Congressional leaders in Washington are presently knocking themselves out trying to out-do and outpromise the Democrats.

Starting next July 2, a great many Americans, including employers, bankers, builders, mortgage companies and real estate agencies and salesmen, are going to find out that many of their traditional freedoms will have gone down the drain.

This past week a number of Broward Countians went down to Miami to attend a panel discussion on some of the sections of the 1964 Civil Rights Act. What these people heard was a shocking disclosure of how far the Federal Government intends to go in carrying out a new law which, for the first time in our history, confers upon the Federal Government vast and punitive authority to control many functions of our day-to-day business and social affairs.

Federal officials who sponsored and conducted the workshop session on the Civil Rights Act didn't pull any punches in telling their audience they had better get ready for a new way of life in this country. They flatly stated the Federal Government meant business in enforcing the anti-discrimination sections of the Civil Rights Act and, as one of our reporters described the session, little doubt was left in anybody's mind the government has now taken over many phases of every-day life.

Employers were told that as of July 2, business concerns covered by the new legislation will be forced to alter drastically their employment procedures. No longer will it be legal to ask prospective employes to produce birth certificates, naturalization or baptismal records in connection with their employment applications. It will also be illegal to ask for a photograph to accompany an application or to ask a prospective employe who is not a U.S. citizen of what country he is a citizen. An employer cannot inquire into the applicant's mother tongue either or seek any information on an applicant's military service.

All these questions are considered to be of a discriminatory nature, and since the 1964 Civil Rights Act bars any kind of discrimination because of race, color, religion, sex or national origin, employers can be hauled right into Federal court if somebody claims they have been guilty of such discriminatory practices in screening prospective employes.

Briefly, we may agree that there is urgent need for political and educational action to stem the collectivist tide; we disagree about the extent to which a conspiracy operating in the United States is responsible for our decline. Under the circumstances, the leadership of the ACU will be wholly distinct from that of the John Birch Society'."

An article by Don Erwin, dateline Washington, and appearing in the MIAMI HERALD of December 27, 1964, discussed the formation of the American Conservative Union and added that "Individual Birchers would not be barred as ACU members, however."

Thus, even though individual Birchers would be grudgingly permitted to enter the backdoor of the American Conservative Union, it is rather unlikely that there will be a stampede by Birchers to join this new organization.

Members of the John Birch Society are probably the best informed in the entire Nation regarding the dangers of the Communist menace at home and abroad. Doubtless many Birchers will consider inadquate the policy statement regarding Communism which appears under the official "Principles of the American Conservative Union" as follows:

"Today the American commonwealth (sic) (Note: the U.S. is a Republic!), as well as the civilization that illuminated it, are mortally threatened by the global Communist revolution. We hold that permanent co-existence with Communism is neither honorable nor desirable nor possible. Communism would enslave the world by any means expedient to that end. We deem no sacrifice too great to avoid that fate. We would parry the enemy's thrusts -- but more: by maintaining American military superiority and exerting relentless pressure against the Communist empire, we would advance the frontiers of freedom."

Obviously, Americans aware of [illegible] visible Government" and by Kent and Phoebe Courtney in their book, "America's Unelected Rulers"?

A.C.U. PROPOSES TO "PROVIDE LEADERSHIP" FOR CONSERVATIVE ORGANIZATIONS

An official brochure of the ACU states:

"The American Conservative Union was founded to achieve four basic objectives: (a) to mobilize and consolidate the intellectual resources of the Conservative movement; (b) to provide leadership and material for existing Conservative-oriented organizations, periodicals and political leaders..., (c) to stimulate and direct responsible citizen action on social and economic problems and matters of legislation, public policy and in behalf of Conservative candidates for public office."

Regarding how the ACU proposes to "mobilize intellectual resources in the Conservative movement" and "provide material for existing Conservative organizations," columnist Walter Trohan, dean of the Washington press corps, in his January 3, 1965, column stated:

"About 27,000,000 voted for Goldwater, a goodly portion of them hard-core Conservatives. It wouldn't seem that they needed any particular direction in capturing the nomination for him, nor would it seem that they need someone to do their thinking for them."

Communists the means to make them a greater threat!

Our defenders ponder the way to build an impregnable wall - but then invite the Communists to walk through the door to spy, to subvert, and to sabotage our defenses.

Yes, we agree; we should have the best defense possible against the Communists. But all the billions of dollars spent are wasteful and are taken under false pretenses - as long as we continue to help our sworn enemy.

Our strongest possible defense against attack would be to sever all aid, trade and diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union and all Communists countries.

That is the only policy that holds any hope of ending the Communist menace. Because once the Communists can no longer rely on our help, their impractical economic system will destroy them.

But every day that we continue to aid them puts us one day closer to the time when the Soviets really will be able to blackmail us into surrender.

In view of our tremendous defense burden, anything short of a complete break with the Communists is a crime against the American people.

Why not let your government know how you feel about it?

A federal law to control anarchists would go a long way toward curbing law-defiers who move from state to state for the purpose of inciting riots. It would be a severe blow to professional agitators in CORE and similar groups. If it were part of the federal code right now, it could be used to prevent a riotous assembly in the nation's capital this summer.

If roving bands of street terrorists continue to disrupt this country, Congress inevitably will move to consider such a law, applicable to everyone irrespective of race. The threat of criminal anarchy will not be ignored by a Congress mindful of the necessity of law and order.

Misleading Data on Cuba

(Reprinted from THE STATE, Columbia, S.C.)

STATISTICAL JUGGLING has apparently been developed to an unprecedented degree by the Administration in dealing with the Cuban problem — thereby making truth hard to discover.

The latest example of how deceiving figures can be made occurred last week when an administration spokesman claimed economic pressure mounted by this country was about to wreck the Cuban economy.

For example, said the administration spokesman, free world shipping to Cuba had been drastically curtailed by these economic pressures, for in January, 1963, only 12 free world ships arrived in Cuba as compared to 128 the previous January. From these figures, which may be quite accurate, the casual reader will get the impression that practically no ships are now delivering goods to Castro.

The first obvious flaw in this "statistical proof" that shipping to Cuba has been drastically curtailed should be obvious. The figures are confined to free world shipping, and say nothing about ships operated by the Communist bloc. Naturally, as Castro ties his country closer and closer to Moscow, more and more of the trade will be with other Communist nations.

Furthermore, one can wager his last 40-cent dollar that the statistics jugglers picked January, 1963, to prove that things were going their way for a very simple reason: Free World shipping to Cuba that month was lower than it had been any month before or since. They picked the weakest month.

Almost simultaneously with the Administration statement, Columnists Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott, who have been remarkably accurate about what has been going on in Cuba, were quoting Naval Intelligence authorities on the number of ships arriving in Cuba during the first six months of this year.

Naval authorities have counted 429 Russian-satellite ships and 205 "Western" ships docked in Cuba since January 1. This is a total of 634, or an average of 106 per month that we know about. And if only 12 free world ships arrived in January, this means that the average since then has been a little over 32 per month.

Now both sets of figures only count ships, and the number of ships tells only one-third of the story. It would be like counting trucks arriving at the Columbia Farmers Market to determine how much trade was going on. Some big trucks can carry 10 times as much as others, and the same thing is true of ships.

What really counts, in the final analysis, is the tonnage delivered and the kind of goods arriving. Naval Intelligence notes that much of the material coming in now consists of highly strategic goods.

Thousands of people will be fooled by the optimistic picture produced by the administration's figure juggling. Thousands of others will not be fooled, but they will lose even more confidence in official statements. This will have unfortunate results, for as long as a year ago people were talking about the "crisis in credibility" in Washington.

OUR POLICY

This newspaper is dedicated to the defeat of Socialist and Communist influences that now pervade the thinking and the policies of our Federal government and the two major political parties. We believe that there is no difference between a New Deal Democrat and a Socialist-Internationalist Republican.

This newspaper will continue to promote all individuals and organizations who believe that a new political party based on Constitutional States Rights is the answer to the Socialism that has captured both (formerly great) parties.

We will never align ourselves with any person or group which preaches hatred. Instead we will conserve our energy for the fight against atheistic Communism, and we pledge ourselves to LOVE OF GOD AND AN INDEPENDENT U.S.A.

OUR THANKS

Because we are political and "controversial" we have no advertising income. We therefore thank all of our readers who send donations every week so that more and more sample copies can be sent to patriots throughout the country. Without this regular support, this experiment in patriotic and political journalism would not be possible.

Many people became aware for the first time that the National Council of Churches is not just a church organization in the usual sense of the word when, several years ago, one of its study groups came out in favor of diplomatic recognition of the bloody-handed Chinese Communist regime that has enslaved China, slaughtered thousands including Americans in Korea, subjugated Tibet and invaded India.

Since that time, observes the Chattanooga News-Free Press, there have been many other reasons for the American people to look askance at what the National Council and its agencies stand for. Some of these things include UN membership for the Chinese Red aggressors, disarmament, nuclear test ban, increased American foreign aid handouts (including those to Reds), abolition of congressional investigations of Communist subversion, exchange visits of U.S. churchmen and Russians who are robed as members of a captive Russian church whose leaders include members of the Soviet secret police, and even support of a political and unconstitutional medical care program.

As bad as are these unsound and alarming views of the National Council, they are made worse by the fact that the church group tends to give the impression that its statements are representative of the 31 Protestant and Orthodox denominations that are connected with it—these including many of the most respected and largest Christian denominations in America, perhaps your own church.

Most of these churches never have and never will take positions on these political and foreign policy issues on a national level or local congregation level. And certainly they have not delegated to the National Council of Churches any specific or honest right to speak for them on controversial issues.

But the National Council continues to speak out in promotion of the radical views of those who have gained positions of leadership in the organization.

Hey, Bobby!

The President asks for voluntary integration on page one. And on the inside pages the President's little brother has voluntarily integrated his three sons into a private, all-white school. If their entrance exams go well, Bobby Jr., Joe, and Dave Kennedy won't have to go to the parochial Catholic school next year. Instead, they'll go to the Landon School in Bethesda, Md.

The headmaster at Landon says that no student is excluded on the basis of race or religion. But the cook at Landon confirms that the only Negroes there are in the kitchen. The boys at Landon are segregated according to money.

We don't care who goes to Landon or what the school's policy is. But it is plain that Bobby Kennedy cares who goes to Landon. All the evidence supports the Rule: One's enthusiasm for integration increases by the square of one's personal remoteness from it. Bobby gets more enthusiastic all the time.

If you and your friends, or your business firm, would like to have these programs played over your local radio station, just write to Kent Courtney, P. O. Box 1223, New Orleans, Louisiana 70118, for complete details.

The purpose of THE RADIO EDITION of THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN is to give the Conservative side of the vital issues concerning this country today.

More and more, Communist exploitation of racial demonstrations becomes apparent.

Responsible Negro leaders know that the hopes of the Negro to earn a better place in society will not be served by gun-toting mobs, bent on bloodshed and property destruction.

They know the Negro can best earn his proper place in society by showing responsibility. They know a riot-torn path is only hurting his cause.

Law-abiding Americans, black and white, are alarmed. They are fearful where the next incident of rioting and violence will occur.

They have reason to be alarmed. This nation has been plunged into internal strife that, if it cannot be halted, could become insurrection.

What are billed as "peaceful" demonstrations are providing ready-made vehicles to terrorism for extremist groups on both sides—from the Ku Klux Klan to the Black Muslims and the Congress of Racial Equality --with Communists ever-ready to step in and fan the flames of hatred and bigotry.

There is little indication today that any new civil rights laws passed by Congress will ease the situation or provide the remedies.

There are sufficient laws on the books prohibiting violation of the rights of Americans, black or white. There are also laws prohibiting unlawful demonstrations, violence and terrorism. Existing laws should be enforced impartially.

It has been demonstrated over and over that tolerance cannot be legislated. We must face the fact that this nation of 180 million people must learn to live together peacefully, to respect the rights of others and to live according to the law.

The broad civil rights legislation proposed by President Kennedy is politically motivated, designed only tle after complaints by the Greek Orthodox Church that the statement of the National Council organization as originally worded might seem to be a repudiation of God.

The National Council went on from there, getting into a field peculiar for a church group when it called for federal regulation (the National Council seems to lean toward federal regulations in general) of radio and television networks.

Then the National Council's general board made itself a partisan of the NAACP, CORE and Martin Luther King's so-called Southern Christian Leadership Conference by endorsing many racial demonstrations such as those that have developed into mob action and rioting. Coupled with this, the "church" organization endorsed economic boycotts for the application of pressure on private business operators to coerce them in adoption of their own private policies. In its most recent stand the NCC has announced it will attempt to dictate employment practices in the construction of Protestant churches.

Most shocking is disclosure of the manner in which the National Council of Churches drafted its race statement on religion and race.

The New York Times stated June 22:

"Though Council officials have been reluctant to talk about it, the pronouncement of race was drafted by a half-dozen churchmen after meeting May 31 with a group of Negro intellectuals at the Harlem Young Men's Christian Association."

Among Negroes present, said The Times, "were James Baldwin, the writer; Dr. Kenneth B. Clark, psychology professor, and Clarence B. Jones, an attorney for Mr. Baldwin and for the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr."

Considering the publicity he has received in recent months, it should be well known to the public that James Baldwin openly despises the Christian religion. Senator Thurmond Hits Test Ban

(Below are excerpts from a speech by Sen. Strom Thurmond on the floor of the U.S. Senate on June 19, 1963.)

The United States needs to conduct nuclear tests in the atmosphere now, to provide our Nation with an effective defense against Soviet intercontinental ballistic missiles; to provide our Nation with a penetration capability to penetrate a Soviet missile defense employing nuclear warheads; to assure the immunity of our second strike missile systems to a surprise enemy nuclear attack; and to develop specialized nuclear warheads to defend our Nation against satellite bombs and other terror weapons with which the free world has been threatened.

Real peace can be maintained only if the United States succeeds in keeping a strategic military superiority to the Soviets.

This superiority we are in danger of losing; and under the U.S. foreign policy pronounced on June 10 by the President, we will surely lose strategic superiority.

Dr. Edward Teller, one of the most outstanding nuclear scientists of our day, and father of the hydrogen bomb, has stated that the proposed test ban treaty "would endanger our security and help the Soviet Union in its plan to conquer the world."

All of the members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff are on record as being opposed to the current proposal of the United States for a test-ban treaty....

In assessing the terrors of nuclear war, we today not become so obsessed by the fear of the results of war that we lose perspective on the best methods for preventing those results. War cannot be prevented by repeating the tragic errors of Munich and Yalta.

Senator Strom Thurmond

Any policy which is based on the ill-fated concept that we can judge the Communists by what we would do under similar circumstances, and by the motivations by which a non-Communist would act and react to circumstances is doomed to utter and miserable failure.

The Senate does not have legislative power to prevent the President from negotiating with foreign nations on the subject of a nuclear test ban. By virtue of the constitutional provision that no treaty shall be binding on the United States in the absence of the advice and consent of the Senate, however, the Senate does have legitimate and official responsibility in this matter. The Senate has a responsibility to the American people to insure, among other things, that their security and rights are not impaired by a treaty.

In response to proposals that the Federal Government establish an "Office of Consumers," Rep. Joe M. Kilgore, D-Texas, has a better suggestion: a "Department of Leave Us Alone." He says he's afraid to suggest it, even in jest, however, because somebody might take him up on it and start another bureau.

Reconstruction -- 1963

(Reprinted from THE STATE, Columbia, S.C.)

THE CIVIL RIGHTS MESSAGE of President John F. Kennedy discloses the authoritarian mind at work.

Here, says the President, is the answer to a problem which has vexed mankind throughout history. Here is the pattern which we wise men in Washington have devised for all Americans everywhere. Here is the mold into which we will force everyone—and we do mean force.

No longer will the States of the Union be allowed to determine voting qualifications (although the Constitution clearly gives them that right).

No longer will the businessmen of America be permitted to set standards for the hiring and firing of persons who seek employment in their companies (although the United States still maintains a facade of "free enterprise").

No longer will the proprietors of hotels and restaurants and theaters be afforded the opportunity to cater to those customers whose patronage they desire.

Nor will the citizens of the United States be allowed to choose their associates.

All of these rights, privileges and responsibilities are to be taken away from the citizens of the United States and placed in the hands of the Federal Government.

II

Behind the President's message we sense the drive toward a single ideology which will smother any and all opposition. We detect that messianic impulse to re-make the face of America, reminding us unpleasantly of another ruler who proclaimed (in a book called "Mein Kampf) the right of his party "to force its principles on the whole . . . nation and to educate it in its ideas and throughts without regard to previous boundaries of federated states."

III

We sense the elements of propaganda ,the selection of words and phrases and ideas designed to enlist the support of the of the masses. We become aware of the possibilities presented by civil rights legislation to move ever closer to the goal of a totally-planned and centrally-directed economy.

And throughout it all we feel the element of force, the threat of the federal fist, the addiction to compulsion.

This is a message of capitulation to the demands of Negroes. But at Encouraged by a power-hungry political set-up in Washington, Negro leaders have been duped into hope that legislation can be imposed on all that will solve their particular problem overnight. As a result, Negro groups are making demands beyond the point of reason.

In their impatience, Negro groups continue demonstrations that are being exploited by subversive influences to create a virtual reign of terror in some communities.

The shooting of three national guardsmen at Cambridge, Md., this past week, and subsequent declaration of martial law in that riot-torn community has shocked the nation. Unless adequate steps are taken, such outbreaks of mob violence may well be repeated in other communities.

Bullets, rocks, clubs, fists, dogs and fire hoses are not the American way of solving things. The mixture of hot weather, hot tempers and subversive forces is highly volatile.

The time has come to bring an immediate end to the wave of violence and lawlessness which threatens to erupt into full-scale racial warfare.

Responsible Negro leaders can eliminate the arenas for extremists who seek to plunge our country into insurrection. These Negro leaders, and their white supporters, can do this simply by taking their demonstrations off the streets.

The American people have gotten the message Negroes sought to convey through the peaceful demonstrations.

Cool heads and constructive leadership must prevail if we are to avert "destruction from within" which is the avowed goal of the international Communist conspiracy. When law and order is broken down, our civilization is imperiled and our democracy goes down the drain.

Reconstruction—1963

(Reprinted from THE STATE, Columbia, S.C.)

THE CIVIL RIGHTS MESSAGE of President John F. Kennedy discloses the authoritarian mind at work.

Here, says the President, is the answer to a problem which has vexed mankind throughout history. Here is the pattern which we wise men in Washington have devised for all Americans everywhere. Here is the mold into which we will force everyone—and we do mean force.

No longer will the States of the Union be allowed to determine voting qualifications (although the Constitution clearly gives them that right).

No longer will the businessmen of America be permitted to set standards for the hiring and firing of persons who seek employment in their companies (although the United States still maintains a facade of "free enterprise").

No longer will the proprietors of hotels and restaurants and theaters be afforded the opportunity to cater to those customers whose patronage they prefer (although they still labor under the impression that property rights are protected in this country).

No longer will school administrators have any discretion in preparing educational programs aimed at meeting the needs and abilities of diverse groups of students (although learning obviously is improved amid surroundings of peace and harmony).

No longer will education be a function of the State (although the word "education" nowhere appears in the Constitution as a function of the federal government).

II

All these things—and more—are spelled out by President Kennedy in a spate of high-sounding language. Fine words, these, but let us look behind them and grasp for the real meaning in the light of our experience with other emergent dictatorships of the 20th Century.

We can see, indeed we can almost feel, the totalitarian impulse, the drive toward a single ideology which will smother any and all opposition. We detect that messianic impulse to re-make the face of America, reminding us unpleasantly of another ruler who proclaimed (in a book called "Mein Kampf) the right of his party "to force its principles on the whole . . . nation and to educate it in its ideas and throughts without regard to previous boundaries of federated states."

III

We sense the elements of propaganda ,the selection of words and phrases and ideas designed to enlist the support of the of the masses. We become aware of the possibilities presented by civil rights legislation to move ever closer to the goal of a totally-planned and centrally-directed economy.

And throughout it all we feel the element of force, the threat of the federal fist, the addiction to compulsion.

This is a message of capitulation to the demands of Negroes. But at the same time it is a decree to dictation to whites. It is such a message as to erase the memories of former Presidents who were unwilling to go the last mile toward centralism.

IV

But perhaps above all else it is a domestic diversion, a scheme to whip up popular support for a cause which is expected to bring bi-partisan backing at a time when other Kennedy programs, at home and abroad, are in a sad state of disarray.

It is a calculated risk—and not until November of 1964 will the President or anyone else know just how great the risk.

Peacemaking Can Be Profitable!

(Reprinted from MANCHESTER (N.H.) UNION LEADER)

This disarmament business is more and more taking on the characteristics of a "make work" racket run for the benefit of fuzzy-minded "intellectuals" and former government officials. And we believe it's only a matter of time until taxpayers begin asking where their money is going.

Columnist Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott recently gave the American people a peek at some of this peace profiteering via a timely column on the report of the House Appropriations subcommittee headed by Rep. John Rooney (D-N.Y.)

The Arms Control and Disarmament Agency currently is financing a wide-ranging series of studies, all high-priced. One result of the far-reaching program is to try to influence public opinion with the taxpayers' own money.

The Rooney Committee, probing the arms control agency's request to have its budget more than doubled, from $6,500,000 to $15,000,000 has been told that most of the money will be used to pay for more studies, some already underway, others contemplated, but many employing scientists, university professors and former government officials who are getting double their previous salaries.

Projects-in-waiting include the following: $100,000 to analyze the activities of private peace groups, their effect on public opinion and how they can be used to promote disarmament plans; $150,000 to study alternative ways of handling conflicts between the U.S. and Russia; $500,000 to study the relationship between national political environments - Congress, the press and the public - and arms control measures; $10,000 to study the operations and organization of the Soviet fiscal system and budget.

The Rooney Committee found that the Disarmament Agency places no limit on salaries for the private research groups which derive more than 90 per cent of their funds from the taxpayers. The Institute of Defense Analysis pays its president $45,000 - a fact that should be of particular interest to those who recall that Richard A. Bissell, formerly of the CIA, was the official who directed the ill-fated Bay of Pigs invasion.

The Institute, which received more than $3,000,000 from the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency and the Defense Department, has a staff of 243 employes, with salaries ranging from $15,000 to $42,000 - in addition to the director's $45,000. Aerospace, which had as one of its original incorporators Deputy Defense Secretary Roswell Gilpatrick, pays its president $75,000 a year. Six other aerospace officials receive from $30,000 to $50,000.

Other groups with research contracts with the Disarmament Agency included Bendix Company, $500,000; Raytheon, $300,000; Institute of Strategic Studies, $50,000; Mathematics Research, $57,000; American Academy of Arts and Sciences, $50,000; Stanford Research Institutes, $267,086; Research Analysis Corp., $179,300; Peace and Research Institute, $10,000, and the Carnegie Corporation, $150,000.

It should be apparent that disarmament is now Big Business. It also should be apparent that the fondness of some people for "peacemaking" may not be entirely altruistic.

The three Negroes were Whitney Young of the Urban League; Roy Wilkins of the NAACP, and James Farmer of CORE. Martin Luther King was unable to attend, but endorsed the idea. Among the white people whom The Observer named as attending a secret breakfast at the Carlyle Hotel were Mrs. Max Ascoli, wife of the editor of the Reporter Magazine; Mrs. Marshall Field, mother of the Chicago publisher; Lloyd Garrison. FDR's chairman of the National Labor Relations Board; Frederick Warburg, partner in Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and Stephen Currier, described as "a young, obscure New York multimillionaire whose Taconic Foundation has contributed heavily to civil rights causes, notably voter-registration drives in the South."

Presumably gifts to this fund will be made tax exempt, so that the taxpayers will share in paying to perpetuate the power of the Big Four.

National Observer says that representatives of both Ford and Rockefeller Foundations were present at the organization meeting. Thus vast economic resources will be at the disposal of the Negro coalition. The price of revolution may come higher than even such wealth can afford.

Earlier, in a June 20 column by Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott it was reported that: "For more than a month, the President and his top foreign policy advisers have been discussing a plan under which the U.S. would resume 'contact' with Castro on both 'an informal and formal basis'."

Just what kind of deceitful sell-out is the Kennedy Administration planning?

An inkling of what may be in the works is contained in the July 20, 1963 issue of CUBAN INFORMATION SERVICE, Carlus Todd, Editor. Terming the following information still in the rumor stage, but likely to be borne out by coming events, Todd revealed:

The U.S. and Russia have agreed that Castro must go; he will become the fall guy in a complete reorganization of the regime which will purportedly be free of Soviet influence. The plan calls for "uprisings", "desertions" and "guerrilla fronts", all directed by the Reds in Cuba and their agents in exile.

Castro flees to Moscow; and a new government is set up with such men as David Salvador, Manuel Ray and Hubert Matos as top dogs. And, although these men are either in "exile" or in "jail", they will respond to the tactical changes in the Communist master plan for the conquest of the hemisphere....

Mrs. Neuberger is particularly upset by the D.A.R. The D.A.R. frequently condemns the Government. It also dissents from programs which Mrs. Neuberger supports, such as urban renewal, unilateral disarmament, the Peace Corps, the UN. She objects to the printing as a Senate Document of the 65th annual proceedings of the D.A.R. The report ranges from "the petty to the doctrinaire restatement of the John Birch Society's conspiratorial view of recent American history." Mrs. Neuberger does not say which of the two categories covers the speech which JFK made at the D.A.R. National Convention this spring.

Mrs. Neuberger is also disturbed by the activities of the Tax Foundation, Inc. The Tax Foundation is a propaganda mill, although Mrs. Neuberger does not go into detail. If Mrs. Neuberger had half a mind to do it, she could quote the extremist purpose of the Tax Foundation, which is "to aid in the development of more efficient government at less cost to the taxpayer." The Tax Foundation's most subversive activity is the annual compilation of an indispensable 300-page manual of statistics on local, State, and federal finances. It has a 41-man board of trustees, all presidents of the leading banks and business in the U. S.; there's not a professional Bircher in the bunch, that we can see. But then, as Mrs. Neuberger well knows, that only proves that the Birch Society is a secret organization.

Mrs. Neuberger also objects to the tax-exempt status of America's Future, Inc., a group of university professors and scholars with a conservative bias who are in the process of reviewing America's college textbooks. Mrs. Neuberger—why go on with it? Mrs. Neuberger has said all these silly things before, and many just as frivolous, when she addressed the AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Action last May.

Although this is a mere pittance compared to one day's golden flood from the left-wing foundations, Mrs. Neuberger delivered an impassioned speech and cried out to the Internal Revenue Service for relief.

The AFL-CIO had heard it all before. In fact the complaint originated with the Reuther brothers. Everyone by now has read the story in The Far Right, a left-wing book about the right-wing. Back in December of 1961, the Reuthers sent a five-point memo to Bobby Kennedy demanding (1) the censure of the right-wing military, (2) the abolition of the official subversive list, (3) the reprimand of J. Edgar Hoover, (4) abolition of certain anti-Communist organizations, and (5) harassment of conservative groups by the Internal Revenue and other agencies.

Senator Neuberger's colleague, Senator Moss, was so inspired by her harangue to the AFL-CIO, that he put it in the Congressional Record not once but twice. Apparently he was so wrought up when he entered it on June 17, that he forgot he had done his duty, and put it in again on June 20. Mrs. Neuberger, anxious to follow the trail laid waste by Senators Kuchel and McGee, had still more dragons to slay. Last Tuesday the third Senator, for the third time, looked in the magic mirror for dragons. [Yawn.]

The CIS report of July 20 reveals the following:

Some 1,000 Castro agents, passing themselves off as Puerto Ricans, have received Communist indoctrination and training, and come and go from and to the U.S. at will.

The Miami News reported that the Cuban Reds are using the island as a stepping-stone for trained saboteurs, terrorists and infiltrators to enter Latin American countries. Castro's People's Courts Horrify Cubans

(Reprinted from FT. LAUDERDALE NEWS)

By DR. FERNANDO PENABAZ

"Death on Wheels" is what horrified Cubans are calling Dictator Fidel Castro's newly created "People's Courts." The decree serving as the "legal" basis of the "courts" is closely patterned to the one China's Red tyrant, Mao Tse-tung, enacted several years ago and from which the genocidal Chinese "People Courts" were born. It is estimated that over 11 million Chinese peasants have been killed by these bands of legalized murderers and in Cuba, although only functioning for about a month and a half, their name alone already instills terror.

DR. PENABAZ

Cuba's new "People's Courts" are manned by fanatical, hate-ridden militiamen or by hard core, lower echelon Communist party officials. At present, the Communist party in Cuba is known as the "United Party of the Socialist Revolution." The old name was cast aside because Castro asserted it smacked of "minoritarian groups."

"Judges" in the People's Courts don't even possess the most elemental knowledge of legal training, in fact, the mere mention of law by members of the Court, or those who are brought before it, is considered imperialistic and counter-revolutionary.

REASON FOR THE NAME "Death on Wheels" is that the Courts travel around the Island in jeeps or Iron Curtain equivalents. They stop any place where the local "Committee For The Defense of the Revolution" has arrested someone incurring its displeasure. No formal charges are required. The Courts sometimes carry their own execution squads with them but if, for lack of adequate transportation facilities, this presents a problem, an execution squad is furnished by the local militia groups.

Trials are public and any "loyal revolutionist" may step up before the Court and add his accusations against the victim to those used originally as grounds for the arrest.

There is no appeal from the People's Court decisions. If death is decreed, as it so often is, execution follows immediately.

Until now jurisdiction of the People's Courts is limited to rural areas. This is because resistance to Castro's blood-soaked regime is extremely strong among Cuba's long-suffering farmers and peasants. The Cuban Communist regime also maintains several concentration camps exclusively used for the internment of farmers and peasants but those "lucky enough" to be sent there, thus escaping the firing squads or life long prison terms, are the ones the regime considers may be rehabilitated or re-indoctrinated. The largest rehabilitation camp in Cuba exists at a place called Guanacabibes, in Pinar del Rio Province.

Sometimes the People's Courts find it expedient to hold their trials after the accused has been killed. Such a procedure is used to cover up executions carried out, without trials, by Party zealots. Only requirement demanded for the Court's posthumous seal of approval: Word of the executioner that the victim was "a known enemy of the State or counter-revolutionary." In these cases the "Court" draws up a document, signed by all its members, wherein it is sworn that the accused was "tried, sentenced and executed according to revolutionary law." This was the method employed recently in the village of Bolondron, in Matanzas Province, to justify the murder of 11 patriotic peasants.

CRUELEST and most inhumane aspect of the whole ghastly set up, is that the Committees on Human Rights of the United Nations and the Organization of American States, as well as the state departments of every nation in the world, can not claim ignorance of the functions and activities of Castro's People's Courts. Legislation creating them was published in Cuba's Official Gazette and proclaimed, time and again, by Castro's powerful propaganda media and, in many cases, their death sentences are highlighted, giving full details, by Cuba's State-owned and operated press.

Visual witnesses of these atrocities are eager to testify on what they have seen. One of them, arriving in Port Everglades last week, from the little village of Baire, in Oriente Province, declared, "I have seen the People's Court, Death on Wheels, execute a farmer for killing and eating one of his own chickens, without first obtaining government consent as the National Institute of Agrarian Reform requires!"

Coast Guard officials also admitted that their patrols were protecting Russian trawlers from attacks by Cuban exile raiders. Don't blame them. The orders come from above.

* * *Tighter controls were clapped on the Cuban people by the Communist regime. Committees of Defense (block wardens and informers) are taking a block by block census of families in order to carry out a "consumers registry". The new "census" will void all ration cards and issue new ones, valid for one year. Food, clothing, shoes and other necessities will be more strictly rationed. The "census" also will give the Communists an opportunity to punish those suspected of "counterrevolutionary" sympathies by denying them ration cards.

They also stated that tremendous construction activity is taking place in the outlying keys of the zone; it is carried on at night, with tight security measures. The keys in question are Cayo Frances, Cayo Fragoso and Cayo Santamaria, lying some 15 miles off the port of Caibarien (see ESSO map sent to all recipients).

* * * Throughout Cuba, intense activity can be noted at the Soviet-built petroleum controlled refinery in Cardenas, Matanzas, wounding and killing several militiamen.

The raiders left for Cuba in two small boats, a 17-footer and a 22-footer from a secret base in the Caribbean. (Note: NOT U.S. territory!) After the raid, the group went to Cayo Blanco, a small island off the North Cuban coast, where they were intercepted by the Cuban Navy and militia units.

The Castro men shelled their boats sinking both of them, but the raiders were able to land on the island killing two militiamen, taking two more prisoners and capturing a 36-foot sailboat, "The Elvira" which they commandered to make the escape.

In the fight one of the raiders, Evangelio Calaro, was wounded in the back. The prisoners were identified as Calimero Jerez and Daniel Torres, both members of Castro's militia.

When the raiders and their prisoners arrived in Key West, they were all arrested and taken into custody by the U.S. Immigration Service. The State Dept. declared that the militiamen would be returned to Cuba if they so desired.

Later, Manuel Quiza, leader of the anti-Communist group, and Eduardo Mor, were taken to a prison in Tampa, Florida, where they will soon face trial. It is believed that they will be sentenced to a five year imprisonment.

Now Let Them Enforce It!

(Reprinted from MANCHESTER (N.H.) UNION LEADER)

Not only does the Supreme Court decision outlawing the Bible and the Lord's Prayer in our schools seem completely immoral and entirely at variance with the American tradition and the American way of life, but it seems equally stupid.

Every American knows that the Constitution of the United States sets forth the separation of Church and State. This was obviously done to prevent the establishment of any given church as the official state religion. Those who wrote the Constitution were close to a point of time when a number of European nations had an official state church, and the Founding Fathers were trying to protect the United States from this form of tyranny.

No one in his right mind believes that the Founding Fathers intended to separate the citizens of the United States from religion, taken as a whole. They simply didn't want an official Protestant church, an official Catholic church or an official church of ANY kind.

However, the Supreme Court has gone to ridiculous lengths in interpreting this very sound provision of the Constitution in a way which would cause it to separate American citizens from God. They go to the same ridiculous lengths in allowing obscene literature to be distributed, on the grounds that this comes under the freedom of the press clause of the Constitution.

As a practical course of action, since man's relationship with God comes above any law of the case, this newspaper advocates that every school teacher, every school principal and every school board in the entire United States disregard this ruling of the Supreme Court and not only continue to read the Bible and to say the Lord's Prayer before starting class in the morning, but also to increase in any other way it occurs to them their public attestations that their schools stand for God.

We advocate that whatever action is necessary to repeal, nullify, abolish and wipe out forever the shame and stain of this Sup...

The keys in question are Cayo Frances, Cayo Fragoso and Cayo Santamaria, lying some 15 miles off the port of Caibarien (see ESSO map sent to all recipients). Military construction is also proceeding at a frantic pace at the village of Vitas, near the city of Remedios. The exiles also claimed that rocket bases are being installed at Mabulla, near the towns of Manicaragua and Chambas, on the Camaguey-Las Villas provincial border. The Russian arms and troop build-up continues apace in Cuba.

The July 6, 1963, issue of CUBAN INFORMATION SERVICE reported the following.

* * * Reports from the Cuban underground say that a new Russian military base with rocket facilities has been constructed near Victoria de las Tunas (Oriente province). While Cuban militia guard the outer perimeter of the new base, only Russian personnel is permitted to enter.

* * * The MIAMI HERALD's Latin American editor, Al Burt reports from Cuban sources that the number of Russians on the island has increased; training of Cuban troops has been stepped up by the Russians; more ground-to-air missiles have been installed, and Cuba's huge stockpile of weapons continues to grow. Unidad Revolucionaria(UR), Cuban exile group, presented a documented statement which shows that the Soviets have stepped up their shipments from 18 in January of this year, to 70 in April. Troops and hardware continue to pour into the island at an increasing rate. Washington does nothing.

THE CUBAN REPORT OF THE CUBAN STUDENT DIRECTORATE

(It will be recalled that it was the Cuban Student Directorate which made daring raids on Castro's Cuba and Soviet shipping until their activities were halted by President Kennedy's brother, Bobby, who assigned the U.S. Coast Guard to protect Soviet ships from such anti-Communist raids.)

* * * In the dawn of June 12, a group of Cuban exile raiders attacked a Government gration Service. The State Dept. declared that the militiamen would be returned to Cuba if they so desired.

Later, Manuel Quiza, leader of the anti-Communist group, and Eduardo Mor, were taken to a prison in Tampa, Florida, where they will soon face trial. It is believed that they will be sentenced to a five year imprisonment.

a. Caves of Cura, Pinar del Rio Province
b. Santa Ines Mine Zone, Pinar del Rio Province
c. Coastal Region North of Jaruco, Havana Province
d. Rancho Luna Zone, near Cienfuegos, Las Villas Province
e. Mayari Zone, Oriente Province
f. Miranda Zone, Oriente Province
g. Coastal Zone between Santiago de Cuba and Siboney Beach, Oriente Province

The previously mentioned districts have been receiving large shipments of reinforced concrete, steel girders, and all other types of heavy building material, which arrive at the indicated places late at night, in trucks driven by Cuban militiamen who have to hand them over to Russians at the gates of the construction area.

* * * Of course, the responsibility for the disappearance of our way of life will fall on the shoulders of those who today remain impassive at the advance of Communism. It will also fall on the shoulders of those irresponsible men who ignoring the dangers of peaceful coexistence, devote their efforts to suppressing all attempts at liberation. Perhaps we, free Cubans, do have more experience in Communist tactics and it is this which leads us to sound the alarm before it is too late. The part we Cubans occupy in the struggle against Communism and in defense of democracy is fulfilled day by day and in its entirety, in the mountains of our country, in the fields and in the towns. We Cubans absolutely do not understand anything to do with peaceful coexistence with the Communists, and perhaps just as these lines are being written there is one more Cuban dying on the altar of liberty and democracy, which many are still enjoying today in the Free World but which few seem disposed to defend.

kind.

However, the Supreme Court has gone to ridiculous lengths in interpreting this very sound provision of the Constitution in a way which would cause it to separate American citizens from God. They go to the same ridiculous lengths in allowing obscene literature to be distributed, on the grounds that this comes under the freedom of the press clause of the Constitution.

We advocate that whatever action is necessary to repeal, nullify, abolish and wipe out forever the shame and stain of this Supreme Court decision be taken by the Congress of the United States.

In the meanwhile we doubt very much if Mr. Kennedy will call out the federal troops to snatch a Bible from some little girl's or boy's hand in any school in this country. We cannot imagine the President ordering the enforcement of this decree by having a soldier stick a bayonet in the back of any child who wants to stand up and say the Lord's Prayer as he has been taught by his mother and father.

There is always the proverbial straw that breaks the camel's back. As far as this newspaper goes, this decision by the Supreme Court, making the Lord's Prayer and the Bible bootleg items in our schools, is that last straw.

When you think of the flood of written obscenity from which we are almost helpless to guard our children today, we must remember again that this is due to Supreme Court decisions. Now, in addition to debauching our children's minds, they want to rape their spirits by depriving them of the right to read the Bible or say the Lord's Prayer in school.

If you ask by what authority this newspaper advocates the disregard of this judicial decision, we will answer: There is a Higher Law. As the Constitution of the United States clearly points out, the Author of all our freedoms, the Author of all our liberties is not the state. It is the Lord God Almighty. No eight men, garbed in black robes and supposedly constituting the highest tribunal of this land, can overrule the Supreme Being and the commandment: "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind." Jesus described this as "the first and great commandment."

In that spirit and in the spirit of Andrew Jackson, we suggest - "The court has made its decision - now let them enforce it."

Extremely Right

By Phoebe Courtney

It's always nice to know who triggers the attack on the Conservative, anti-Communist Right Wing - sometimes called the Radical Right, the Extreme Right, or the ultra-Right. So. . . ,let's get it from the horse's mouth - THE WORKER, official publication of the Communist Party, U.S.A. Here's a quote from THE WORKER of June 23, 1963: "Every fight against the ultra-Right deserves encouragement and support."

Who's fighting and fulminating against the ultra-Right? Well, there's first and foremost the Communist Party, U.S.A., and then there's that "frightened" Senator Kuchel of California; a fanatical woman from Oregon who somehow or other manged to get elected Senator; the Kennedy Brothers; a bevy of opportunistic writers seeking to "cash in" on the smear publicity received by the Right Wing by authoring hasty "potboilers" inveighing against the anti-Communists; then there's Russell Kirk, the self-anointed "responsible" Conservative, who is so very upset about the John Birch Society; the Reuther Brothers; of course, Nelson Rockefeller; and last and least a man by the name of Nixon, currently errand boy for the Communist-accommodating Council on Foreign Relations who is running around Europe calling press conferences - as if anyone was interested in his opinion on anything.

What a strange bag of cats! How pleased Gus Hall must be!

THE "FAR WRONG"

One of the most recent of the "potboilers" is a book by Donald Janson and Bernard Eismann (published by McGraw-Hill Book Company, Inc., price $5.95) entitled "The Far Right."

In their book sincere members of the Right Wing are gently pilloried. Note the word "gently" because upon reading their book I had the feeling that the authors while working on their material came to the decision that they didn't want to "burn down the barn" - and that when the final returns are in - it just might turn out that the Right Wing, the anti-Communists, were "right" after all!

Reacting to their book "The Far Right," the talented wordsmith, J. Kesner Kahn of Chicago commented: "But what about the Far Wrong, those who have lost us our gold, allowed Cuba to go Communist and become a dug-in Soviet base threatening the American nations; those who allowed China to become a Captive Nation under Communist rule; those who still fail to weed out Soviet agents in the United States, even when Sweden, England and West Germany have rethe effect that the U.S. must not provoke or offend our mortal enemy, the Soviet Union, is Asst. Secretary of Defense Arthur Sylvester, the man who publicly stated the Federal Government "has the inherent right to lie." On July 26, according to the AP, Sylvester told a reporter that "his office is shaping final details of a directive that will tighten control over cooperation with (movie) companies in production of pictures with military themes."

Besides meaning no more patriotic movies and thereby a lessening of the effectiveness of recruiting, the question arises: Was this one of the many secret pledges that Kennedy has given Khrushchev?

Thank Heavens for the "late shows" on TV where you can still see the grand and glorious recent military history of the United States of America accurately portrayed!

WHAT ABOUT "THRESHER"!?

Have you been wondering what really happened to the submarine Thresher - which took that fateful dive with all hands aboard lost - and why? Knowing that Russian "fishing fleets" are patrolling the Atlantic, Gulf and Pacific waters of the U.S., the Thresher disaster becomes even more ominous. Perhaps an important clue was furnished by the columnists Allen & Scott in their article of June 19 which stated: "All of the Navy's highly sensitive and secret evaluation equipment for its top-priority Subroc missile program was on the Thresher when it sank off the coast of Massachusetts."

How very odd - a Russian female factory worker with no pilot experience, excels the efforts of U.S. astronauts, all top pilots, who have undergone years of sacrificial training and tests! Not really "odd" - just more of the Sell-Out. What about those U.S. monitoring stations scattered all over the world? Have they corroborated in any way that this Soviet woman actually even got off the ground? If not, why not? And why has the American press, once the bea-

The Governors' Conference

By Kent Courtney

On July 22 and 23, I attended the Conference of Governors held at Miami Beach. What a fantastic performance it was! I had the impression of a fantasy land of make-believe, and this was not due to the beautiful hotels or the attractive young girls walking along the beach. I was reminded of Alice in Wonderland, because the Governors, with only a few exceptions, refused to face reality.

There were no serious discussions of issues that the Governors might well have considered, such as the protection of the prerogatives and rights of the States.

Governor Nelson Rockefeller wished to advance a resolution on the subject of civil rights, but because he is a Republican and because he is a candidate for the presidency, the majority of the Democrats decided they were not going to let Nelson Rockefeller propose any resolution on civil rights. So what did they do? They abolished the Resolutions Committee. Imagine holding a Conference of Governors, and then agreeing not to pass any resolutions indicating where the Governors stand on vital issues! Several of the Governors said that this action destroyed the value of such a Conference. Of course, the Democrats clearly demonstrated their fear of Rockefeller taking the civil rights issue away from them. The Democrat majority was also afraid that if there were a debate upon the resolution that the Southern Democrats and the Northern Democrats would split on the issue.

Another aspect of the civil rights issue which intruded in the Governors Conference was the report concerning the relationship of the Government towards the National Guard. A weasel-worded report was introduced, which avoided the paramount issue, namely, the dictatorial nationalization of the National Guard as exercised by both Eisenhower and Kennedy, and thus depriving the Governors of the States of a militia capable of putting down demonstrations and riots inside the States. Federalizing of the National Guard is another destruction of the rights of the States by the all too-powerful Federal Government.

Governor George C. Wallace offered a minority report in which he pointed out that the Alabama National Guard was federalized illegally and unconstitutionally, because there had been no request by the Legislature or by the Governor for outside help in maintaining law and order at the University of Alabama. In fact, Governor Wallace pointed out that Tuscaloosa was the "safest

FORMER FASCIST HOLDS KEY SECURITY POSITION

The highly authoritative columnists, Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott in their column on July 8 revealed the unpublicized details of a closed-door meeting of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Guess who is the new Assistant Secretary of Defense for Research & Engineering? Dr. Eugene Ghiron Fubini, who admits being a dues-paying member of a Fascist organization while a university student in Italy. This Fubini man, a friend of the notorious Left Winger, Adam Yarmolinsky, will pass on security cases involving the highly secret National Security Agency and will direct the operation of the "hot line," whereby Khrushchev is now able to quickly issue his demands to President Kennedy. But, most importantly this foreign-born "ex-Fascist" now has a key role in the "permissive link" that controls the firing of nuclear weapons from the President down to officers in actual possession of these defensive weapons.

Remember Pearl Harbor - when Roosevelt permitted practically the entire U.S. fleet to be sitting ducks for the Jap raid? Well, with this guy, Fubini, being the "permissive link" regarding the firing of U.S. nuclear missiles in defense of this country in case of Soviet attack - could it be expected that, in case of Soviet attack he would utilize his other capacity and check via the "hot line" with Moscow to see if Khrushchev would "permit" the U.S. to defend itself?

MOVIES IN THE AGE OF "THE SELL-OUT"

Remember those wonderful old movies about the Army, the Navy, the Marines and the Air Force? Remember the lump in your throat, the feeling of pride in your heart when you saw ships of the U.S. Navy, in battle formation, cleanly cutting the waves, ready [illegible] the enemy [illegible] the Air [illegible] off the coast of Massachusetts."

Have they corroborated in any way that this Soviet woman actually even got off the ground? If not, why not? And why has the American press, once the beacon light for the entire world, become a mere disseminator for Soviet propaganda? And... what about the Republicans? Why don't they demand an investigation?

SPEAKING OF REPUBLICANS....

Senator John Tower of Texas, who performs so admirably as a Conservative in the U.S. Senate, can make the strangest public statements. Witness this: According to the AP, on July 8, Tower said "he feels a certain amount of 'kinship' with such liberal Republican senators as Clifford B. Case of New Jersey and Jacob K. Javits of New York. There is, he said, a basic difference between liberal Republicans and liberal Democrats 'and that difference is this - the so-called liberal Republican is not anti-business and the so-called liberal Democrat is'."

Heavens to Betsy, Senator Tower! Why not take a few minutes out and check your copy of the CSA or ACA Voting Index and see for yourself how the men you say you feel "kinship" for, Javits and Case, both have overwhelmingly anti-business voting records!

"JOHNNY WON'T READ"

Remember all that hassle several years ago about "Johnny Can't Read," as a result of "progressive" education? Well, here's a new item from the SANTA ANA (Calif.) REGISTER of July 13 which concerns former Congressman John H. Rousselot, now district governor of the John Birch Society for Western States.

According to the SANTA ANA REGISTER: "He (Rousselot) explained to the Newport Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce that he believes Gen. Walker is a great man but not as great, perhaps, as Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower."

How can John Rousselot make a statement like that regarding Eisenhower? The record is clear about the part Republican Eisenhower has played in setting up the appeasement and disarmament policies which Democrat Kennedy is now studiously following.

Is it that Johnny not "can't" but "won't" read the facts regarding Eisenhower in THE [illegible] upon the resolution that the Southern Democrats and the Northern Democrats would split on the issue.

Another aspect of the civil rights issue which intruded in the Governors Conference was the report concerning the relationship of the Government towards the National Guard. A weasel-worded report was introduced, which avoided the paramount issue, namely, the dictatorial nationalization of the National Guard as exercised by both Eisenhower and Kennedy, and thus depriving the Governors of the States of a militia capable of putting down demonstrations and riots inside the States. Federalizing of the National Guard is another destruction of the rights of the States by the all too-powerful Federal Government.

Governor George C. Wallace offered a minority report in which he pointed out that the Alabama National Guard was federalized illegally and unconstitutionally, because there had been no request by the Legislature or by the Governor for outside help in maintaining law and order at the University of Alabama. In fact, Governor Wallace pointed out that Tuscaloosa was the "safest place in the universe" - much safer than Washington, D.C., for instance, or Central Park or the south side of Chicago.

The Governors talked about the problems of unemployment, but most of the time was consumed discussing how they could get help from the Federal Government to solve their problems. They did not consider the basic causes of unemployment, namely, a Federal Government which borrows money in order to give it away to Socialist and Communist countries in Foreign Aid.

The Governors did not talk about the need to stop federal competition with private enterprise. The Governors did not mention the need to cut down the size of the federal establishment and return to the States those activities which the Federal Government has no business performing in the first place.

As I said before, the Governors Conference was held in an atmosphere of Alice in Wonderland. There were a few occasions when the Governors were jolted back to reality. Governor Farris Bryant of Florida recommended that his State should be a staging area so that the Cubans could be trained to recapture their Island for freedom, but, of course, the Governors had abolished their Resolution Committee, thus denying the people in their State the opportunity to find out where their Governor stood on the important subject of liberation for Cuba.

On another occasion Governor Ross Barnett talked about the growing prosperity in his State of Mississippi. Ross Barnett talked of the 100,000 increase in population, the scores of new industries locating in Mississippi because of the attractive industrial climate. He mentioned that the Right-to-Work law was of great benefit to his State in attracting industries and protecting the rights of individuals to work without having to pay tribute to labor bosses to keep their jobs.

The Governors did not discuss the Tax Program of the President, and how it would adversely affect business. They did not discuss how Foreign Aid was creating unfair competition for American industry. They did not discuss deficit financing, which causes inflation cutting down on the purchasing power of all people. The Governors did not discuss the Council on State Government,

Increasing Communist Terrorism In Venezuela

By Clark Rowley

Communists can easily overthrow a government when the status quo has been upset. onfusion among the non- or anti-Communist forces allows quick penetration. Throwing the population into a state of panic, thus endering enemies immobile, by disrupting te economy, isolating segments of the poplation, threatening, destroying, and other neans aid in a Communist take-over. These neans are being used in Venezuela.

The May 5, 1962 edition of Carlos Todd's "Cuban Information Service" gave the hint of the beginning of a new campaign of terorism in Venezuela. "Communist activiies have been going on for years, but, with Cuba secure, the Communists turned their ull attention to oil-rich Venezuela."

In the May 11, 1963 issue of "Cuban Information Service" came the report that an American couple who lived in Cuba for many years, and only recently returned to this country, "were eyewitnesses to the sailing of 150-foot banana boats loaded with arms destined for Haiti, Guatemala, Venezuela, Chile, Peru and Argentina." Also in the same issue: "Hours after New York's Governor Rockefeller arrived in Venezuela with his bride, FALN Communist terrorists started a $500,000 fire in the partly U.S.-owned Union Grafica, a cardboard box factory."

On May 25, 1963 Carlos Todd's newsletter stated: "Venezuelan Red terrorists (FALN) attacked a police post only 600 yards away from the Miraflores Palace, which houses President Betancourt's offices."

The June 29, 1963 issue of "Cuban Information Service" contains more reports of American-owned oil company losses, of the destruction of the Goodyear plant, of accounting firms looted, pipelines destroyed, American army officers assaulted and ridiculed in Venezuelan newspapers. More damage and insults are reported every week.

Venezuela's dictator, Betancourt, has supposedly called for strict measures to stop the Communist terrorist activities. However, somehow or other soldiers under the direction of Betancourt never seem to be present to put a stop to such guerilla destruction.

Why is Betancourt unable to, or more importantly, unwilling to effectively put down the Communist guerillas in Venezuela who have adopted the name of "Armed Forces of National Liberation" (FALN)?

From 1930 to 1935 the Betancourt of Venezuela helped, while in exile, to establish the Communist Party in Costa Rica. There he developed a strategy of using the Communist modus operandi without using the party name and avoiding the Communist label. At all times, Betancourt decided, he must deny any contact or belief in Communist doctrine or methods. Castro did the same while in the process of consolidating his control over Cuba.

Members of the pro-Communist FALN(Armed Forces of National Liberation) in Venezuela hurled incendiary bombs into the Sears Roebuck warehouse near Caracas, Venezuela, on February 8. Damage amounted to 4.5 million dollars. A Venezuelan government spokesman said the destruction was due to Communist terrorists. Wide World Photo

As proof that Betancourt, the so-called "shield against Communism", is nothing of the sort, it is merely necessary to observe that in 1929, 1936, and 1948 he was exiled from Venezuela for Communist activities. Betancourt, as part of his strategy, said that he had left the Communist Party. However, the DAILY WORKER, official organ of the Communist Party in the United States reported on October 18, 1945 that he had not been expelled. He was still a member. Castro killed two priests in a Communist-inspired riot in Bogota, Columbia, in 1948. Betancourt was the person who intervened to save Castro's life. Castro was struggling for power in Oriente province in Cuba in 1958. Betancourt's political party in Venezuela started a nationwide fund drive for the Communist, Castro, and Venezuelan radio stations beamed their broadcasts to further the struggle in Cuba. Betancourt knew Castro, and he must have known that Castro was a Communist.

According to the quarterly reports of the Chase National Bank in 1957, Venezuela was the fastest growing country in Latin America, well on her way to economic prosperity. Then Betancourt won the presidential election in Venezuela in 1958. His first actions were to demand foreign loans. The country was out of national debt and no loans were needed. Betancourt introduced the drain on the economy, with plans of reckless spending. From there on in things went from bad to worse.

The Communists started their reign of terror. The economy of the country deteriorated. The number of unemployed went from 15,000 in 1958 to the present level of 350,000, according to "Pan American Headlines". Since becoming a governmental nightmare of waste, mismanagement, and corruption, Venezuela has lost the confidence of the people, resulting in $1,200,000,000 of investment capital fleeing the country. The United States has responded generously to calls from Betancourt for money. Military aid so far amounts to $52,900,000. $5,000,000 in economic grants have been pumped into the country, and a whopping $215,900,000 in loans to "increase the prosperity" have been swallowed up. To further drain the United States, the Communists are destroying results of American investment.

Betancourt, since 1960, has been ruling by executive decree. This means that he is a virtual dictator. The press is censored. Right wing elements are gagged. The Communist killers announce their coming raids in the newspapers. The army does nothing. The Communist Party is not outlawed.

It seems that Betancourt's long adopted policy of denying Communist ideas and influence is paying off.

And what is official United States policy toward this man Betancourt? In March 1963 came the answer. President Kennedy said at that time in a welcoming speech to Betancourt visiting Washington: "Your liberal leadership of your country, your persistant determination to make a better life for your people, your long fight for democratic leadership all have made you, for us, a symbol of what we wish for our country and for our sister republics."

The destruction of American investment in Venezuela continues in Castro-Communist style and the U.S. taxpayer supported Venezuelan army seems impotent to stop FALN raids such as pictured at the head of this article.

Chile, Peru and Argentina." Also in the same issue: "Hours after New York's Governor Rockefeller arrived in Venezuela with his bride, FALN Communist terrorists started a $500,000 fire in the partly U.S.-owned Union Grafica, a cardboard box factory."

On May 25, 1963 Carlos Todd's newsletter stated: "Venezuelan Red terrorists (FALN) attacked a police post only 600 yards away from the Miraflores Palace, which houses President Betancourt's offices."

The June 29, 1963 issue of "Cuban Information Service" contains more reports of American-owned oil company losses, of the destruction of the Goodyear plant, of accounting firms looted, pipelines destroyed, American army officers assaulted and ridiculed in Venezuelan newspapers. More damage and insults are reported every week.

Venezuela's dictator, Betancourt, has supposedly called for strict measures to stop the Communist terrorist activities. However, somehow or other soldiers under the direction of Betancourt never seem to be present to put a stop to such guerilla destruction.

Why is Betancourt unable to, or more importantly, unwilling to effectively put down the Communist guerillas in Venezuela who have adopted the name of "Armed Forces of National Liberation" (FALN)?

From 1930 to 1935 the Betancourt of Venezuela helped, while in exile, to establish the Communist Party in Costa Rica. There he developed a strategy of using the Communist modus operandi without using the party name and avoiding the Communist label. At all times, Betancourt decided, his control over Cuba.

As proof that Betancourt, the so-called "shield against Communism", is nothing of the sort, it is merely necessary to observe that in 1929, 1936, and 1948 he was exiled from Venezuela for Communist activities. Betancourt, as part of his strategy, said that he had left the Communist Party. However, the DAILY WORKER, official organ of the Communist Party in the United States reported on October 18, 1945 that he had not been expelled. He was still a member. Castro killed two priests in a Communist-inspired riot in Bogota, Columbia, in 1948. Betancourt was the person who intervened to save Castro's life. Castro was struggling for power in Oriente province in Cuba in 1958. Betancourt's political party in Venezuela started a nationwide fund drive for the Communist, Castro, and Venezuelan radio stations beamed their broadcasts to further the struggle in Cuba. Betancourt knew Castro, and he must have known that Castro was a Communist.

According to the quarterly reports of the Chase National Bank in 1957, Venezuela was the fastest growing country in Latin America, well on her way to economic prosperity. Then Betancourt won the presidential election in Venezuela in 1958. His first actions were to demand foreign loans. The country was out of national debt and no loans were needed. Betancourt introduced the drain on the economy, with plans of reckless spending. From there on in things went from bad to worse.

The Communists started their reign of terror. The economy of the country deteriorated. The number of unemployed went from 15,000 in 1958 to the present level of 350,000, according to "Pan American Headdence of the people, resulting in $1,200,000,000 of investment capital fleeing the country. The United States has responded generously to calls from Betancourt for money. Military aid so far amounts to $52,900,000. $5,000,000 in economic grants have been pumped into the country, and a whopping $215,900,000 in loans to "increase the prosperity" have been swallowed up. To further drain the United States, the Communists are destroying results of American investment.

Betancourt, since 1960, has been ruling by executive decree. This means that he is a virtual dictator. The press is censored. Right wing elements are gagged. The Communist killers announce their coming raids in the newspapers. The army does nothing. The Communist Party is not outlawed.

It seems that Betancourt's long adopted policy of denying Communist ideas and influence is paying off.

And what is official United States policy toward this man Betancourt? In March 1963 came the answer. President Kennedy said at that time in a welcoming speech to Betancourt visiting Washington: "Your liberal leadership of your country, your persistent determination to make a better life for your people, your long fight for democratic leadership all have made you, for us, a symbol of what we wish for our country and for our sister republics."

The destruction of American investment in Venezuela continues in Castro-Communist style and the U.S. taxpayer supported Venezuelan army seems impotent to stop FALN raids such as pictured at the head of this article.

DANGEROUS FALLACIES OF TEST BAN TREATY

By Fulton Lewis, Jr.

WASHINGTON, July 31 - It was December 1961, and Nikita Khrushchev thundered, "We'd be slobbering fools if we did not carry out nuclear tests."

There was no evidence of senility last week as Khrushchev, smiling but not slobbering, gave the green light to his diplomatic lackey, Andrei Gromyko, to initial the partial nuclear test ban approved by representatives of Great Britain and the United States.

In little more than 18 months, the ever-eager Soviet premier had seen the nuclear balance of power tip in his favor and in July, 1963, it was time for a test ban.

That the "ban" approved by the Big Three last week is what the name implies. While outlawed by word, tests can still be conducted outside the atmosphere. There is no way, as scientists of the Big Three agreed in July, 1959, to detect nuclear tests conducted far above the earth.

Soviet scientists may find themselves working in East Germany, Hungary, Poland, and Rumania. Not covered by the ban, the Soviet-dominated countries of Eastern Europe may test - in the atmosphere, in outer space, in the sea, below the ground - to their hearts' content.

Were the Soviets to keep their promise not to test - and past performances make this exceedingly doubtful - the test ban would still be to our disadvantage.

Congressman Craig Hosmer, ranking Re-

(2) U.S. progress in developing a defense against enemy missiles will come to a halt at the same time Soviet scientists appear to have developed such a capability. As Sen. Strom Thurmond, a General in the Army Reserve, told colleagues behind closed doors, the Soviet Union has installed an anti-missile complex at Leningrad.

Anti-missile defense in the hands of the Soviet Union is another way of saying our deterrent against Soviet attack has weakened. It, too, is the equivalent of cutting back our manned bombers, our Polaris missiles, our Atlas and Minuteman missiles.

If the warheads carried by these delivery systems are to be intercepted by Soviet defenses with any degree of efficiency, then they will not loom as large as deterrents to Soviet button-pushers.

Conversely, the absence of an anti-missile capability by this country permits a Soviet first-strike, surprise attack that would destroy our deterrent forces before they are put in operation.

(3) The partial test ban treaty introduces to America the completely new hazard of surprise abrogation. This is the situation where Soviet scientists, working in secrecy, would prepare an extensive series of atmospheric tests.

Government Power

(From The Concord, N.C., Tribune)

President Kennedy's executive order enabling government agencies to cut off Federal funds from any Federally-assisted construction project where discrimination against Negroes is practiced says more about Big Government than it does about civil rights.

Or, perhaps, it should be worded "presumed to exist" or even "alleged to exist". For some government official must make a decision on that score, deciding whether alleged discrimination is really discrimination or not. Beyond that, there is no provision in Mr. Kennedy's order - - once discrimination is alleged - to prove it exists. Neither is there any room, apparently, for penalizing the party or parties guilty of discrimination; all are punished alike - the various contractors, the various workers, the community, the area, the state - by withholding federal funds.

This is not the first instance of economic threats against people and localities and states whose actions displease the administration. We have been brazenly told that if we "vote right" - if we elect administration supporters - we will stand to gain more federal contracts. We have been led to assume, through the abominable practice of permitting politicians to announce defense contracts, that pro-administration congressmen are able to obtain more defense business for a district or a state than administration opponents in Congress.

Perhaps we are becoming so accustomed to being bribed with our own money - and threatened with being deprived of it - that

Congressman Craig Hosmer, ranking Republican on the Joint Atomic Energy Committee and one of the country's best experts on nuclear strategy, tells why:

(1) U.S. progress in development of high-yield, 30 to 100 megaton weapons will be paralyzed at the very time Soviet scientists have achieved these capabilities. The United States will be unable to cope with Khrushchev's long-range program of "hardening" his missile sites.

The consequent inability to mete out destruction to Soviet weaponry will decrease the capability of our deterrent force in direct ratio to increases in Soviet power. It is equivalent to cutting back our SAC (Strategic

During this period, which might last for years, U.S. laboratory work would deteriorate in quality and quantity along with our capabilities for atmospheric testing. The net effect would be a quantum jump in Soviet nuclear capabilities which might well gain for them decisive nuclear superiority.

Rep. Hosmer concludes:

"Under such conditions, the West could expect at worst a nuclear Pearl Harbor and at best a surrender-or-die ultimatum."

Perhaps we are becoming so accustomed to being bribed with our own money - and threatened with being deprived of it - that we no longer can muster the righteous indignation against the practice that it deserves.

For years and years our states and our communities have turned increasingly to Washington to get the money they have sent there. Many people still insist that federal "aid" - that is, federal taxation for state and local use - does not mean federal control.

President Kennedy's threats with regard to the civil rights issue should dispel all arguments on that score.

Police-State Methods Necessary for "World Order" says Millis Study

By EDITH KERMIT ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, D. C. — "The break-up of the Russian Communist empire today would doubtless be conducive to freedom, but would be a good deal more catastrophic for world order than was the break-up of the Austro-Hungarian Empire in 1918."

Edith Kermit Roosevelt

This astounding conclusion, that it would not be in America's interest for the Red bloc to collapse, was actually reached at the expense of the American taxpayer. They are the words of Walter Millis as part of a report for the Government costing us $20,000.

Millis pictures what faces us in the future by saying: "In a completely policed world," the American Revolution of 1776 "would be suppressed, as was the Hungarian Revolution, with all the global forces of law and order cooperating."

Heaven help any Freedom Fighters of the future with such a world army around!

The Millis study was paid for by the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, the controversial Government bureau seeking to transfer American weaponry to the International Disarmament Organization. Millis' pompous title in his study on "The Political Control Of An International Police Force" is "Director of the Study of War as an Institution, Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, Fund for the Republic." Defense Secretary Robert Strange McNamara is a founding member and annual contributor to this center.

This project, undertaken by the Peace Research Institute in Washington, is one of eighteen contracts awarded by the Disarmament Agency as of April 10th, totaling about $2,000,000. Millis' study appears in the second volume of this report entitled, "Quis Custodiet," which for the benefit of us non-elite, apparently means: "Who'll Control What?" The loose translation given on the document is: "Controlling The an American policy of a strategic stalemate, and even assuring defeat of such freedom-loving forces as the brave band of young Cuban patriots who set sail April 17th, 1961, for the Bay of Pigs.

The scandalous treatise by Millis admits: "It is in the first instance constitutional change which is proposed by the goal of general and complete disarmament."

"Constitutional change" means curbing Congress. It is no accident that the Center for Democratic Institutions — of which he is a staff member — published a pamphlet May 27th in which Democratic Senators Joseph S. Clark from Pennsylvania and J. W. Fulbright from Arkansas call for limiting the rôle of Congress.

"One cannot resist the conclusion," Millis goes on, "that there must be a supranational autonomous police power, with veto-free sources of revenue . . . solely responsible to a supranational political authority."

His paper meshes perfectly with policy statements by our highest Government officials. Included are:

"Agreements should explicitly prohibit the development" of an anti-missile defense system. Stated by Jerome Weisner, top science aide to President Kennedy, at the Sixth Pugwash Conference, Moscow, November 29th, 1960.

The United States should undertake "a series of unilateral (disarmament) actions designed to produce reciprocal action . . . on the part of our enemies." Paul Nitze, Assistant Secretary of Defense for International Security Affairs, at Asilomar National Strategy Seminar, Monterey Peninsula, Calif., April 24th-30th, 1960.

"It is, therefore, an American interest to see an end of nationhood as it has been historically defined." Walt Whitman Rostow, chairman of the State Department Policy Planning Board, at the Center for International Studies, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, September, 1959.

This approach, which goes beyond "appeasement" or "accommodation," to actually furnishing aid and comfort to the Soviet Union, only makes sense in the

Once there is resort to unconstitutional military force, it is easier to use it again, and again. Thus does a system of government by law degenerate into a system of dictatorial rule by men.

President Eisenhower flagrantly violated the Constitution's Article IV, Section 4, when he sent U.S. armed force down upon Little Rock contrary to the wishes of the people and officials of that state, and without the constitutional requirement that legislature or governor invite such force before the President has any right at all to send it.

That made it easier for President Kennedy to resort to an army of occupation to rule over Oxford, Miss.

In both of these cases, the Presidents involved pleaded "necessity" because of violence, attempting to cover their breaches of their oaths of office by fraudulent claims that when disorder occurred, that somehow gave the Presidents a special right and a special power to go ahead and violate the Constitution. They also cited "laws" dating back to the vicious Reconstruction Period that they claimed provided justification for them—though they and their myriad attorneys full well knew that a mere congressional enactment contrary to the Constitution does not supersede the Constitution.

The Little Rock and Oxford cases had many things in common. But the Tuscaloosa, Ala., case yesterday was different in many ways.

Yes, President Kennedy again violated the Constitution by sending troops as an army of occupation. He found it easier to do because of what he had done in Oxford and what his predecessor had done in Little Rock.

But in Tuscaloosa at the University of Alabama there was not even the excuse of disorder and violence that had been used on the two previous occasions. The previous pleas of necessity could not be matched by a plea of necessity yesterday.

Hardly had the Alabama campus ever been quieter. Gov. George Wallace had promised peace: he put hundreds of state patrolmen and state-controlled National Guard troops in readiness to guarantee his promise. There was peace.

Millis' thesis is that the existence of the Soviet slave empire is a necessity for the "world order." He writes: "One might say that if the Soviet empire did not exist, something would have to be created to fulfill its rôle in the world order."

The implication is that it should be American policy to join the United Nations in crushing any revolt in the Ukraine, Poland, Hungary, or any other captive nation, forcing it back under Moscow's heel.

"Whether we admit it to ourselves or not," Millis says, "we benefit enormously from the capability of the Soviet police system to keep law and order over the two-hundred-million odd Russians and the many additional millions in the satellite States."

We are supposed to "benefit enormously" by the enslavement of these many millions of human beings!

This is the most dramatic confirmation yet of what Democratic Senator Strom Thurmond from South Carolina calls Washington's "no-win policy." It provides the ideological justification for the paper meshes perfectly with policy statements by our highest Government officials. Included are:

This nightmarish world, predicted by George Orwell in his novel 1984, would be ushered in by the so-called general "disarmament" treaty.

Never before in our history would a politician in the position of Sen. J. William Fulbright of Arkansas have dared suggest, as the senator has, that we scrap our constitutional system of checks and balances and make it impossible for Congress to "thwart" the President's plans. He would have been instantly, almost universally, and justifiably denounced as a traitor to the principles upon which this Republic was founded.

Yet such is precisely the proposal now made by Mr. Fulbright, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, and another Democrat, Sen. A Loaded Gallup Poll

(Reprinted from THE INDEPENDENT STAR)

Ask a loaded question and you'll get a loaded answer. This seems to be the theory behind the Gallup Poll in the July 3 issue of The STAR.

Gallup has discovered that the vast majority of the American people are dominated by the "one world" idea. According to this "research", "President Kennedy's renewed call for 'interdependence' between Europe and the United States comes at a time when the overwhelming majority of the American public is in favor of international co-operation." The conclusion that one is obviously expected to draw is that most Americans support the Kennedy policies in Europe and elsewhere and believe in Wendell Willkie's "One World."

That is a lot of nonsense.

What was the question from which these brilliant conclusions were drawn? "Would it be better for the United States to keep independent in world affairs - or would it be better for the United States to work closely with other nations?" This is simply one of those "when are you going to stop beating your wife?" things.

How would you answer that question? We would answer - as 82 per cent of the Americans tested answered - that we have to "work closely with other nations." But not the same way the President does.

We do not believe in the "one world" idea nor do we support the President's policies in Berlin, in relations with France, in giving honorable recognition to the vicious Communist Kadar government of Hungary, in desperately seeking Russian approval of almost any atomic test ban.

We oppose the President' obvious moves to support Socialist governments in Britain, Italy and Latin America. We believe that the Alliance for Progress has been and will continue to be a failure. We oppose the President's policy of paying ransom to Castro and allowing Russian soldiers and planes and rockets to be sent into Cuba. We think the President's action harassing the Cuban exiles who seek to free their beloved country to be - to say the least - stupid.

We oppose the Foreign Aid program as being wasteful, ineffective, poorly directed, ill conceived and doing more harm than it does good. We oppose the President's policy toward Katanga and the UN colonial rule in the Congo. We think that the President's policy of seeking new agreements with the Soviet Union - when all of the old ones have been cynically broken - is ridiculous.

At the same time we believe that the United States must "work closely with other nations" like Free China, France, Spain, Portugal as well as Germany, Italy and Britain. We do not, however, believe that the United States should "work closely with other nations" like Russia, Yugoslavia, Communist Hungary or Red China.

Now, we have answered in favor of working with other nations. Yet we oppose the President's policies in many parts of the world. Let us draw our own conclusion from our own "research" now. Since we answered this question in the same way that 82 per cent of the American people tested answered it, we conclude that 82 per cent of the American people oppose these Kennedy policies the same as we do. Why doesn't that make as much sense as Gallup's conclusion?

It does.

So we suggest that the poll takers stick to their business and conduct it more carefully. Or they won't be around very long.

"The foreign policy powers of Congress under the Constitution," Mr. Fulbright complains, "enable it to implement, modify, or thwart the President's proposals. . . . The defects of Congress as an institution reflect the defects of classical democratic thought."

Defects? Maybe there are defects in Congress, but where have the most dangerous mistakes been made? Who fumbled the Bay of Pigs invasion by pulling off air cover? Who tells us that we must allow the government to "manage" our news? Certainly not Congress; these mistakes can be blamed solely on the executive branch of the government, whose powers Mr. Fulbright would increase.

Indeed Mr. Fulbright himself is for "managed" news. "Public opinion," he says, "must be educated and led. This is preëminently a task for Presidential leadership."

The Constitution, in Mr. Fulbright's opinion, is hopelessly outdated. "Government by the people is possible, but highly improbable." Which means, we suppose, that the Revolutionary and Civil wars were fought in vain, and that the Gettysburg address can be relegated to the file of historical trivia. The electorate are in-

had gained court approval of their usurpation.

Yet President Kennedy sent troops, violated the Constitution, imposed military dictatorship.

Though many strongly disagree with the political aims and sociological purposes of the Kennedy racial campaign, and though the Supreme Court has substituted its will for Constitution and law, no one would argue that President Kennedy should not be entitled to his day in even a disreputable court which he is assured in advance will support him.

Gov. Wallace was under court injunction not to interfere with the forced integration of the University of Alabama. The Federal authorities, intervening in a thoroughly peaceful atmosphere, could have sought citation of the governor for contempt of court, and could have removed his obstruction even by having him jailed by civil authorities, if that had become necessary.

But, instead, there was Kennedy resort to the quicker, more forceful way—military dictatorship.

It is clear that Mr. Kennedy chose to ignore the courts and by preference resorted to military force.

Do the American people see where we are headed? Grave as is the issue of race, there is a graver issue: constitutional government.

We have seen the unconstitutional pattern repeated, first with the alibi of provocation by disorder, then even in peaceful circumstances. Who knows where and for what a President, this one or a successor, may use military force again, citing past unconstitutional performances as precedents and "justification"?

It is in this way that we slip downward from government in strict accord with the Constitution to government by force beyond the law.

We have seen the courts issue dictatorial decrees, but in the aura of judicial decorum. We have seen Presidents issue executive orders as substitutes for law, but in the prestige of the White House. And we have seen military force applied nakedly to coerce when other, proper avenues were available.

We are seeing the destruction of our system of constitutional government of limited powers, checks and balances—and freedom.

Wallace May Oppose Kennedy In Primaries

Governor George C. Wallace of Alabama, may well become a new spokesman before the growing Conservative movement. Close friends and advisers of Governor Wallace have indicated that he is thinking about the possibility of entering Democrat Presidential Primary Elections in several States in opposition to President Kennedy. His purpose would be to allow the voters to express their dissatisfaction with Kennedy's policies in a presidential primary vote. It is a feeling of many that if Wallace campaigned in states like Maryland, or Indiana, that he might get 30 to 40% of the vote which would undoubtedly prove embarassing to Jack Kennedy.

Governor George Wallace

TESTIFIES AGAINST "CIVIL RIGHTS"

Governor Wallace in testifying before the Senate Commerce Committee accused President Kennedy of bringing the nation to the brink of civil warfare. Governor Wallace said, "These leaders have now pressured the President into the ridiculous position of placing his stamp of approval on mob violence and rioting in the streets of this country."

Governor Wallace requested that Congress investigate Communist activities linked with racial demonstrations. Wallace charged that the Air Force is encouraging its personnel to engage in street demonstrations with rioting mobs. At this point, Senate Strom Thurmond produced photostats of orders issued by Brig. Gen. James C. Sherrill, Commander of the Charleston Air Force Base.

On June 8 an order was issued prohibiting participation by base personnel in civil rights demonstrations. On June 26 a second order revoking the first one was issued, and quoted the Air Force's policy as permitting all personnel to demonstrate in racial disturbances as "private citizens."

Wallace then said that such orders were "an incitement to demonstrate." It was determined at the hearing that the original order barring participation was countermanded on direct orders from "higher authority" in Washington.

AT THE GOVERNORS' CONFERENCE

Governor Wallace was one of the top news-makers at the recent Governors' Conference in Miami Beach. He entered a minority report as a member of the Governor's Advisory Committee to the National Guard. He pointed out that if Kennedy can illegally and unconstitutionally federalize the National Guard in his State that other Governors might find the U.S. Army used against them.

He reminded everyone that Tuscaloosa, Alabama was the most peaceful and the safest place in the United States when Kennedy, without the invitation of the Governor or the Alabama Legislature moved U.S. Army troops into Alabama. Governor Wallace evoked smiling approval and applause when he said that it was safer in Tuscaloosa than in the shadow of the White House or the Supreme Court Building in Washington, D.C.

Governor Wallace of Alabama has become a symbol of the crises of our time, as he stands almost alone against the intrusion of federal power into the area reserved by the Constitution to the States. He is a symbol of right, which has been overpowered by might.

Wallace rightly mentions that the federal government is exceeding its Constitutional powers because Congress has passed no law nullifying the Tenth Amendment or taking away from the individual states their power to operate and control their own school systems. At the Governors' Conference, he declared "the Tenth Amendment sustains the right of determination and grants the State of Alabama the right to enforce its laws and regulate its internal affairs."

We hope that Governor Wallace goes ahead with the plan to enter Democrat presidential primaries next year. What a wonderful opportunity to take a measure of the vast reservoir of anti-Kennedy sentiment in the country, even among members of Kennedy's own party!

Wallace Tells 'Bama Schools To Ignore Prayer-Bible Ban

The first week of August, Governor Wallace of Alabama challenged the U.S. Supreme Court's decision concerning the reading of the Bible in public schools. The State Board of Education at the suggestion of the Governor passed a resolution which said in part, that in order to preserve freedom of religion and in order to guarantee to the students of Alabama the privilege of receiving the moral instruction contained in the Bible and in order to carry out the provisions of Title 52, Section 542 of the Code of Alabama, that the Bible be read in all schools of Alabama each day. The State Board of Education therefore directed the principals of all schools financed in whole or in part by the State of Alabama to carry out the statutory provisions of Alabama Law.

The principals were ordered to see to it that Bible reading and instruction is given to all pupils attending Alabama schools once each day and that such Bible reading and study be considered a part of the regular course of instruction of all students.

THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN recommends that all subscribers write to Governor Wallace of Alabama congratulating him on his forthright stand on behalf of teaching religion in the schools of Alabama. We further recommend that you write for a copy of the resolution adopted by the Alabama State Board of Education. When you receive your copy we suggest you send it to your own Governor and members of your State Legislature in order to bring pressure to use the Bible as a basis for religious instruction in all schools throughout the nation.

Does Mr. Fulbright suggest that employes of the executive departments are immune to pressure? Does he prefer the risk of bad decisions made by executive fiat to the chance that good programs may occasionally be delayed by Congress? Does he forget that Congress is there as much to prevent bad programs as to enact good ones?

In the past, we repeat, Mr. Fulbright would not have dared make such suggestions. But now we're on a New Frontier, where the President can casually dismiss the Constitution as something "written under entirely different conditions," and where Ambassador Stevenson can deplore old-fashioned patriotism as an obstacle to the hegemony of the United Nations.

And a leading member of the Kennedy team asks us to junk our heritage and substitute the volatile sort of autocracy which Gen. de Gaulle has imposed in France. We're asked to submit to the sort of one-man rule which exists under Mayor Daley in Chicago, where crooked elections are the order of the day.

Let us not forget that this is the same Mr. Fulbright who accused President Eisenhower of muzzling the generals, inhibiting free speech, and usurping the powers of Congress. What better evidence is there that his latest proposal is designed not simply to subordinate Congress to the President, but to subordinate all opposition, and indeed the whole electorate, to the will of a clique which presumptuously regards itself as the "elite"?

The Second African War

(Reprinted from RICHMOND (Va.) NEWS LEADER)

The U. S. has declared a second war of anarchy in Africa. The first U. S. war destroyed Katanga. When American arms and UN troops took away Katanga's hard-won independence, it was immediately clear why Katanga wanted to be independent. Katanga's efficient administration was strangled, its leader was harried out of the land, and its political boundaries dissolved. Katanga exists no more, not even on the map. The State Department has now trained the same withering death-ray on Angola, Mozambique, and South Africa.

The last couple of weeks have been astonishingly busy for the State Department anarchists. The schedule shows what good planning can do:

- The first thing that happened was that guerrillas, waiting for months in the border countries of Senegal and Guinea, suddenly overran 2,000 square miles of Portuguese Guinea.
- On July 15, President Jules Nyerere of Tanganyika arrived in Washington. Nyerere has been harboring and arming terrorists. He had the gall to tell the Washington Press Club that Tanganyika had a perfect right to support "resistance movements in occupied territories."
- That afternoon, a meeting was held at the White House to discuss African problems. On hand from the State Department were Under Secretary George Ball and Assistant Secretary G. Mennen Williams. The Defense Department sent Secretary McNamara and General Maxwell Taylor. Assistant Secretary of Labor George Weaver met with them. Their decision to impose an arms embargo on South Africa was leaked to the press.
- On July 16, Nyerere conferred with the President, and was guest of honor at a dinner given by Soapy Williams.
- On July 17, Nyerere went to New York to discuss strategy for the forthcoming UN debate on Portugal and South Africa.
- On July 19, Mr. Kennedy told his press conference that South Africa's internal policies were "inimical" to her future and "repugnant" to the U. S. He further affirmed that "the United Nations has every right to express hostility to policies which are pursued which are a threat to peace."
- On July 22, representatives of the Special Committee on Apartheid told the opening session of the UN Security Council that Africa would take independent action against Portugal and South Africa if the UN did not act.

This perfectly orchestrated sequence of events is a rising crescendo to a crashing policy: a UN arms embargo against South Africa. This is exactly the same policy which the U. S. used to destroy Batista's regime in Cuba. Moreover, it is common knowledge that the Congo has been spending U. S. aid to train Holden Roberto's terrorists and to ship arms to insurrectionists in South Africa. Latest reports say that the super-secret CIA is also pouring funds directly into Roberto's effort. The State Department is out to get South Africa coming and going; it supports armed rebellion against our ally while cutting off the means of defense.

The Katangan war was said to be justified on the grounds that Katanga's independence was a threat to the peace. Mr. Kennedy's press conference indicates that the Portuguese-South African war is to be justified on the same basis. What this means is that there is no longer any distinction between the internal and external affairs of sovereign nations.

If the UN can wage war against South Africa because the threats of her savage neighbors disturb the peace, then the UN could just as validly wage war on the U. S. For the past couple of years we have been repeatedly told that segregation in the U. S. is analogous to colonialism abroad. If Congress fails to pass a civil rights bill, will the State Department declare war on the U. S.?

ored military procedure of chain-of-command, service men fancying that they have been discriminated against are, in the Report, urged to present their "complaints" direct to such "visiting personnel," and to contact the Department of Defense.

That the promoters of the Gesell Report know that the policy it advocates does not constitute the wishes of the majority of either white or Negro servicemen, is evident when the Report, in discussing entertainment for servicemen decries the fact that > "...forms of segregated service clubs have developed in practice. For example, the Negro servicemen may gravitate to one club and white servicemen to another."

Demanding that all service clubs be integrated, the Gesell Report states:

> "Commanders should take affirmative action to insure that there is no de facto segregation or discrimination at any of these club facilities. In addition, Negro girls should be secured for dances..."

The framers of the Gesell Report are very disturbed, because as the Report puts it, military commanders "do not believe that the problems of segregation and racial discrimination in a local community should be their concern."

The report bemoans the fact that responsible military commanders believe that "the authority of a base commander ends at the gate of the military base; that it is not his job to re-arrange the social order; that it is not part of the military mission to change the community attitudes; that any pressure would be misunderstood and would merely stir up trouble; that questions of this kind should be left to the courts; that military personnel are traditionally non-political and should not involve themselves in controversial questions."

The principal purpose of the Gesell Report is to change this traditional relationship between military commanders and the community.

On encouraging the military base commanders to extend their command beyond the boundaries of military installations, the Gesell Report is quite clear:

> "On his (the base commander) shoulders falls the primary responsibility for solving local problems... The base commander's concern should be that of correcting forms of discrimination which interfere with the morale and efficiency of men of his command. The pattern the community should choose to follow as to its own civilians cannot be accepted as the pattern which must be imposed on men in uniform or of their dependents..."

Commenting on the Gesell Report, Congressman F. Edward Hebert stated: "What makes it such a tragedy is that the military, against its own will, is being used as an instrument to compel integration and to inject itself into politics in the government and on local community level. This has dership."

The "leadership and direction" which the Report recommends be furnished by base commanders is plain and simple coercion, by any methods deemed necessary.

The type of coercion to be employed is clearly outlined in the section of the Gesell Report entitled: "Where Efforts of Base Commanders are Unsuccessful Sanctions are Available and Should be Employed."

No "sanctions" have been employed by the Kennedy Administration against the Soviet Union for establishing a missile base 90 miles from the U.S. But "sanctions" will be employed against local communities which fail to bow down to edicts of the Kennedy Administration!

Spelling out the type of coercion to be used against local communities the Gesell Report states that if the operator of a particular business does not give in to initial "persuasion and discussion", the base commander "should develop a plan under which military personnel of all races would be permitted to patronize only those facilities which receive his expressed approval."

The businessman could obtain this approval by "a guarantee" that his establishment would be open to all servicemen and their dependents without regard to race or color. In return for his guarantee, he might receive a "display placard or decal," indicating the base commander's approval.

MILITARY CONTROL OF LOCAL COMMUNITIES

On July 26, Secretary of Defense McNamara authorized the armed services to declare off-limits to all servicemen any areas where racial discrimination allegedly was practiced. At the same time McNamara according to an AP dispatch, rejected "as not now feasible a recommendation by a special presidential committee that the Pentagon close military bases near communities where discrimination is particularly prevalent and cannot be reduced by persuasion from the military."

It is highly unlikely that the Pentagon will close down any military bases on this pretext because: It is evident that Kennedy now intends to carry out his unconstitutional edicts not by law but by force - and military bases, of course, play a strategic role in such plans.

Military commanders when forced to a choice between being placed in the role of policing, pressuring and intimidating fellow citizens, or quietly resigning their commissions, can, of course, make only one honorable choice. This will then leave in command, opportunists, ingratiatingly eager to follow any Pentagon order, regardless of how anti-American it may be, in order to climb the ladder to higher rank. And, of course, this is the way it has been planned!

In pointing out one aspect of the power which the base commander can exert under McNamara's order implementing the Gesell Report, Senator John Stennis stated that if ing the Gesell Report involves a clear violation of the Constitution. It is a blatant attempt to use the armed forces to intimidate and eventually subjugate the civilian population of the United States in order to carry out, by force, the dictates of the Kennedy Administration.

Article 1, Section 8, Clause 14 of the U.S. Constitution states: "The Congress shall have power to make rules for the government and regulation of the land and naval forces."

Congress has passed no bill which would give Secretary of Defense McNamara the power to use the armed forces of the United States against the people of the United States.

Write your Congressman and your two Senators today, demanding that they introduce and support legislation in both Houses of Congress to (1) censure or impeach Secretary of Defense McNamara for his unconstitutional and illegal actions; (2) carry out Art. 1, Sec. 8, Cl. 14 of the Constitution by making "rules for the government and regulation of the land and naval forces" to the effect that base commanders are forbidden to carry out the unconstitutional provisions of the Gesell Report.

It will be recalled that on June 19, 1962, in Rumania, Soviet dictator Khrushchev stated:

> "I am convinced that tomorrow the Red flag will fly over the United States. But we will not fly the flag. It will be the American people themselves."

Khrushchev was inaccurate in his use of the term "the American people." What he doubtless meant was "the administration in power."

Unless the American people demand that the infamous Gesell Report be immediately repudiated and McNamara's order implementing the report be immediately rescinded, Khrushchev's boast may be come true sooner than even he thought!

Knowing that respectable military commanders will balk at the unconstitutional enlarging of their military duties to areas far afield the Gesell Report threatens such commanders by stating "achievements in dealing with such problems (that is, exerting military pressure on a community) will be considered in rating their performance of duty and in promotion selection." In other words, any military commander, who refuses to embroil himself and his troops in local controversies, will find his military career at a dead end.

Discussing the tremendous economic power the base commander could exert by prohibiting all servicemen from becoming customers of certain businesses by making them off-limits, Stennis said that this would give the commander punitive power over citizens who pay taxes to support the very military services which would be oppressing them.

"Thus," said Stennis, "a base commander could soon amass social, political and economic power of sufficient strength to be the dominating force in a community or area. Such a system operating in a chain of base commanders could generate dictatorial power beyond recall."

How To Get People Up Off Their Apathy

How do we get people up off their apathy?

One of the ways that apathetic Americans are being recruited into the ranks of active Conservatives has been devised by a group of employers. Started by A. E. Summers, owner of Premier Photo Service of Parkersburg, West Virginia, the plan merely involves withholding all Federal and State taxes once a month instead of each week.

Here's how it works. The employer pays each employee his total earnings during the first three pay periods of each month. On the fourth pay period all Federal taxes, Social Security Taxes and State taxes are taken out of the one pay check. In the case of an employee receiving one hundred dollars a week, he receives his full one hundred dollars for three weeks, but on the fourth week a total of $60.15 is withheld giving the employee a take-home pay of $19.85 on the fourth week.

The objective of this plan is to effectively wake-up the employee to the realization that "big government" is taking a "big bite" out of his pay check.

THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN recommends that all employers contact the organization promoting this idea. For further information write SWAT (Stop Withholding All Taxes), Box 1767, Parkersburg, West Virginia.

On the fourth pay period all Federal Taxes, Social Security Taxes and State Taxes are taken out of the one pay check. In the case of an employee receiving one hundred dollars a week, he receives his full one hundred dollars for three weeks, but on the fourth week a total of $80.15 is withheld giving the employee a take-home pay of $19.85 on the fourth week.

The objective of this plan is to effectively wake-up the employee to the realization that "big government" is taking a "big bite" out of his pay check.

THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN recommends that all employers contact the organization promoting this idea. For further information write SWAT (Stop Withholding All Taxes), Box 1767, Parkersburg, West Virginia.

You Paid For It

(Reprinted from INDIANAPOLIS STAR)

Did you know that some of your Federal income tax went to pay for a $20,700 study by the National Institutes of Health of "Behavior and physiological concomitants of dreaming," a "Stereotactic atlas of the beagle brain" costing $9,775 and a $19,965 study of "red tuna and yellow fat disease in the cat." Somebody's "beagle brain" is "dreaming" up some real weird ones for the "yellow fat . . . cat."

You know, of course, that some of your tax money goes to support people in other countries in Latin America, Africa, Asia, the Middle East and just about everywhere else. But we'll bet you didn't know that your tax money is also supporting a colony of baboons. That's right—baboons. Congressman Gene Snyder of Kentucky has revealed that the National Institutes of Health has initiated and supported a colony of baboons. The cost to you taxpayers? Just $61,985.

Southern Die-Hard

After deploring the color line that seems to grant civil rights only to reds and blacks, The Statesville (N.C.) Record concludes with the observation that "all of this will classify us with the Southern die-hards. But has anybody ever accused the Kennedys of being die-easies? The only thing right now that appears to be dying easy is the form of government under which this country has operated for the past 150 years."

The Hon. Ezra Taft Benson, honorary National Chairman of WE THE PEOPLE, announces the ninth annual Constitution Day Convention in Chicago on Saturday and Sunday, September 21and 22 at the Sheraton-Chicago Hotel. In an interview with the president of WE THE PEOPLE, Harry T. Everingham, we learned that not only will Ezra Taft Benson be a speaker at this Constitution Day Convention, but that Robert Welch, the founder of The John Birch Society, and Billy James Hargis of Christian Crusade, and Tom Anderson, Editor and Publisher of Farm and Ranch Magazine, will also be featured speakers.

Harry Everingham emphasized that this will be a conference which will feature a number of panel discussions with the maximum amount of audience participation. Among the panels already announced are those covering the subjects of: Education, Urban Renewal, How to Recruit Conservatives into Effective Political Action, and How to Awaken the People of the United States to the Perils of Socialism and Communism. Dr. Hugh Ramsey of Indiana will be chairman of the panel on Urban Renewal which will feature patriots who have had experience in successfully opposing Urban Renewal plans in various parts of the country.

There will be several panels on political action including such topics as: How to man the precincts with Conservatives; How to win in a marginal voting district, where only the switching of a few hundred votes can mean victory for Conservatives. One of the panels will feature Alternatives for Conservatives. One of these alternatives is a new political party and the need for co-ordination between the Independent Elector Plan of the South and independentpolitical action in the North. Participants on the New Party Panel will include, Kent Courtney, National Chairman of The Conservative Society of America, and Harold Poeschel, leader of The Conservative Party of New Jersey, and author of the book, "It's High Time, The Case For A New Party."

NEW BOOK

THE LIBERTY AMENDMENT

The Conservative movement is reaching the point where it is beginning to exert influence. Arguments for limitations of Federal power are increasingly well organized. The movement is gaining momentum and respectability.

Going along with this general trend is the quality of the Conservative literature. The recently published book ACTION FOR AMERICANS - THE LIBERTY AMENDMENT is a good illustration of this. Written by Lloyd Herbstreith and Gordan van B. King, this book is well documented and gives a complete analysis of the Liberty Amendment. The history of the income tax, the economic justifications for the abolishment of the Federal income tax, examples of government inefficiency in public operations, and the pros and cons of all facets of the argument for repeal of the income tax are mentioned.

The authors, Herbstreith and King, remark that "when a vast and greedy bureaucracy has almost openly become our master, we try to reassure ourselves with the hope that it can't happen here." But "it is estimated they (Federal agencies) control more than twenty percent of the nation's industrial capacity." Today, 45 percent of the State of Arizona, 46 percent of California, and 87 percent of Nevada are Federally owned. The extent of the Federal domain "amounts to 32.3 percent of the total land and water area of the United States and all its territories and possessions."

The reports of the Hoover Task Force are often referred to. According to this source, 92 percent of the money supporting the Rural Electrification Administration comes from the taxpayer. Beside this loss, the government operation is in direct competition with private companies.

According to ACTION FOR AMERICANS - THE LIBERTY AMENDMENT "Stalin himself said that the advanced Western nations, of which the United States of America is the leading one, must give financial assistance to other countries in order to socialize their economies and prepare them for comfort-

Usually when we think of Teddy Roosevelt, we think of San Juan Hill or his admonition to speak softly, but carry a big stick—matters not exactly out of date today. But here's another comment of his that is worthy of deep consideration:

"The things that will destroy America are prosperity-at-any-price, peace-at-any-price, safety first instead of duty first."

The authors point out that the United States is furthering its own doom, by means of the Foreign Aid program.

Herbstreith and King, with the use of numerous charts and tables, prove that the income tax can be abolished if, at the same time, Federal industrial operations are disposed of and Foreign Aid cut off.

Karl Marx, the evil genius of Communism, would not like this book. But every tax-burdened American will, because it proves the Federal income tax CAN be repealed!

Commenting on the copy he received, Congressman Albert Watson stated, "I believe your book, DISARMAMENT - A BLUEPRINT FOR SURRENDER, should be a 'must' for everyone who is interested in preserving our Republic and our Constitution."

At this time Kennedy's proposed treaty for complete disarmament of the United States has not yet been initialed. However, the text of the Nuclear Test Ban Treaty, which has just been initialed and will soon be presented to the U.S. Senate for ratification, proves that the Test Ban Treaty is merely a preliminary step to general disarmament inasmuch as the Preamble of the Test Ban Treaty proclaims that the "principal aim of the treaty" is the "speediest possible achievement of an agreement on general and complete disarmament under strict international control, in accordance with the objectives of the United Nations."

"One of the reasons we wrote this book," explained co-author Phoebe Courtney, "was a big 'WHY'. Why in face of the Soviet Union's repeated breaking of every promise or agreement it makes, do the policy-makers and diplomatic representatives of the United States continue to negotiate first a Test Ban Treaty and then later the Disarmament Treaty with the same treaty-breaking Communists. It just didn't make sense. However, after extensive research, particularly a study of the latest books by the extreme Left-wing authors promoting Disarmament their whole scheme began to come into focus, as they unwittingly revealed their ulterior aims, which would result in the destruction of the United States as an independent Republic.

After reading this new book, DISARMAMENT - A BLUEPRINT FOR SURRENDER, the reader will be able to answer the following questions, all of which bear directly on the very survival of the United States of America.

(1) What have the leaders of the Communist International Conspiracy said regarding Disarmament, and how would general and complete disarmament further the cause of International Communism?

(2) What supposedly responsible organization in the United States is masterminding the Disarmament program?

(3) How has this organization infiltrated and managed to control the Disarmament policies of both the Democrat and Republican parties?

(6) What are the real views of Walter Rostow, in addition to those previously revealed by the CHICAGO TRIBUNE's Willard Edwards?

(7) What part has Rockefeller played in disarmament proposals?

(8) What is the real purpose of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency? Will it become a haven for security risks?

(9) What are the American-destroying provisions of Kennedy's proposed Disarmament treaty which was submitted to the 17-Nation Conference at Geneva on April 16, 1962? And why was Congress not informed in advance about this proposed Disarmament Treaty?

(10) How do the disarmers propose to establish an all-powerful U.N. Military Force?

(11) How will the proposed Nuclear Test Ban Treaty further the Soviet strategy for disarming the West? Why is a safe nuclear test ban treaty impossible to achieve?

* * * * * *

The subject of Disarmament is the most crucial issue facing the American people today. Only an informed and alerted American public can call a halt to the dangerous plans which the disarmers are now attempting to put into effect.

THE NUCLEAR TEST BAN TREATY

History's Most Dangerous Step?

(Reprinted from SHREVEPORT TIMES)

"As the Soviet thermonuclear test series in the autumn (of 1961) grimly underlined, Khrushchev's power to devastate the United States as well as Western Europe is growing rapidly. The day could come when in some future test of nerves, given allies less staunch that Adenauer and de Gaulle, that the West would choose a concealed surrender rather than risk the ultimate terror of thermonuclear war."—Stewart Alsop in a Saturday Evening Post article March 31, 1962, analyzing and interpreting President Kennedy's thoughts on Russian aggression after a lengthy private interview with the Chief Executive.

The best thing about the nuclear test ban treaty right now—as President Kennedy turns loose the whole federal government propaganda machinery in its behalf—is that it is going to have the most meticulous study possible in the United States Senate before it comes to a vote on ratification, which requires a two-thirds majority of those present.

Examination will not be merely partisan, nor anti-Kennedy in its sources. Among those who are expected to take the closest looks are Conservative Democratic Senator Richard Russell of Georgia, Liberal Democratic Senator Henry Jackson of Washington, formerly Chairman of the Democratic National Committee; and Liberal Democratic Senator Stuart Symington of Missouri.

Each already has expressed doubt as to the treaty's wisdom, especially at this safety, security and peace for Hungary in 1956 even while secretly turning around their supposedly withdrawing tank columns to murder hundreds of men, women and children in the streets of Budapest the next day. Gromyko gave the orders at Budapest; Khrushchev okayed them.

These are the men who sneaked missiles into Cuba 90 miles from our shores, lying all the time. Gromyko engineered the deal with Castro; Khrushchev okayed it.

Gromyko sat in the White House even as U.S. planes photographed the missile bases in Cuba and solemnly pledged to Mr. Kennedy in person that there were "no Russian offensive weapons in Cuba." (The President himself so stated in his October speech announcing the blockade.)

Our own State Department records detail scores of instances of breaking of faith by the Russians.

Further, these men of the Kremlin can break this treaty even honorably on 90 days notice; also its provisions as to where the treaty applies are vague, perhaps purposely in order to be open to interpretation by Russia to meet Russia's needs.

President Eisenhower offered Khrushchev very much the same kind of nuclear test ban in 1958-59 that the Red dictator now is accepting joyfully. But it was rejected then.

States Senate before it comes to a vote on ratification, which requires a two-thirds majority of those present.

Examination will not be merely partisan, nor anti-Kennedy in its sources. Among those who are expected to take the closest looks are Conservative Democratic Senator Richard Russell of Georgia, Liberal Democratic Senator Henry Jackson of Washington, formerly Chairman of the Democratic National Committee; and Liberal Democratic Senator Stuart Symington of Missouri.

Each already has expressed doubt as to the treaty's wisdom, especially at this time.

United Press International reported in a Washington dispatch published in The Times July 14 that the Joint Chiefs of Staff unanimously opposed a test ban treaty of the type it was known was being prepared.

Treaty May Give Reds A Big Missile Lead

The basic fear among these Senators, Admirals and Generals—political office holders of repute and military leaders who earned their stars, along with medals, in bloody combat—is that this treaty will leave Khrushchev and the Soviet supreme in the nuclear field; that Russia's tests in the atmosphere 18 months ago and ever since—referred to by Stewart Alsop in the quotation above—have put her far ahead of the United States; that obviously we cannot catch up under a ban on atmosphere testing; that Khrushchev is so happy over this treaty because he knows it stops the United States from catching up with Russia in ballistic missiles.

> It is somewhat awesome now, as a test ban treaty comes into being, to read Mr. Alsop's words—written as reflection of what he looked on as the President's thoughts as far back as March, 1962—and to think of the possibility of conditions arising which would necessitate "concealed surrender," by the United States unless it could be sure of such "staunch allies" as Charles de Gaulle and Konrad Adenauer. De Gaulle has been abandoned—shifted aside—by President Kennedy. Adenauer is on the way out of office. We have no "staunch allies" of that type now.

There is no way for The Times or any layman to know just where we stand in the field of ballistic missiles science; whether we are far behind Russia, even, or ahead.

But we do know that such great scientists as Edward Teller "father of the H-bomb," have been saying for months that we are far behind Russia in atmospheric progress and that we must not, for our own security and that of the free world, give up atmospheric testing.

We do know that men selected by Presidents Eisenhower and Kennedy as

Further, these men of the Kremlin can break this treaty even honorably on 90 days notice; also its provisions as to where the treaty applies are vague, perhaps purposely in order to be open to interpretation by Russia to meet Russia's needs.

President Eisenhower offered Khrushchev very much the same kind of nuclear test ban in 1958-59 that the Red dictator now is accepting joyfully. But it was rejected then.

President Kennedy offered very much the same deal about a year ago and it was rejected. But now it is accepted with cheers.

May Be Civilization's Most Dangerous Step

There can be only one explanation for this Soviet shift: That Khrushchev has gained all the scientific knowledge he now needs from atmospheric testing, but didn't have it when the test bans were offered in the past; so now he's willing to quit, for awhile at least, knowing that he's ahead. Khrushchev had ample opportunity to forge far ahead during the Eisenhower and Kennedy moratoriums on testing. Dr. Teller says he succeeded.

> This simply means that the long gamble the United States will be taking if it finally accepts this treaty may be—could be—perhaps actually is right now—the most dangerous step any nation has taken as to its own security at any time through the whole course of civilization.

For if Khrushchev does have what he wants in atmosphere nuclear science development, and we do not, both we and the Free World will be at his mercy so long as this treaty is in effect. For he also has these advantages:

He has a huge military base in the Caribbean which we willingly let him keep and help protect from Cuban raiders.

He has Laos under his thumb.

He has Berlin in a position which he calls "Kennedy's sore toe—I can step on it any time and make him yell."

He has our ballistic missiles out of Italy and Turkey and England as he demanded for taking his missiles out of Cuba.

He knows we have dropped the RS-70 type supersonic bomber which he has developed, and that we have dropped the Skybolt missile, of which he is said to have a counterpart.

As for China, the supposed rift could be an ideal camouflage for Khrushchev. China is going ahead with nuclear development. Would Khrushchev quit nuclear development if he really was mad at China? And would China and Russia ever fight each other? They are Communist. World conquest is the objective of each. They disagree only on the immediate path to be followed. They agree that the U.S. is the "enemy" that must be

Recent battles between the Defense Department and Congress have raised again the question, "How can we best defend ourselves against the Communists?"

Obviously, as long as we are threatened by Communist imperialism, we must have the best possible defense. As President Kennedy pointed out in the 1960 campaign, "We should have a one-word defense policy - first!"

Unfortunately, now that he's president, he often seems more interested in disarming us than in arming us.

The fact remains, however, that we must be at maximum strength as long as the Communist menace exists.

But aren't we overlooking an essential point when we argue about defense? That is: we wouldn't have to spend so much time and money on defense if we eliminated the Communist threat.

What is the sense of devoting so much attention to the Communist danger - when we're not even taking steps to end that danger?

Isn't it incredible that we're spending over $50 billion this year to protect ourselves against the Soviets - and at the same time we're selling the Soviets critically-needed wheat at subsidized prices?

How do we explain the fact that we're spending a fortune to arm our allies in Europe to resist Communism - at the same time that we're giving aid and weapons to Communist Yugoslavia?

Isn't it a grotesque joke that we're watching American boys dying in South Vietnam - at the hands of soldiers armed by Communist Poland, another foreign aid recipient?

Is all of this just a bad dream? Will we treaty of the type it was known was being prepared.

Treaty May Give Reds A Big Missile Lead

The basic fear among these Senators, Admirals and Generals—political office holders of repute and military leaders who earned their stars, along with medals, in bloody combat—is that this treaty will leave Khrushchev and the Soviet supreme in the nuclear field; that Russia's tests in the atmosphere 18 months ago and ever since—referred to by Stewart Alsop in the quotation above—have put her far ahead of the United States; that obviously we cannot catch up under a ban on atmosphere testing; that Khrushchev is so happy over this treaty because he knows it stops the United States from catching up with Russia in ballistic missiles.

> It is somewhat awesome now, as a test ban treaty comes into being, to read Mr. Alsop's words—written as reflection of what he looked on as the President's thoughts as far back as March, 1962—and to think of the possibility of conditions arising which would necessitate "concealed surrender," by the United States unless it could be sure of such "staunch allies" as Charles de Gaulle and Konrad Adenauer. De Gaulle has been abandoned—shifted aside—by President Kennedy. Adenauer is on the way out of office. We have no "staunch allies" of that type now.

There is no way for The Times or any layman to know just where we stand in the field of ballistic missiles science; whether we are far behind Russia, even, or ahead.

But we do know that such great scientists as Edward Teller "father of the H-bomb," have been saying for months that we are far behind Russia in atmospheric progress and that we must not, for our own security and that of the free world, give up atmospheric testing.

We do know that men selected by Presidents Eisenhower and Kennedy as our most capable military leaders have, in general, taken the same position as Dr. Teller in congressional Committee testimony, although they may be muzzled, or permitted to speak only in incomplete manner later.

And we do know that the men who engineered this treaty for the Soviet are proven liars, murderers and treaty breakers. Such a treaty could have values if made with honest leaders of a government of integrity—but not with Khrushchev, Gromyko and their Kremlin gang.

These are the same men who pledged

There can be only one explanation for this Soviet shift: That Khrushchev has gained all the scientific knowledge he now needs from atmospheric testing, but didn't have it when the test bans were offered in the past; so now he's willing to quit, for awhile at least, knowing that he's ahead. Khrushchev had ample opportunity to forge far ahead during the Eisenhower and Kennedy moratoriums on testing. Dr. Teller says he succeeded.

> This simply means that the long gamble the United States will be taking if it finally accepts this treaty may be—could be—perhaps actually is right now—the most dangerous step any nation has taken as to its own security at any time through the whole course of civilization.

For if Khrushchev does have what he wants in atmosphere nuclear science development, and we do not, both we and the Free World will be at his mercy so long as this treaty is in effect. For he also has these advantages:

He has a huge military base in the Caribbean which we willingly let him keep and help protect from Cuban raiders.

He has Laos under his thumb.

He has Berlin in a position which he calls "Kennedy's sore toe—I can step on it any time and make him yell."

He has our ballistic missiles out of Italy and Turkey and England as he demanded for taking his missiles out of Cuba.

He knows we have dropped the RS-70 type supersonic bomber which he has developed, and that we have dropped the Skybolt missile, of which he is said to have a counterpart.

As for China, the supposed rift could be an ideal camouflage for Khrushchev. China is going ahead with nuclear development. Would Khrushchev quit nuclear development if he really was mad at China? And would China and Russia ever fight each other? They are Communist. World conquest is the objective of each. They disagree only on the immediate path to be followed. They agree that the U.S. is the "enemy" that must be destroyed.

When and if the time comes that Communism can destroy the United States—the only truly powerful bulwark of the Free World—China and the Soviet will stand shoulder to shoulder. That day daily comes closer.

All in all, why shouldn't Khrushchev clap his hands and cheer over this treaty?

(Editor's note: Write or telegraph your two Senators today to vote "NO" when the Nuclear Test Ban Treaty comes up in the U.S. Senate.)

partment and Congress have raised again th question, "How can we best defend ourselve against the Communists?"

Obviously, as long as we are threatened b Communist imperialism, we must have th best possible defense. As President Kenned pointed out in the 1960 campaign, "We shoul have a one-word defense policy - first!"

Unfortunately, now that he's president, h often seems more interested in disarmin us than in arming us.

The fact remains, however, that we must be at maximum strength as long as the Communist menace exists.

But aren't we overlooking an essentia point when we argue about defense? That is we wouldn't have to spend so much time an money on defense if we eliminated the Communist threat.

What is the sense of devoting so much attention to the Communist danger - when we're not even taking steps to end that danger?

Isn't it incredible that we're spending over $50 billion this year to protect ourselves against the Soviets - and at the same time we're selling the Soviets critically-needed wheat at subsidized prices?

How do we explain the fact that we're spending a fortune to arm our allies in Europe to resist Communism - at the same time that we're giving aid and weapons to Communist Yugoslavia?

Isn't it a grotesque joke that we're watching American boys dying in South Vietnam - at the hands of soldiers armed by Communist Poland, another foreign aid recipient?

Is all of this just a bad dream? Will we Someone said to us recently: "Suppose public opinion were to shift this summer, and the American people decided that instead of a so-called civil rights bill, they wanted a crackdown on lawlessness. What could Congress do?"

We have been giving thought to that question, because we detect many signs of nation-wide resentment against the lawlessness of street demonstrators. The answer is not hard to find. Once before—after the shooting of President McKinley by an anarchist—the country struck hard at criminal anarchy.

As we see it, a logical move on the part of concerned members of Congress would be to introduce legislation prohibiting the crossing of state lines for the purpose of inciting riot. Such a law could be fully justified by the preamble

THE GESELL REPORT

Preview Of Police State

By Phoebe Courtney, Editor

It will be recalled that the year 1961 saw the exposing of the notorious Fulbright Memorandum which whined that one of the principal problems of the Kennedy Administration was to "restrain the desire of the people to hit the Communists with everything we've got...," and which recommended the muzzling of military leaders who were then alerting and warning the American people of the Communists threat from within and without.

Comes now the Gesell Report, which bids fair to become even more notorious and menacing than the Fulbright Memorandum, in its implications regarding the very fabric of American life.

The Gesell Report, product of The President's Committee on Equal Opportunities in the Armed Forces, was recently submitted to Kennedy who in turn recommended it to the Secretary of Defense for immediate implementation. Purporting to be a program to end racial discrimination regarding the Armed Forces, the Gesell Report, according to the Charleston, S.C. NEWS AND COURIER, "would turn the Armed Forces of the nation into an organization designed to effect revolutionary social changes in the nation. It would require use of political commissars in the Army, Navy, and Air Force after the pattern of the Soviet system, and control of civilian communities by military commanders."

Appointed as chief "political commissar" for the Defense Department (official title: Deputy Asst. Secretary of Defense for Civil Rights) is a 40-year-old "Whiz Kid" by the name of Alfred B. Fitt, whose only prior claim to fame was that he was legal adviser to ex-Governor "Soapy" Williams who bankrupted the State of Michigan. Fitt's first assignment is to set up a super "informer" system within the military establishment whereby all complaints of discrimination will be funneled to him for action appropriate to a dictatorship.

The New Orleans TIMES-PICAYUNE of discrimination in the Armed Services is blown up out of all proportions is this revealing sentence from the report:

> "Discriminatory conditions may exist even where few complaints are made and the commander should be held accountable to discover and remedy such conditions."

Our politicians are draining our last dollars to build an invulnerable defense against Communism - while they bestow upon the Communists the means to make them a greater threat!

Our defenders ponder the way to build an impregnable wall - but then invite the Communists to walk through the door to spy, to subvert, and to sabotage our defenses.

Yes, we agree: we should have the best defense possible against the Communists. But all the billions of dollars spent are wasteful and are taken under false pretenses - as long as we continue to help our sworn enemy.

Our strongest possible defense against attack would be to sever all aid, trade and diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union and all Communists countries.

That is the only policy that holds any hope of ending the Communist menace. Because once the Communists can no longer rely on our help, their impractical economic system will destroy them.

But every day that we continue to aid them puts us one day closer to the time when the Soviets really will be able to blackmail us into surrender.

In view of our tremendous defense burden, anything short of a complete break with the Communists is a crime against the American people.

Why not let your government know how you feel about it?

Fitt's first assignment is to set up a super "informer" system within the military establishment whereby all complaints of discrimination will be funneled to him for action appropriate to a dictatorship.

The New Orleans TIMES-PICAYUNE of July 30 printed a directive by Secretary of Defense McNamara, issued a month ago and "effective immediately," which stated:

> "Every military commander has the responsibility to oppose discriminatory practices...not only in areas under his immediate control, but also in nearby communities..."

Thus, with the stroke of a pen, McNamara dragooned the Armed Forces to carry out the unconstitutional policies of the Kennedy Administration in the field of "civil rights."

MANUFACTURING COMPLAINTS

An indication that the supposed 'anti-discrimination in the Armed Services is blown up out of all proportions is this revealing sentence from the report:

> "Discriminatory conditions may exist even where few complaints are made and the commander should be held accountable to discover and remedy such conditions."

The report recommends that one officer be relieved of all military duties and devote himself entirely to "deal with complaints." The report contains provisions that the identity of the complainant remain anonymous and that the accused not be allowed to face the accuser. To make sure that there will be a steady stream of complaints, the Gesell Report states that "all base personnel should be repeatedly and periodically advised of their right to present complaints."

Also, to guarantee that commanders are well supervised in their so-called duty to eradicate discrimination, Alfred Fitt, Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense, said that every base will, under the Gesell Report, operate a "monitor" system. This is described as "periodical field checks from personnel from the Department of Defense... in this way commanders' efforts can be measured." Circumventing the time hon-to the U. S. Constitution. It says the Constitution was written for the purpose of insuring "domestic tranquility."

A federal law to control anarchists would go a long way toward curbing law-defiers who move from state to state for the purpose of inciting riots. It would be a severe blow to professional agitators in CORE and similar groups. If it were part of the federal code right now, it could be used to prevent a riotous assembly in the nation's capital this summer.

If roving bands of street terrorists continue to disrupt this country, Congress inevitably will move to consider such a law, applicable to everyone irrespective of race. The threat of criminal anarchy will not be ignored by a Congress mindful of the necessity of law and order.

Misleading Data on Cuba

(Reprinted from THE STATE, Columbia, S.C.)

STATISTICAL JUGGLING has apparently been developed to an unprecedented degree by the Administration in dealing with the Cuban problem — thereby making truth hard to discover.

The latest example of how deceiving figures can be made occurred last week when an administration spokesman claimed economic pressure mounted by this country was about to wreck the Cuban economy.

For example, said the administration spokesman, free world shipping to Cuba had been drastically curtailed by these economic pressures, for in January, 1963, only 12 free world ships arrived in Cuba as compared to 128 the previous January. From these figures, which may be quite accurate, the casual reader will get the impression that practically no ships are now delivering goods to Castro.

The first obvious flaw in this "statistical proof" that shipping to Cuba has been drastically curtailed should be obvious. The figures are confined to free world shipping, and say nothing about ships operated by the Communist bloc. Naturally, as Castro ties his country closer and closer to Moscow, more and more of the trade will be with other Communist nations.

Furthermore, one can wager his last 40-cent dollar that the statistics jugglers picked January, 1963, to prove that things were going their way for a very simple reason: Free World shipping to Cuba that month was lower than it had been any month before or since. They picked the weakest month.

Almost simultaneously with the Administration statement, Columnists Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott, who have been remarkably accurate about what has been going on in Cuba, were quoting Naval Intelligence authorities on the number of ships arriving in Cuba during the first six months of this year.

Naval authorities have counted 429 Russian-satellite ships and 205 "Western" ships docked in Cuba since January 1. This is a total of 634, or an average of 106 per month that we know about. And if only 12 free world ships arrived in January, this means that the average since then has been a little over 32 per month.

Now both sets of figures only count ships, and the number of ships tells only one-third of the story. It would be like counting trucks arriving at the Columbia Farmers Market to determine how much trade was going on. Some big trucks can carry 10 times as much as others, and the same thing is true of ships.

What really counts, in the final analysis, is the tonnage delivered and the kind of goods arriving. Naval Intelligence notes that much of the material coming in now consists of highly strategic goods.

Thousands of people will be fooled by the optimistic picture produced by the administration's figure juggling. Thousands of others will not be fooled, but they will lose even more confidence in official statements. This will have unfortunate results, for as long as a year ago people were talking about the "crisis in credibility" in Washington.

OUR POLICY

This newspaper is dedicated to the defeat of Socialist and Communist influences that now pervade the thinking and the policies of our Federal government and the two major political parties. We believe that there is no difference between a New Deal Democrat and a Socialist-Internationalist Republican.

This newspaper will continue to promote all individuals and organizations who believe that a new political party based on Constitutional States Rights is the answer to the Socialism that has captured both (formerly great) parties.

We will never align ourselves with any person or group which preaches hatred. Instead we will conserve our energy for the fight against atheistic Communism, and we pledge ourselves to LOVE OF GOD AND AN INDEPENDENT U.S.A.

OUR THANKS

Because we are political and "controversial" we have no advertising income. We therefore thank all of our readers who send donations every week so that more and more sample copies can be sent to patriots throughout the country. Without this regular support, this experiment in patriotic and political journalism would not be possible.

Bunk! Junior isn't the smartest man who ever trod the earth, but even a fairly low level of intelligence is capable of appreciating the truth that property rights are the oldest "human rights" of all. For him to imply that property rights are somehow separable from human rights, and subordinate to them, is to engage in intellectual pretense, sham, and fraud.

The concept of property rights, we may well believe, crept out of primeval ooze with the first man who ever said, my cave, my tiger skin, my club. Our founding fathers regarded the right of controlling and possessing property as an essential element in man's right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. Many people became aware for the first time that the National Council of Churches is not just a church organization in the usual sense of the word when, several years ago, one of its study groups came out in favor of diplomatic recognition of the bloody-handed Chinese Communist regime that has enslaved China, slaughtered thousands including Americans in Korea, subjugated Tibet and invaded India.

Since that time, observes the Chattanooga News-Free Press, there have been many other reasons for the American people to look askance at what the National Council and its agencies stand for. Some of these things include UN membership for the Chinese Red aggressors, disarmament, nuclear test ban, increased American foreign aid handouts (including those to Reds), abolition of congressional investigations of Communist subversion, exchange visits of U.S. churchmen and Russians who are robed as members of a captive Russian church whose leaders include members of the Soviet secret police, and even support of a political and unconstitutional medical care program.

As bad as are these unsound and alarming views of the National Council, they are made worse by the fact that the church group tends to give the impression that its statements are representative of the 31 Protestant and Orthodox denominations that are connected with it—these including many of the most respected and largest Christian denominations in America, perhaps your own church.

Most of these churches never have and never will take positions on these political and foreign policy issues on a national level or local congregation level. And certainly they have not delegated to the National Council of Churches any specific or honest right to speak for them on controversial issues.

But the National Council continues to speak out in promotion of the radical views of those who have gained positions of leadership in the organization

Hey, Bobby!

The President asks for voluntary integration on page one. And on the inside pages the President's little brother has voluntarily integrated his three sons into a private, all-white school. If their entrance exams go well, Bobby Jr., Joe, and Dave Kennedy won't have to go to the parochial Catholic school next year. Instead, they'll go to the Landon School in Bethesda, Md.

The headmaster at Landon says that no student is excluded on the basis of race or religion. But the cook at Landon confirms that the only Negroes there are in the kitchen. The boys at Landon are segregated according to money.

We don't care who goes to Landon or what the school's policy is. But it is plain that Bobby Kennedy cares who goes to Landon. All the evidence supports the Rule: One's enthusiasm for integration increases by the square of one's personal remoteness from it. Bobby gets more enthusiastic all the time.

COMMUNISTS' CI

(Reprinted from [illegible])

Racial violence is forcing the United States to the brink of anarchy. It is the Communists' cup of tea.

Racial tension has given the Communists a golden opportunity to spread hate and horror.

More and more, Communist exploitation of racial demonstrations becomes apparent.

Responsible Negro leaders know that the hopes of the Negro to earn a better place in society will not be served by gun-toting mobs, bent on bloodshed and property destruction.

They know the Negro can best earn his proper place in society by showing responsibility. They know a riot-torn path is only hurting his cause.

Law-abiding Americans, black and white, are alarmed. They are fearful where the next incident of rioting and violence will occur.

They have reason to be alarmed. This nation has been plunged into internal strife that, if it cannot be halted, could become insurrection.

What are billed as "peaceful" demonstrations are providing ready-made vehicles to terrorism for extremist groups on both sides—from the Ku Klux Klan to the Black Muslims and the Congress of Racial Equality —with Communists ever-ready to step in and fan the flames of hatred and bigotry.

There is little indication today that any new civil rights laws passed by Congress will ease the situation or provide the remedies.

There are sufficient laws on the books prohibiting violation of the rights of Americans, black or white. There are also laws prohibiting unlawful demonstrations, violence and terrorism. Existing laws should be enforced impartially.

It has been demonstrated over and over that tolerance cannot be legislated. We must face the fact that this nation of 180 million people must learn to live together peacefully, to respect the rights of others and to live according to the law.

Peacemaking Can Be Profitable!

(Reprinted from MANCHESTER (N.H.) UNION LEADER)

This disarmament business is more and more taking on the characteristics of a "make work" racket run for the benefit of fuzzy-minded "intellectuals" and former government officials. And we believe it's only a matter of time until taxpayers begin asking where their money is going.

Columnist Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott recently gave the American people a peek at some of this peace profiteering via a timely column on the report of the House Appropriations subcommittee headed by Rep. John Rooney (D-N.Y.)

The Arms Control and Disarmament Agency currently is financing a wide-ranging series of studies, all high-priced. One result of the far-reaching program is to try to influence public opinion with the taxpayers' own money.

The Rooney Committee, probing the arms control agency's request to have its budget more than doubled, from $6,800,000 to $15,000,000 has been told that most of the money will be used to pay for more studies, some already underway, others contemplated, but many employing scientists, university professors and former government officials who are getting double their previous salaries.

Projects-in-waiting include the following: $150,000 to analyze the activities of private peace groups, their effect on public opinion and how they can be used to promote disarmament plans; $150,000 to study alternative ways of handling conflicts between the U.S. and Russia; $600,000 to study the relationship between national political environments - Congress, the press and the public - and arms control measures; $10,000 to study the operations and organization of the Soviet fiscal system and budget.

The Rooney Committee found that the Disarmament Agency places no limit on salaries for the private research groups which derive more than 90 per cent of their funds from the taxpayers. The Institute of Defense Analysis pays its president $45,000 - a fact that should be of particular interest to those who recall that Richard A. Bissell, formerly of the CIA, was the official who directed the ill-fated Bay of Pigs invasion.

The Institute, which received more than $8,000,000 from the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency and the Defense Department, has a staff of 242 employes, with salaries ranging from $15,000 to $42,000 - in addition to the director's $45,000. Aerospace, which had as one of its original incorporators Deputy Defense Secretary Roswell Gilpatrick, pays its president $75,000 a year. Six other aerospace officials receive from $30,000 to $50,000.

Other groups with research contracts with the Disarmament Agency included Bendix Company, $500,000; Raytheon, $300,000; Institute of Strategic Studies, $50,000; Mathematics Research, $57,000; American Academy of Arts and Sciences, $60,000; Stanford Research Institutes, $267,086; Research Analysis Corp., $177,366; Peace and Research Institute, $10,000, and the Carnegie Corporation, $150,000.

It should be apparent that disarmament is now Big Business. It also should be apparent that the loudness of some people for "peacemaking" may not be entirely altruistic.

Price Of Revolution

(Reprinted from Charleston, S.C. NEWS & COURIER)

Some of America's great fortunes are being tapped, we learn from The National Observer, to bolster the faltering leadership of Negro organizations.

These leaders have unleashed forces which they cannot handle. At a secret meeting in New York, "three of America's most influential Negroes" informed a group of rich and influential white people that "the Negro revolt . . . was in serious danger of getting out of hand. Revolutions, they said, have a distressing habit of devouring their leaders, and this one is no exception."

The three Negroes were Whitney Young of the Urban League; Roy Wilkins of the NAACP, and James millionaire whose Taconic Foundation has contributed heavily to civil rights causes, notably voter-registration drives in the South."

By the end of the meeting, the Negro leaders had raised $550,000, and the sum soon afterward grew to $850,000.

"The thinking now," National Observer says, "is to model the group on the United Jewish Appeal . . . "

The newspaper says the Big Four Negroes — Young, King, Wilkins and Farmer — are not yet sure how they will spend the money, and that differences among them "may erupt as time goes on." Presumably gifts to this fund will be made tax exempt, so that the tax-

• • That there is a definite, pervasive and powerful administration move on here to downgrade the seriousness of the Cuban crisis is no longer subjected to doubt. This is clearly revealed by two statements. On September 14, 1960, Presidential Candidate Kennedy said:

"If Communism should obtain a permanent foothold in Latin America . . . then the balance of power would move against us and peace would be even more insecure."

Compare this with a statement made on May 6 1963, by Presidential Assistant McGeorge Bundy

"I think it is clear that the importance of Cuba is less than we think . . . on the surface evidence of the headlines . . ."

Comments the American Security Council in it Washington Report of May 20th:

"Today, Communism does have a permanent foothold in Latin America. The 1960 prophesy of candidate Kennedy has come dismally true. But President Kennedy's advisors, such as Mr. Bundy, are engaged in a massive effort to deny the truth of the President's earlier prophesy."

But now the plot thickens. In a speech on th floor of the House on May 31st, Representativ Dorn (D.-S.C.) correctly noted:

"Every major move in Cuba by the Communists is being screened and covered with agitation and riots in the United States."

All of which raises a question: Is the curre domestic racial upheaval being subtly encourag and even fomented by the Kennedy Administrati to divert the public mind from Cuba and prepar tions for a complete Communist take-over in Lat America?

News From The Ant

On all fronts Kennedy continues to seek "accommodation" with the Communist conspiracy; continues to not stand up to or "provoke" the Soviet Union and or its puppet, Castro.

A recent example, regarding Communist Cuba, is reported in a July 26, 1963, dispatch of the Associated Press which stated: "The United States is protesting to the Castro government against the seizure of the U.S. embassy in Havana but will not retaliate by seizing the Cuban embassy in Washington, the State Department announced Thursday."

Earlier, in a June 20 column by Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott it was reported that "For more than a month, the President and

The three Negroes were Whitney Young of the Urban League; Roy Wilkins of the NAACP, and James Farmer of CORE. Martin Luther King was unable to attend, but endorsed the idea. Among the white people whom The Observer named as attending a secret breakfast at the Carlyle Hotel were Mrs. Max Ascoli, wife of the editor of the Reporter Magazine; Mrs. Marshall Field, mother of the Chicago publisher; Lloyd Garrison, FDR's chairman of the National Labor Relations Board; Frederick Warburg, partner in Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and Stephen Currier, described as "a young, obscure New York multi-

Presumably gifts to this fund will be made tax exempt, so that the taxpayers will share in paying to perpetuate the power of the Big Four.

National Observer says that representatives of both Ford and Rockefeller Foundations were present at the organization meeting. Thus vast economic resources will be at the disposal of the Negro coalition. The price of revolution may come higher than even such wealth can afford.

She is demanding that the gentleman "exercise much closer surveillance of material distributed by all tax-exempt groups under the guise of education." Mrs. Neuberger is particularly upset by the D.A.R. The D.A.R. frequently condemns the Government. Mrs. Neuberger also objects to the tax-exempt status of America's Future, Inc., a group of university professors and scholars with a conservative bias who are in the process of reviewing America's college textbooks. Mrs. Neuberger—why go on with it? Mrs. Neuberger has said all these silly things before, and many just as frivolous, when she addressed the AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Action last May.

The occasion was the Northwest Regional Conference at Portland, Oregon, and Mrs. Neuberger charged that right-wing organizations were depriving the Treasury of $5.5 million a year. Although this is a mere pittance compared to one day's golden flood from the left-wing foundations, Mrs. Neuberger delivered an impassioned speech and cried out to the Internal Revenue Service for relief.

Earlier, in a June 20 column by Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott it was reported that "For more than a month, the President and his top foreign policy advisers have been discussing a plan under which the U.S. would resume 'contact' with Castro on both 'an informal and formal basis'."

Just what kind of dreadful sell-out is the Kennedy Administration planning?

An inkling of what may be in the works is contained in the July 20, 1963 issue of CUBAN INFORMATION SERVICE, Carlos Todd, Editor. Terming the following information still in the rumor stage, but likely to be borne out by coming events, Todd revealed:

The U.S. and Russia have agreed that Castro must go; he will become the fall guy in a complete reorganization of the regime which will purportedly be free of Soviet influence. The plan calls for "uprisings", "desertions" and "guerrilla fronts", all directed by the Reds in Cuba and their agents in exile.

Castro flees to Moscow and a new government is set up with such men as David Salvador, Manuel Ray and Hubert Matos as top dogs. And, although these men are either in "exile" or in "jail", they will respond to the tactical changes in the Communist master plan for the conquest of the hemisphere....

The Russians would remove some - not all - of their troops in Cuba. Soldiers would merely change into civilian attire and become "technicians". Then an election, Soviet style, with the certain winners to be Ray, Salvador and or Matos.

REPORTS FROM THE ANTI-COMMUNIST CUBAN UNDERGROUND

Just what is going on in Castro's Cuba with which the U.S. soon may renew diplomatic relations? How is Communist subversion spreading in the Western Hemisphere? What is happening to the Cuban people under Castro's murderous Communist regime? How many Soviet troops and missiles are still in Cuba, and how many are being shipped in each month? How greatly is the threat to the U.S. increasing each day because of Soviet missiles in Cuba?

Below are excerpts from two highly authoritative anti-Communist Cuban underground sources:

Mrs. Neuberger does not say which of the two categories covers the speech which JFK made at the D.A.R. National Convention this spring.

Mrs. Neuberger is also disturbed by the activities of the Tax Foundation, Inc. The Tax Foundation is a propaganda mill, although Mrs. Neuberger does not go into detail. If Mrs. Neuberger had half a mind to do it, she could quote the extremist purpose of the Tax Foundation, which is "to aid in the development of more efficient government at less cost to the taxpayer." The Tax Foundation's most subversive activity is the annual compilation of an indispensable 300-page manual of statistics on local, State, and federal finances. It has a 41-man board of trustees, all presidents of the leading banks and business in the U. S.; there's not a professional Bircher in the bunch, that we can see. But then, as Mrs. Neuberger well knows, that only proves that the Birch Society is a secret organization.

Mrs. Neuberger also objects to the tax-exempt status of America's Future, Inc., a group of university professors and scholars with a conservative bias who are in the process of reviewing America's college textbooks. Mrs. Neuberger—why go on with it? Mrs. Neuberger has said all these silly things before, and many just as frivolous, when she addressed the AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Action last May.

Senator Neuberger's colleague, Senator Moss, was so inspired by her harangue to the AFL-CIO, that he put it in the Congressional Record not once but twice. Apparently he was so wrought up when he entered it on June 17, that he forgot he had done his duty, and put it in again on June 20. Mrs. Neuberger, anxious to follow the trail laid waste by Senators Kuchel and McGee, had still more dragons to slay. Last Tuesday the third Senator, for the third time, looked in the magic mirror for dragons. [Yawn.]

The CIS report of July 20 reveals the following:

* * * Not content with pouring arms, propaganda and trained saboteurs and terrorists into South and Central America, the Cuban Communists are beginning to infiltrate U.S. territory: the Free Associated State of Puerto Rico. Some 1,000 Castro agents, passing themselves off as Puerto Ricans, have received Communist indoctrination and training, and come and go from and to the U.S. at will.

* * * The British have also been kind to Castro & Co. by permitting Russian planes of Cubana Airlines to land at the crown colony of Grand Cayman island, due south of Cuba. The Miami News reported that the Cuban Reds are using the island as a stepping-stone for trained saboteurs, terrorists and infiltrators to enter Latin American countries. "Death on Wheels" is what horrified Cubans are calling Dictator Fidel Castro's newly created "People's Courts." The decree serving as the "legal" basis of the "courts" is closely patterned to the one China's Red tyrant, Mao Tse-tung, enacted several years ago and from which the genocidal Chinese "People Courts" were born. It is estimated that over 11 million Chinese peasants have been killed by these bands of legalized murderers and in Cuba, although only functioning for about a month and a half, their name alone already instills terror.

Cuba's new "People's Courts" are manned by fanatical, hate-ridden militiamen or by hard core lower echelon Communist party officials. At present, the Communist party in Cuba is known as the "United Party of the Socialist Revolution." The old name was cast aside because Castro asserted it smacked of "minoritarian groups."

"Judges" in the People's Courts don't even possess the most elemental knowledge of legal training, in fact, the mere mention of law by members of the Court, or those who are brought before it, is considered imperialistic and counter-revolutionary.

REASON FOR THE NAME

"Death on Wheels" is that the Courts travel around the Island in jeeps or Iron Curtain equivalents. They stop any place where the local "Committee For The Defense of the Revolution" has arrested someone incurring its displeasure. No formal charges are required. The Courts sometimes carry their own execution squads with them but if, for lack of adequate transportation facilities, this presents a problem, an execution squad is furnished by the local militia groups.

Trials are public and any "loyal revolutionist" may step up before the Court and add his accusations against the victim to those used originally as grounds for the arrest.

There is no appeal from the People's Court decisions. If death is decreed, as it so often is, execution follows immediately.

Until now jurisdiction of the People's Courts is limited to rural areas. This is because resistance to Castro's blood-soaked regime is extremely strong among Cuba's long-suffering farmers and peasants. The Cuban Communist regime also maintains several concentration camps exclusively used for the internment of farmers and peasants but those "lucky enough" to be sent there, thus escaping the firing squads or life long prison terms, are the ones the regime considers may be rehabilitated or re-indoctrinated. The largest rehabilitation camp in Cuba exists at a place called Guanacabibes, in Pinar del Rio Province.

Sometimes the People's Courts find it expedient to hold their trials after the accused has been killed. Such a procedure is used to cover up executions carried out, without trials, by Party zealots. Only requirement demanded for the Court's posthumous seal of approval: Word of the executioner that the victim was "a known enemy of the State or counter-revolutionary." In these cases the "Court" draws up a document, signed by all its members, wherein it is sworn that the accused was "tried, sentenced and executed according to revolutionary law." Thus was the method employed recently in the village of Bolondron, in Matanzas Province, to justify the murder of 11 patriotic peasants.

CRUELEST and most inhumane aspect of the whole ghastly set up, is that the Committees on Human Rights of the United Nations and the Organization of American States, as well as the state departments of every nation in the world, can not claim ignorance of the functions and activities of Castro's People's Courts. Legislation creating them was published in Cuba's Official Gazette and proclaimed, time and again, by Castro's powerful propaganda media and, in many cases, their death sentences are highlighted, giving full details, by Cuba's State-owned and operated press.

Visual witnesses of these atrocities are eager to testify on what they have seen. One of them, arriving in Port Everglades last week, from the little village of Baire, in Oriente Province, declared, "I have seen the People's Court, Death on Wheels, execute a farmer for killing and eating one of his own chickens, without first obtaining government consent as the National Institute of Agrarian Reform requires!"

(Reprinted from MANCHESTER (N.H.) UNION LEADER)

Not only does the Supreme Court decision outlawing the Bible and the Lord's Prayer in our schools seem completely immoral and entirely at variance with the American tradition and the American way of life, but it seems equally stupid.

Every American knows that the Constitution of the United States sets forth the separation of Church and State. This was obviously done to prevent the establishment of any given church as the official state religion. Those who wrote the Constitution were close to a point of time when a number of European nations had an official state church, and the Founding Fathers were trying to protect the United States from this form of tyranny.

No one in his right mind believes that the Founding Fathers intended to separate the citizens of the United States from religion, taken as a whole. They simply didn't want an official Protestant church, an official Catholic church or an official church of ANY kind.

However, the Supreme Court has gone to ridiculous lengths in interpreting this very sound provision of the Constitution in a way which would cause it to separate American citizens from God. They go to the same ridiculous lengths in allowing obscene literature to be distributed, on the grounds that this comes under the freedom of the press clause of the Constitution.

As a practical course of action, since man's relationship with God comes above any law of the case, this newspaper advocates that every school teacher, every school principal and every school board in the entire United States disregard this ruling of the Supreme Court and not only continue to read the Bible and to say the Lord's Prayer before starting class in the morning, but also to increase in any other way it occurs to them their public attestations that their schools stand for God.

We advocate that whatever action is necessary to repeal, nullify, abolish and wipe out forever the shame and stain of this Supreme Court decision be taken by the Congress of the United States.

In the meanwhile we doubt very much if Mr. Kennedy will call out the federal troops to snatch a Bible from some little girl's or boy's hand in any school in this country. We cannot imagine the President ordering the enforcement of this decree by having a sol-give the Communists an opportunity to punish those suspected of "counter-revolutionary" sympathies by denying them ration cards.

The exiles also claimed that rocket bases are being installed at Mabulla, near the towns of Manicaragua and Chambas, on the Camaguey-Las Villas provincial border. The Russian arms and troop build-up continues apace in Cuba.

The July 6, 1963, issue of CUBAN INFORMATION SERVICE reported the following:

* * * Reports from the Cuban underground say that a new Russian military base with rocket facilities has been constructed near Victoria de las Tunas (Oriente province). While Cuban militia guard the outer perimeter of the new base, only Russian personnel is permitted to enter.

* * * The MIAMI HERALD's Latin American editor, Al Burt reports from Cuban sources that the number of Russians on the island has increased; training of Cuban troops has been stepped up by the Russians; more ground-to-air missiles have been installed, and Cuba's huge stockpile of weapons continues to grow. Unidad Revolucionaria (UR), Cuban exile group, presented a documented statement which shows that the Soviets have stepped up their shipments from 18 in January of this year, to 70 in April. Troops and hardware continue to pour into the island at an increasing rate, Washington does nothing.

THE CUBAN REPORT OF THE CUBAN STUDENT DIRECTORATE

(It will be recalled that it was the Cuban Student Directorate which made daring raids on Castro's Cuba and Soviet shipping until their activities were halted by President Kennedy's brother, Bobby, who assigned the U.S. Coast Guard to protect Soviet ships from such anti-Communist raids.)

* * * In the dawn of June 12, a group of Cuban exile raiders attacked a Government and taken into custody by the U.S. Immigration Service. The State Dept. declared that the raiders would be returned to Cuba if they so desired.

Later, Manuel Quiza, leader of the anti-Communist group, and Eduardo Mor, were taken to a prison in Tampa, Florida, where they will soon face trial. It is believed that they will be sentenced to a five year imprisonment.

* * * Col. Alexander Rumantzeva, supposed Russian technician, expert in hydraulics, in company with another Soviet, Col. Paul Zakin, on the 10th of June visited construction jobs being carried out North of the town of Mayari, Oriente Province, in order to determine their possible use as an alternative base for ballistic missiles.

d. Rancho Luna Zone, near Cienfuegos, Las Villas Province
e. Mayari Zone, Oriente Province
f. Miranda Zone, Oriente Province
g. Coastal Zone between Santiago de Cuba and Siboney Beach, Oriente Province

The previously mentioned districts have been receiving large shipments of reinforced concrete, steel girders, and all other types of heavy building material, which arrive at the indicated places late at night, in trucks driven by Cuban militiamen who have to hand them over to Russians at the gates of the construction area.

* * * Of course, the responsibility for the disappearance of our way of life will fall on the shoulders of those who today remain impassive at the advance of Communism. It will also fall on the shoulders of those irresponsible men who ignoring the dangers of peaceful coexistence, devote their efforts to suppressing all attempts at liberation. Perhaps we, free Cubans, do have more experience in Communist tactics and it is this which leads us to sound the alarm before it is too late. The part we Cubans occupy in the struggle against Communism and in defense of democracy is fulfilled day by day and in its entirety, in the mountains of our country, in the fields and in the towns. We Cubans absolutely do not understand anything to do with peaceful coexistence with the Communists, and perhaps just as these lines are being written there is one more Cuban dying on the altar of liberty and democracy, which many are still enjoying today in the Free World but which few seem disposed to defend.

In the meanwhile we doubt very much if Mr. Kennedy will call out the federal troops to snatch a Bible from some little girl's or boy's hand in any school in this country. We cannot imagine the President ordering the enforcement of this decree by having a soldier stick a bayonet in the back of any child who wants to stand up and say the Lord's Prayer as he has been taught by his mother and father.

There is always the proverbial straw that breaks the camel's back. As far as this newspaper goes, this decision by the Supreme Court, making the Lord's Prayer and the Bible bootleg items in our schools, is that last straw.

When you think of the flood of written obscenity from which we are almost helpless to guard our children today, we must remember again that this is due to Supreme Court decisions. Now, in addition to debauching our children's minds, they want to rape their spirits by depriving them of the right to read the Bible or say the Lord's Prayer in school.

If you ask by what authority this newspaper advocates the disregard of this judicial decision, we will answer: There is a Higher Law. As the Constitution of the United States clearly points out, the Author of all our freedoms, the Author of all our liberties is not the state. It is the Lord God Almighty. No eight men, garbed in black robes and supposedly constituting the highest tribunal of this land, can overrule the Supreme Being and the commandment: "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind." Jesus described this as "the first and great commandment."

In that spirit and in the spirit of Andrew Jackson, we suggest - "The court has made its decision - now let them enforce it."

THE "FAR WRONG"

One of the most recent of the "potboilers" is a book by Donald Janson and Bernard Eismann (published by McGraw-Hill Book Company, Inc., price $5.95) entitled "The Far Right."

In their book sincere members of the Right Wing are gently pilloried. Note the word "gently" because upon reading their book I had the feeling that the authors while working on their material came to the decision that they didn't want to "burn down the barn" - and that when the final returns are in - it just might turn out that the Right Wing, the anti-Communists, were "right" after all!

Reacting to their book "The Far Right," the talented wordsmith, J. Kesner Kahn of Chicago commented: "But what about the Far Wrong, those who have lost us our gold, allowed Cuba to go Communist and become a dug-in Soviet base threatening the American nations; those who allowed China to become a Captive Nation under Communist rule; those who still fail to weed out Soviet agents in the United States, even when Sweden, England and West Germany have recently been able to find top Red agents; and those who are now about to cut off the limb upon which our peace depends - superior nuclear power?"

FORMER FASCIST HOLDS KEY SECURITY POSITION

The highly authoritative columnists, Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott in their column on July 8 revealed the unpublicized details of a closed-door meeting of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Guess who is the new Assistant Secretary of Defense for Research & Engineering? Dr. Eugene Ohiroi Fubini, who admits being a dues-paying member of a Fascist organization while a university student in Italy. This Fubini man, a friend of the notorious Left Winger, Adam Yarmolinsky, will pass on security cases involving the highly secret National Security Agency and will direct the operation of the "hot line," whereby Khrushchev is now able to quickly issue his demands to President Kennedy. But, most importantly this foreign-born "ex-Fascist" now has a key role in the "permissive link" that controls the firing of nuclear weapons from the President down to officers in actual possession of these defensive weapons.

Remember Pearl Harbor - when Roosevelt permitted practically the entire U.S. fleet to be sitting ducks for the Jap raid? Well, with this guy, Fubini, being the "permissive link" regarding the firing of U.S. nuclear missiles in defense of this country in case of Soviet attack - could it be expected that, in case of Soviet attack he would utilize his other capacity and check via the "hot line" with Moscow to see if Khrushchev would "permit" the U.S. to defend itself?

ing fleets - [illegible] and Pacific waters of the U.S., the Thresher disaster becomes even more ominous. Perhaps an important clue was furnished by the columnists Allen & Scott in their article of June 19 which stated: "All of the Navy's highly sensitive and secret evaluation equipment for its top-priority Subroc missile program was on the Thresher when it sank off the coast of Massachusetts."

SOVIET FACTORY WORKER IN ORBIT

When U.S. astronauts orbited the earth the American public was briefed about the numerous monitoring stations around the world which would pick up signals from the space capsules while in flight, which they did. But what about the "blond, dimple-chinned" Soviet "lady in space" who, Moscow claims, as reported in American newspapers, "chalked up 49 orbits" around the world? How very odd - a Russian female factory worker with no pilot experience, excels the efforts of U.S. astronauts, all top pilots, who have undergone years of sacrificial training and tests! Not really "odd" - just more of the Sell-Out. What about those U.S. monitoring stations scattered all over the world? Have they corrobarated in any way that this Soviet woman actually even got off the ground? If not, why not? And why has the American press, once the beacon light for the entire world, become a mere disseminator for Soviet propaganda? And... what about the Republicans? Why don't they demand an investigation?

SPEAKING OF REPUBLICANS....

Senator John Tower of Texas, who performs so admirably as a Conservative in the U.S. Senate, can make the strangest public statements. Witness this. According to the AP, on July 8, Tower said "he feels a certain amount of 'kinship' with such liberal Republican senators as Clifford B. Case of New Jersey and Jacob K. Javits of New York. There is, he said, a basic difference between liberal Republicans and liberal Democrats 'and that difference is this - the so-called liberal Republican is not anti-business and the so-called liberal Democrat is'."

Heavens to Betsy, Senator Tower! Why not take a few minutes out and check your copy of the CSA or ACA Voting Index and see for yourself how the men you say you feel "kinship" for, Javits and Case, both have overwhelmingly anti-business voting records!

"JOHNNY WON'T READ"

Remember all that hassle several years ago about "Johnny Can't Read," as a result of "progressive" education? Well, here's a new item from the SANTA ANA (Calif.) REGISTER of July 13 which concerns former Congressman John H. Rousselot, now district governor of the John Birch Society for Western States.

According to the SANTA ANA REGISTER: "He (Rousselot) explained to the Newport Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce that he believes Gen. Walker is a great man but not as great, perhaps, as Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower."

resolutions indicating [illegible] stand on vital issues! Several of the Governors said that this action destroyed the value of such a Conference. Of course, the Democrats clearly demonstrated their fear of Rockefeller taking the civil rights issue away from them. The Democrat majority was also afraid that if there were a debate upon the resolution that the Southern Democrats and the Northern Democrats would split on the issue.

Another aspect of the civil rights issue which intruded in the Governors Conference was the report concerning the relationship of the Government towards the National Guard. A weasel-worded report was introduced, which avoided the paramount issue, namely, the dictatorial nationalization of the National Guard as exercised by both Eisenhower and Kennedy, and thus depriving the Governors of the States of a militia capable of putting down demonstrations and riots inside the States. Federalizing of the National Guard is another destruction of the rights of the States by the all too-powerful Federal Government.

Governor George C. Wallace offered a minority report in which he pointed out that the Alabama National Guard was federalized illegally and unconstitutionally, because there had been no request by the Legislature or by the Governor for outside help in maintaining law and order at the University of Alabama. In fact, Governor Wallace pointed out that Tuscaloosa was the "safest place in the universe" - much safer than Washington, D.C., for instance, or Central Park or the south side of Chicago.

The Governors talked about the problems of unemployment, but most of the time was consumed discussing how they could get help from the Federal Government to solve their problems. They did not consider the basic causes of unemployment, namely, a Federal Government which borrows money in order to give it away to Socialist and Communist countries in Foreign Aid.

The Governors did not talk about the need to stop federal competition with private enterprise. The Governors did not mention the need to cut down the size of the federal establishment and return to the States those activities which the Federal Government had no business performing in the first place.

As I said before, the Governors Conference was held in an atmosphere of Alice in Wonderland. There were a few occasions when the Governors were jolted back to reality. Governor Farris Bryant of Florida recommended that his State should be a staging area so that the Cubans could be trained to recapture their Island for freedom, but, of course, the Governors had abolished their Resolution Committee, thus denying the people in their State the opportunity to find out where their Governor stood on the important subject of liberation for Cuba.

On another occasion Governor Ross Barnett talked about the growing prosperity in his State of Mississippi. Ross Barnett talked of the 100,000 increase in population, the scores of new industries locating in Mississippi because of the attractive industrial climate. He mentioned that the Right-to-Work law was of great benefit to his State in attracting industries and protecting the rights of individuals to work without having to pay tribute to labor bosses to keep their jobs.

The Governors did not discuss the Tax

KEY SECURITY POSITION

The highly authoritative columnists, Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott in their column on July 8 revealed the unpublicized details of a closed-door meeting of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

MOVIES IN THE AGE OF "THE SELL-OUT"

Remember those wonderful old movies about the Army, the Navy, the Marines and the Air Force? Remember the lump in your throat, the feeling of pride in your heart when you saw ships of the U.S. Navy, in battle formation, cleanly cutting the waves, ready to engage and defeat the enemy.....the Air Force in valiant dog-fights downing the enemy....the Marines storming ashore to establish a beachhead....the Army taking a crucial hill and holding it against all odds? Those old movies with the big stars of former years - Clark Gable, Gary Cooper, Jimmy Stewart, Brian Donlevy, James Cagney - not only made all Americans proud to be Americans but helped recruit youngsters for the glorious and honorable job of defending their country against all enemies. Because they were "recruiters", producers of such movies received enthusiastic support from the armed services for on-location shots and scenes of planes or ships in action.

Today, however, this being the Age of Sell-Out - the Kennedy Administration demeans patriotism as being old-fashioned, archaic. The Kennedy view, as he enunciated in his speech at American University on June 10, is that we must "avert those confrontations which present an adversary with the choice of either a humiliating retreat or a nuclear war."

Helping to augment this Kennedy edict to Javits of New York. There is, he said, a basic difference between liberal Republicans and liberal Democrats 'and that difference is this - the so-called liberal Republican is not anti-business and the so-called liberal Democrat is'."

Heavens to Betsy, Senator Tower! Why not take a few minutes out and check your copy of the CSA or ACA Voting Index and see for yourself how the men you say you feel "kinship" for, Javits and Case, both have overwhelmingly anti-business voting records!

"JOHNNY WON'T READ"

Remember all that hassle several years ago about "Johnny Can't Read," as a result of "progressive" education? Well, here's a new item from the SANTA ANA (Calif.) REGISTER of July 13 which concerns former Congressman John H. Rousselot, new district governor of the John Birch Society for Western States.

According to the SANTA ANA REGISTER: "He (Rousselot) explained to the Newport Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce that he believes Gen. Walker is a great man but not as great, perhaps, as Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower."

How can John Rousselot make a statement like that regarding Eisenhower? The record is clear about the part Republican Eisenhower has played in setting up the appeasement and disarmament policies which Democrat Kennedy is now studiously following.

Is it that Johnny not "can't" but "won't" read the facts regarding Eisenhower in THE POLITICIAN by his boss, Robert Welch, founder of the Birch Society, which organization Rousselot now represents?

Republican John Rousselot should be elected to go back to Congress in 1964 to carry on the good work he did while in office - but only if he puts principles above party loyalty.

causes of unemployment, namely, a recession. Government which borrows money in order to give it away to Socialist and Communist countries in Foreign Aid.

The Governors did not talk about the need to stop federal competition with private enterprise. The Governors did not mention the need to cut down the size of the federal establishment and return to the States those activities which the Federal Government had no business performing in the first place.

As I said before, the Governors Conference was held in an atmosphere of Alice in Wonderland. There were a few occasions when the Governors were jolted back to reality. Governor Farris Bryant of Florida recommended that his State should be a staging area so that the Cubans could be trained to recapture their Island for freedom, but, of course, the Governors had abolished their Resolution Committee, thus denying the people in their State the opportunity to find out where their Governor stood on the important subject of liberation for Cuba.

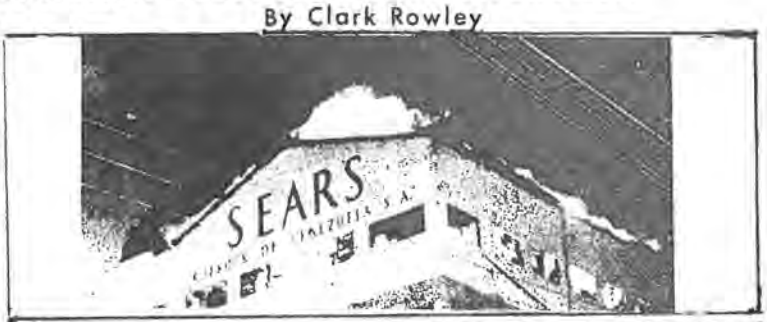
On another occasion Governor Ross Barnett talked about the growing prosperity in his State of Mississippi. Ross Barnett talked of the 100,000 increase in population, the scores of new industries locating in Mississippi because of the attractive industrial climate. He mentioned that the Right-to-Work law was of great benefit to his State in attracting industries and protecting the rights of individuals to work without having to pay tribute to labor bosses to keep their jobs.

The Governors did not discuss the Tax Program of the President, and how it would adversely affect business. They did not discuss how Foreign Aid was creating unfair competition for American industry. They did not discuss deficit financing, which causes inflation cutting down on the purchasing power of all people. The Governors did not discuss the Council on State Government, which Rockefeller-controlled organization, is by various insidious ways destroying the concepts of self-government.

The Governors Conference was a nice social affair but it did not advance the cause of sane and sensible government.

Double Standard

(Reprinted from ROCKFORD (Ill.) REGISTER-REPUBLIC)



Plans of Negro leaders for a march on Washington by hundreds of thousands if southern senators filibuster against the administration's civil rights program have put Vice President Lyndon Johnson and House Speaker John McCormack on the spot. An act of Congress forbids parades, processions and assemblages for demonstration purposes.

As presiding officers of the two houses of Congress, the vice president and speaker must decide if the law is to be enforced. Sen. A. Willis Robertson, D-Va., has called for a statement by those in authority as to whether the law will be invoked.

The Negroes are demanding that the Constitution and Supreme Court decisions be observed, yet they know in advance of laws that they intend to break. This double standard of upholding the law will hurt the Negroes' cause much more than it will help.

Increasing Communist Terrorism In Venezuela

By Clark Rowley

Members of the pro-Communist FALN(Armed Forces of National Liberation) in Venezuela hurled incendiary bombs into the Sears Roebuck warehouse near Caracas, Venezuela, on February 8. Damage amounted to 4.5 million dollars. A Venezuelan government spokesman said the destruction was due to Communist terrorists. Wide World Photo

Communists can easily overthrow a government when the status quo has been upset. Confusion among the non- or anti-Communist forces allows quick penetration. Throwing the population into a state of panic, thus rendering enemies immobile, by disrupting the economy, isolating segments of the population, threatening, destroying, and other means aid in a Communist take-over. These means are being used in Venezuela.

The May 5, 1962 edition of Carlos Todd's "Cuban Information Service" gave the hint of the beginning of a new campaign of terrorism in Venezuela. "Communist activities have been going on for years, but, with Cuba secure, the Communists turned their full attention to oil-rich Venezuela."

In the May 11, 1963 issue of "Cuban Information Service" came the report that an American couple who lived in Cuba for many years, and only recently returned to this country, "were eyewitnesses to the sailing of 150-foot banana boats loaded with arms destined for Haiti, Guatemala, Venezuela, Chile, Peru and Argentina." Also in the same issue: "Hours after New York's Governor Rockefeller arrived in Venezuela with his bride, FALN Communist terrorists started a $500,000 fire in the partly U.S.-owned Union Grafica, a cardboard box factory."

On May 25, 1963 Carlos Todd's newsletter stated: "Venezuelan Red terrorists (FALN) attacked a police post only 600 yards away from the Miraflores Palace, which houses President Betancourt's offices."

The June 29, 1963 issue of "Cuban Information Service" contains more reports of American-owned oil company losses, of the destruction of the Goodyear plant, of accounting firms looted, pipelines destroyed, American army officers assaulted and ridiculed in Venezuelan newspapers. More damage and insults are reported every week.

Venezuela's dictator, Betancourt, has supposedly called for strict measures to stop the Communist terrorist activities. However, somehow or other soldiers under the direction of Betancourt never seem to be present to put a stop to such guerilla destruction.

Why is Betancourt unable to, or more importantly, unwilling to effectively put down the Communist guerillas in Venezuela who have adopted the name of "Armed Forces of National Liberation" (FALN)?

From 1930 to 1935 the Betancourt of Venezuela helped, while in exile, to establish the Communist Party in Costa Rica. There he developed a strategy of using the he must deny any contact or belief in Communist doctrine or methods. Castro did the same while in the process of consolidating his control over Cuba.

As proof that Betancourt, the so-called "shield against Communism", is nothing of the sort, it is merely necessary to observe that in 1929, 1936, and 1948 he was exiled from Venezuela for Communist activities. Betancourt, as part of his strategy, said that he had left the Communist Party. However, the DAILY WORKER, official organ of the Communist Party in the United States reported on October 18, 1945 that he had not been expelled. He was still a member. Castro killed two priests in a Communist-inspired riot in Bogota, Columbia, in 1948. Betancourt was the person who intervened to save Castro's life. Castro was struggling for power in Oriente province in Cuba in 1958. Betancourt's political party in Venezuela started a nationwide fund drive for the Communist, Castro, and Venezuelan radio stations beamed their broadcasts to further the struggle in Cuba. Betancourt knew Castro, and he must have known that Castro was a Communist.

According to the quarterly reports of the Chase National Bank in 1957, Venezuela was the fastest growing country in Latin America, well on her way to economic prosperity. Then Betancourt won the presidential election in Venezuela in 1958. His first actions were to demand foreign loans. The country was out of national debt and no loans were needed. Betancourt introduced the drain on the economy, with plans of reckless spending. From there on in things went from bad to worse.

The Communists started their reign of terror. The economy of the country de- lines". Since becoming a governmental nightmare of waste, mismanagement, and corruption, Venezuela has lost the confidence of the people, resulting in $1,200,000,000 of investment capital fleeing the country. The United States has responded generously to calls from Betancourt for money. Military aid so far amounts to $52,900,000. $5,000,000 in economic grants have been pumped into the country, and a whopping $215,900,000 in loans to "increase the prosperity" have been swallowed up. To further drain the United States, the Communists are destroying results of American investment.

Betancourt, since 1960, has been ruling by executive decree. This means that he is a virtual dictator. The press is censored. Right wing elements are gagged. The Communist killers announce their coming raids in the newspapers. The army does nothing. The Communist Party is not outlawed.

It seems that Betancourt's long adopted policy of denying Communist ideas and influence is paying off.

And what is official United States policy toward this man Betancourt? In March 1963 came the answer. President Kennedy said at that time in a welcoming speech to Betancourt visiting Washington: "Your liberal leadership of your country, your persistant determination to make a better life for your people, your long fight for democratic leadership all have made you, for us, a symbol of what we wish for our country and for our sister republics."

DANGEROUS FALLACIES OF TEST BAN TREATY

By Fulton Lewis, Jr.

WASHINGTON, July 31 - It was December 1962, and Nikita Khrushchev thundered, "We'd be slobbering fools if we did not carry out nuclear tests."

There was no evidence of senility last week as Khrushchev, smiling but not slobbering, gave the green light to his diplomatic lackey, Andrei Gromyko, to initial the partial nuclear test ban approved by representatives of Great Britain and the United States.

In little more than 18 months, the ever-cagey Soviet premier had seen the nuclear balance of power tip in his favor and in July, 1963, it was time for a test ban.

Not that the "ban" approved by the Big Three last week is what the name implies. While outlawed by word, tests can still be conducted outside the atmosphere. There is no way, as scientists of the Big Three agreed in July, 1959, to detect nuclear tests conducted far above the earth.

Soviet scientists may find themselves working in East Germany, Hungary, Poland, and Rumania. Not covered by the ban, the Soviet-dominated countries of Eastern Europe may test - in the atmosphere, in outer space, in the sea, below the ground - to their hearts' content.

Were the Soviets to keep their promise not to test - and past performances make this exceedingly doubtful - the test ban would still be to our disadvantage.

Congressman Craig Hosmer, ranking Republican on the Joint Atomic Energy Committee and one of the country's best experts on nuclear strategy, tells why:

(1) U.S. progress in development of high-yield, 30 to 100 megaton weapons will be paralyzed at the very time Soviet scientists have achieved these capabilities. The United States will be unable to cope with Khrushchev's long-range program of "hardening" his missile sites.

The consequent inability to mete out destruction to Soviet weaponry will decrease the capability of our deterrent force in direct ratio to increases in Soviet power. It is equivalent to cutting back our SAC (Strategic Air Command) squadrons, ICBM (Inter-Continental Ballistic Missiles) bases, and Polaris submarine patrols.

(2) U.S. progress in developing a defense against enemy missiles will come to a halt at the same time Soviet scientists appear to have developed such a capability. As Sen. Strom Thurmond, a General in the Army Reserve, told colleagues behind closed doors, the Soviet Union has installed an anti-missile complex at Leningrad.

Anti-missile defense in the hands of the Soviet Union is another way of saying our deterrent against Soviet attack has weakened. It, too, is the equivalent of cutting back our manned bombers, our Polaris missiles, our Atlas and Minutemen missiles.

If the warheads carried by these delivery systems are to be intercepted by Soviet defenses with any degree of efficiency, then they will not loom as large as deterrents to Soviet button-pushers.

Conversely, the absence of an anti-missile capability by this country permits a Soviet first-strike, surprise attack that would destroy our deterrent forces before they are put in operation.

(3) The partial test ban treaty introduces to America the completely new hazard of surprise abrogation. This is the situation where Soviet scientists, working in secrecy, would prepare an extensive series of atmospheric tests.

During this period, which might last for years, U.S. laboratory work would deteriorate in quality and quantity along with our capabilities for atmospheric testing. The net effect would be a quantum jump in Soviet nuclear capabilities which might well gain for them decisive nuclear superiority.

Rep. Hosmer concludes:

"Under such conditions, the West could expect at worst a nuclear Pearl Harbor and at best a surrender-or-die ultimatum."

(Editor's note: Write or telegraph your two Senators today to vote "NO" when the Nuclear Test Ban Treaty comes up in the U.S. Senate.)

Government Power

(From The Concord, N.C., Tribune)

President Kennedy's executive order enabling government agencies to cut off Federal funds from any Federally-assisted construction project where discrimination against Negroes is practiced says more about Big Government than it does about civil rights.

Or, perhaps, it should be worded "presumed to exist" or even "alleged to exist". For some government official must make a decision on that score, deciding whether alleged discrimination is really discrimination or not. Beyond that, there is no provision in Mr. Kennedy's order - - once discrimination is alleged - to prove it exists. Neither is there any room, apparently, for penalizing the party or parties guilty of discrimination; all are punished alike - the various contractors, the various workers, the community, the area, the state - by withholding federal funds.

This is not the first instance of economic threats against people and localities and states whose actions displease the administration. We have been brazenly told that if we "vote right" - if we elect administration supporters - we will stand to gain more federal contracts. We have been led to assume, through the abominable practice of permitting politicians to announce defense contracts, that pro-administration congressmen are able to obtain more defense business for a district or a state than administration opponents in Congress.

Perhaps we are becoming so accustomed to being bribed with our own money - and threatened with being deprived of it - that we no longer can muster the righteous indignation against the practice that it deserves.

For years and years our states and our communities have turned increasingly to Washington to get the money they have sent there. Many people still insist that federal "aid" - that is, federal taxation for state and local use - does not mean federal control.

President Kennedy's threats with regard to the civil rights issue should dispel all arguments on that score.

EXTRA COPIES

it to the quicker, more forceful—military dictatorship.

It is clear that Mr. Kennedy chose to ignore the courts and by preference resorted to military force.

Do the American people see where we are headed? Grave as is the issue of race, there is a graver issue: constitutional government.

We have seen the unconstitutional pattern repeated, first with the alibi of provocation by disorder, then even of peaceful circumstances. Who knows where and for what a President, this one or a successor, may use military force again, citing past unconstitutional performances as precedents and justification"?

It is in this way that we slip downward from government in strict accord with the Constitution to government by force beyond the law.

We have seen the courts issue dictatorial decrees, but in the aura of judicial decorum. We have seen Presidents issue executive orders as substitutes for law, but in the prestige of the White House. And we have seen military force applied nakedly to coerce when other, proper avenues were available.

We are seeing the destruction of our system of constitutional government of limited powers, checks and balances—and freedom.

Evidently Mr. Penner must have misunderstood what I said, and I am sure a tape of my speech would reveal that this was my statement.

capable, thru their representatives in Congress, of running the country; their duties must be handed over to the elite, who, we suppose, inhabit the west wing of the White House and the executive departments.

Congressmen are too susceptible to pressure groups, according to Mr. Fulbright. "Too often, decisions of principle are postponed or neglected, and opportunities lost. . . . The source of this malady is the diffusion of authority between the executive and legislative branches."

Does Mr. Fulbright suggest that employes of the executive departments are immune to pressure? Does he prefer the risk of bad decisions made by executive fiat to the chance that good programs may occasionally be delayed by Congress? Does he forget that Congress is there as much to prevent bad programs as to en-

gress investigate Communist activities linked with racial demonstrations. Wallace charged that the Air Force is encouraging its personnel to engage in street demonstrations with rioting mobs. At this point, Senate Strom Thurmond produced photostats of orders issued by Brig. Gen. James C. Sherrill, Commander of the Charleston Air Force Base.

On June 8 an order was issued prohibiting participation by base personnel in civil rights demonstrations. On June 20 a second order revoking the first one was issued, and quoted the Air Force's policy as permitting all personnel to demonstrate in racial disturbances as "private citizens."

Wallace then said that such orders were "an incitement to demonstrate." It was determined at the hearing that the original order barring participation was countermanded on direct orders from "higher authority" in Washington.

AT THE GOVERNORS' CONFERENCE

Governor Wallace was one of the top news-makers at the recent Governors' Conference in Miami Beach. He entered a minority report as a member of the Governor's Advisory Committee to the National Guard. He pointed out that if Kennedy can illegally and unconstitutionally federalize lace evoked smiling approval and applause when he said that it was safer in Tuscaloosa than in the shadow of the White House or the Supreme Court Building in Washington, D.C.

Governor Wallace of Alabama has become a symbol of the crises of our time, as he stands almost alone against the intrusion of federal power into the area reserved by the Constitution to the States. He is a symbol of right, which has been overpowered by might.

Wallace rightly mentions that the federal government is exceeding its Constitutional powers because Congress has passed no law nullifying the Tenth Amendment or taking away from the individual states their power to operate and control their own school systems. At the Governors' Conference, he declared "the Tenth Amendment sustains the right of determination and grants the State of Alabama the right to enforce its laws and regulate its internal affairs."

We hope that Governor Wallace goes ahead with the plan to enter Democrat presidential primaries next year. What a wonderful opportunity to take a measure of the vast reservoir of anti-Kennedy sentiment in the country, even among members of Kennedy's own party!

Wallace Tells 'Bama Schools To Ignore Prayer-Bible Ban

The first week of August, Governor Wallace of Alabama challenged the U.S. Supreme Court's decision concerning the reading of the Bible in public schools. The State Board of Education at the suggestion of the Governor passed a resolution which said in part, that in order to preserve freedom of religion and in order to guarantee to the students of Alabama the privilege of receiving the moral instruction contained in the Bible and in order to carry out the provisions of Title 52, Section 542 of the Code of Alabama, that the Bible be read in all schools of Alabama each day. The State Board of Education therefore directed the principals of all schools financed in whole or in part by the State of Alabama to carry out the statutory provisions of Alabama Law.

The principals were ordered to see to it that Bible reading and instruction is given to all pupils attending Alabama schools once each day and that such Bible reading and study be considered a part of the regular course of instruction of all students.

THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN recommends that all subscribers write to Governor Wallace of Alabama congratulating him on his forthright stand on behalf of teaching religion in the schools of Alabama. We further recommend that you write for a copy of the resolution adopted by the Alabama State Board of Education. When you receive your copy we suggest you send it to your own Governor and members of your State Legislature in order to bring pressure to use the Bible as a basis for religious instruction in all schools throughout the nation.

Send your request to Governor George C. Wallace, State Capitol, Montgomery, Alabama.

When American arms and UN troops took away Katanga's hard-won independence, it was immediately clear why Katanga wanted to be independent. Katanga's efficient administration was strangled, its leader was harried out of the land, and its political boundaries dissolved. Katanga exists no more, not even on the map. Police-State Methods Necessary for "World Order" says Millis Study

By EDITH KERMIT ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, D. C. — "The break-up of the Russian Communist empire today would doubtless be conducive to freedom,. but would be a good deal more catastrophic for world order than was the break-up of the Austro-Hungarian Empire in 1918."

Edith Kermit Roosevelt

This astounding conclusion, that it would not be in America's interest for the Red bloc to collapse, was actually reached at the expense of the American taxpayer. They are the words of Walter Millis as part of a report for the Government costing us $20,000.

Millis pictures what faces us in the future by saying: "In a completely policed world," the American Revolution of 1776 "would be suppressed, as was the Hungarian Revolution, with all the global forces of law and order cooperating."

Heaven help any Freedom Fighters of the future with such a world army around!

The Millis study was paid for by the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, the controversial Government bureau seeking to transfer American weaponry to the International Disarmament Organization. Millis' pompous title in his study on "The Political Control Of An International Police Force" is "Director of the Study of War as an Institution, Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, Fund for the Republic." Defense Secretary Robert Strange McNamara is a founding member and annual contributor to this center.

This project, undertaken by the Peace Research Institute in Washington, is one of eighteen contracts awarded by the Disarmament Agency as of April 10th, totaling about $2,000,000. Millis' study appears in the second volume of this report entitled, "Quis Custodiet," which for the benefit of us non-elite, apparently means: "Who'll Control What?" The loose translation given on the document is: "Controlling The Police In A Disarmed World."

an American policy of a strategic stalemate, and even assuring defeat of such freedom-loving forces as the brave band of young Cuban patriots who set sail April 17th, 1961, for the Bay of Pigs.

The scandalous treatise by Millis admits: "It is in the first instance constitutional change which is proposed by the goal of general and complete disarmament."

"Constitutional change" means curbing Congress. It is no accident that the Center for Democratic Institutions — of which he is a staff member — published a pamphlet May 27th in which Democratic Senators Joseph S. Clark from Pennsylvania and J. W. Fulbright from Arkansas call for limiting the role of Congress.

"One cannot resist the conclusion," Millis goes on, "that there must be a supranational autonomous police power, with veto-free sources of revenue . . . solely responsible to a supranational political authority."

His paper meshes perfectly with policy statements by our highest Government officials. Included are:

"Agreements should explicitly prohibit the development" of an anti-missile defense system. Stated by Jerome Weisner, top science aide to President Kennedy, at the Sixth Pugwash Conference, Moscow, November 29th, 1960.

The United States should undertake "a series of unilateral (disarmament) actions designed to produce reciprocal action . . . on the part of our enemies." Paul Nitze, Assistant Secretary of Defense for International Security Affairs, at Asilomar National Strategy Seminar, Monterey Peninsula, Calif., April 24th-30th, 1960.

"It is, therefore, an American interest to see an end of nationhood as it has been historically defined." Walt Whitman Rostow, chairman of the State Department Policy Planning Board, at the Center for International Studies, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, September, 1959.

This approach, which goes beyond "appeasement" or "accommodation," to actually furnishing aid and comfort to the Soviet Union, only makes sense in the context of a world divided be-

Once there is resort to unconstitutional military force, it is easier to use it again, and again. Thus does a system of government by law degenerate into a system of dictatorial rule by men.

President Eisenhower flagrantly violated the Constitution's Article IV, Section 4, when he sent U.S. armed force down upon Little Rock contrary to the wishes of the people and officials of that state, and without the constitutional requirement that legislature or governor invite such force before the President has any right at all to send it.

That made it easier for President Kennedy to resort to an army of occupation to rule over Oxford, Miss.

In both of these cases, the Presidents involved pleaded "necessity" because of violence, attempting to cover their breaches of their oaths of office by fraudulent claims that when disorder occurred, that somehow gave the Presidents a special right and a special power to go ahead and violate the Constitution. They also cited "laws" dating back to the vicious Reconstruction Period that they claimed provided justification for them—though they and their myriad attorneys full well knew that a mere congressional enactment contrary to the Constitution does not supersede the Constitution.

The Little Rock and Oxford cases had many things in common. But the Tuscaloosa, Ala., case yesterday was different in many ways.

Yes, President Kennedy again violated the Constitution by sending troops as an army of occupation. He found it easier to do because of what he had done in Oxford and what his predecessor had done in Little Rock.

But in Tuscaloosa at the University of Alabama there was not even the excuse of disorder and violence that had been used on the two previous occasions. The previous pleas of necessity could not be matched by a plea of necessity yesterday.

Hardly had the Alabama campus ever been quieter. Gov. George Wallace had promised peace; he put hundreds of state patrolmen and state-controlled National Guard troops in readiness to guarantee his promise. There was peace.

Only one man stood in the door to challenge the Federal authorities who

Millis' thesis is that the existence of the Soviet slave empire is a necessity for the "world order." He writes: "One might say that if the Soviet empire did not exist, something would have to be created to fulfill its rôle in the world order."

The implication is that it should be American policy to join the United Nations in crushing any revolt in the Ukraine, Poland, Hungary, or any other captive nation, forcing it back under Moscow's heel.

"Whether we admit it to ourselves or not," Millis says, "we benefit enormously from the capability of the Soviet police system to keep law and order over the two-hundred-million-odd Russians and the many additional millions in the satellite States."

We are supposed to "benefit enormously" by the enslavement of these many millions of human beings!

This is the most dramatic confirmation yet of what Democratic Senator Strom Thurmond from South Carolina calls Washington's "no-win policy." It provides the ideological justification for to produce reciprocal action . . . on the part of our enemies." This approach, which goes beyond "appeasement" or "accommodation," to actually furnishing aid and comfort to the Soviet Union, only makes sense in the context of a world divided between two cooperating dictatorships. This nightmarish world, predicted by George Orwell in his novel 1984, would be ushered in by the so-called general "disarmament" treaty.

By aiding Socialist consolidation elsewhere in the world, Washington's Federal planners see the road paved for absolutism at home. In their own hands, of course. — (Copyright 1963 by EDITH KERMIT ROOSEVELT SYNDICATE, Suite N 824, 800 Fourth Street S. W. Washington 24, D. C.)

A Loaded Gallup Poll

(Reprinted from THE INDIANAPOLIS STAR)

Ask a loaded question and you'll get a loaded answer. This seems to be the theory behind the Gallup Poll in the July 3 issue of THE STAR.

Gallup has discovered that the vast majority of the American people are dominated by the "One world" idea. According to this "research", "President Kennedy's renewed call for 'interdependence' between Europe and the United States comes at a time when the overwhelming majority of the American public is in favor of international co-operation." The conclusion that one is obviously expected to draw is that most Americans support the Kennedy policies in Europe and elsewhere and believe in Wendell Wilkie's "One World."

That is a lot of nonsense.

What was the question from which these brilliant conclusions were drawn? "Would it be better for the United States to keep in-

A Proposal To Junk

(Reprinted from [illegible])

Never before in our history would a politician in the position of Sen. J. William Fulbright of Arkansas have dared suggest, as the senator has, that we scrap our constitutional system of checks and balances and make it impossible for Congress to "thwart" the President's plans. He would have been instantly, almost universally, and justifiably denounced as a traitor to the principles upon which this Republic was founded.

Yet such is precisely the proposal now made by Mr. Fulbright, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, and another Democrat, Sen. Joseph Clark of Pennsylvania, in a pamphlet issued by the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions under the suggestive title, "The Elite and the Electorate."

"The foreign policy powers of Congress under the Constitution," Mr. Fulbright complains, "enable it to implement, modify, or thwart the President's proposals. . . . The defects of Congress as an institution reflect the defects of classical democratic thought."

Defects? Maybe there are defects in Congress, but where have the most dangerous mistakes been made? Who fumbled the Bay of Pigs invasion by pulling off air cover? Who tells us that we must allow the government to "manage" our news? Certainly not Congress; these mistakes can be blamed solely on the executive branch of the government, whose powers Mr. Fulbright would increase.

Indeed Mr. Fulbright himself is for "managed" news. "Public opinion," he says, "must be educated and led.

military personnel are traditionally non-political and should not involve themselves in controversial questions."

The principal purpose of the Gesell Report is to change this traditional relationship between military commanders and the community.

On encouraging the military base commanders to extend their command beyond the boundaries of military installations, the Gesell Report is quite clear:

> "On his (the base commander) shoulders falls the primary responsibility for solving local problems.... The base commander's concern should be that of correcting forms of discrimination which interfere with the morale and efficiency of men of his command. The pattern the community should choose to follow as to its own civilians cannot be accepted as the pattern which must be imposed on men in uniform or of their dependents...."

Commenting on the Gesell Report, Congressman F. Edward Hebert stated: "What makes it such a tragedy is that the military, against its own will, is being used as an instrument to compel integration and to inject itself into politics in the government and on local community level. This has never been attempted before in American history."

Knowing that respectable military commanders will balk at the unconstitutional enlarging of their military duties to areas far afield the Gesell Report threatens such commanders by stating "achievements in dealing with such problems (that is, exerting military pressure on a community) will be considered in rating their performance of duty and in promotion selection." In other words, any military commander, who refuses to embroil himself and his troops in local controversies, will find his military career at a dead end.

MILITARY URGED TO EXERT ECONOMIC PRESSURE ON COMMUNITIES

The Gesell Report states:

> "It is the Committee's (The President's Committee on Equal Opportunities in the Armed Forces) judgment that many communities are awaiting leadership and direction."

Here we see a politically-stacked presidential committee taking it upon itself to make a "judgment" as to what local communities want! The Report then goes on to say that because of "enormous growth of relatively permanent military installation, scattered throughout the country and economically important to the communities which surround them..." local commanders can "supply some of the necessary lea-according to an AP dispatch, rejected "as not now feasible a recommendation by a special presidential committee that the Pentagon close military bases near communities where discrimination is particularly prevalent and cannot be reduced by persuasion from the military."

It is highly unlikely that the Pentagon will close down any military bases on this pretext because: It is evident that Kennedy now intends to carry out his unconstitutional edicts not by law but by force - and military bases, of course, play a strategic role in such plans.

Military commanders when forced to a choice between being placed in the role of policing, pressuring and intimidating fellow citizens, or quietly resigning their commissions, can, of course, make only one honorable choice. This will then leave in command, opportunists, ingratiatingly eager to follow any Pentagon order, regardless of how anti-American it may be, in order to climb the ladder to higher rank. And, of course, this is the way it has been planned!

In pointing out one aspect of the power which the base commander can exert under McNamara's order implementing the Gesell Report, Senator John Stennis stated that if the power of the military base commander can be used to "influence the social and political life of the people in the area where the base is located, he can also influence a particular election in the area when it comes."

Discussing the tremendous economic power the base commander could exert by prohibiting all servicemen from becoming customers of certain businesses by making them off-limits, Stennis said that this would give the commander punitive power over citizens who pay taxes to support the very military services which would be oppressing them.

"Thus," said Stennis, "a base commander could soon amass social, political and economic power of sufficient strength to be the dominating force in a community or area. Such a system operating in a chain of base commanders could generate dictatorial power beyond recall."

If McNamara's directive is permitted to stand, men in uniform would not merely be soldiers, sailors or airmen dedicated to the military protection of our nation. They would be forced to become agents of a political faction seeking revolutionary social change and, as such, would soon take on the image of "thought police." Nothing could be so destructive of public confidence in our armed forces, or so conducive to destruction of morale in the Armed Forces themselves.

repudiated and McNamara's order implementing the report be immediately rescinded, Khrushchev's boast may be come true sooner than even he thought!

How To Get People Up Off Their Apathy

How do we get people up off their apathy?

One of the ways that apathetic Americans are being recruited into the ranks of active Conservatives has been devised by a group of employers. Started by A. R. Summers, owner of Premier Photo Service of Parkersburg, West Virginia, the plan merely involves withholding all Federal and State Taxes once a month instead of each week.

Here's how it works. - The employer pays each employee his total earnings during the first three pay periods of each month. On the fourth pay period all Federal Taxes, Social Security Taxes and State Taxes are taken out of the one pay check. In the case of an employee receiving one hundred dollars a week, he receives his full one hundred dollars for three weeks, but on the fourth week a total of $80.15 is withheld giving the employee a take-home pay of $19.85 on the fourth week.

The objective of this plan is to effectively wake-up the employee to the realization that "big government" is taking a "big bite" out of his pay check.

THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN recommends that all employers contact the organization promoting this idea. For further information write SWAT (Stop Withholding All Taxes), Box 1707, Parkersburg, West Virginia.

The Hon. Ezra Taft Benson, honorary National Chairman of WE THE PEOPLE, announces the ninth annual Constitution Day Convention in Chicago on Saturday and Sunday, September 21and 22 at the Sheraton-Chicago Hotel. In an interview with the president of WE THE PEOPLE, Harry T. Everingham, we learned that not only will Ezra Taft Benson be a speaker at this Constitution Day Convention, but that Robert Welch, the founder of The John Birch Society, and Billy James Hargis of Christian Crusade, and Tom Anderson, Editor and Publisher of Farm and Ranch Magazine, will also be featured speakers.

Harry Everingham emphasized that this will be a conference which will feature a number of panel discussions with the maximum amount of audience participation. Among the panels already announced are those covering the subjects of: Education, Urban Renewal, How to Recruit Conservatives into Effective Political Action, and How to Awaken the People of the United States to the Perils of Socialism and Communism. Dr. Hugh Ramsey of Indiana will be chairman of the panel on Urban Renewal which will feature patriots who have had experience in successfully opposing Urban Renewal plans in various parts of the country.

There will be several panels on political action including such topics as: How to man the precincts with Conservatives; How to win in a marginal voting district, where only the switching of a few hundred votes can mean victory for Conservatives. One of the panels will feature Alternatives for Conservatives. One of these alternatives is a new political party and the need for co-ordination between the Independent Elector Plan of the South and independentpolitical action in the North. Participants on the New Party Panel will include, Kent Courtney, National Chairman of The Conservative Society of America, and Harold Poeschel, leader of The Conservative Party of New Jersey, and author of the book, "It's High Time, The Case For A New Party."

NEW BOOK

THE LIBERTY AMENDMENT

The Conservative movement is reaching the point where it is beginning to exert influence. Arguments for limitations of Federal power are increasingly well organized. The movement is gaining momentum and respectability.

Going along with this general trend is the quality of the Conservative literature. The recently published book ACTION FOR AMERICANS - THE LIBERTY AMENDMENT is a good illustration of this. Written by Lloyd Herbstreith and Gordan van B. King, this book is well documented and gives a complete analysis of the Liberty Amendment. The history of the income tax, the economic justifications for the abolishment of the Federal income tax, examples of government inefficiency in public operations, and the pros and cons of all facets of the argument for repeal of the income tax are mentioned.

The authors, Herbstreith and King, remark that "when a vast and greedy bureaucracy has almost openly become our master, we try to reassure ourselves with the hope that it can't happen here." But "it is estimated they (Federal agencies) control more than twenty percent of the nation's industrial capacity." Today, 45 percent of the State of Arizona, 48 percent of California, and 87 percent of Nevada are Federally owned. The extent of the Federal domain "amounts to 32.3 percent of the total land and water area of the United States and all its territories and possessions."

The reports of the Hoover Task Force are often referred to. According to this source, 92 percent of the money supporting the Rural Electrification Administration comes from the taxpayer. Beside this loss, the government operation is in direct competi-

terials and Services. Also available is 16mm, color-sound Audio-Visual Catalog film (27 minutes) which may be used without cost except for postage. Still Timely

Usually when we think of Teddy Roosevelt, we think of San Juan Hill or his admonition to speak softly, but carry a big stick—matters not exactly out of date today. But here's another comment of his that is worthy of deep consideration:

"The things that will destroy America are prosperity-at-any-price, peace-at-any-price, safety first instead of duty first."

Kent and Phoebe Courtney, publisher and editor respectively of THE INDEPENDENT AMERICAN announce the publication of their fourth book in two years on national affairs. This new book is entitled DISARMAMENT - A BLUEPRINT FOR SURRENDER - and is a documented expose of the plot to (a) Render the United States defenseless against Communist aggression; (b) make the United States a province in a world ruled by Communist-dominated nations.

Copies of the special advance edition of DISARMAMENT - A BLUEPRINT FOR SURRENDER were sent to all members of the U.S. House of Representatives and the U.S. Senate, as well as to leading newspaper and television commentators throughout the country.

Dear Subscriber:

For many years the information concerning the Communist promotion of racial agitation has been available to those who had the time to read the basic documentation contained in government hearings and reports. One of the best short books on the subject is Manning Johnson's "Color, Communism and Common Sense." On July 29, 1963, 29 pages of the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD were filled with documentation exposing the subversive character of some of the leaders of the NAACP.

However, much of this kind of information is available only to a relatively few researchers who are already aware of these facts. After many hours of research, writing and condensation we have produced the enclosed TAX FAX No. 46, A DOCUMENTED EXPOSE OF ... COMMUNIST AGITATION AND RACIAL TURMOIL, which is designed to help inform your friends and neighbors that racial turmoil has its roots in Communist agitation. May we suggest that you order enough of these for every member of your study group. If you belong to an organization which has a mailing list, why not plan to order enough of these to include one to everyone on your list in your very next mailing?

Using the documentation in this pamphlet, we urge you to write a letter to your Congressman with a carbon copy to Congressman Edwin E. Willis, who is the new Chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities. Incidentally, he comes from Louisiana, and so therefore we are asking everyone throughout the nation to write him and congratulate him on assuming this most important position, and request him to hold hearings which will expose the Communists who are behind racial agitation. Letters from patriots all over the nation, especially outside of the South sent to Chairman Willis, urging this type of investigation, will show him that there is a nationwide demand from alert anti-Communists everywhere.

AN ATTACK ON THE RADICAL RIGHT

The word "radical", according to Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary, means original, fundamental, affecting vital principles. The word "right" is a political term referring to the more Conservative, or in today's political spectrum, the anti-Communists.

We should not apologize for being members of the Radical Right, but at the same time we should define the term and be ready to say what the Conservative movement stands for. We should also be able to say why we support these Conservative positions.

TAX FAX No. 47, THE TRUTH ABOUT THE RADICAL RIGHT, is a pamphlet you can use to recruit individuals into the Conservative political action movement. Ask them to read this pamphlet. Ask them to indicate what positions they agree with. TAX FAX No. 47 can be a conversation starter with the people in your neighborhood.

ENCLOSURE

The fight against atheistic Communism must go on until final victory is achieved. We must recruit more and more individuals into the anti-Communist movement.

Racial turmoil has probably helped to alert more people than any other one issue, and therefore we believe that TAX FAX No. 46 is one of the most important we have ever produced. The Communists are indeed desperate when they resort to mass marches in the streets of America in order to help pass the so-called Civil Rights bill.

The attack on the Radical Right comes at this time because the Conservatives in the United States are now organized to such an extent that they pose a real threat to all of the Communist programs which have been so successfully promoted under such titles as the New Deal and the New Frontier. TAX FAX No. 47 is designed to help Conservatives proclaim their proudly held position in favor of limited Constitutional government and against atheistic Communism.

We urge you to order as many of these pamphlets as you possibly can for your own personal distribution. Suggest to the officers of Conservative groups to which you belong to purchase additional copies for every member of your group.

If you are not in a position to personally distribute or mail these important pamphlets to your own list, you can participate by sending us a contribution for the TAX FAX Distribution Fund.

Please fill out the order coupon enclosed and mail it in the postage-free envelope provided.

Yours for God and Country,

WHAT YOU CAN DO

It will be recalled that the Reuther brothers' memorandum expressed great fear of the Conservative element in this nation, admitting that "they are growing in strength." The prime reason the Conservatives are growing in strength is because their pro-America position makes sense – it appeals to the basic instinct of all liberty-loving people – love of country and the desire to protect that country from all enemies at home and abroad.

If you wish to help spread the message of the pro-America, constitutional Conservative movement, buy and distribute as many copies of this pamphlet as you possibly can.

In addition, breaking diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union would have the following beneficial results:

(a) Other countries of the Free World would be encouraged to do likewise.

(b) The expansionist plans and activities of the international Communist conspiracy would be seriously hampered.

(c) Anti-Communist elements of countries now occupied by the Soviet Union would be convinced that the U.S. "means business" in its support of the principle of self-determination of nations.

(d) It would graphically reverse the present foreign policy of collaboration between the Soviet Union and the United States which has resulted, and continues to result, in Soviet expansion.

REPEAL THE PERSONAL INCOME TAX

Not only is repeal of the Federal personal income tax practical, but provisions to bring about such repeal are incorporated in a proposed amendment to the U.S. Constitution. As of September, 1963, this amendment, known as the Liberty Amendment had been ratified by the legislatures of six States: Wyoming, Texas, Nevada, Louisiana, Georgia and South Carolina.

Not generally realized by the vast majority of the American people is the fact that the U.S. Government engages in more than 700 large business-type enterprises in competition with free enterprise. These government businesses, operated by bureaucrats, with no necessity for efficient operation, annually lose billions of dollars which losses are made up out of taxpayer funds, particularly through the Federal personal income tax. Some of these government-operated businesses which compete directly with private enterprise are Federal Home Loan Banks, Postal Savings System, Office of Mineral Exploration, Alaska Communications System, the manufacture of fertilizers by the Tennessee Valley Authority, etc. None of these activities can be considered as included among the powers and functions delegated to the Federal Government by the Constitution.

If the Federal Government were forced by the ratification of the Liberty Amendment to sell these Federal business-type operations, based on the 1960 budget the amount of money saved in direct and indirect costs connected with these Federal enterprises would amount to a higher figure than that collected by Federal personal income taxes and Federal estate and gift taxes during the same period. Thus there would be no need for the Federal personal income tax.

For complete facts and figures proving that the Federal personal income tax can be repealed, write Liberty Amendment Committee for the U.S.A., 6413 Franklin Ave., Los Angeles 28, Calif.

Also, if these Federal business-type enterprises are sold to the public, such businesses when operated under the free enterprise system would pay corporate and excise taxes, thereby increasing Federal revenue. This would allow payments to reduce the national debt, and would act as a brake on inflation.

WHERE CONSERVATIVES STAND ON OTHER ISSUES

Although the Liberal-Socialists concentrate their attack on Conservatives (the Radical Right) mainly on the four above-mentioned issues, the following indicates the position taken by the majority of Conservatives on other issues:

*(1) FOR: Local control of schools; and therefore against Federal control of education.

*(2) FOR: Freedom of choice in selecting one's own doctor; against Federal bureaucratic control of the practice of medicine.

*(3) FOR: Local Urban Renewal and slum clearance plans; against Federal Urban Renewal and Metropolitan Government schemes which bring Federal control.

*(4) FOR: Local solutions to Civil Rights problems in the light of the fact that the issue of Civil Rights, inflamed by Communist-inspired agitators, has reached critical proportions since the Federal Government preempted the rights of the States to exercise their constitutional powers to maintain law and order.

DEFINITION OF "RADICAL"

When the Liberals and Socialists use the term "Radical Right," they overlook the first definition of the adjective "radical," which, according to Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary, means "of, pertaining to, or proceeding from the root; original, fundamental, reaching to the center or ultimate source; affecting the vital principle or principles, hence thoroughgoing."

The latter definition accurately describes the Conservatives, or the Radical Right, inasmuch as their views are based on the "root" or basic principles of government in this nation – the United States Constitution.

VIEWS OF THE RADICAL RIGHT

What are the views of the Radical Right, the Constitutional Conservatives, which – because they are gaining such wide acceptance throughout the country – are now coming under concentrated attack by Nelson Rockefeller, Walter Reuther, the Internal Revenue Service, and the Communist Party, U.S.A.?

When Nelson Rockefeller was a guest on the "Meet the Press" television show on September 15, 1963, he reiterated his attack on the Radical Right, specifically mentioning a number of issues on which he disputed the position advocated by the Right Wing, such as: getting the U.S. out of the United Nations, impeaching Supreme Court Jusice Earl Warren, breaking off relations with the Soviet Union, and repealing the Federal Income Tax.

GET THE U.S. OUT OF THE U.N.

In 1945 when the U.N. Charter was signed, 200 million people were behind the Iron Curtain. Today, eighteen years later, by methods of "peaceful aggression" and using the U.N. as a smokescreen for operations, the Soviet Union controls 900 million people throughout the world.

In the Korean War, in which U.S. soldiers were under the command of the United Nations, the U.S. was prevented from defeating the Communist Chinese in Korea.

Following each new Communist conquest, the U.N., after complicated parliamentary procedures, legalizes the new status quo.

United Nations military forces, financed in most part by U.S. taxpayer dollars, made war on and subjugated anti-Communist Katanga because Katanga wished to remain an independent nation.

The U.S. pays more than one-third of the costs of the U.N., and yet has only one vote. As of September, 1963, the U.N. is composed of 111 nations, a large number of which are newly-carved-out jungle states. As a result, the balance of power has shifted to the Soviet bloc, aided by the Afro-Asian nations. The U.S., because of its entanglement in the now Communist-dominated United Nations, can no longer control its own foreign policy. Instead, U.S. foreign policy can now be decided by the anti-U.S. majority in the U.N.

IMPEACH SUPREME COURT JUSTICE EARL WARREN

Earl Warren took the oath of office as Chief Justice of the U.S. Supreme Court in October, 1953. From that time until May 2, 1962, Warren participated in 65 decisions involving Communist or subversive activities, in one form or another. In 62 out of the 65 cases, Warren supported the position urged by the Communists.*

Article II, Section 4 of the U.S. Constitution states:

> The President, Vice-President and all civil officers of the United States shall be removed from office on impeachment for and conviction of, treason, bribery, or other crimes and misdemeanors.

Surely, voting 62 out of 65 times on the side of the Communists could be considered a series of "misdemeanors"!

BREAK OFF RELATIONS WITH THE SOVIET UNION

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, in his book, "Masters of Deceit," and in testimony before the House Committee on Un-American Activities, has stated that the Soviet Union and its satellite nations use their embassies and consulates as centers of espionage and for the recruitment of spies. On numerous occasions since the end of World War II the U.S. Government has asked that the Russian government remove from United States territory certain Russian nationals who have been apprehended in the act of espionage or recruiting for espionage. This in itself should be grounds sufficient for breaking off diplomatic relations. The severing of diplomatic ties with the Soviet Union would deal a severe blow to the Russian spy apparatus within the United States.

*CONGRESSIONAL RECORD, May 2, 1962, p. 7029.

In addition, breaking diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union would have the following beneficial results:

(a) Other countries of the Free World would be encouraged to do likewise.

(b) The expansionist plans and activities of the international Communist conspiracy would be seriously hampered.

(c) Anti-Communist elements of countries now occupied by the Soviet Union would be convinced that the U.S. "means business" in its support of the principle of self-determination of nations.

(d) It would graphically reverse the present foreign policy of collaboration between the Soviet Union and the United States which has resulted, and continues to result, in Soviet expansion.

REPEAL THE PERSONAL INCOME TAX

Not only is repeal of the Federal personal income tax practical, but provisions to bring about such repeal are incorporated in a proposed amendment to the U.S. Constitution. As of September, 1963, this amendment, known as the Liberty Amendment had been ratified by the legislatures of six States: Wyoming, Texas, Nevada, Louisiana, Georgia and South Carolina.

Not generally realized by the vast majority of the American people is the fact that the U.S. Government engages in more than 700 large business-type enterprises in competition with free enterprise. These government businesses, operated by bureaucrats, with no necessity for efficient operation, annually lose billions of dollars which losses are made up out of taxpayer funds, particularly through the Federal personal income tax. Some of these government-operated businesses which compete directly with private enterprise are Federal Home Loan Banks, Postal Savings System, Office of Mineral Exploration, Alaska Communications System, the manufacture of fertilizers by the Tennessee Valley Authority, etc. None of these activities can be considered as included among the powers and functions delegated to the Federal Government by the Constitution.

If the Federal Government were forced by the ratification of the Liberty Amendment to sell these Federal business-type operations, based on the 1960 budget the amount of money saved in direct and indirect costs connected with these Federal enterprises would amount to a higher figure than that collected by Federal personal income taxes and Federal estate and gift taxes during the same period. Thus there would be no need for the Federal personal income tax.

For complete facts and figures proving that the Federal personal income tax can be repealed, write Liberty Amendment Committee for the U.S.A., 6413 Franklin Ave., Los Angeles 28, Calif.

Also, if these Federal business-type enterprises are sold to the public, such businesses when operated under the free enterprise system would pay corporate and excise taxes, thereby increasing Federal revenue. This would allow payments to reduce the national debt, and would act as a brake on inflation.

WHERE CONSERVATIVES STAND ON OTHER ISSUES

Although the Liberal-Socialists concentrate their attack on Conservatives (the Radical Right) mainly on the four above-mentioned issues, the following indicates the position taken by the majority of Conservatives on other issues:

*(1) FOR: Local control of schools; and therefore against Federal control of education.

*(2) FOR: Freedom of choice in selecting one's own doctor; against Federal bureaucratic control of the practice of medicine.

*(3) FOR: Local Urban Renewal and slum clearance plans; against Federal Urban Renewal and Metropolitan Government schemes which bring Federal control.

*(4) FOR: Local solutions to Civil Rights problems in the light of the fact that the issue of Civil Rights, inflamed by Communist-inspired agitators, has reached critical proportions since the Federal Government preempted the rights of the States to exercise their constitutional powers to maintain law and order.

*(5) FOR: Jobs for American workingmen; against Foreign Aid to Socialist countries overseas since such aid builds modern factories to produce low-priced goods in competition with American industries and workers.

I'M FOR GOLDWATER IF...

(A Suggested Letter to Senator Barry Goldwater)

Dear Senator Goldwater:

I believe in the principles outlined in your book, "The Conscience of a Conservative," published in March 1960.

However, I do not believe that Conservatives can recapture the Republican Party as long as they compromise with the Eastern Liberal kingmakers of the party.

Goldwater running as the Republican candidate on a Liberal platform would mean the end of the G.O.P.

Past and recent history has proved conclusively that whenever a compromise is effected, the Conservatives lose and the Liberals gain. Therefore:

I Am For Goldwater - I F...

I Am For Goldwater - I F...

(1) IF you refuse to make any political deals in the interest of "party harmony" which would result in a Goldwater - Rockefeller or a Rockefeller-Goldwater ticket.

(2) IF you state that you will run only on a Conservative platform. (Otherwise, why run?)

(3) IF, in order to guarantee Conservative "recapture" of the Republican Party, you publicly denounce the Eastern Liberal Internationalists, such as Rockefeller, Aldrich, Dewey, and Lodge and their control of all G.O.P. conventions and policies since the 1930's.

(4) IF in opposing the Eastern Republican Internationalists you take a forthright position exposing their plans for (a) strengthening the Communist-dominated United Nations; (b) Foreign Aid to Communist countries; and (c) disarmament of the United States.

In view of the Kennedy record in domestic and international affairs, I believe you, Senator Goldwater, can be elected President in 1964 – but only IF you are willing to publicly state and prove that under no circumstances will you place "party loyalty" above your conscience as a Conservative; and that you will never ask your supporters to compromise their Conservative principles for "party harmony."

Only with such commitments from you, can sincere Conservatives feel confident in going all-out to elect Goldwater President in 1964!

Nixon "caved in" to the Rockefeller Wing of the Republican Party in 1960. Remember what happened to him!

Where do you stand, Sir?

The Negro situation is being exploited fully and continuously by Communists on a national scale.
-- J. Edgar Hoover, Director
Federal Bureau of Investigation
January 16, 1958

Attorney General Robert Kennedy on July 25, 1963, issued a statement in which he said that "based on all available information from investigation and other sources" he had found no evidence that "any of the top leaders of the major civil rights groups are Communists or Communist-controlled." In his all-inclusive statement Attorney General Kennedy thus displayed his ignorance of the background of racial agitation in this nation.

An editorial in the July 21, 1963, issue of The Worker, official organ of the Communist Party, U.S.A., has this to say:

> The Communist Party of the United States wholeheartedly and selflessly supports the just struggle of the Negro people for freedom and integration in the political, economic, and social life of the nation.

In a statement before the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee released on January 17, 1960, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover quoted Lenin's statement made in 1902 that:

> We (Communists) must go among all classes of the people as theoreticians, as propagandists, as agitators, and as organizers . . . .

Mr. Hoover then went on to also quote instructions issued by the Communist Party, U.S.A., to its members as early as 1925, as follows:

> The aim of our Party in our work among the Negro masses is to create a powerful proletarian movement which will fight and lead the struggle of the Negro race against exploitation and oppression.

William Z. Foster, Communist leader, in his book, Toward Soviet America, published in 1932, discussed the role of Negroes by stating:

> The Negroes constitute a great potential revolutionary force . . . . The Negro masses will make the very best fighters for the revolution.

REDS PROPOSE NEGRO REPUBLIC IN SOUTH

As a means of enticing Negroes into the Communist revolutionary movement, Foster promised that in a Soviet America "the Negro will have the most complete equality – economically, politically, and socially."

In his book Foster also stated that:

> The right of self-determination will apply to Negroes in the American Soviet system. In the so-called Black Belt of the South, where the Negroes are in the majority, they will have the fullest right to govern themselves, and also such white minorities as may live in this section.

A Communist pamphlet entitled The Negroes in a Soviet America by James W. Ford and James S. Allen, published in June, 1935, by Workers Library Publishers, discussing the proposed Negro republic in the Southern part of the United States, declared:

> A Soviet government must confer greater benefits upon the Negroes than upon the whites, for the Negroes have started with less. This is the real test of equality . . . . The actual extent of this new republic . . . . would be certain to include such cities as Richmond and Norfolk, Va.; Columbia and Charleston, S. C.; Atlanta, Augusta, Savannah and Macon, Ga.; Montgomery, Ala.; New Orleans and Shreveport, La.; Little Rock, Ark.; and Memphis, Tenn.

NEGROES REJECT RED BAIT

Much to the disappointment of the Moscow-indoctrinated leaders of the Communist Party, Negro Americans did not fall for the bait of a Soviet Negro republic in the South because it soon became evident that the Communists were merely attempting to use the Negro. This was borne out by the late Joseph Kornfeder, former Communist, who appeared before the Joint Legislative Committee, State of Louisiana, on March 7, 1957, and testified:

> They (the Communists) aim to use the Negro – preach a doctrine of racial nationalism – in order to use the Negro for their purposes. Once they have used him, then they will do with the Negro what they have done in Russia with the peasant and the workingman.

Kornfeder's statement was corroborated by J. Edgar Hoover on January 16, 1958, when Hoover said:

> The (Communist) Party's objectives are not to aid the Negroes – but are designed to take advantage of all controversial issues on the race question so as to create unrest, dissension and confusion in the minds of the American people.

In his book, Masters of Deceit, Mr. Hoover pointed out:

> The (Communist) Party's sole interest, as most American Negroes know, is to hoodwink the Negro, exploit him, and use him as a tool to build a Communist America.

THE NEW RED LINE ON RACIAL AGITATION

In view of continuing failure to "sell" the American Negro on a Negro Soviet republic in the South, the 17th National Convention of the Communist Party, U.S.A., in December, 1959, announced an about-face on its long-established policy which advocated the formation of a Negro nation within the United States. This marked a fundamental change in the line of the American Communist Party which had dated back to 1930. Moscow-trained Negro Communist leader James Jackson, in explaining to the party faithful the turn-about on Communist policy stated that "it has been misconstrued as a form of segregation."

Because of this policy change in the Red line, white and Negro members of the CPUSA reverted to an alternative official program of action regarding racial agitation which had been spelled out in 1932 by Communist leader William Z. Foster in Toward Soviet America as follows:

> The Communist Party actively promotes . . . organizations to defend the rights of Negroes . . . Where no mass organizations exist in these fields, the Party takes the initiative in forming them; where such are already in existence, and are headed by conservative officials, the Party follows the policy of building an opposition within them and fighting for the revolutionary program and leadership. This is the so-called boring-from-within policy.

A Column by Ray Cromley, appearing in the Birmingham, Ala., Post-Herald of August 8, 1963, reveals that the Communist Party, U.S.A., is now sending out Communists with specialized training, instructing them to infiltrate local branches of Negro civil rights organizations and to arrange for Party members to participate in local demonstrations. According to Mr. Cromley "this grass-roots attempt to infiltrate the civil rights movement is currently, at least – one of the major activities of the Communist Party, U.S.A."

Despite the zigzags of the Communist Party which may at times appear to be a retreat from former positions, the Communist Party, U.S.A., never deviates from its prime objective which is to overthrow the constitutional government of the United States of America by any means possible.

In the September, 1962, issue of Political Affairs, theoretical organ of the Communist Party, U.S.A., is found a deceptively understated declaration of Red aims, as follows:

> In the Negro peoples' movement the major task (for Communists, that is) is to support the struggle to end Jim Crow in housing, education, franchise, etc., and to stress the fight for jobs and adequate wages and relief . . .

REDS URGE NEGRO REVOLUTION

In a pamphlet entitled Turning Point in Freedom Road, by Negro Communist Claude Lightfoot, published in October, 1962, the screws were turned tighter when Lightfoot, calling for a step-up in agitation, stated:

> The Negro movement has, by and large, broken with gradualism, and seeks revolutionary solutions to its problems.

This new Red line admittedly promoting revolution in the U. S. was accentuated by Negro leader Benjamin J. Davis, national secretary of the CPUSA, in the August, 1963, issue of the Communist publication Political Affairs when Davis, in an article entitled "The Time is Now!" screamed:

> The whole country – north, east, south and west – is in the throes of a peoples' revolution . . . The Negro Freedom movement – American counterpart of the national liberation movements in Africa, above all, but also in Asia and Latin America – has, since Birmingham – entered a new stage.

Here is proof positive of Communist direction and control of such movements as the FLN (National Liberation Front) which took over Algeria, as well as Communist guerrillas such as the FALN (Armed Forces of National Liberation) in Venezuela.

Communist Davis, declaring that "the movement aims to demolish so-called moderation," went on to say that "the struggle" will be "fought out and won by the American people within the framework of the present capitalist system." Davis further said:

> Birmingham brought the simmering upsurge of the people to a revolutionary pitch . . . . Communists believe that the "freedom now" aims of the program answer the pressing democratic needs of the people and . . . (are) the central domestic issue before the country. At the same time, Communists believe the achievement of this program will lay an indispensable basis, not only for the further social program of the country, but for its socialist and communist future when U. S. imperialism . . . will be no more.

Promising Communist support of the so-called Negro Freedom movement led by organizations other than the Communist Party itself, Davis exulted:

> The Communist Party greets with boundless joy the present revolutionary freedom movement of the Negro people, and will spare no sacrifice to help bring about its total victory now . . . . There is a wide area of agreement between the Communist Party and the Negro Freedom movement on program, aims and tactics.

NEGROES MARCH ON WASHINGTON, D.C.

Following several months of feverish planning which manifested itself in a solid front of cooperation between the most important Negro civil rights groups in the country, more than 150,000 Negroes marched on Washington, D.C. on August 28, 1963. The disciplined, placard-carrying marchers, swarming over Constitution Avenue, bore a sinister resemblance to May Day scenes in Moscow's Red Square.

Who were the leaders and participants of this tightly-organized show of strength with its threatening overtones?

Among the Negro leaders in the forefront were, of course, Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People; Rev. Martin Luther King, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference; A. Philip Randolph, president of the AFL/CIO Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters; and Whitney M. Young, Jr., executive director of the National Urban League.

At the beginning of the ceremonies in front of the Lincoln Memorial, one of the speakers, paying tribute to W. E. B. DuBois, who had just died in Accra, Ghana, asked for a moment of silence. The huge crowd immediately complied, with bowed heads.

Who was this man, W. E. B. DuBois, whom the speaker referred to as "the father of the modern freedom movement," and what were his views?

DuBois, who is listed by congressional investigating committees as having had 96 Communist front affiliations, was a founder of the NAACP. In 1959, DuBois was a recipient of the Lenin Peace Prize.

The Communist official publication, The Worker, of September 1, 1963, in mourning the passing of W. E. B. DuBois, referred to a letter DuBois wrote to Communist leader Gus Hall when he, DuBois, joined the Communist Party, U.S.A., in 1961. Wrote DuBois:

> Capitalism is doomed to self-destruction . . . . In the end Communism will triumph. I want to help bring that day.

BACKGROUND ON N.A.A.C.P.

On more than two occasions in the past several years, listings of Communist affiliations of certain members of the NAACP have been entered in the Congressional Record. The NAACP, as could be expected, has attempted to whitewash such documentation, and on occasion has attempted to create the impression that it was an anti-Communist organization.

The shallowness of such professions of anti-Communism are clearly evident. For instance, in 1956, Leroy Watkins, then executive secretary of the NAACP, warned all chapters to guard against the "intensive efforts" of Communists to infiltrate the NAACP. At the same time, however, The Crisis, official publication of the NAACP, was recommending books by Negro Claude Lightfoot, then chairman of the Illinois Communist Party, and Doxey E. Wilkerson, member of the Party's national committee, as "must" background reading for Negroes.

Only two years later, in March, 1958, the NAACP leadership brought a court action in Florida seeking to halt an investigation by the Florida Legislature of Communist activity in that State.

The foregoing are examples of the so-called anti-Communist activities of the NAACP!

SUBVERSIVE CHARACTER OF N.A.A.C.P. LEADERSHIP*

Below are listed a few of the officers and directors, past or present, of the NAACP. The figure opposite each name represents the number of subversive organizations and/or activities with which these individuals have been officially identified as reported by Representative E. C. Gathings of Arkansas and appearing in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD July 29, 1963.

1. Roy Wilkins, national administrator and executive secretary 7
2. Dr. W. E. B. DuBois 96
3. Arthur B. Spingarn, national president, member board of directors, 1961 4
4. A. Philip Randolph, national vice president, 1961 20
5. John Haynes Holmes, national vice president, 1954-1961 30
6. Dr. Ralph Bunche, national board of directors, 1961, Washington, D.C. 3
7. Thurgood Marshall, director counsel, legal defense fund and education fund, 1961 (New York) 3
8. Clarence M. Mitchell, director Washington bureau, 1961 2
9. Henry Lee Moon, director, public relations department, 1961, Washington, D. C. 4

The list from which this information is excerpted contains 59 names, with a total number of 454 official Communist-front citations, as shown on pages 5531-32, CONGRESSIONAL RECORD, August 28, 1963. COMMUNIST PARTY SUPPORTS N.A.A.C.P.

Laying down the Party line, the January, 1956, issue of the Communist magazine, Political Affairs, stated:

> We must support the NAACP in this struggle with every ounce of energy at our disposal.

Abner W. Berry, in his column in the Daily Worker dated February 19, 1957, discussed a Communist Party convention resolution on the question of Communist cooperation and work with the NAACP, and commented:

> There was implied in the resolution that there would be no separate organizations set up by the Communists through which they would seek to steer the Negro people's movement, but rather they would support those organizations, such as the NAACP and similar groups in the South which were in the field . . . . Communists in labor unions are thus pledged to get their unions to support the NAACP to better express the alliance of labor with the Negro people. Communists in communities are pledged to aid in increasing the membership and financial strength of the NAACP, whether as members or not.

REV. MARTIN LUTHER KING

An article appearing in the March, 1935, booklet entitled Party Organizer, issued by the Central Committee of the Communist Party, U.S.A., stated:

> In the United States there are five million of the Negro population organized in fraternal organizations, ten million in churches . . . . We must systematically study how to penetrate among the millions of organized Negro workers.

In International of Youth, published under the authority of the Young Communist International, headquarters in Moscow, March, 1935, appears the following:

> . . . In the South, especially for the Negro youth, the church is the center of all cultural and social activity. It is here that we must work. By building our units in the church organizations, we can improve our work . . . In Alabama there are certain places in which we can in a short while take over the church organizations of youth under our leadership, and these can become legal covers for our work in the South.

By a strange coincidence, the leader of the riots in Birmingham, Ala., in April, 1963, was a Negro minister by the name of Rev. Martin Luther King. According to an article appearing in the New Bedford, Mass., Standard-Times:

> Mr. King was quoted as telling a Chicago assembly last year, "it (the Montgomery, Ala., boycott, in which there was much violence) is a part of something that is happening all over the world. The oppressed people are rising up. They are revolting against colonialism and imperialism and all other systems of oppression."

When Martin Luther King draws a parallel between the situation of the American Negro and "oppressed people's" rights against "colonialism" and "imperialism" he is following exactly, to the word, the Communist line.

The Negro ex-Communist, Manning Johnson, appearing before the Joint Legislative Committee of the State of Louisiana on March 8, 1957, testified regarding Communist infiltration of Negro churches in the South, stating:
